ALLIES SWEEP FORWARD ON 80-MILE FRONT

Great Artillery Barrage Hits Warsaw Suburbs

American Troops Reported Fighting In Town of Percy

British Extend Bridgehead Across Souleuvre River

By GLADWIN HILL
(AP War Correspondent)

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 1 —(AP)— American troops were fighting tonight in the streets of Percy, strategic Normandy town about midway between captured Avranches and Caumont.

Good progress was made on both the American and British sectors of the 80 mile front in Normandy and Brittany as the armies swept forward.

Allied troops now hold all of the Eveque Forest and the village of La Perrine.

Further progress was made around St. Germine Dectot.

Driving across the Souleuvre river less than two miles west of the German stronghold of Le Beny Bocage, the British 2nd advanced 11 miles south of their bridgehead jump-off area around Caumont and were some 22 miles inland from the English Channel. This was the deepest British penetration of the invasion.

Canadian troops on the left flank east of St. Lo, which captured the bitterly-defended Nazi stronghold at Tilly La Campagne, but had to withdraw later in the day.

A British column to the westward joined hands with American forces at a point southwest of the Eveque Forest, six miles southeast of Torigni Sur Vire.

Unchecked American armor is spreading out from captured Avranches — enveloped Pontaubault, four miles due south, and the road city to Brittany, and overran Ducey, five miles southeast.

Villedieu itself was being hemmed in by American units closing in from both the north and west. The Americans now were within two miles of the Normandy road hub city, 11 miles northeast of Avranches.

A front dispatch said other units had moved past the town to the south. Still further to the northeast heavy fighting was raging near Percy and north-west of Tessy Sur Vire.

British troops under Lt.-Gen. Dempsey went into high gear during the night, although it still was too early to call their successes a break-through. Indications were, however, that the German centre had suffered a serious dent.

The British also captured the village of Fumechon on the north edge of the Bois de Halbout and strengthened their hold on Hill 309 and the village of Galet around the western and southwestern fringes of the wood, Associated Press War Correspondent Roger Greene reported.

Lt.-Gen. Bradley's tank advance beyond Avranches puts the American forces in position to strike 100 miles beyond the Brittany peninsula base or to turn east toward the interior of France and Paris, 160 miles to the east.

Saritlly, six miles northwest of Avranches was consolidated in a rapid mop up of by-passed areas. German prisoners poured in faster than a definite count could be made. The total for the week's campaign seemed nearer 15,000 than yesterday's original 10,000.

An Associated Press dispatch from Greene said British infantry, braving fierce fire from mortars and machine guns and cleared minefields northwest of Caumont yesterday and by last night had a strong line on the westward tributary of the Souleuvre river between Dermotot and St. Germain d'Ectot.

Early evening patrols were crossing the stream. In the same area, British infantry captured the village of Orbois and cleared surrounding woods.

10 Children And Parents Shot For Stealing Horse

By HAL BOYLE

Granville, France, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Fleeing Nazis, after blasting the dock facilities of this small fishing harbor, mercilessly strafed the dock area with bombs and slaughtered a French family of 12 when they attempted to the south ahead of American armed forces now miles beyond Avranches and this sunlit seaport.

In a cafe overlooking the picturesque waterfront, I found a resort which is known as "the Monaco of the North," a group of Nazi officials here, 600,000th prisoner victory in pre-war brandy, told how the German occupation by Hitler's hand-picked French farmer who refused to give them his horse.

"They went to the farm of Alphonse Mesquin at the Village of Bricqueville, 10 miles farmer said. "They had no motor transport and wanted horses to pull their carts. When Monsieur Mesquin objected to their taking one of his mare with her foal, him, his wife and 10 children."

That was just one of many reported acts of violence against the civilian population by disorganized German units as they try to beat across the armored noose to their own lines.

This ancient coastal trade port once had a population of 6,000 and telephone building and railroad station were bombed. Most of its inhabitants—more than 10,000 remained in or near the city. They complained of a bread shortage.

Two Women Killed When Car Hits Truck

Hamilton, Aug. 1 —(CP)— Two women were killed instantly and three others were seriously injured about two a.m. today when an automobile crashed into the rear of a loaded transport on the Queen Elizabeth way.

Dead are Mrs. Beatrice Arnold of Toronto, and Mrs. Jean Sharpe, also of Toronto, were killed by fractured skulls and other injuries.

The accident occurred about half-mile east of nearby Winona, when a passenger automobile driven by Phillippe Riendeau, Fort Erie businessman, crashed the rear of the transport in charge of William D. Mackay of Thorold who had stopped on the highway because of engine trouble.

There were four passengers in the automobile, including the two women killed. Only slight bruises to the others was not available immediately.

German Rocket-Propelled Plane Said Capable of Terrific Speed

London, Aug. 1 — (CP) — The Germans have taken the warp off another new weapon — a rocket-propelled fighter and all Allied fliers who have encountered the planes agreed today they are capable of terrific speed.

Little is known so far of the effectiveness of the craft. Only seven have been met and they did not stand to fight, but the speed at which they fled was taken to indicate the importance they might assume in the German battle plans and make them on a mass scale.

Berlin has been hinting at rocket-propelled planes for months. The Allies have recognized for some time that Nazi jet and rocket-propelled planes, if allowed to appear in big numbers, could challenge Allied air superiority, and it is understood here that the one of the reasons than 27,000 heavy bombers' sorties were sent against German the industry and oil supplies in July.

But the Allies might have the answer to this new German weapon in a new fighter of equal or superior performance, automobile executive Phillippe Riendeau, Fort Erie businessman, crashed the rear of the transport in charge of William D. Mackay of Thorold who had stopped on the highway because of engine trouble.

There were four passengers in the automobile, including the two women killed. Only slight bruises to the others was not available immediately.

NO LIKELIHOOD OF MEAT RATIONING RETURNING IN '44

'Only Radical And Unexpected Change' In Outlook Would Bring Its Return

NO SHORTAGE

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)—The Prices Board said in a statement today that unless "some radical and unexpected change" in either the supply or demand situation occurs, there was no likelihood of meat rationing being resumed in Canada "during the remainder of this calendar year."

The statement said most of the conditions which brought about the suspension of meat rationing March 3 still existed.

"Meat rationing was introduced in January, 1943, for two reasons—to make available as large a meat supply as possible for civilian consumption and to ensure equitable distribution of the remaining supplies in Canada," said the Prices Board's administrator for the Prices Board.

Scullen Achieved.

"Both these objectives now are being achieved without rationing. We are producing nearly all the meat that our rail and shipping facilities can handle, and an enforced reduction of meat consumption in Canada would probably recreate all the acute storage and other difficulties which confronted us last January.

"Moreover, the meat board, in collaboration with the wholesale and the packing industry, is able to get all the export requirements without seriously complicating problems of equitable distribution between regions and localities in Canada."

Mr. Taylor said there was "hardly any likelihood" that the cutback of meat has been an important part of our war effort," he added. "Our average total meat exports in the three prewar years amounted to about 200,000,000 pounds a year.

"In 1941 our exports to the United Kingdom were 460,000,000 pounds; in 1942, 330,000,000 pounds and in 1943 580,000,000 pounds. In the first half of 1944 we have shipped more than 425,000,000 pounds of meat, which means that this year's 600,000 pounds of beef.

"In 1941 our exports to the United Kingdom were 460,000,000 pounds; in 1942, 330,000,000 pounds and in 1943 580,000,000 pounds. In the first half of 1944 we have shipped more than 425,000,000 pounds of meat, which means that this year's 600,000 pounds of beef.

"Our present rate of livestock marketing continue we will supply for export to the United Kingdom more than the amount than in 1943 and nearly double the minimum requirements which the United Kingdom is looking to us. So, we have not only fully achieved without rationing there is clearly no justification for re-introducing it at the cost and expense of the use of meat coupons."

SURPRISE LANDING MADE ON N. WEST TIP NEW GUINEA

New Move Places U. S. Forces 600 Miles From the Philippines

LITTLE OPPOSITION

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Aug. 1 — (AP) — An unopposed leapfrog landing which placed Allied forces within easy bomber range of the Philippines and completed the strategic reconquest of New Guinea was announced today.

United States units Sunday captured the tiny village of Sansapor at the northwestern tip of New Guinea, 300 miles by amphibious move westward from American-occupied Newsombor Island. They established a firm hold on the beaches of the Vogelkop peninsula and occupied two adjacent coral islets — Amsterdam and Middleburg — while scarcely firing a shot.

Sansapor is little more than 600 miles southeast of Mindanao—main island in the southern Philippines—and less than 200 miles from the Japanese stronghold at Halmahera. It is approximately 60 miles east by north from Sorong, the heavily-battered enemy base at the extreme end of New Guinea.

Radiate Air Bases

The surprise landing trapped an additional 15,000 Japanese troops concentrated around Manowkwari, some 150 miles eastward. Noemfoor Island is about 50 miles east of Manowkwari.

This is the last operation of the New Guinea campaign, a headquarters spokesman said. "We control the entire north coast. It isn't necessary to go ahead and take Sorong. That is the need of it."

Sansapor's terrain is suitable for airfields. The area is covered by jungle, but there are no large trees.

Meanwhile, in the Marianas, American soldiers and marines, sweeping swiftly across southern Guam and through the capital town of Agana, today pressed the Japanese fighter in the island's northern half.

In Tinian, 120 miles north of Guam, the area in possession of the enemy force huddled in a small pocket near the island's southern end with no hope of escape.

NEWSREEL CAMERAMAN KILLED

Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 1 (CP)— A. E. Aubury, 56, Gaumont-British newsreel cameraman, was fatally wounded by Japanese gunfire while filming the bombardment of Sabang Island June 23 from the superstructure of one of the attacking warships, it was announced today. No other deaths resulted from enemy action.

8TH ARMY MEETS STRONG DEFENCE NEAR FLORENCE

Germans Appear to be Determined to Hold Out as Long as Possible

5TH ARMY QUIET

By EDWARD KENNEDY
(AP War Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 1—(AP)—British 8th Army troops are making slow, methodical progress in their advance on Florence against five German divisions fighting a last-stand battle before Tuscan capital, Allied Headquarters announced today.

"It is clear the enemy is determined to make a real stand as long as he is able, but the 8th Army's advance is relentless forcing him from successive strongpoints," headquarters said.

The Germans are using three of the best divisions at their disposal in Italy for guarding the approaches to Florence. These units are the 4th Parachute Division, the 29th Panzer grenadiers and the Hermann Goering division, with the support of tiger tanks and an ever lengthening line of booby trap-grenades set off by wires stretched across roads at a height to catch the aerials of radio-equipped vehicles. These grenades themselves are tied to trees and explode over the vehicles.

West of Highway 2, 8th Army troops still hold San Michele after a counter-attack in which five tanks and 200 men were killed. The 8th also occupied La Romola, two miles east of San Michele, and the village of San Andrea after repulsing a counter-attack here.

NEARLY 10,000 U.S. PLANES SENT TO RUSSIAN ALLY

About 5,000 of These Have Soared Thru Canadian Skies On Way to Russia

VIA EDMONTON

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Edmonton, Aug. 1 (CP)—One of the war's best-kept secrets today is history—and with it is written one of the proudest chapters in Canada's aviation log-book.

It was learned from United States officials here last night that approximately 5,000 fighters and warplanes, the first release from the U.S., have soared through Canadian skies en route to Russia where they have helped wreak havoc on the once-powerful Nazi air force.

Since October, 1941, it was learned nearly 10,000 battle planes, proudly displaying the Soviet insignia, the famous red star, have left Canadian factories destined for the Russian front.

Ferried in the last four months of this year, 2,300 aircraft, flown by U.S. ferry pilots, reached their way from Great Falls, Mont., through Edmonton to Fairbanks, Alaska. Soviet fliers relayed the planes 540 miles to Nome on the west coast of Seward Peninsula, a 50-mile over water hop, into Siberia, Russia's "back door" and then over a route blanketed in official secrecy.

The North American flight from Great Falls to Edmonton to the Alaska town, only 118 miles south of the Arctic Circle, is nearly 1,070 miles and is the main aerial path from the western hemisphere to the Far East.

Steady Procession

It was Sept. 14, 1942, that sharp-nosed fighters and heavy bombers, en route to the Soviet, glided into the Edmonton municipal airport. They had left the U.S. aircraft factory behind them and were on the first step. And it's been a steady procession since.

During Canadian airmen and engineers may claim honor to the part they have played in Russia. They were the men who, before the war, pushed a route through Canada's northwest wilderness, paving the way for the aircraft ferrying to Alaska and the Aleutian Islands.

The Dominion government, with a crash program, rushed airports from Edmonton to Whitehorse, Yukon, and Watson Lake, on the northwest staging route.

Staging Route Fully Developed.

Today, the northwest staging route permits the passage of the fastest fighters and heaviest bombers, with landing fields, radio facilities and servicing depots every 200 miles. Every mile of that province is clearing three parallel runways, leading toward the frontier.

Streams of German fugitives, reported pouring back into Riga, largest port of the Baltic republics, 25 miles from the Latvian's army, sweeping through Latvia toward the sea, captured Jelgava, 21 miles southwest.

Refugees Clash Bridges.

Scourged from their positions east of the Vistula river, the Germans fell back into Warsaw, their staunchest line choking the four bridges spanning the stream from Prags. Rokossovsky's advance forces already could see high buildings in the capital, such as the cathedral of St. John.

The Red army attack on Poland's capital moved inward from a radius of eight to 11 miles—from Radimin to the northeast; Wolomin to the east, and Okecie to the south.

The Russians announced that Soviet forces had entered into the pre-war Lithuanian capital of Kaunas, and were fighting in its streets. (Berlin said yesterday the city had been captured.)

Capital Is Also Threatened By Flanking Move

Another Great Red Drive Directed at East Prussia

By DANIEL De LUCE
(AP War Correspondent)

Moscow, Aug. 1 — (AP) — Driving in from three directions under hundreds of Red-starred planes, Russian and Polish troops today attacked Prags, industrial suburb of Warsaw across the Vistula river east of the capital. The city was reported in flames.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, himself a Polish descent, personally directed the Red Army's mammoth assault on the metropolitan area of the Polish capital of 1,-000,700 from an advanced headquarters.

Warsaw, first United Nations capital to hear the roar of liberating cannon, also was threatened by flanking manoeuvres in which the Red army struggled to bridge the broad Vistula southeast of the city. Another column fought close to the city's southern outskirts.

Expect Prolonged Battle

Front dispatches indicated the battle for Warsaw would be fiercely prolonged by the German command which was reported under orders by Hitler to stand without retreat.

Rokossovsky has been building up reserves for a week, lashed forward with a concentrated air and ground bombardment that laid an explosive curtain in front of his veteran infantry.

(A Berlin broadcast declared Warsaw remained calm but said "the year of a tank battle can be heard in the city.")

The assault of Warsaw was virtually matched in importance by a three-pronged Red army attack against East Prussia in a sector 143 miles wide. Lt.-Gen. Chernikahovsky's command advanced 11 miles and approached within 11.8 miles of East Prussia proper.

From neither direction—beyond Warsaw or toward East Prussia—can the German army give further ground without imperilling the whole structure of Germany's eastern defence, but on both of these fronts the Russians have driven the Red army is forcing Hitler to scrape up all reserves.

Reserves

The latest communique announced the capture yesterday of localities yesterday, a record for the fastest moving sector.

Chernikahovsky, the young Jewish general assigned the task of driving the Nazis from Russia, methodically prepared for conquest of the last-ditch defences of Germany's eastern province, leading forces in the capture of Kaunas, 60 miles from the East Prussian border.

Kaunas, 60 miles from the East Prussian border, was the first Lithuanian city to be captured by the Red army.

Refugees Clash Bridges.

Scourged from their positions east of the Vistula river, the Germans fell back into Warsaw, their staunchest line choking the four bridges spanning the stream from Prags. Rokossovsky's advance forces already could see high buildings in the capital, such as the cathedral of St. John.

The Red army attack on Poland's capital moved inward from a radius of eight to 11 miles—from Radimin to the northeast; Wolomin to the east, and Okecie to the south.

The Russians announced that Soviet forces had entered into the pre-war Lithuanian capital of Kaunas, and were fighting in its streets. (Berlin said yesterday the city had been captured.)

Montreal Tramways Workers To Strike

Montreal, Aug. 1 (CP)—Operating employees of Montreal Tramways Company today voted to strike to back up their demands for a union shop.

President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.) announced the result of the strike vote, which has been going on by secret ballot since 8.30 last night. He said that of 3,-500 votes cast, only 50 opposed the strike decision.

Mosher stated he made no immediate announcement as to when the strike would start, but said he had informed the city and that residents of Montreal would be given 24 hours notice before any of the 1,100 trams and buses left the streets for the third time within 16 months.

M.D. 3 Sets Up Committee To Assist Civic Groups for Soldier Receptions

Kingston, Aug. 1 — A special army committee whose main function is to co-ordinate the activities of civic groups in connection with the handling of servicemen repatriated from overseas to their home towns in Military District No. 3, Kingston, has been set up here. The committee is particularly active in advising mayors and reeves of expected times of arrival at home town destinations of officers and men who have returned from the fighting fronts. Other assistance is performed by the committees are supervising the speedy and efficient handling of veterans immediately upon their arrival at Kingston and Ottawa and minimizing the time required before they are dispatched on their leave.

The committee, which is under the chairmanship of Major W. J. MacGregor, D.A.A.G., M.D. 3, has as its members Major H. E. Mann, R.C.A.M.C., officer in charge of the Kingston Military Hospital; M.D. 3; Captain J. Soutter, assistant supply and transport officer for M.D. 3, and Major F. H. Woodley, public relations officer for M.D. 3.

Under previous conditions civilian groups interested in holding receptions for returning personnel had difficulty in doing so because of a lack of information regarding names of those returning and the exact times of their arrival. This situation is now adjusted since the committee will act as a clearing post for their home towns, where civilian groups will communicate direct to mayors or reeves who in turn advise the local group in charge of reception arrangements.

RESOLUTION FAVORING BOOST IN PENSIONS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Mayor Harry Rollins, will attend the annual convention of the Ontario Mayors' Association scheduled to be held in Toronto this month.

Resolutions urging the Federal and Provincial governments to increase the old-age pension to $30 a month for man and wife and $45 monthly for single persons with the qualifying residence period from 10 to 5 will be placed before the conference.

The present old-age pension in Ontario provides $28 monthly for single persons and $56 a month for man and wife.

Amending legislation permitting municipalities to purchase privately owned or operated utilities, now tax exempt, is sought in another resolution.

Although weather during the past few weeks may not have been conducive toward a good grain crop, the combination of plenty of moisture and sunshine has been favorable for the growing of corn according to one Rawdon township farmer.

Mr. Percy Ray, Harold, 30 miles north of this city, on June 10-th planted two varieties of corn, "Sweepstakes", an ensilage corn, and "Golden Evergreen," a table variety. Fifteen days later stalks from both patches were cut, the table variety measuring from one to two inches and the ensilage stalks eight feet seven inches. The table variety had tassled out and is already still attaining its growth while the ensilage corn has ceased to show any growth.

Although not claimed to be a record, Mr. Ray's corn was said to show good growth. The stalks were exhibited in Mr. Charles Bishop's Front Street seed store.

CHILD GASHES ARM ON GLASS FRAGMENT

Believed to have caused the injury by falling on a broken bottle, five-year-old Dennis Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Downs, N. Charles Street, suffered a severe gash on his arm that necessitated several stitches to close the wound.

The injured boy was playing with his brother near his home and apparently fell. He was brought home with blood streaming from a long gash in his arm. Dr. Miles was called and took the little fellow to hospital where the wound was stitched. He was later returned to his home.

Contrary to reports in last Friday's edition to the effect that Mr. Blackburn, newly appointed public school inspector for South Hastings had acquired the R. L. Bull property located at the corner of Dundas and Church Streets, Mr. Bull was learned today that such is not the case.

TOMATO PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER

With the steacy advance of the season, the price of ripe tomatoes again declined on the local produce market Tuesday with farmers quoting $1 per six-quart basket and 25 cents for quart box lots. Eleven bushels of tomatoes were to be had at $1.75.

Raspberry prices held firm with the red variety quoted at 40 cents and the blue at 35 cents the box. Cherries were quoted at 20 cents the quart as were Missouri black currants. Red and bucketwood Green corn dropped to 35 and 40 cents the dozen ears with potatoes held at $2 the bushel or 55 to 60 cents the peck.

No Cases Listed For Trial Today

Apparently it's either a feast or a famine, insofar as cases are concerned in the local police court docket.

Last week Deputy Chief Harman, who also acts as police court clerk, presented no less than 31 cases before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd. However, when His Worship arrived at the court building to preside today, Deputy Chief Harman informed the Cadi there were no cases listed for trial on the first day of August, 1944.

Otherwise in police circles activities were rather serene, due no doubt to the current humidity. Routine procedure constituted the labors of the department during the past 24 hours. Family disturbances in four private dwellings were investigated by police and harmony restored but no arrests were necessary after the law suggested a more amicable atmosphere in the homes.

While on patrol police found the entering of a catch basin at the corner of West Moira and Purdy Sts. was missing last evening. The city public works department was notified of the dangerous street opening and a new covering put in place.

The servicemen themselves, meanwhile, are provided with ample opportunity to notify their families of their safety. The Canadian National Defence Headquarters has authorized each veteran to send a cable to his family advising them of on his arrival at the disembarkation point. A second wire follows his next of kin by what means he will be on the time or by the means of transportation originally planned. Frequently, at the last moment, plans are changed by the soldier himself when it is found that bus transportation is quicker than rail, or vice versa, or when offered transportation in a private automobile.

It is to overcome just such situations as this that many communities hold receptions several days after the soldiers have returned. The time between their arrival home and the reception allows the men to re-acclimatize themselves and also enables the local committee time to arrange a suitable function.

OIL STORAGE TANKS ENDANGERED BY FIRE

Visions of another disastrous gasoline fire in the area from which four years ago swept through Belleville's warehouse district of storage tanks, were entertained by local firemen Monday afternoon, when they were called to South John Street to extinguish a grass fire bordering the property on which the Shell storage tanks are situated.

Grass and weeds had been mowed and thrown near the fence where they dried and in some manner caught fire. When firemen arrived flames were licking up the concrete and earthen dyke enclosing the property. A line of heavy hose and the booster tank from the city pumper were used to quickly extinguish the flames before they could send tongues into other possible gasoline soaked ground.

Evolution of Aircrew Theme of Two Interesting Talks to Rotary Club

It was Group Captain R. F. Olib, commanding officer of that station, speaking at Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon.

In an address which might aptly be named "Evolution of Aircrew," the wearing ranging officer of the district station collaborated with Flying Officer A. Hewer, veteran of operational flights, in explaining the various phases of training through which the Canadian airforcemen passes before he is actually on operations.

Flying Officer Hewer, in his part of the talk, detailed the duties of the airman overseas, both in training and in combat. Interspersing his address with "grim" and humorous stories of the best flers in the world.

Praise By Air Cadets

Group Captain Olibb had high praise for the type of flier emanating from air cadet squadrons. They are the best from the three services of air recruits, namely civilian life, cadet corps and regimented airmen.

He detailed the training from the green recruit to the boys proudly wearing wings after they go overseas.

"Anyone from nine to ninety can be taught to fly an aircraft," he said, "but other plans are necessary work involve serious requirements."

Selection boards, not heard of in the early part of the war, have saved the public huge sums of money. Through its unction, it has reduced the number of "washouts" from 25% to 5% during the past two years, and when one realizes it costs $65,000 to train a pilot the amount of cash can be readily surmised.

Referring to the wireless air gunners, the speaker stated they went through "an extremely tough course." Six months as a wireless boy, then gunnery, and shooting on the ground and in the air. Two weeks' leave and then their way.

Hardships of the first weeks after the inauguration of the British Empire Training Scheme were emphasized by the speaker. He was the first O.C. at one station and arrived there when no buildings were apparent. Here he paid tribute to civilian contractors, "They did a splendid job. Buildings went up literally overnight with crews working four shuts, day, night and graveyard. The station was completed in six weeks."

Flying Officer Hewer "took over" from this point. He told the clubmen of the training of the newly-arrived Canadians after arrival in Britain. Following a ten days' Operational Training Unit and here get their "wings" and commissions. Then, too, they are all placed in a large room and told to pick out their own crews. "They may either look at each other, and pick out the buddies they think will make the best team. They then fly as a complete crew until they are ready for actual operations. They are given a final test and are assigned to squadrons.

Likes the R.A.F.

The Royal Air Force is a fine bunch of chaps and we Canadians are doing splendidly with them," he stated.

Then their first "ops" flight, the "trops" as the green crews are termed by the veterans, are assigned to a target. Then slight opposition is expected.

All air flown training is done with but one objective in view, and that is dropping the bombs where they are supposed to be dropped. Flying Officer Hewer said, "There is nothing more satisfying than bombs and letting them go with a thud, then see your hits scientific."

On "moon nights" the pounding of the bombs was terrific, he went on. "On our return from our first flight, when we had dropped our bombs, we and our aircraft looked like a sieve. But we always got safely home."

He related an operations experience when returning from a Berlin raid, when his crew tail-gunner had been shot through the ankle, frightened another while working his way forward to assist him. Jerries, he said, were Nazi students, out on advanced training who brought a fat, fat, Hey Wellington bomber's ass ducksoup for their guns. It wasn't.

Have Fun Along With Work.

Returning from "ops" in England is vastly different to those in the Middle East. In Britain one comes back to bacon and eggs, twenty-four hours sleep and nine days' leave and then it's back to the blacks. East, one scrounges his food, sleeps when he can and when he gets his leave when he can.

"A lot of the work is grim, but we have a lot of fun. There is nothing better than the spirit of the boys overseas. We don't mind the grim stuff as long as the people at home take a keener interest in what we are doing," he concluded.

1,380,600 Fags Sent Overseas In 4 Years by C.N.R. War Vets

With a record of 1,380,600 cigarettes sent overseas to former employees of the local Canadian National Railways system, and to other boys in the armed forces of the C.N.R. War Veterans Cigarette Fund, today marked the fourth anniversary. The fund saw its birth on August 1st., 1940, when association members decided to start upon remembering how welcome cigarettes were to the boys overseas in the last war. The fund chairman is Albert Jang, committee foreman.

Starting with only five names of former railroad employees on the list, the number of service personnel now receiving cigarettes regularly through the fund has reached over 300. Names are added at the inauguration of the fund have received 43 gift parcels of cigarette, with repeat parcels being sent every six weeks. During July 72,500 smokes were sent at cost of $261.28.

Service personnel in all theatres of war are receiving the gift-parcels of smokes. Three of the recipients are prisoners of war, three are nursing sisters stationed in Italy, France and England, respectively. Fourteen boys formerly on the list have paid the supreme sacrifice.

Letters of Appreciation.

Gift parcels of C.N.R. Veterans cigarette fund Belleville do not always all remain with the recipients as they are in many instances shared with less fortunate comrades.

"I am glad I put your 300 cigarettes", wrote one boy, "I owed 800".

Major R. Potter wrote: "It was a real thrill to receive for the first two lots of cigarettes from your fund. Distribution was effected shortly after we landed in Normandy, and everybody got everyone for me".

Another letter from Italy written by Les Hopkins July 18th., acknowledges a cigarette parcel sent from Belleville on July 5th. The acknowledgment indicates cigarette parcels are given prompt attention by postal authorities.

Although inaugurated by the C.N.R. Vets' Association recipient of cigarettes are not strictly confined to former railroad employees. Boys from Belleville, Trenton and Picton, while money raised by the various women's groups among association members also help swell the cigarette fund receipts.

Twenty Permits Issued in July

With permits for nine residences issued, city hall officials today viewed the month of July as one of the best building months in recent years with the month's building list representing a construction value of $52,275. Twenty building permits were issued during the month, the same number as for July, 1943, when construction was valued at $15,750.

Building permits issued to date also showed a considerable increase in construction value over the comparable period for last year. From the end of July this year there were 122 permits issued, with construction valued at $124,675, as compared with the 101 permits and $84,365 construction value to the end of July last year.

Permits issued during July included: E. E. Darling, 11 Cedar Street, garage, $100; Universal Builders' Products, addition, $430; Ed. Francis, dwelling, 8 Green Street, $4,000; E. G. Morgan, 58 Cedar Street, porch, $150; E. Rossbach, 83 South John Street, verandah, $78; W. M. Tice, 91 Bridge West, dwelling, $2,000; repairs, $3,000; D. W. Bews, dwelling, 148 Dufferin, $4,400; J. Lafferty, 161 Dufferin, garage, $100; Universal, $300; W. R. McCreary, 132 Bridge Street, porch, $500; F. S. Pope, dwelling, 53 Burton, $4,000; W. R. NEARLY 10,000

Ottawa in the announcement that an official party, including representatives of the R.C.A.F., Transport and Mines Departments, soon will survey the Fort Churchill area to assess their value in peacetime flying.

They were carved out by hundreds of American troops including specialists, such as engineers and signallers, as The Pas, Churchill, Southampton Island in northern Hudson Bay, Frobisher Bay on the eastern coast of Baffin Island and Port Chimo on the south shore of Hudson Strait.

After-War Use.

It is understood that some of the American fields, particularly that at Churchill, are extensive, and that the Canadian Government is in agreement with United States authorities that the country use should be made of these stations after the war is all peaceful.

The story of the construction of the airports in the far north, serial stepping stones across the North Atlantic which, known as the northeast staging route, link Western Canada with Europe, was expected to be disclosed shortly.

Americans assigned to important work poured into northern Manitoba during the construction of the airports forming the northeast staging route, but security has prevented disclosure of these operations.

THE DAY IN PARLIAMENT

(By The Canadian Press.)

TODAY

The Commons will discuss various government bills.

YESTERDAY

The House heard more than 100 members argue for an hour before it suspended. Dr. Herbert Bruce (PC-Toronto Parkdale) from the chamber for the remainder of the evening sitting after he refused a deputy speaker's ruling that he withdraw the word "pride" as applied to the family allowances bill; Heard Prime Minister Mackenzie King say no date had as yet been set for the proposed Dominion-Provincial conference; gave third reading without discussion to the government's bill providing for machinery to keep the prices of farm products on a stabilized level during the post-war period.

In the Senate, Senator Arthur Hardy (L-Ontario) said there were 12 vacancies in the upper chamber "some of which extend over three or four years" and asked that the government take steps to remedy the situation.

BERLIN CLAIM

London, Aug. 1 — (CP)—A Berlin broadcast asserted today that Germans "human torpedoes" and submarines had sunk 134,000 tons of Allied shipping off the Normandy coast and along other Allied supply routes in July. The claim was not supported by Allied reports on shipping losses.

Rebate Notice To Electric Users

Your Commissioners take pleasure in announcing a credit adjustment on electric rates for 1944. On the accounts which will be rendered in August and September, a rebate of 15% of the total net billing in 1943 will be allowed.

The rates at present are among the lowest in the Province and your Commissioners have decided on a policy of making rebates to consumers rather than alter the present rate structure.

Your Commissioners feel that in making the foregoing decision, an adherence to sound business principles is being followed. Reserves have been established and the utility has been maintained at as high a standard of efficiency as is possible under wartime conditions and restrictions.

GRAYDON CLAIMS REMARK AIMED AT C. P. MCTAGUE

Prime Minister King Says Reference Did Not Apply to Anyone in Particular

Ottawa, Aug. 1 —(CP)—Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, said yesterday in the Commons that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had "grossly misrepresented reflection" on the patriotism of C. P. McTague, National Chairman of the Progressive Conservative Party.

(Mr. King said Friday he was amazed that some men of high position in this country who were brought into the government service to help to carry on the war, traveling what they do about the seriousness of the situation, and how necessary it is that every ounce of ability who can serve should remain in war-time. Mr. Graydon said he war, should have left the government in order, in the midst of war, to participate a political party to help organize a political party against the government.")

Mr. Graydon said the remarks were aimed at Mr. McTague who resigned as chairman of the National War Labor Board and later accepted the post of the Progressive Conservative Party. He asked are Conservative Party. He asked the Prime Minister to withdraw the remarks.

Mr. King replied that the remarks were not meant to apply to any one person in particular. He was amazed, he said, at the time.

When resigning as chairman of the Labor Board Mr. McTague said he had given up the post to return to the bench because there was a shortage of judges. Mr. King said. Instead of returning to the bench, Mr. McTague had accepted the post in the Progressive Conservative Party.

Mr. King said he felt that as prime Minister of the country he had a right to know if a man was leaving the government service.

Mr. Graydon said Mr. King had not shown that Mr. McTague at the time of his resignation intended to accept the conservative party post. He had not shown that Mr. McTague resigned for that reason.

Rotary Rookies Kinsmen Kut-Ups Meet Tonight

From their Shannonville kicks and their Marysville mosquos, the muezzins of the Kinsmen Kut-ups have called the faithful to Shrine. From their Hoard's Station, hideout; from their Foulkes fortholes, from their Slocum silt trenches, the ghosts of departed softballers, under the aegis of the Kinsmen Club stole forth in the eerie moonlight, to warm their paddles, grip warclubs and gird themselves for the battle that takes place tonight on the Collegiate Campus.

Opposing them is that doughty band of warriors the Rotary Rookies, whom Schwab (The Voice) claims met defeat at the hands of the Kingsley Kinsmen before the other twilightings.

Like Arabs of old the Kinsmen trooped to the lair, they risked and cavorted about the greensward. In platoons, companies, battalions, they swarmed to the practice attack. Like Caesar's legions, thin one, fat ones covered the diamond like a black mantle.

But, the keen eyes of Rookie and Kewpie Gestapo lurking in nearby establishments uncovered the Kut-ups Secret Weapon. Disguised as a milk bottle, covered with white paper to resemble a Pat, the herculean form of Plank ("softballs me like women are putty in me hands") Bill McIntosh, was disapparent as he scurried look on Cleo (Potsonality) Colling's face.

Former star of the famous Picrdors, flexitette, mushball champions when Al Jolsen yodeled in baby pants, the Plash, fresh from jungle triumphs near Gananoque, will be surrounding connecting Rookies, Meanwhile Big Bill (Empire State) Turner and Stan (Hand Grenade) Hazleton, Rookie mentors, have perfected their Paralysis Ball, Nuff Sed.

But Yeast is Yeast and the Best is Best and tonight the twain shall meet. Seven p.m., Collegiate Campus.

Will Require 600 To Handle Family Bonus Payments

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)—Brooks Clazton, parliamentary assistant to Mr. King, said last night in the Commons about 600 treasury officials would be required to handle the proposed family allowance payments

At present about 40 officials were required to handle about 100,000 cheques for dependents on the Canadian Army, about 609,250 dependents allowance cheques were mailed from Ottawa every month. It was estimated 1,500,000 family allowance cheques would be mailed each month.

Mr. Clazton said a field staff of about 500 investigators would be needed. Possibly 1,900 other employees would be required when no accurate estimate could be made because it was not known how much help could be received from the provinces.

The War Today
'Battle of Normandy' Turned Into 'Battle of France' by Allies

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(AP War Analyst)

The magnificent Allied drive on the Cotentin peninsula has given us a fair answer to the old question of "what's in a name?" by turning the "Battle of Normandy" into the "Battle of France."

There's plenty in that new name. It's the difference between the confined area of the peninsula, which has badly restricted the handling of air, Simultaneously the hard-hitting Canadian and British forces, on the other end of the Allied front, surged forward and levelled up the line.

The sum of this operation is that the whole German line is in danger of being outflanked in both wings and suffering a major disaster. This threat is increased by the fact that the Allies now are in position to use their big contingent of the American army to better advantage, since they are leaving the terrible hedge-row terrain behind before to put all our strength into a blow.

Yanks Rip Out Hun Coastal Anchor

What happened yesterday was that the Americans in their great thrust through Granville and Avranches ripped out the coastal anchor on the southwest flank of the German line which ran approximately across the base of the whole peninsula. This left the enemy coastal wing dangling in the air. Simultaneously the hard-hitting Canadian and British forces, on the other end of the Allied front, surged forward and levelled up the line.

The sum of this operation is that the whole German line is in danger of being outflanked in both wings and suffering a major disaster. This threat is increased by the fact that the Allies now are in position to use their big contingent of the American army to better advantage, since they are leaving the terrible hedge-row terrain behind.

Former President Philippine Govt. Dies at Saranac

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Manuel Quezon, 65, exiled president of the Philippine Government, which he had headed before the United States home here from tuberculosis.

The passing of Quezon, who fled from his native Luzon in a submarine Feb. 20, 1942, after the Philippines fell to the Japanese, died at 10:05 a.m. E.D.T.

His widow, and two daughters, Mrs. Aurora Quezon and Maria Zenaida, and one son, Manuel, Jr., were at the bedside.

Long a disciple of Philippine independence, Quezon cast his lot with the Americans when the Japanese invaded his homeland. Previously, he had opposed occupation both by Spain and the United States.

Since his arrival in the United States he made his waning energy to bring about defeat and ouster of the Japanese.

German Reaction To Bomb Attempt One of Apathy

Washington, Aug. 1 (CP) —First reports reaching official Washington from inside Germany disclosed today the Nazis appear to have crushed the factions involved in the bomb plot against Hitler, and indicate that for the moment at least, Hitler has firm control.

The best description of the popular German reaction to the bombing attempt was apathy, the information says. So far as is known here, there was no rioting in Germany following announcement of the attack on Hitler, nor were there any demonstrations of rejoicing at his escape.

It is confirmed that the Nazis took speedy and far-reaching control measures immediately after the bomb attempt, especially in Berlin.

Further, there appears every reason to believe that the attempt on Hitler's life was in earnest, and not a put-up job as some observers originally speculated.

Many Germans Flee to Ankara

Ankara, Aug. 1 — (AP) — The overnight express train from Istanbul arrived here this morning packed with Germans and their families.

A special plane was loaded at Istanbul yesterday with another group of Germans hastening inland to Ankara, the capital, before the meeting of the national assembly Wednesday when it is commonly expected the Turks will announce a break in relations with Germany.

(This report, which, passed through Turkish censorship, did not bring out why German nationals in Istanbul, on the Marmora Sea only-80 miles from Bulgaria, would choose to flee the 220 miles southeastward to Ankara rather than to the Balkans.

(However, at least a few of them probably would prefer internment by the Turks to a return to their war-ravaged homeland. The Germans many expect the Istanbul sector to become a war zone and wish to avoid that fateful day. Friendly diplomatic establishments in Ankara perhaps would provide a haven for some.)

Istanbul newspapers announced that blackouts would begin along Turkey's Black Sea and Mediterranean coasts Tuesday night.

It was learned today that every member of the German colony here has been ordered by the German minister to pack two suitcases and to send an inventory of his possessions to the German embassy.

German business men representing export firms have called back to Germany or suspend all shipments to Turkey.

CHARGE PRISONERS LET SELVES OUT AND IN OF JAIL

Summerside, P.E.I., Aug. 1 (CP)—Although prisoners in the Prince County jail here on July 13, Clifford McLaren, of Port Hill, and Evelyn Essery of Mount Pleasant were sent to Supreme Court yesterday, charged with breaking and entering a jewelry store in Summerside on that date. Police charged the men had fashioned a key and had let themselves out at night on one occasion and then locked themselves back in the jail before daylight.

POLIO SPEADS IN N.Y. STATE

Albany, N.Y., Aug. 1 (CP)—Infantile paralysis, continuing its spread in New York State, has reached a total of 665 cases, the health department announced yesterday. Heaviest area of infection was Erie County where the number of cases now is 340.

Rail Employees Get Pay Boost Of 6 Cents an Hour

Ottawa, Aug. 1 — (CP)—Employees of 17 Canadian railways have had their pay increased by 6 cents an hour and were given a bonus in the form of a week's pay at the present rate under a National War Labor Board decision announced tonight.

It was unofficially estimated the increase, affecting from 100,000 to 175,000 workers, would swell the pay envelopes of the railway employees by from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 a year.

In the Board's main decision, affecting 100,000 workers, the increases were sought in a joint application by 18 unions, the increase dates back to Sept. 15, 1941. In another case, that of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees (C. C. L.) it goes back to May 25, 1943, and in the third, the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees (C. F. L.) it is retroactive to March 1, 1942.

The basic case, on which the Board based its decision, was the application by the 18 unions for equalization of Canadian National Trade Railway wages with rates paid on Eastern United States Lines. This would have meant increases at approximately 25 to 30 cents an hour. The increase not in the running trades the unions asked a straight increase of 10 cents an hour.

C.C.O.L. Bosses Part Ramments.

Recognizing that railway workers in the United States do not receive the cost of living bonus paid in Canada—equivalent on the railways to 8 cents an hour—the National Trade Railway wages with rates paid on Eastern United States Lines. This would have meant increases at approximately 25 to 30 cents an hour. The increase not in the running trades the unions asked a straight increase of 10 cents an hour.

C.C.O.L. Bosses Part Ramments.

Recognizing that railway workers in the United States do not receive the cost of living bonus paid in Canada—equivalent on the railways to 8 cents an hour—the railway representatives said they would consider the 8 cents bonus when the increases they sought.

The Board ignored this contention, partiarly because which increases were to be considered must be restricted to Canada.

"The whole policy of control of wage rates in this country is entirely distinct and unrelated to the economy of the United States," the decision said.

The Board said the unions had failed to produce evidence in support of a claim that railway workers were paid low wages in comparison with workers in other Canadian industries.

As a result, the Board had undertaken a comprehensive survey. It was found that other workers had received larger increases than those enjoyed by railwaymen. While some classification were found to be paid low wages in comparison with other industries at the start of the term, the wage of other railway workers were high.

New Threat Added To Nazi Defences In West France

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press War Correspondent

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 1 (AP)—The American 1st army's great rapid advance which in seven days has moved 45 miles to Avranches and turned the battle of the Normandy beachhead into a fight for all France—coupled in conjunction with a steady British 2nd army gain south of Caumont—has added to the German army's armor in a position to cut off the Brest peninsula by forcing a further wedge about 40 miles deeper into present German lines.

Whatever else this course is any more likely a part of Allied strategy than any other. It represents another threat to Field Marshal Von Kluge's defenses and spreads then that much thinner along an are where the Allies now may pick their spot and launch a hit.

Network of Communications.

Except for road and secondary rail lines into the Brest peninsula along its south coast the whole communications network into Britany from interior France funnels through the city of Rennes.

Vitre is 40 miles due south of Avranches and Rennes is slightly more than 50 miles south and slightly west. The country between Avranches and these two cities is more favorable for mechanized attack than most of the battlefields the Allies have had in Normandy.

With the main line at Rennes cut, the Germans would have to supply their fight for Britany either from the south of France or along the circuitous supply chain composed of the junction line between Nantes and Toures to Nantes and thence by the peninsula along the south are coast by secondary roads and spur lines.

Field Marshal Rommel already has weakened the Germans' British army defenses in the last couple two weeks of his fight for Normandy.

Two Prizes in Brittany.

Brittany offers two prizes.

The first is the great deep water harbor of Brest itself, the second port of France, with many times the cargo capacity of Cherbourg.

The second would be a broadened base for an inland assault. It would give the Allies an operating area up to 200 miles wide with room in which to mount and deliver the knockout blow.

ONLY BRUISED IN 55-FT. FALL

Galt, Aug. 1 (CP)—A 13-year-old youth from nearby Scott's Corners fell 25 feet to the ground from the roof of his father's barn, suffering nothing but minor bruises, Dr. Alexander Hall said. The roof following threshing operations when he lost his balance.

Says He Didn't Leave Canada To Live in U.S. During Last War

Ottawa, Aug. 1 — (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King repeated in the Commons last night that he did not leave Canada during the First Great War to take up residence in the United States, after supplying again to Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (PC — Bourie), Mr. King said he had made it a rule to let people say what they wished, but the "erroneous" story that he left Canada between 1914 and 1918 to live in the United States had gone far.

Col. Ross said he had confirmed what he said in the House about Mr. King being out of Canada during the war years. He said that he read out research work for the Rockefeller Foundation.

Mr. King said Col. Ross apparently was under the impression the Rockefeller Foundation had research work carried out only in the United States. The research work he had done was done mainly in Ottawa, but it also took him at times to the United States.

Mr. King said that if anyone wished to visit the Ottawa city hall they would find that he had paid his taxes during the war years. If they wished to visit the Rockeburgh apartments in Ottawa they could find that he had paid his rent and had been in residence there during every month of the war years.

The Prime Minister said that during the First Great War he was of the executive of the Canadian Patriotic Fund and that records bear out the fact that he was present at many of its meetings than any other member. He said he had assisted in the work of the fund in every possible way.

Many More Caught Napping When Mr. 'K' Turns up Suddenly

He sought him here, he sought him there,
That untimed elusive city mayor,
Who said when caught, "Gosh darn the luck,
I've got no tickets lose a buck."

That in short is the story of the Mystery Man Mr. 'K', Kiwanis Club of "Green Hornet," who parades among unsuspecting public, asking them to "Stand and Deliver" certain documents on the pain of losing a crisp one-dollar bill.

Little Joe — pardon Mr. 'K.' — continued his Frank Street Midas perambulations on Saturday, and again caught several people minus the credentials that entitled them to one hundred cents of good Kiwanis coin of the realm.

But, what can one expect, if the Mayor of the city so far forgets himself as to refrain from carrying his tickets at the $1,000 bond to be drawn for at the forthcoming Kiwanis Carnival. However, compared by the fat man on Ontario failed to produce the tickets, and sorrowfully parted with one-dollar bill disappear into the "K" jeans.

Likewise the ladies of the fire-fighting brigade. The Hornet homed into the fair maidens and the lads in blue admitted their lapse of memory and likewise saw one-dollar bills go aglimmering. Sandy Goodman admitted with tears in his eyes that his tickets were gone. He went buckless. So did Mrs. Herb McDowell.

But J. B. Boyce wasn't caught napping. He flashed his tickets before the fateful gaze of Mr. 'K.' accepted the buck and promptly bought more tickets. Bill Warren, C.N.R., also produced the goods.

"Scotty," Bill Cook's famous salesman, smiled his smile of victory, quickly produced his tickets, accepted the dollar bill and as quietly resumed his work.

Mr. "K." goes on his monetary warpath again this week, and will dispense his financial cheer once more among the masses.

Germans Setting Fire To Warsaw Reds Report

London, Aug. 1 — (CP-Reuters)—Moscow reported today the Germans are setting fire to Warsaw as the Red Army closes in on the town.

Clouds of smoke were reported over the Polish capital by Soviet pilots as the Germans burn and blow up its buildings, Duncan Hooper, Reuter staff writer in Moscow, said.

The Red Army advance towards the Reich border of East Prussia continues with "ceaseless pursuit" west of Grodno, said a front line report.

'Hour Has Struck Climax Reached,' Krieg k Tells Huns

London, Aug. 1—(CP-Reuters)—Germans were told today "The hour has struck, the climax has been reached."

Doctor Otto Krieg k, Berlin radio political spokesman, told home listeners that the United Nations were bringing to bear total military force. He added:

"We know that at recent meetings in London, Washington and Moscow the highest council of war, Mr. and Mrs. Radford of Perth, was decided to launch one grand attack on Christie Lake. He had been picnicing with his parents and friends.

Robot Supply Depots Raided By RAF Heavies

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 1 — (AP)—British heavy bombers, stepping up the campaign to wipe out the German flying bomb menace, struck Monday night at seven widely separated robot supply depots and a number of launching-sites in northern France.

Before dark Lancasters and Halifaxes attacked one depot, a few miles southwest of Reims and another in the Pas de Calais area while continuing to bombard platforms from which the Germans fire their rockets. Flying bombs fell intermittently in southern England last night and today.

The day and night punches at the robot launching-ramps and supply depots, together with mine-laying cost the R.A.F. four planes.

In other operations late yesterday, R.A.F. heavy bombers pounded German naval vessels at Le Havre and the railway centre of La Roche, 65 miles southeast of Paris.

Both the Le Havre and La Roche assaults were carried out before dark and under a strong escort as tactical air units continued bombardment of enemy troops left behind the Hitler battle zone, rounding out a day in which some 4,500 sorties were flown by Allied aircraft based in Britain and France.

"How Sleep the Brave!"

Before the hushed Parliament of his native Canada the other day the deeds of the late Flt. Lt. David Ernest Hornell, which won him the Victoria Cross, were read as the citation, accompanying the award of the greatest of honors, was placed upon the Parliamentary records. The scene was befitting of the hero, for the air did not survive his great deed. He alone of the winners of the coveted decoration in this war has been honored posthumously.

But his country had not forgotten him and in his memory well might the words of the poet Collins be recalled:

"How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!"

Flt. Lt. Hornell was typical of the Canadian and democratic mind, taking up his task as a civilian full of patriotism and ready to do his part in combatting tyranny and aggression. He was an idealist and gave his life in the pursuit of the ideal, the performance of duty. His great courage and skill were called into action. He pointed the nose of his plane at a U-boat and even though his craft was badly crippled by the flak from the U-boat which struck his plane again and again he managed to drop the depth charges upon the mark at which he was primarily pointed.

His courage is described in these words, "by pressing home a skilful and successful attack against fierce opposition with his aircraft in precarious condition and by fortifying and encouraging his crew during the subsequent ordeal, this officer displayed valor and devotion to duty of the highest order."

He has brought his flagging plane down afire in the stormy sea near the Arctic Circle and when even near his death he had to be restrained from attempting to swim out to recover a float which was greatly needed.

Deeds such as his and those of his comrades are the glory of a free people and the inspiration of those who are living and will live in free Canada in future years. His sacrifice of himself is an enduring memorial of the Royal Canadian Air Force and its spirit and of all who serve in their country's and honor's cause.

Where Hitler's Manpower Goes

Hitler's armies mustered for the conquest of the world in the name of that foul monster have suffered immense losses numbering by the hundreds of thousands every short while and millions throughout the war.

Since last June, a brief spell ago, thirty-eight thousand men over half a million, have been made casualties, according to the Russian statement. These casualties are those of the eastern front.

Everyone notes today how the Germans cannot go out to make an offensive. The Allies hold the whip hand. They start an offensive and they carry it through. Three powerful offensive fronts face Hitler and these fronts are moving steadily towards the core of Germany. Why is this? Many things no doubt have to do with this situation, loss of manpower, shortages of supplies for war and the greater and freshier strength of the Allies, but the chief offensives are the cause that Hitler is on the defensive.

Moscow has set the German dead in this short period as 381,000, and the captured at 197,000. Wounded are not counted. But men are wounded while others are killed and so the total of dead suggests a huge army upon army of wounded men, perhaps two or three to every one killed. The total would give some idea of the losses the Germans have had to endure.

These losses cannot be made up. In a measurable space of time many of the wounded would be able to return to the front but the war cannot wait for them to get better. It is war's business to make casualties and to win by cutting down the enemy ranks.

Hitler's venture in quest of the crown of the world's control has cost Germany much of her younger blood and at the same time it has cost Russia and the British, Americans, Chinese and others great numbers of lives, all sacrificed for the brutal lust for power of Germany.

But the sword of justice is ready and upon it there will be written its motto: for the aggressor state must pay for its crimes. In her Nazi youth Germany has sown for herself and in a measure for the rest of the world, a crop of madness, who would set the world on fire if it could, for the joy of a Nero to see it burn. This Nazi youth is not only one of the problems of those who will win the war, the Allies, but also of the German people. The evil that has been implanted into the German youth will have its effect upon Germany of the future.

This total of dead as given by Moscow is one of the hard facts of many hard facts that Germany has to account for. She cannot but miss these men who have been killed in action in the service of the man called Hitler.

Hollanders Must Fight On

(Montreal Herald)

What part will our stout-hearted Allies the Hollanders play in the second phase of the war, the campaign against Japan?

We may expect it to be a substantial one, for the Netherlanders will have a substantial stake for which to fight—their rich colonial empire.

With the liberation of the homeland from Nazi occupation considered now only a matter of time—and not such a long time at that—the Netherlands Government in exile is clearly feeling increasing concern over the recovery of their East Indies possessions.

One manifestation of this concern is its efforts to establish and speak about additional struggle and even more labor," Dr. Hubertus J. van Mook, Netherlands Minister for Overseas Territories, told the people of occupied Holland in a recent broadcast.

"After our victory over Germany we will be tired, hard, perhaps bitter . . . But all our suffering and all our effort will have established nothing as long as the armed robber state in the Far East has not been beaten . . ."

The War's New Phase

(New York Times)

What a difference there is between this terror of war at the door, war coming at last, and war launched so jauntily, and for a long time so safely, against other peoples! Hitler has no fortress now but Germany itself. He is no longer protected by a "cordon sanitaire" of other countries. Poland, Norway, turned into battlefields to the end that other people should shield with their bodies and the cities they love the inviolate soil of Germany.

Hitler never had any real fortress, when it comes to that, except the immunity of the Germans. He has no shield and strength at the final showdown but German faith in his victory. Fortress Germany is that is only the German people, and every word that comes out of Hitler's mouth reveals that this inner stronghold is beginning to crack as the enemy pounds at the gates.

Nazis fleeing though Wilno, in Poland, got no comfort from a tablet which read: "Napoleon Bonaparte passed this way in 1812 with 600,000 men." On the other side was the inscription: "Napoleon passed this way in 1812 with 9,000 men." There was the moral of conquest and retreat.—Hamilton Spectator.

LIFE AND MONEY

There is a gold star in a window near,
And passing by
I think: "To match that woman's silent fear,
What loss have I?

"Was my bond money brave and clean and true,
As once was he?
Did it have drams of what its strength could do,
And life might be?

"Did it know love and laughter, dance and song,
And skill and pride?
Would it have died to save the world from wrong,
As that boy died?

"No, it went forth, paid out, to be repaid
With added gain;
Never has it known cause to be afraid
Or suffer pain.

"Some day my money safely will return
And I shall smile.
But those who loved that lad, for him, will yearn
Through life's long while."

Pyle in Normandy:
Searching For Crippled Tanks Near Front Line Tough Job Pyle Finds

By ERNIE PYLE

Somewhere in Normandy—(by wireless)—I was just beginning dusk when the order came. A soldier came running up to my foxhole and said there was a call for our ordnance evacuation company to pull out some crippled tanks.

We had been sitting on the grass and we jumped up and ran down the slope. Waiting at the gate stood an M-32 tank and behind it almost a big wrecker with a crane.

The day had been hot, but dusk was bringing a chill, as always. One of the soldiers loaded me his mackinaw.

Soldiers stood atop their big machine with a stance of impatience, like firemen waiting to start. We pulled out through the hedgerow gate onto the main macadam highway. It was about 10 miles to the front lines.

We went through shattered Carentan and on beyond for miles. Then we turned off at an angle in search of Sgt. Jim Burris' Repair Corner," the officer said.

Beyond there the roadside soldiers thinned out. Traffic ceased altogether. It was an increasing temple, the big guns crashed around us. Hedges began to make weird shapes in the moonlight. Finally a sentries in every open hedgegate just out in the open fieldstreet.

The smell of death washed past us in waves as we moved. There is nothing worse in war than the foul odor of death. There is no last dignity in it, no pride.

We turned up a gravel lane, and drove through the dusk toward evening. A gray stone farmhouse sat on many of the road. A little yard and driveway semi-circled in front of it. Against the front of the house stood five German soldiers, facing inward, their hands above their heads. An American doughboy stood in the driveway with a tommy-gun pointed at them. We drove on by a about 50 yards and stopped. The drivers shut off their diesel motors.

One officer went into an orchard to try to find where the tanks were. In wartime nobody ever knows where anything is. The rest of us waited along the road beside an old stone barn. Three jeeps were parked beside it, one behind the deeper now.

Out of the orchards around us roared and thundered our own artillery. An officer lit a cigarette. A sergeant with a rifle slung on his shoulder walked over and said, "You better put that out, sir. There's snipers all around and they'll shoot at that light."

The officer crushed the cigarette in his fingers, and then let it drop to the ground, and said, "Thanks."

"It's for your own good," the sergeant said, apologetically.

The only traffic past us was an occasional jeep rigged up with a steel framework above to carry two stretcher cases. Every few minutes a jeep would pass us, carrying its burdens, slowly and silently and almost as though it was feeling its way.

Somehow as darkness came down it all seemed to be more important things hushed. People begin to talk in low voices, and feet on jeep throttles tread less heavily.

An early German shell passed overhead, passed, turned, dived—and his white tracers came slanting down and hit in a hedgerow behind a stone wall. He was half a mile away, but he was firing at us, bullets can go anywhere and you are nervous.

An armored car pulled around us, pulled into a ditch ahead and stopped. The officer went to see what things headed. People begin was there in case the German night patrols tried to sneak through.

On ahead there were single rifle shots and the stve and take of machine gun retaliation. And then we alone, the German and one American. You wondered after such blasts if anything was left whole a moment ago, some utter annihilation. But then there was new anguish up there ahead in the blinking darkness.

A shell whined that old familiar wail and hit in the orchard ahead with a crash. "Jesus Christ!" exclaimed a soldier out of the dusk.

"I said, 'Put out,'" he said.

And he replied as honestly, "I sure as hell don't."

A sergeant came up the road and said, "You can stay here if you want to, but I'm going back to barn every hour on the hour. They're scared to death."

We looked at our watches. It was five minutes till midnight. Some of the soldiers stood together in the middle of the road talking. But you could sense that some of us who were less composed, easing close to the stone wall, even close to the motherhood of the big silent machines, and to the solid stone wall of the orchard. He had the directions. We all gathered around and listened. We were to go back about two pastures, turn down another lane and go on to the next farm.

We were to drag back two German tanks, but the whole business might retrieve them during the night. We backed ponderously up the road in the beautiful moonglowing up dust as we moved.

As we passed the gray stone farmhouse we could see five silhouettes, very faintly through, now almost complete night—five Germans still facing the gray farmhouse.

We came to a lane, and pulled forward into it. We waited there silently for you could barely see now. Even in the lightning flashes of the big guns you could barely see.

Transport Plane With 26 Aboard Lost in Atlantic

Washington, Aug. 1—(AP)—Loss of a U. S. Army C-54 transport plane with 26 persons aboard including 18 patients, while en route from Scotland to Mitchel Field, New York, was announced by the War Department yesterday.

The plane presumably went down Wednesday morning between Iceland and Newfoundland, the department said. It was last heard from about 1 a.m., Wednesday and would have exhausted its gasoline supply about noon that morning," the announcement said. Aboard were 15 army and three navy stretcher cases. The eight others included a civilian crew of five and an army flight nurse.

More than 150 planes of the air transport command and the R. C. A. F. have joined in the search, together with surface craft.

ADENOIDS AND STUPIDITY

What has become of the "train-ed" nurse, the teacher, or the doctor, forsooth, who used to take an appointing second look at the unhappy school kid caught with his mandible flown and his attention wool-gathering and forthwith sensed the poor kid to an operation for adenoids? That sort of malpractice was an everyday occurrence when you and I were young, Maggie.

That snap diagnosis was made on the mere facial expression — the "adenoid facies." Classical example of the "adenoid facies" is, or was, Van Leyden's portrait of Perdinand I of Spain — open mouth, vacant expression, dull hollow eyes, short upper lip exposing beaver teeth, narrow high arched palate, crowded uneven upper teeth, pinched or narrow nostrils, mouth breathing and generally more or less impairment of hearing. All of these features may go with simple enlargement of the tonsil and adenoids, or significant thickening, hypertrophy or "vegetations" of the pharyngeal tonsil (third tonsil, adenoids, or both).

As a matter of fact a child with sufficient obstruction of breathing to give rise to any facies other than "adenoid facies" has the same I. Q. as a child without such trouble, if you allow for (1) the handicap of poor oxygenation which, of course, impairs or weakens all vital functions, physical and mental, as well as growth, and development; (2) the handicap of defective hearing, which, as I see it, is one of the very few consequences of tonsil and adenoid obstruction that may justify surgery — not that deafness in such cases necessarily warrants surgical removal of the tonsils and adenoids, for in many cases a few X-ray treatments in the hands of a physician skilled in that field will suffice.

If there is any special mental deficiency, stupidity or dullness associated with adenoids or enlarged tonsils, other than the general vital handicaps mentioned, it is the stupidity and incompetency of the doctors, nurses, teachers, social service agents and parents who conspire to subject children with large tonsils to operation.

Some readers may remember that I was formerly more enthusiastic about the removal of enlarged tonsils and adenoids; than I am now. In my book "Personal Health," now out of print, I represented the operation as comparatively free from danger and productive of uniformly good results. In a pamphlet "Adenoids and Tonsils" now available on request if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address—it is clear that I have grown conservative.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Diabetic Versus Injectables

Isn't it true that a person with diabetes may behave as though drunk when suffering from insulin shock or reaction or when going into coma? Have not innocent persons been thrown in jail as drunk by such a state when police have assumed they were drunk?

(M. L.)

Answer — Yes, that mistake has happened. A diabetic taking insulin may become quite irrational if for some reason the patient fails to take food soon after the insulin, or if the patient is working or playing harder than usual (and so using up the blood sugar faster than is ordinarily). Send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "Reducing for Diabetes."

Grinding Teeth

Please send your pamphlet on nervous trouble. Have three boys and one little girl, each with grinding teeth while he sleeps.

(Mrs. H. W.)

Answer — Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for the green book "Nerves and Nutrition." Frequent careful manicuring of the nails is the way to help the nail-biter break the habit. Grinding the teeth in sleep is more likely a symptom of tetany. Pamphlet on Tetany and Growing Pains mailed on request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope.

ELEPHANT AND DONKEY

The elephant and the donkey as symbols of the Republican and Democratic parties respectively were originated by Thomas Nast (1840-1902), the famous cartoonist. It is said that the idea was suggested to him by an article in the New York Herald describing the escape of some animals from the circus menagerie.

Nast first used the donkey to represent the Democrats in a cartoon published in Harper's Weekly January 15, 1870.

This cartoon portrayed Edwin M. Stanton, who had died a few weeks before, as a dead lion being kicked over by a donkey labelled "Copperhead Democracy." Under the picture were the words: "A live Jackass kicking a dead lion. And such a Jackass!" and a date.

Later Nast, who was a Republican, used the donkey to represent the Democratic Party more specifically. The elephant as a party symbol of war born four years later. On November 7, 1874, (70 years ago come election day this year), Harper Weekly published a Nast cartoon in which the assembled animals of the forest—representing various papers, States and issues—are shown as being frightened by a donkey in a lion's skin carrying "Cesarism." The elephant, which is labelled "Republican," is the frightened also, and is running toward a pitfall loosely covered with deceptive planks.

In this particular cartoon the donkey does not represent the Democratic Party which is symbolized by a fox having a face, suggesting that of Samuel J. Tilden.

Nast continued to use the two symbols, which seemed to please both parties, and they have been employed as popular symbols by the two American political parties ever since.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Keeping Wife Closely Confined

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm 50 years old and have been married for a year to a widower of 43, who has a 13-year old son. My husband is a good man, doesn't drink or gamble and never goes out without me.

"My problem is that he rules me completely, even picking out my clothes and hats. I should also know, he says he loves me, but doesn't trust me to go anywhere alone, fearing I'll meet a younger man. He never gives me spending money and says his insurance will go to me if anything happens to him. He has money in the bank, but it his name only.

"My people are poor, and I want to get a job so I can send them money, but he says if I go to work, we're through, and I can go home to my folks. Other women envy me my good husband, but they don't see the tears I've shed, forced by a man. I'm not allowed to go to dances, because he doesn't want another man's arms around me.

"The 13-year old son has just come to live with him, and he does not obey me, and tries to, boss me, as he is used to his own mother and he wants. I don't think a young bride should have the responsibility or caring for a youngster especially when he's so unruly, do you?

"Lonely."

Many husbands pick out their wives' clothes from a mistaken sense of kindness. The result is they select garments that make these poor martial martyrs look as if they had come out of the funnies. But the husbands take such pride in their tastes it's hard to break them of picking and choosing.

Having only one side of this case to think from, I'm wondering why your husband defeats his domestic happiness by assuming the role of near-jailer. Is he a thrifty extraction hailing from one of those countries where the average man does not regard women as adult? If he's American-born and bred, there's no excuse for his granting the natural-al jealousy a man may feel who has a wife twenty-two years younger.

If you really love your husband, you might try doing a little mission-ary work with him before coming to the decision of taking a job which would enable you to help your family and at the same time give you a little more freedom. Try peaceful methods. Tell him you find your job quite confinement intolerable or that you will have to consider seriously taking a job.

As for the stepson, he certainly must have known about him before you married his father. And to expect a boy of 13 to obey a stepmother not much older than he is, is asking for a little too much of any youth. If you can succeed in getting your husband to the position of an authoritative stepmother, you'll find the going easier.

Your problem is rather severe; times I do not find any evidence that you have any love for either husband now or that you cared very deeply for him before you married him.

Fashion Flashes

YOUTHFUL APPEAL is apparent in every line of a late summer dance dress in glazed chintz—pale beige with a rose print. A set-in midriff of black jersey widens to deep points in front. Short, puffed sleeves and deep draped sweetheart neckline.

A HIGH LIGHT of the new season will be the formal suit in silk. Black satin is used for a handsome model with wide length jacket worn over a pink blouse that is embroidered all over with opalescent beads.

HIGH STYLE fur-trimmed fabric coats are being ordered by shops all over the country. Purple wool with suede finish is used for a handsome coat with heavier tuxedo fronts effect. Draped to the shoulder into large fur bows.

THERE'S PLENTY of trimming in the new hats. A small sailor of deep green fur felt has its brim entirely covered with draped festoons of petals-and- Kelly-green striped satin ribbon.

A REVIVAL noted this season is the rippling fur border. It is used for a tunic coat of purple woolen cloth with self knotted belt and a big ripple collar and ripped border of deep beige-dyed white fox.

PERFECT for late summer into fall is the plaid trench coat with high collar and self belt with a "wrinkled" back. Black satin or faille is used for such coats and they are lined mostly with flannel in the same plaid. Suede is likely to be rhinestone-studded or made of mirror glass.

HERE'S ANOTHER WAY TO HELP!

BUDGET YOUR SPENDING FOR VICTORY

The "Budget Calendar" will show you how—Send for free copy and join the Budgeteers!

THERE'S one simple thing you can do every pay day to strengthen the home front—and to bring Victory sooner. Plan just how you are going to spend each pay cheque before you spend it.

A big job for your dollars

Why is that so important in the war effort? The answer is simple. Your dollars—everyone's dollars have a bigger job to do than ever before. They must help pay the enormous cost of the battle front—through war savings, taxes and contributions. But your dollars must also back up the battle front by helping to keep the home front strong. They have to buy the right kind of food, clothing, shelter and other home needs to keep your family healthy and productive. Production on the home front is what keeps the battle front going!

It's easier—far easier—to make your dollars to their wartime job if you plan your spending in advance. That's where The Budget Calendar can help you. This is a new kind of budget method that we developed as a service to House-hold Finance customers. So many other families are now finding the Budget Calendar helpful that we have decided to send a copy to everyone who requests it.

Here's a new way to budget

The Budget Calendar gives you a new way to go about budgeting—a way that makes your planning easy and simple. It doesn't ask you to fit your living into a fixed spending pattern—a pattern that may not suit you at all. Instead it shows you how to take the expenses you now have and how to plan to pay them with your wartime income. Family after family has told us that here, at last, is a budget plan that "really works". And it does away with tedious bookkeeping too!

Users of the Budget Calendar are invited to join the Budgeteers. Budgeteers receive a new booklet or letter from time to time to encourage them in their efforts. Their letters and questions are always welcome and receive personal answers. Special recognition is given to Budgeteers when they complete a full year of budgeting.

Send for the Calendar now

For many years families have been coming to Household Finance, Canada's largest and oldest Personal Loans company, for help with their money problems. From our long experience has come The Budget Calendar. Don't you want us to send you a copy without obligation? You will receive no loan advertising or solicitation of any kind.

British Women Get New Frock

By MARGARET BUTLER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 1. (CP-Reuter)—Thousands of British women will wear a new frock this week.

It is a red-letter day for them today—for the first time they can use their new clothes rations. Man, are buying their first new frock for nearly six months, and they will have to wait another.

In her pocket every woman has a new coupons. Her husband has another 24 for himself, her children have 24 each, and the special cases, to allow for growth, they may have an extra 16. These coupons are all they will have until next February. It takes 18 for a woman's overcoat, 11 for a wool frock, seven for a silk one, five for a blouse, two for a pair of stockings and one for four handkerchiefs. Men's clothes need more.

Careful planning goes into each wardrobe. It has to last the war women or Britain to buy wisely—quality, not quantity, is the answer.

There are no coupons to spare for evening wear. Most girls in their teens have never worn an evening frock. Many have never had a pair of silk stockings.

SALESMEN USE BIKES

St. Thomas, Aug. 1 — (CP)—Bicycles are being used by at least 2 travelling salesmen who visit St. Thomas and towns and villages in this district. One of the travelling salesmen has a bicycle stored here all the time, the other carries his cycle on a special rack on the rear of his car. When he reaches a town he parks the car, takes off the bicycle and proceeds to pedal from store to store.

BEAUTY

By Helen Jameson

Voices, Sweet and Low

Talk—Talk—Talk! Gab—Gab—Gab! It would seem as though the human race is afflicted with loquacity and radio bawling. Men, women and children—all have something to say. Most inclined to believe that a good deal of speech-making is all about nothing, but that's neither here nor there. The point is that, if people are going to talk every making moments, it would be a good idea for them to cultivate pleasing, musical voices and not naturally so blessed. The human ear is suited to music of the soul.

How many women do you know who have really charming voices? Not many. You can count them on the fingers of one hand. Not all sweet voices are pleasing; some are too sweet; they are vapid and cloying, suggest inadequacy and lack the kind I mean. The one employed by the woman who hands out apple sauce by the bucketful, assures you that, loves your dress, can't imagine where you got such a sun-dried permanent! One quality of a beautiful voice is sincerity, affectionate arouse resentment and suspicion. The voice that appeals is the one that you cannot forget, has arresting character, directness—friendliness, not gush.

Sharp, rasping tones give the listener a case of goose-flesh. They are caused by pitching the voice too high, using too much volume.

Women who without shame or spirit, are afraid of life. You'd think, judging by their tone and voice, they were all spoiled children. They are selfish; it is shameful of them to make other people unhappy by complaining. Every hand, they fancy is stretched out to help them with the that every hand is waiting on them. Sometimes it is—sometimes it stands. You want to smack them, stand them on their feet, tell them to get going, make themselves useful.

A throaty voice is caused by relaxation of the muscles, a condition that may not be self inflicted. It is not always unpleasant—sometimes it is. Then it is too much emphasis is a strain on the vocal cords, brings them together in a spasmodic manner, may injure them. The orator who thinks to impress another may suffer from hoarseness, lose voice for the time being.

The charming voice has a musical quality. It has expression, resonance, enunciation. To hear the voice to acquire clear enunciation is to train the ear.

If you feel that your voice does not qualify, can easily find an instructor in vocal art who will give you help.

WILL USE NAZIS' INDUSTRY IN WAR ON JAPAN

London, Aug. 1 — (AP) — The German navy's heavy industry will be mobilized after Hitler's defeat to aid in the war against Japan, it was disclosed yesterday with the announcement that Vice Admiral Wolfgang A. Glassford has been made administrator of United States naval affairs in liberated countries of Europe.

Those Poor Neglected Feet

Frances Rafferty demonstrates a good foot exercise. It consists of raising the arch.

By HELEN FOLLETT

AT THE first sign of foot pains a woman should act immediately, seek professional treatment. But does she? She doesn't. She digs out some old shoes, goes on fussing. The pain may become a habit. In the world that women, who take such good care of their hands, their heads, their complexions and their figures, pay so little attention to their poor, hard working feet.

Shoes should be straight on the inner side. If they are not, the big toe will be pressed against the neighbor, thrown out of alignment. The joint may become swollen, even swollen, in some cases painful. Soft rubber correctives placed between the big toe and the next one, will tend to push the big toe where it belongs, though of course one must wear corrective shoes.

Foot Exercises.

Improperly selected shoes will cause the arches to weaken. There are various supporters that can be adjusted to individual needs and which will hold the misplaced bones of the arch in place when one walks. Standing at the counter is equalized to select the proper model.

Foot exercises will strengthen feet and ankles. Stand still, feet pointing straight ahead, turn the foot so that you are standing on the outside edge. If you can't didn't wear shoes our toes would be as flexible as fingers.

Exercise strengthen fibres that have weakened because of the pressure of footwear also the blood streams will be stimulated.

CONTRASTING SUBSTANCES

Rock so soft, it bends like wood is found not far from Brazil's deposit of diamonds, valued for their hardness.

Browns and Red Sox Bolster Squads for Stretch Drive; Washington Lands in Cellar

GAME SCORES

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Washington's mid-winter pennant boom vanished in thin air today as the Nats hit the American League cellar while the St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox, once a couple of also-rans, loaded up for the stretch drive.

St. Louis acquired catcher Tom Turner from the White Sox via the waiver route to bolster Frank Mancuso and Red Hayworth. Boston picked up Ken Keltner, helped Jack Kramer take the nod over Roger Wolff, taking his first start in a month.

Boston kept pace with the Brownies by shading Cleveland, 1-0 on an unearned run in the ninth.

Philadelphia pushed past Chicago in the 10th, 3-2, as Hal Epps' single followed Bobby Hall's triple to give Russ Christopher the win over Orval Grove.

Brooklyn's Hal Gregg ended a two-month victory famine by beating St. Louis, 8-1, his first since May 30.

Chicago lost its seventh straight, 5-1 on by Vandenberg's three-hitter as the Phillies blew up for the ninth in a row, but the Cubs failed to reach their first division goal as the New York Giants topped Cincinnati, 9-1.

Fritz Ostermueller of Pittsburgh stopped Boston, 9-2, with two hits, trimming Nate Andrews and chinning in with three hits for the cause.

Point Anne Push Alemites out Of League Finals

Cementmen Meet Marines for City Cup Winning 11 to 6

Now it will be Point Anne "Cementmen" and the SACO "Marines" in the Belleville City Softball League finals for the Bank of Commerce Trophy.

This all came about when the "Cementmen" downed Alemite 11 to 6 in a fourth game of a best-in-five series to clinch the round and advance to the finals by winning on their home diamond last night. Tomorrow night it's Alemite and C. N. R.'s in the Belleville and District O. A. S. A. playdowns in a sudden death meeting.

Gathering in seven runs in the first four frames the Point Anne nine literally coasted to victory behind Stan Luffman's nine-hit pitching. Extra base blows told the tale going both ways as the Cementmen counted five of that nature, while Gord Booth's double was the only Alemite blow of the more-than-one-base nature. Phil Loft and Murney Green banged out a triple and added a double each while Bob Buntion added the fifth extra base swat, a fourth inning homer.

Hammett, Barrage and Hughes collected two singles each to count for six of Alemite's nine hits. Point Anne counted an extra score into Whitehead, Loft, Green, Buntion and Maracle all getting two hits apiece.

The line-ups:

Alemite—Dickey rf, Hammett 2b, Philip 3b, Barrage ss, Martin c, Booth 1b, Hughes cf, Lewis' and Fisher lf and Kanis p.

Line score:
Alemite ... 000 210 310— 6 9 5
Point Anne 221 200 31x—11 13 1

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By STU THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Aug. 1 — (CP)—Lacrosse is usually referred to as Canada's typically-national game, even if it now has fallen to the rear of popular approval, but there are many enthusiasts throughout the land who would like to bring it back to its one-time peak of popularity.

Such a one is Vince (Winnipeg Tribune) Lash, who would like to see Canadians get behind the game and boost it to the skies through organized national support such as has been done for baseball in the United States.

Lacrosse, in his opinion, got its knock - out blow by the failure of officials to keep it clean and shoveboard. As a result, the fans became a little leery of the way the game was run, and it lapsed into obscurity.

Give it some good legislation and get it organized on a community basis, with everyone playing from youngsters up, and it would go over in a big way, says Vince.

After all, now that the U. S., as well as Britain and other European countries have taken hockey in their bosoms, lacrosse is Canada's only hope for a truly national game at which her players can excel.

Difference of Opinion:

There's a slight intra-mural dispute in the Montreal Star over the somewhat-distant question whether the Olympic Games should be resumed as soon as possible after the war. Baz O'Meara thinks it will take some time for the feeling of hatred in the world to die down so the events can be resumed in amicity. But his companion columnist, ex-Olympic contestant Myrtle Cook, wants them resumed as soon as possible. The British sporting blood, she says, won't let them step out of any world games, no matter how provoked they might be at their respective countries. Anyway, it's a question that isn't too urgent for a while.

Incidentally:

Winnipeg is supporting soccer in pre-war style these days. A crowd of 1,200 is not uncommon at the gallery when the feeths' boys do their stuff at the Peg . . . Golf is getting more and more popular in the Maritimes. The New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island tournament drew a record entry list this year.

Cobalt Accepted In O.A.S.A. Series

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association yesterday announced at Hamilton that, with acceptance of Cobalt and Cochrane in the intermediate series, the season's affiliations had closed with a total of 76 league representatives, or close to the pre-war mark. Secretary Frank Perry released the information that applications from Chatham and Lindsay had been late and were refused.

Hamilton and St. Catharines were, drawn to meet in the senior semi-final round starting Sept. 4, the winner to play Toronto for the title in a series to start Sept. 25. Senior "B" eliminations will get under way Aug. 31 and in all other series Aug. 15.

The highest price of $40,000 for any of 58 colts and fillies at yesterday's opening session of the yearling sales at Lexington, Ky., was paid by Warren Wright's Calumet farm for a bay colt by Bull Lea which had been consigned by the Elmendorf Farm of P.A.B. Widener.

LEAFS WIN TO FORGE DOWN BEARS

Bisons Win to Climb Into Tie With Newark in Standing

Hank Oana is back in action again which is bad news for the entire International League except Buffalo.

The heavy-hitting Bison pitcher has been especially affective against Syracuse during this year, beating them four times, each by a shutout. Hank won again last night 3-0 in the first game of a double-header that the Herd split. They lost the second game, 8-5. It was Oana's 10th win against seven losses.

Mike Roscoe ran into difficulty in the night cap, as the Chiefs pushed over four runs in the ninth.

Newark Bears dropped into a tie with Buffalo for second place, as they bowed to Toronto, 9-2. The Leafs clubbed three Bear pitchers for 18 hits. Leading the Leaf attack were Harry Davis and Tom Anthony with homers, while Harry Jordan was the route for the Leafs, fanning five and his fifth game.

Montreal snapped their nine game losing streak as they defeated the Jersey City Giants 4-3. Frank Secory appeared to have the Royals under his thumb with a three-hit pitching into the seventh, but the Canadian team put three hits and two walks together and produced their four runs right there. Tom Sunkel pitched all the way for his 11th victory against five defeats.

Baltimore won the first game winning skein go down the drain 5-1 in the second game of a twin bill, the first half of which they won from Rochester, 7-2.

Former Local Player Now Leading Hitter

K. Doughty Bats .398 for Sunday Morning Class and Will Play Here

Mrs. Kay Doughty, who was christened Kathleen Pearl Pierce shortly after she was born in Point Anne, is today the batting leader of the Ontario Ladies Senior Softball League with the magnificent batting average of .398. Kay is the captain and catcher for the famed Toronto Sunday Morning Class girls' softball team who play exhibition games on the Belleville Fair Grounds on Civic Holiday.

The Sunday Morning Class, heralded as the greatest attraction in girls' softball circles on this continent, also have Annie Kirkpatrick, a sister of Mrs. Doughty who has also a native of Point Anne, Incidentally the two Genereaux sisters began their softball careers on the same lot as Mrs. Belleville and not only have starred, but performed for several seasons in the Belleville Ladies' Softball League at the Exhibition Grounds.

The Sunday Morning Class boast of a team batting average of .298 with Stea Hughey, their pitching - outfielder, second to Mrs. Doughty, with a batting average of .306. The Sunday Morning Class will play afternoon and evening games here ver sus the Belleville "All-stars" team, selected from the personnel of the rosters of the local girls' softball leagues. It will be the feature sporting attraction of the current season and is being arranged for Tuesday, Civic Holiday with all receipts being given to the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross under whose auspices the games are being staged.

Leaps Through Window Of Railway Coach

Chapleau, Ont., July 31 — (CP)— W. L. Greenaway, railway porter leaped through two panes of glass in the window of a C. P. R. coach on Saturday afternoon, railway officials disclosed today. The incident occurred 105 miles west of Cartier, Ont. Greenaway, who was travelling as a passenger from Montreal to Vancouver, was picked up by an eastbound train on which he did a short time later.

The body was removed to Chapleau.

Runaway Success

"Can you milk that cow?" the farmer asked the new hand-girl.

"I'll try," she answered.

Twenty minutes later the farmer returned. "Well, how did you get on?" he asked.

"Not so bad," replied the girl; "but wouldn't it have been better if I had a bucket?"

(Around the town.)

Jack Symons' Bell Sargent lassies, with Beanie Doolittle pitching and batting prowess to the fore, capture fifth place in the ladies' softball loop final standing by beating Combines 10-3 in a seven death game. Combines got about all after the fourth frame, as Miss Doolittle turned in another two-ound effort for the "lockmakers". . . . Today it's "Jerseys" and the "Bombersette" girls when the Mountain View lassies can move into 4th with Universals in victory . . . However, Deacons are out to win their final game of the schedule and thus evade a whitewash in the final league standings . . . Last series of the local plants sponsoring girls teams in the city league are taking holidays next week the league not function on Wednesday and Friday, final decisions on the matter to be announced following Wednesday night's game when Bombers and Combines open the league championship final playdowns. . . . President Charlie Barrett announced today the two squads selected to play against the heralded Toronto Sunday Morning Class girls, in aid of the Red Cross here on Civic Holiday, would play an exhibition game at the Fair Grounds Saturday evening next. . . . This is to acquaint the players with the deeper outfield and the playing field in general before the big game. . . . Well, it's SACO "Marines" and Point Anne "Cementmen" in the City Softball finals for the Bank of Commerce Trophy. . . . At Point Anne last night the Cementmen pushed Alemite out of the City League running with a 6 to 6 when Stan Luffman hunted a nine-hitter . . . The Cementmen seemed the class of the team with five extra base hits off Connie Harris, Phil Loft and Murney Green getting a double and triple each . . . In the men's loop the Cat-A-Log playdowns now get under way with Alemite and C.N.R. playing a sudden death game tomorrow night with the winner then meeting Marines for the right to enter the provincial playdowns.

Commenting on an exhibition baseball game played in Oshawa last week, Peterborough Scribe Fred Craig reviewed the match as follows:

"Speaking of old-timers, "Jake" Biddle, well-known Oshawa boxer handler of yesteryear, Al "Ty" Tyson, smooth-working catcher of Oshawa and Oshawa teams in the days when the Central Ontario League was full of stars, and other old timers got together the other evening and played an exhibition game with the Oshawa juveniles, the latter of whom won 7-6. Memories of the old fellows won the argument, too, defeating the kids 4 to 2. Biddle pitched a couple of innings, and Ty played his old position, while "Jake" has been on the retired list since he came over and do the catching for the old Cobourg team, Tyson was a crack catcher with a fling arm and he had a lot of power at the plate, driving out clothes-line hits while crackled into the outfield with fightfire speed. It was no wonder that when Oshawa went in the market for a catcher they got hold of "Ty" and imported him from the Motor City where he has lived ever since."

Robert "Lefty" Grove, pitching for the Philadelphia Athletics in the old American League, shut out the New York Yankees for the first time in 306 games when he blanked Hitchhikers 1 to 0 last 11 years ago today. The Yankees' record comprised 56 games in 1931, 155 in 1932 and 97 up to the time Grove handed them the goose egg in 1933.

(Finish.)

When Promoter Frank Tunney decided to rematch Dr. Len Hall, the Canadian ring ruffian, and Pierre DeGlane, the popular Montreal rassln' adonis, the Queensbury A.C. matchmaker didn't relish the bet. Hall DeGlane slugged as thrilling a 30-minute bout as the fans have seen in some time. The Hume arena grappling fans will welcome this match. Of course the chances are more-paramountly interested in the local between Condonmen as Washburn and Earl McCready which should also have its moments.

This and That.

Although the St. Louis Brownies are setting the pace in the American League the Red Sox and Yankees have not given up hope of the pennant . . . Ditto Washington . . . As a matter of fact the Boston Americans have unloosened the whistle hard from the Griffith Stadium bank roll and now are once again trying to buy the American League pennant . . . It took the late Col. Ruppert many years to buy the American loop flag", remember? . . . It's just an old Toronto custom and the wonder-why of the remainder of Ontario refers to the Queen City as "Toronto the Dull" . . . Not long ago the Toronto Tip Tops were eliminated in the Canadian Baseball Congress, but now they've been reinstated in the Hall of Fame round-up of that series . . . Why? . . . Well, the Congress big-wigs say they've been persuaded to the final round by virtue of the fact that the Tip Tops originally left the Congress in 1943 . . . Maybe Joe McCarthy can get his Yankees into the world series by the same token, that is if they fail to cop the American League pennant . . . Ho Hum . . . Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 444

By SAM GORDON
and ELY CULBERTSON

Sira Tyme is afraid you may not believe her when she bolters first so she yells it again and again. And she's that way about her jump bids in bridge.

A one-jump is a signal that the bidding must continue to game. Only a jump has been given, no more jumps are needed as a signal to keep going to game. A second jump is superfluous for that purpose.

By no umpiering additional jumps, another round of bids can be squeezed in. That extra round may be put to use by exchanging more detailed advices.

Take this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠ K Q 9 8 7 5
♥ A 4 3
♦ None
♣ A K 3
NORTH
♠ 10 6 2
♥ K J 7 5 3
♦ K 9 8 7
♣ 4 2

South opens with two spades, a forcing -to-game bid. It is an irresistible force to game. A partner who refuses to keep that open to game would probably defy the laws of physics, too.

North's first response is two no-trumps, the signal for saying he has no sure trick. If he has anything else to say, he saves it for a later round of bidding.

South may be tempted to jump to four spades in that spot. But his opening is forcing to game. Why spoil a good chance to get some more dope from partner? South bids three spades here.

Three spades is not yet a game. A considerate partner will offer one last signal if it kills him. North has three spades, enough for support of a rebiddable spade suit. He now bids four spades.

A slam in spades is still possible if north has the heart king. To find out, south must bid first no-trump; the king-asking signal.

North's response to that is six hearts; the signal for showing two kings. But with no sure trick, north is known to be without the lone queen. So south decided to end at six spades.

Rules that make good sense give you confidence.

AT THE McCARTHY—As the U.S. marines march into Reykjavik, Iceland, Corporal John Payne pauls our protection of our northern neighbor by saying "I Do," to Iceland's loveliest daughter, fair Sonja Henie in "Iceland," next at the McCarthy Theatre. Second feature co-stars Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray in "Virginia."

AT THE BELLE — Ida Lupino and Paul Henried are co-starred in "In Our Time," Warner Bros. great love story, now on the Belle Theatre screen.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Old Acquaintance"

A powerful, moving drama of two women, diametrically opposed in character, who, nevertheless, are closely interwoven throughout a long span of years, is the new film fare at the Capitol Theatre.

The Warner Bros. picture is "Old Acquaintance," which relentlessly unites the two great stars of "All This and Heaven Too," Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins.

"Old Acquaintance," based upon the Broadway success of the same name by John Van Druten, who also collaborated on the screen play with Lenore Coffee, was directed by Vincent Sherman from a screenplay by Zoe Akins, John Loder and Dolores Moran.

"Spy Train"

The story of an exciting journey aboard a passenger express is told in "Spy Train," the Monogram wartime drama which is the added attraction at the Capitol Theatre.

Richard Travis, protege of Bette Davis, and Catherine Craig play the leading roles, and the cast also includes Chick Chandler, Thelma White, Bradley Paul Bond and Mary Gordon. Also featured are Mary Boland and Victor Francen.

AT THE BELLE

"In Our Time," Romantic Wartime Drama of Love and Devotion

"In Our Time" starring Ida Lupino and Paul Henried, opens at the Belle Theatre on Thursday.

For Ida Lupino this is a new type of role. After the lovely sister in "The Hard Way" for which she won the New York Film Critics award, and the jilterbug in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," she is the devoted girl who becomes the wife of a Polish nobleman. She encounters many hardships, sorrows and brings forth fresh air into the tragic, aristocratic surroundings.

Paul Henried, who made his Hollywood film debut in "Warner Bros. "Now Voyager" and was seen later in "Casablanca," "Hotel Berlin" and "Pride of the Yankees," is the Polish Count in the picture, he portrays the type of man who will build the new post-war world.

"Jam Session"

Ida Lupino and Paul Henreid are the actual figures of the film's tender love story. Nancy Coleman highlights her screen career in the role of Ida Lupino, and the cast also includes Chick Chandler, Thelma White, Bradley Paul Bond and Mary Gordon. Also featured are Mary Boland and Victor Francen.

"Girl in the Case"

"Old Acquaintance"

Australian Thinks Canadian Girls Prettier Than Those 'Down Under'

By J. K. Holdsworth
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 1 —(CP)— Australians are passing through "the winter of discontent" but there's no reason in the climate for discontent—winter only lasts four months and brings lots of sunshine but cold nights and mornings.

All the same, winter can be unpleasant here for the reason, strangely enough, that so little progress can be made for it.

The Canadian parliamentary delegation on tour here noted the suffering and discomfort in many of the small-town hotels where they stayed. Hotels except the largest in the capital cities have the comfort of central heating enjoyed by Canadians at home.

The Australian newspapermen delegates are back from their Canadian tour. Their articles are appearing in scores of papers across the Commonwealth, in the big dailies of Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and Brisbane and in many smaller provincial journals. And many more stories of their impressions of Canada are still to be released.

In Canberra Prime Minister Curtin had an informal reception for the delegation leader, Fred Daly, Labor member of the House, and other journalists for the excellent job they had done.

Don Whittington, of the Sydney Daily Telegraph, caused a little eyebrow raising with one of his articles. Writing in the women's section of his paper, he said he think Canadian girls are prettier than our own. They have better figures, creamier complexions and beautiful hands. A Canadian girl's artificial teeth is rare indeed. One theory is that their bread is especially good and this helps them preserve their teeth. The bread is certainly more palatable than ours."

Whittington was less keen about the girls he saw in New York, San Francisco and Washington. American women are the best-dressed he had ever seen, he said, "but they think of hats but not clothes . . . Their make-up is perfect, but just a bit too perfect. They are afraid to smile in case their facials should crack."

Bruce Suspended From House For Calling 'Baby Bonus Bill 'Bribe'

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 1. (CP)—One little word created an unusual scene in the House of Commons, Monday night. The word was "bribe". Because it was said more than 100 members took an hour of their time arguing and voting about it.

They are said to have lost two hours overtime every day in an attempt to finish the session's business before one hour yesterday white-hair-ed, dignified Dr. Herbert Bruce (CCF—Toronto-Parkdale) held the centre of the stage.

In the end he was ordered to withdraw from the chamber and the House was without him for the balance of the day's sitting.

Dr. Bruce, in the family allowances family Allowance Bill was a bribe "of the most brazen character". That, so Deputy Speaker J. A. Bradette decided and so the House decided by a vote of 81 to 22, was not parliamentary.

Withdrawn

But Dr. Bruce still refused to withdraw the Parliamentary epithet he used. Before that was decided, however, his Progressive Conservative colleagues backed him up with their votes for the second time by overwhelming majorities in divisions but losing to the count of 84 to 20.

While Dr. Bruce was speaking the word the incidents did not start with him. It had its beginnings some weeks ago when John Brackenridge, Progressive Conservative member for Assiniboia, placed a statement on the Family Allowances Bill and called it bribery.

When Prime Minister Mackenzie King got around in the House to answering Mr. Bracken he declared that the Progressive Conservative leader had made the statement in the House which could have been contained for the withdraw.

Dr. Bruce was away when the House unanimously passed the bill on second reading but before going to committee he spoke sharply but critical. Last night he said he had to go to his farm because he had not enough help, due to the government's manpower policy to get the help he needed. He had been here would have voted against the bill.

King Calls Remark 'Insult'

He recalled Mr. Bracken's statement and declared he would not be intimidated by the Prime Minister. Then, he said:

"I now declare this measure is a bribe of the most brazen character made chiefly to one province and paid for by the taxes of the rest."

Mr. King raised the point of order and cited rules to the effect that no member can impute an evil vote of the House except to move that it be rescinded. Dr. Bruce's remarks constituted an "indignity," an "insult" to every member, including his own leader, Gordon Graydon, who had voted for the bill.

The House was in committee of the whole on the family allowances bill and eventually approved the first two sections. When Dr. Bruce declined to withdraw and appealed from the Deputy Speaker's ruling that he must withdraw the next step was a report to the speaker who put the chairman's ruling to a vote of the House.

C.C.F. Sides with Liberals

One Independent member, A. W. Neill, (Comox-Alberni), voted with the Progressive Conservatives in support of Dr. Bruce on both divisions but C.C.F. Social Credit and other Independent members voted with the Liberals.

Mr. Graydon remarked the short suspension or about two and a half hours, proposed by Mr. King, covered the ridiculousness of the position taken by the Prime Minister.

Heated remarks flew across the floor during the incident and later when Percy Black, (CCF—Cumberland) remarked the bill was more for political effect than to benefit poor families.

Mr. King again objected but did not press his objection when M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, urged the House to get on to Mr. Bracken and Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC—York-Simcoe) said he was sure Mr. Black had not meant his words in the way the Prime Minister took them up.

When Mr. Coldwell advised getting down to business pensions Minister Mackenzie said: "Twelve have changed their minds. That's all."

"Will you just keep quiet," said Mr. Hanson getting up to join the fray for the Liberals.

"You haven't got a mind to change," Kent Hamilton, (PC—Waterloo South) shouted at Mr. Mackenzie.

Climbed out on Wing To Make Adjustments, Airman Wins D.F.M.

Sarnia, July 31 —(CP)— Flt. Sgt. Graham Mann, R.A.F., of Sarnia, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal for having climbed out on the wing of his bullet-riddled Lancaster to make adjustments during a fight to gain height and return safely to its base, it was announced here today.

The incident occurred about nine months ago. The plane was badly damaged by fire and, with several enemy fighters and the pilot had put it into a dive to shake off his pursuers and extinguish a fire in the engine.

When the pilot tried to level off, the craft would not gain altitude and Flt. Sgt. Mann climbed out to make repairs. The plane reached its base safely and it is reported that six other members of the crew also received decorations.

Sargents Best Combine Girls In Play-Off

Score is 10 to 3 With Winners Getting Fifth Spot in Loop Standing

Bell Sargent captured fifth position in the final standing of the Belleville Ladies Softball League by taking Hanna Bennett's Combines 10 to 3 in a sudden death play-offs game for that spot at the Armories Lawn last evening. Tonight Dearcon and Mountain View "Bombereites" play the final league scheduled game to determine which team also might ultimately create a subsequent tie for third place. The Combines, the "Bombereites" fall by the wayside.

Last night's tussle was of the nip and tuck variety until Jack Sygrens' Bell Sargents broke out with a four-run outburst in the fifth that clinched th' piece, as the Combines failed to overcome the lead in the ways after the fourth frame.

Besides Jack Sygrens' the Sargents' pitching chore and literally stood the Combines on their proverbial ears as the losers scored but two runs in two stanzas, Mr. Delorme combining a homerun first run in the third and in the bottom half of the fifth D. Reid scored the inning by polling out a home run for Combines. Richards, the best batter, hit and scored to end all scoring for the losers as this fine pitcher and ten batters face her in the last three frames.

Twin Langman and Wilma Reddick opened the scoring for Sargents in the third, while the same two players and Green each scored runs in the fifth to make the count 5-3. The five run Sargent splurge in the fifth was headed by Bessie Doolittle's mammoth circuit blow as she hit a round-tripper to help her own winning cause. M. Delorme was on the hilltop for the losers.

The Line-ups:

Bell Sargent—Marinoff ss, Bennett lf, Langman 2b, Green 3b, Sygrens p, Jh. Clarke 1b, Musgrave cf, Doolittle p.

Umpires, Young and Pointer.

Rocket-Propelled Planes Used by Hun

Allied Headquarters, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Germans are using rocket-propelled fighter planes against Allied heavy bombers, the United States Air Force announced today.

This was the first official word that German rocket-propelled aircraft were in use, although the mysterious German-language radio station Atlantic said they were used last Saturday to destroy seventeen heavy bombers which attacked the Leuna synthetic oil factories at Merseburg, Germany.

Sports Roundup

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Associated Press Sport Writer)
(Flash—Bobby Jones For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 1. (AP)— Some bits of baseball:

A member of the St. Louis Post Dispatch baseball staff found a fan who wants to bet the Browns win the World Series, but Sports Editor John E. Wray turns down all inquiries with: "No, you can't have his address—we saw him first."

Joe Dimaggio is leading the Yankees by .37 at again—but this time it's the khaki-clad Yankee in Hawaii for whom he's hitting .441.

Baseball Questions.

No. 1.—What pitcher was knocked out in the first inning, pitched a no-hitter in his next start, was batted out in the first inning of the next game, and suffered 24 defeats that year?

No. 2—Who was the only pinch-hitter in a World Series to make a sacrifice hit?

Quickies!

Auctioneers are offering 432 cuts and fillies at auction at the Kentucky Association thoroughbred sale this week . . . Lieut. Ted Williams, former Red Sox slugger now playing with the Navy station team at Pensacola, Fla., says the service team has four batters better than himself (Whew!).

Answers to Questions.

No. 1.—Joe Bush, with the Athletics in 1918.

No. 2—Harry (Moose) McCormick of the New York Giants in 1912.

DISCUS TURK STILLSTON

New York, Aug. 1 (CP)—The BBC said last night "it is understood that Prime Minister Churchill may discuss the Turkish situation in his war message to the House of Commons on Wednesday and it is believed that this will coincide with the statement of the Turkish Premier-Sukru Saracoglu, before the Turkish parliament on Wednesday." The broadcast was heard by NBC monitors.

YOUTH CRUSHED BY TRUCK

Fisherton, Ont., Aug. 1 — (CP) — James Hamilton, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hamilton of Fisherton, was crushed to death yesterday when a truck on which he was riding turned over in a field west of here.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were starting to eat breakfast and pop said, I feel bursting with energy and good will this morning. I said the way a man ought to feel every day in the week when he bounds singing out of bed. By golies I wouldn't be surprised if I limited myself to one cup of coffee this morning. Just as an indication of my healthy self sufficiency, he said.

The proof of the pudding will have to be seen to be believed, when it comes to you and coffee, ma said, and pop said, Maybe I wont take any coffee at all. What do I need with outside stimulants when I feel like one great big glowing stimulant all by myself? My conditions ought to be written up in one of the medical papers, I said with a wonderful perfect case, he said.

No. 2—Who was the only pinch-hitter in a World Series to make a sacrifice hit?

Ah, this is the morning Glenn C. Workman starts his new series of talks on the technique of bidding. I ought to be just in time for him, she said.

And she quick turned on the breakfast room radio and Glenn C. Workman was just starting to talk, saying. Attention, army of bridge fans, this is the first of the most very useful pointers on the takeout double. But it was the words for the Surefire Health and Accident Insurance Company. How do you feel this April radiant with health and energy?Good, I'm glad to hear it. I can dont let it blind you in the fact that germs work fast and insidious and you may be down with a high fever that will require the attentions of a doctor and perhaps even hospital care, he said.

Shut that crooker off, pop said, and ma said. Now wimmin, he'll turn to bridge in a minute.

And I've already turned to coffee, horse blanket to blazes, pop said.

And he quick drank 2 cups while Glenn C. Workman was talking about bridge and then hurry up let me his other before Glenn C. Workman had time to get back on the subject of sudden bad health.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER ONE

Jeanne Hallard was coming home. And as befitted the only survivor of the town's greatest benefactor, Shelton was ready to lay down red carpets for Amory Hallard's granddaughter. Flags would have been a public reception with the mayor, Hallard's second cousin, the main street and the front of the railway station, proclaiming "Old Boy" Shelton Welcomes Jeanne Hallard." If Alden Marston hadn't inadvertently mentioned the plans to the girl. This was in New York after she had met her at the dock.

Jeanne's reaction had led Dean Marston, to hastily vow Dr. Norwood that the young woman insisted on privacy so vigorously and threatened not to come at all unless fan-fare was omitted.

As a consequence, the ground gathered at the station was small. There was Dr. Mark Norwood, president of Hallard College for Women, and Mrs. Norwood, and the three College trustees, Joseph Tilden, A. E. Alexander and Loren Fields.

The first two had brought their wives. Fields was unmarried. This Norwood felt, was the very minimum with the reception committee could be reduced.

Reporters were there.

Of course there were several others, too — reporters from three Chicago newspapers and four photographers. Dr. Norwood hoped Miss Hallard wouldn't mind. He wasn't wise to offend newspapers.

Fields, a thin-faced man with keenness was accentuated by a sharp, over-sized nose, nervously rubbed the grey, rather inspiring fur of the station master for the sixth time when the train was expected.

"It will be about fifteen minutes now, sir," he reported, "the paper men were talking to old Dad Burnside, baggage man, and ignored the trustee.

"Exactly," Dad was saying, "I recollect old Amory Hallard — he was a young man when I first come with him. Just took over the station here. Learned to work the wire and the farm — he was well on call set I ripped up myself. Learned myself the Morse code and got so I could send with the best of 'em. Send a letter? I sent messages for months and never knew what they was writin' wasn't too good."

"What kind of a man was Hallard?" one of the reporters interrupted, impatiently. So far their interview had turned up more of Burkett's own background than Hallard's.

"He was a big, hearty fellow," Dad answered, "big-framed chest and quite a pot on him — always wore a heavy gold watch chain across his vest — seemed to me like it was two, feet long. Had bushy mustaches and the bluest eyes I ever see — they could look right through a feller — or at least, it seemed. Nobody ever fooled him very much, he reported said, turning to Dr. Norwood.

Only Child.

"Yes, that's right — as I get the story, Bernard Hallard married late. Had about 35 years ago, Jeanne was the only child. She was raised as an American — her father insisted on that. Wrote it into his will, in fact. Remembered the birth at the Paris embassy — so you see she's an American, even though she's lived all of her life so far in France. Interesting, isn't it?"

Group.

"I think it's very decent of the College to sort of adopt Miss Hallard, now that she's a refugee, Dr. Norwood," the girl reporter said.

"It was the only thing to do," Norwood answered, simply. "With her parents dead, the remains of her fortune seized by the Nazis, we couldn't let the child starve."

"How about the trust fund? Do you think you'll go to court and try to set that aside, now that she's penniless?" the reporter with the cigar demanded.

"Looks to me like she'd stand a good chance — there's a lot o' dough in trust, isn't there, Doctor?"

"There is really a very large amount of money — much more than we need to operate the school. That's why we — the trustees and I — felt we could be generous regarding the young lady."

"Maybe I should enter your question about the trust," Fields spoke up. "I'm the lawyer on the board and I'm afraid I've had considerable dealings with the trust," Fields spoke up. "I'm the lawyer on the board and I'm afraid I've had considerable dealings with the trust, and I don't — I felt we could be generous regarding the young lady."

"Maybe I should enter your question about the trust," Fields spoke up. "I'm the lawyer on the board and I'm afraid I've had considerable dealings with the trust, and I don't think there's much really to it."

"Then there's no chance of her getting guilty of any of the Hallard millions?" The man was persistent.

"No chance at all," Norwood said. "We plan to offer her a position with the College — at least she might want to do post-graduate work until she gets on her feet and rearranges her life. In that case, we could devote a scholarship to her name."

Then reporter was obviously let down. He put away his cigar, shaping up in his mind—a Cinderella story of a penniless refugee suddenly coming into an enormous fortune and losing it all for love. He voiced his disgust to his companions.

"I think you're losing your grip, Frank," the girl spoke up. "Sounds to me like a swell yarn. I'd even see the head-line—'College Adopts Orphan Granddaughter of Financier.' It's a good human interest."

"There she comes," Dad Burkett said. He hurried to his baggage truck, over the bricks beyond the station, and the Nuts ring headed by Norwood moved down the opposite way where the Pullman would stop.

Even Frank, the grouch, whistled when Jeanne Hallard followed Dean Marston from the train, smiling as she was introduced to the waiting people.

"She'll make avail art," he said tossing his cigar away and straightening his necktie.

The introductions were soon over and the photographers took charge telling the reporters short questions at the girl. Norwood couldn't help and gave as much, if not more, information than Jeanne.

It was he who told again how the Red Cross had reported to him that the girl was stranded in Lisbon after escaping from Southern France where she and her mother had lived following the Nazi invasion.

They took everything that was left," he stated. He told, too, how the Red Cross investigators had learned that Mrs. Hallard had died, her death hastened by privation resulting from seizure of her resources.

"Perhaps now, Miss Hallard, you'd betiey go on from there," he suggested, Jeanne took up the recital hesitantly. She seemed almost afraid to speak.

Jeanne said: "When I finally reached Lisbon, I was desperate. I had no passport and just enough money for the bare necessities. I had no friends and it was next to impossible to get help without papers of any sort."

"What happened to your passport?" the girl reporter asked.

"It was stolen. An American man gave me the name of a banker in Europe these days, especially if you can get to Lisbon or some other neutral port with it."

"How were you able to prove your citizenship then and get another?" another newsman wanted to know.

"Just when I thought everything was most hopeless, the Red Cross appeared and handed me my passport, they said one of their agents had recovered it from the police. It seems they had taken it away from a well known criminal."

"Then what happened?"

"Nothing — apparently the Red Cross already had them in touch with Dr. Norwood. They had passage booked on a Spanish freighter to Buenos Aires for me. I went aboard — and after a long interesting talk Mr. Marston met me in New York. And here I am."

"Well, I — that's about all," the girl reporter said, "Thank you, Miss Hallard."

The other newspaper people murmured their thanks and started away, but Frank stayed for a few moments.

"Say, the man you ought to know, miss Hallard," he said.

"Why, Dr. Clyde," Dr. Norwood said, "Well, Douglas, I didn't expect to see you here. We pursuers kept the respected committee small — Miss Hallard wanted it that way."

No Intention.

"I had no intention of breaking in, Doctor," Clyde said, quickly. "I was just down here paying a friend on the train. I bumped into Frank Reynolds here — he's an old friend of mine — and he insisted on bringing me over. Of course, if you object —"

"Certainly not — Miss Hallard, this is Dr. Clyde. He's our professor of psychiatry at the College. Dr. Clyde, Miss Jeanne Hallard."

"Charmed," Dr. Clyde murmured, as Jeanne put out her hand. "It's only a coincidence, of time that would have met anyway—I understand you are to stay at the College."

Dr. Norwood and these other gentlemen have been so good as to insist—I'll at least take advantage of their offer, get I can get on my feet."

Very distressing conditions abroad. So many people have lost everything."

"I'm fortunate — I at least escaped with my life."

Jeanne was the college in Norwood's car, sharing the back seat with Miss Marston.

Norwood was a distinguished looking man, tall, broad-shouldered with a shock of iron gray hair topping his well-shaped head. His features were strong and he spoke was a resonant quality in his voice which made him a magnetic personality on the platform.

His wife was tall, too, although beside her husband she looked small. She didn't say much but her smile was a pleasant, friendly one.

Miss Marston was middle-aged, slightly inclined to stoutness. Her soft voice and mild manner belied the fact that she was a very efficient woman.

Steve Pillar.

Norwood proudly drove through the gates of a huge estate park. On a stone pillar which supported one of the gates was a simple bronze plate which read, "Hallard College for Women — Amory Hallard, Founder."

These are the college grounds," the president said, over his shoulder. A paved road shaded by elm trees, wound through a grove and then suddenly widened as they came in sight of a group of buildings arranged in the conventional quadrangle.

At the head of the quadrangle was a large bronze statue of an imposing man. In one hand he held a scroll, in the other a pen.

"Amory Hallard," Miss Marston nodded.

"The first building is Science Hall," he explained. Next in order was the Administration building, and then the road turned in a long sweeping curve to the left. Norwood stopped the car.

"On the right there," he said — "is the Administration building. Over there—" he pointed to the left—"is the gaythich, that's a lesser quadrangle with the chapel in the center. Gymnasium adjoining the playfield, the library and the girls' dorm, and the right on our theatre. We go in quite strongly on our dramatic course here, Miss Hallard. Perhaps you may be interested in that."

"It's all so lovely — in the woods," the girl said.

Two buildings on the main quadrangle housed the School of Education and the Liberal Arts department. Jeanne was told, there were two large dormitories north and east of the administration building.

ONE FALSE STEP

CHAPTER 18

Rock and Jilly Leave.

She braced herself and determinedly ignored the guests. Rock and Jilly had disappeared. Jack Dunning was dark with anger and chagrin. He soon made his excuses and left. Ann Smith followed.

Janis hore up until the last guest went out the door. Then she sent the servants away and sank to a divan, trying to get things untangled in her mind, trying to reason with herself. It was 3 a.m. by the Venus-figured electric clock on the mantel, and another night of her life had been wasted, another day begun.

She was so nervously exhausted that breathing was difficult in this smoke-filled, foul-aired room. She went to the French doors and opened them wide. She stood there looking down at the city's humdrum day and twinkling neon signs and street lights, automobile headlights flashing here and there like falling stars; a blue or exotic twinkle soon to be washed out completely by the day's garish sunshine. One element giving way to another, one affection, another, one emotion, another. So bitter wounded hearts. Lucinda, Janis herself—what was it all about?

She finally weaved into her bedroom and threw herself face down on the lace-covered bed. She wanted to cry, but there were no tears in her eyes. She slept at last in a tense fashion, more intoxication than recuperative to her frazzled nerves. It was the fading into the dark deep sworn where there was nothing to cling to, no one to hear a cry for help.

It was exactly an hour after this when she was aroused by a loud pounding on the front door. The servants were all asleep in the rear of the house and could not hear the noise. Janis, finally realizing this, got up and staggered out to the hall, switching on lights as she went.

She cautiously opened the door as far as the chain-bolt would allow. She blinked in right at the two policemen standing beneath the porch light.

"Mrs. Conover?" one of them inquired.

"Why—yes. What do you want?"

"There's been trouble—an accident. Car ran into a train. Your husband—he asked him to be hospital—but he and Miss Morse—"

Janis' cold fingers managed to unhook the chain. She said unsteadily: "Come in—please come in."

They stepped inside, and the second man offered, kindly; "If there's anything we can do—take you to the hospital—"

"Yes—I'll get a wrap," Janis said, and wondered how she could be so calm in this hour of horror.

The Clouds Roll Away.

Janis returned from the hospital several hours later. She had been too late to grant forgiveness either to Jilly or Rock had they desired it. She had prevented tragedy earlier that night, on the terrace, but had not been allowed to prevent it a second time a few hours later.

Perhaps it was fate, just this appalling catastrophe had made her numb with pity and a sort of awe. It seemed that when your time came, you passed out. Or had Jilly and Rock hurried themselves at the hereafter in reckless abandon?

Extra newspaper editions were soon on the street of the collision of speeding car and train. They pictured Jilly and Rock in flattering poses, currently taken by the publicity department to exploit the last "Wild Love."

The telephone rang constantly. Janis locked herself in her room, avoiding all calls. She gave orders that no one should be permitted to enter the house. It would be impossible to talk to people, specially to the sensation-mad reporters who might uncover too many embarrassing secrets in Rock Conover's private life. Even Rock's funeral must be strictly private to keep away curiosity-seeking women fans.

But finally a knock came on Janis' door that stirred her into action. One of the servants knocked like that.

She jumped up expectantly, called tremulously: "Come in."

Stephen Black entered quickly. He say her standing there, her lower lip quivering, her face tortured by suffering: "My dear," he said gently, and held out his arms.

She rushed to him like a child seeding protection. Her arms went around his neck, her head to his broad shoulder. He caught her to him, held her close against his heart. Great sobs shook her and the painful tension was at last released.

He waited for her to brush away the regrets, the disappointments, the searing bitterness of many long dreary months. He could but be sure that the depths of his pity for her did not betray him profoundly. Then he kissed her tear-washed face with the rare reverence he could give this woman above all others.

"My darling," he murmured, against her tangled auburn curls, "my own darling."

Canada To Assume Full Cost Air Line Installations in N. Canada

COMPENSATION TO U. S.

By FRANK PLANERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today Canada has arranged to assume full cost of air line installations in northern Canada by the turn of $100,000,000 Canadian funds and at the same time disclosed the ramification of a hitherto secret northeast staging route to Europe.

When the Commons met today Mr. King tabled an exchange of notes with the United States under which the Canadian government will reimburse the United States to the extent of $76,811,561 United States funds for outlays on installations in the Yukon area, to the extent of $20,000,642 Canadian funds for work done on Canadian account under an agreement that the United States will pay Canada, and pay an additional $8,181,000 for projected improvements in the northwest staging route.

Northeast Staging Route.

The northeast staging route, disclosed for the first time after being wrapped in wartime secrecy, will be the route for moving part both song and short range aircraft to Europe.

The compensation to the United States covers both this route which starts at Fort Nelson, B.C., Fresqui-lie and Hudson, Ont., to Churchill, Man., one by way of Western Ontario to Port Chimo, Que., and one over Greenland to Iceland, the third by way of the Prairies, the Pas and Churchill, Man., Southampton, N.W.T. Island and Frobisher Bay.

The northwest staging route to Alaska included in United States figures projected by the Canadian will run par are large air bases at The Pas, Churchill, Southampton, Coral Harbour Island in the Hudson and Mingan. The installation at Goose Bay was largely made by Canada, but there was some American expenditure which now will be taken over. Canada has a 99-year lease on the Goose Bay area in Newfoundland on Goose Bay and this agreed that the United States and Britain shall have the use of the base for the duration of the war.

The actual reimbursement to the United States in American funds will total $76,811,561. In addition to this Canada has assumed subscription rights to the $20,000,000 portion of wartime facilities which were originally made on the understanding that Canada would be reimbursed by the United States. These expenditures in Canadian funds will total $24,781,242. The two items add up to $119,303,000 in Canadian funds.

Route to Alaska for Defence Against Japan

The northwest staging route, for which arrangements regarding Canada's participation will now be announced earlier was designed to provide a route to Alaska for defence against Japan.

The northeast route was designed for both defensive and offensive preparations, to close the northeast backdoor to Europe, to assist in threatened when the Germans were overrunning western stations in Greenland and assisting out the battleship Bismarck, and on the offensive to provide a transport of short range bombers and fighter planes to Europe.

Fortunately, it was not required as the submarine menace was brought under control by the destruction of North Africa opened the Mediterranean and other under conditions made it unnecessary to send as many planes as were originally planned. The facilities in the western leg of the route, via the Pas, and Churchill Island, will be largely employed and the plans for it were not fully implemented.

Use For War and Future Defence

The chain of airports and facilities disclosed today will be used in peacetime importance, but in the main its value lies in its usefulness for war and future defence.

Apart from Goose Bay, which is expected to be the important base for peacetime North Atlantic air transport, almost all the airports are only immediate important use of the facilities, is to come the main avenue of flying from North America to the Orient although the route would be supplemented or replaced by a more northerly route along the Mackenzie river.

The reasons given for Canada assuming the responsibility even on territory to be those:—

1. It is fair that such a contribution to the war Canada should bear the full cost of all wartime installations on Canadian territory.

2. It is not considered desirable that responsibility should be left to financial interest in permanent installations on Canadian territory.

CANADIANS FIGHT WAY STUBBORNLY INTO HILL TOWN

After Pre-Dawn Engagement in Foe Advance With British Tanks Thru Fields of Grain

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
(CP War Correspondent.)

With the Canadians in France, Aug. 1, (CP Cable)—Western Canada infantry and the tanks of a famous British armored regiment fought today the strongly-defended hillside town of Tilly La Campagne, east of the Orne River and five miles south of Caen, today after a bitter pre-dawn engagement in thick fog.

(A Canadian report—from a Reuters correspondent said the Canadians withdrew from the town in the face of determined German counter attack.

The attack against this town, east of the Falaise Road and south of Caen, which the Canadians and Germans have been in and out of since the Normandy campaign began, opened shortly after 2.30 this morning under an artillery barrage and was supported by tanks.

Bitter Fighting Along Tracks.

The going has been hard and bitter fighting is continuing not only in the town but in the woods on the railway tracks west of the town. To reach the town the Canadians had to advance about 1,000 yards along a side road from the Caen-Falaise main highway. They pushed through grainfields alive with snipers and machine-gun nests in the vicious exchanges. The Canadians were subjected to heavy shelling mortar and machine-gun fire.

There were casualties among the forward companies which withdrew temporarily from the town and returned to the attack again.

The Canadians, in a counterbroek, Alta., who walked back two miles with two prisoners, German prisoners he had taken near his railway tracks, said "my bunch was pinned down all night and we just kept beginning to move now".

The Canadians, using grimy figures were standing beside a shotgun van. They were Pte. Jack Lee of Turner Valley, Alta., and John Norman of Calgary, Alta. Shave were caked with mud.

"It was tough going", said sandie-faced Lee. "But not as tough as our last show".

Private Wesley Grasfields.

He said the "bloody Germans" mortared the Canadians from the Canadians were advancing behind an artillery barrage. "They always let us have it when we reach their barrage ends and they let us have it".

Norman said the entire advance had been through thick, muddy grainfields which had ripened with the railway. The fog was so thick the troops had been able to advance right behind the artillery barrage. Battalion headquarters area and had taken some prisoners there.

One group of men who came out of the line said they had been so tired they could hardly drag their muddy feet along.

The men didn't even bother to remove their heavy web equipment but just dropped on the grass and sprawled exhausted on the ground.

Nazi Buzz-Bomb Passes Over Canadians, Wheels Back Over Huns

With the Canadians in France, Aug. 1—(CP Cable)—A Nazi buzz-bomb apparently aimed at the Canadian positions in the Caen area or at the town itself, boomed overhead today and then turned back the German lines.

Troops who heard about a hundred feet over our position," said Capt. C. G. Hunter of Calgary, Alta., "got down at it then the Germans took over as it crossed their lines. They had to be exploited with flak but failed and it crashed well inland."

2 Campbellford Men Send Cards From Japanese Prison Camps

Campbellford, Ont., Aug. 1 (CP)—Two Campbellford boys who were taken prisoners at Hong Kong have sent cards to relatives here from Shamshuipo prison camp, it was learned with the Quebec Royal Rifles.

A card from Pte. Fred MacArthur that was received by his family two years—said he was well and working every day. He said he made "a lot of friends with some Americans." His card was dated May 29, 1943. Pte. Reginald Moore wrote that he was well and hoped to see his family soon.

Last night Mrs. F. T. Aldcorn received a card from her son, Lieut. Basil Ste. Marie, Ont., and Quebec Rifles, a Japanese camp. It was the first word from him in two years. He was taken prisoner at Hong Kong.

Rundstedt, military administrator of occupied France, was reported to have been appointed following failure of the General's plot on Hitler's life. The underground report said Stauffenberg and Hoepner directed the arrest of Gen. Oberg, Chief of the Gestapo in France. The plan also ordered his release and return to Berlin the following day. The plot is dangerous. Stauffenberg then drove to Verdun and shot himself.

(This conflicted with an enemy radio report on July 25 saying Stauffenberg was injured seriously by terrorists.").

FO. H. Thompson Describes Attack On Five Vessels

London, July —(CP)— Burning debris was flung into the air and columns of blasting wreckage were seen floating in the water after a massive attack on small unidentified vessels off Calais by a Canadian-manned Allescore R. B. F. Fighter-Bomber wing, Oct. 27 set was blown up.

Sqdrn. Ldr. J. T. Davis, D. F. C., of Como, Que., was the pilot, and his navigator, Flt. N. J. Thompson, D. F. C., of Geiert, Ont., said it was "just light enough for us to spot the ships and dark enough for us to catch them napping."

Thompson added: "They put up no defence worth mentioning. Our bombs burst right over one of them and it blew up as we passed over it. The next blasted it. In places and burning wreckage was flung in all directions."

CIGARETTES HELP BOOST MORALE OF OUR TROOPS

Boys on Fighting Fronts Say Canadian Fags Are of Great Moral Support

"Canadian cigarettes surely help to boost the morale of our boys which means a great deal in any army," Gnr. E. Roberts, formerly of this city, replied to the Kinsmen Club for smokes he received while on active duty in Italy.

From the battlefields of Normandy Murray Mitchell wrote to add a similar note, Captain Mitchell wrote to Chairman Kin Buster LaBarr something as follows: "The Kinsmen are certainly doing a much appreciated service for the Belleville lads in the services in the provision of regular shipments of cigarettes." Scores of other such letters were received weekly not only by the Kinsmen Fag Fund, but other such groups who today are endeavouring to keep our men in the armed services overseas supplied with smokes. This can only be achieved by the co-operation of the entire community.

Only recently Chairman LaBarr received a cheque for five ($5.00) from a party in Washington, D.C., who had heard of the work of the Kinsmen Fag Fund of Belleville, Ont. Naturally the contribution was quite acceptable.

The list of Belleville boys to be send individual parcels of 300 cigarettes each through the Kinsmen Fag Fund this week are:

Third Reading Given Bill Stabilizing Prices

Ottawa, Aug. 1. (CP) —The Commons yesterday gave third reading without division to the government's bill providing for machinery that would keep the prices of farm products on a stabilized level during the period of transition from war to peace.

The reading was given after a Progressive Conservative amendment moved by R. R. Fraser (PC-Qu'Appelle) was rejected. The amendment suggested any profits made by the government be distributed to farmers through participation certificates.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the amendment would have made the bill unworkable. It was unlikely that any profit would be made by the three-man board which would supervise stabilization of prices. However, if the Board made a profit of only $1,000, the amendment would dilute the profit among all the farmers who had sold products to the Board.

Farmers would only sell their products to the Board when they could not obtain from someone else the price offered by the Board.

Resources Minister Crerar said the amendment would mean that any profit made by the Board would go to the farmer, while any loss suffered by the Board would have to come out of the taxpayers' pocket.

P.E. Wright (CCF—Melfort) said the government apparently was intending to set floor prices at a level at which it was certain the Board would not take a loss.

Mr. Gardiner said the government's intention was to set up a Board that would pay farmers a price so high that no one else would pay it. Farmers would be allowed to sell their products where ever they could make the most profit.

When farmers reached the point where they could not sell elsewhere at a profit they could sell their products to the Board which would pay a price higher than average.

Crew of Liberty Ship Slain By Jap Sub Seamen

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Roy Porter of NBC broadcast today from Chungking, China, a story of the sinking of about three quarters of the crew of a U.S. Liberty ship in the Indian Ocean in mid-June by gunmen of a Japanese submarine.

Porter said the story was submitted by an American who recently arrived in China, about 25 crew members of the ship, only 23 were saved after hospitalization following their rescue by a U.S. scouting plane.

According to the story, Porter said, the American ship was first torpedoed, the crew taking to lifeboats. Then the enemy sub surfaced and ordered all the Americans to the foredeck, where they were beaten and tortured, their hands tied behind their backs. Many were killed and their bodies kicked overboard, Porter added. The crazy ended only when a scout plane approached and the Japanese vessel submerged, leaving the surviving seamen threshing in the water, their hands still tied.

FRANKFORD

Presentation To Newlyweds

Frankford—On Wednesday evening last a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers to honor Mrs. Rogers nee Nieger' brother and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers, who were married recently. Mr. Geo. Sine acted as master of ceremonies for the evening. After a social hour the bride was presented with the guests of honor, Mrs. Harry Montgomery, on behalf of the group, in better presenting the bride and groom, with a miscellaneous shower. The many lovely gifts included cutlery, dishes and towels and a table lamp. In a few words Mr. and Mrs. Rogers thanked the group for the gifts and expressed the hope that they would all visit them in their new home. Everyone joined in the singing of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows". Lunch was served bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

Birthday Celebration.

A number of friends of Miss Nita Woods were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slingerland on Wednesday evening last in honor of her fifteenth birthday. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Slingerland and Phyllis and Mr. Donald Cherry of Belleville, the following young ladies were present for the occasion: Miss Phyllis Sherwood, Laura Kellar, Miss Jean Reid, and Miss Geraldine Hine. Gifts received included handkerchiefs, silhouette pictures, glass bed lamp and shade and a pedal done by Mr. H. Slingerland and other numerous articles. A large number of cards were also received from friends on this happy anniversary.

The evening was spent in playing games and everyone enjoyed the social time spent with the guest of honor.

1,000 Men, Zoot-Suit Civilians, Merchant Seamen in Street Fight

Vancouver, July 31 (CP)—A mob numbering fantastically 1,000 civilians and merchant seamen engaged in a brief rough-and-tumble fight in the streets of downtown Seattle late last night, but civilian and military authorities succeeded in quelling the disturbance before any serious injuries were suffered.

Five squad cars of civilian police and all available military and naval police units rushed out to quell the riot.

The melee followed less than 24 hours after a fight at a nearby intersection in which civilians described by officers as "zoot-suiters" had battled merchant sailors in front of a cafe. More than 200 persons were reported to have participated in this second fight.

No arrests were made in either incident, and minor injuries were suffered in both fights, often flying fists and feet.

Police said trouble had been brewing for a week since a merchant seaman, allegedly been knocked unconscious in a row with one of the zoot-suiters.

DATE OF SHOWER DRAW POSTPONED TO SEPT.

The draw for 40 prizes offered in the recent Linen Shower for warriors Russia will be held sometime in September.

The date has been postponed from August 15, as it was at first announced by the Linen Shower committee of the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund.

"We have been requested to advance the date of the draw," explained Mr. J. C. Creed, provincial chairman, "because so many more groups than we expected have taken part in the campaign, and we cannot compete the clerical and other work that is involved for the draw to be held on the announced date."

"Our linen shower has been a marvellous success," Mr. Creed announced. "Almost every type of citizens' organization is represented in it. The people of Ontario have been most generous in their donations of good bedclothes and we shall be able to ship close to two carloads to the suffering people in liberated areas on the great Russian front."

"We are now baling these gifts for shipping," he stated, "and we are assured they will be distributed to the needy people in the Soviet Union long before the cold weather sets in." The donors can imagine how welcome their gifts will be to the families in the devastated areas. These welcome gifts will strengthen the bonds of unity and friendship with our gallant Russian allies. The Canadian Aid to Russia Fund is most grateful to all who helped to make this campaign a success."

Activity Light On Canadian Front In Normandy

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
(CP War Correspondent)

With the Canadians in France, July 31 — (CP-Cable) — Activity along the Canadian front south of Caen during last night and this morning was confined to patrol activity by our troops, some spasmodic shelling and mortaring by the enemy.

Gunboat and Western troops in the Andrew-sur-Orne, five miles southwest of Caen, were heavily engaged by enemy rocket mortars for a time last night. Canadian artillery replied by knocking down half the spire of a church in Secqueaurcourt, seven miles south of Caen, which, they claimed, was being used as an observation post.

East of Verrieres, which is 5 miles south of Caen," Ontario troops drove five Nazi snipers from their dug-out positions.

TURKEY BREAKS RELATIONS WITH GERMANY

British Smash Through Centre of German Line

Berlin Says Act Must Be Regarded As Prelude to War

Premier Saracoglu Says Break Set for Midnight

By FRANK O'BRIEN, AP STAFF WRITER

Ankara, Turkey, Aug. 2 —(AP)— Prime Minister Sukru Saracoglu told the Turkish Grand National Assembly today that Turkey was breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany effective at midnight tonight.

It was a step which many considered a prelude to a state of war with the Axis. Berlin broadcasts declared the action "must be regarded as a prelude to war."

This setback for Hitler on the Balkan flank followed swiftly upon a governmental shift in Helsinki which was believed the first step toward taking Finland out of the war as a co-belligerent of Germany. This shift moved Premier Jukho Kusti Paasikivi into the cabinet as Minister without portfolio, and Carl Gustaf Mannerheim to the presidency to succeed J. Risto Ryti, resigned.

Turkey's severance of ties with Germany was declared by the Turkish home radio and was confirmed almost immediately by Berlin broadcasts.

Premier Sukru Saracoglu announced the cabinet's decision to make the break, telling the National Assembly that it had been requested by Britain, with United States support. The Assembly promptly ratified the decision.

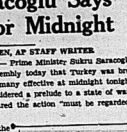
Blackouts already have been ordered for Turkey's Black Sea and Mediterranean coasts, effective either tonight or tomorrow night.

In the words of one person close to the Axis, Germans in Turkey are "packed and sitting on their baggage" and there was general belief Germain Ambassador Von Papen would be handed his passport immediately.

Whether a break in diplomatic relations would be followed by Turkish grants of air bases to the Allies is a subject upon which Turkish officials remained rigidly silent.

A BBC broadcast heard by NBC said the Turkish government had ordered all Turkish ships in Bulgarian and Romanian ports to return to Turkey immediately.

British Freeze Aid.



British had promised Turkey "economic and financial help and war equipment," Saracoglu told Premier said, "to meet the difficulties which would arise" from the action.

Speaking before 413 delegates of the Assembly, Saracoglu said this step did not mean that Turkey would enter the war, but that it was a possibility which would depend on the attitude of the other side."

The premier also declared that Turkey, which has more than 1,000,000 trained soldiers, would enter the fight only if Germany started hostile action.

Mr. Saracoglu said that British, United States and Russian radio commentator declared.

PREMIER SARACOGLU OF TURKEY

with United States support, had urged Turkey "within the limits of our agreement, (mutual assistance alliance) to break diplomatic and economic relations"—with Germany.

Make Blow to Germany

The break—a major blow to German prestige — may have an important effect upon shaky Balkan satellites, particularly Bulgaria, which has shown increasing indications recently of desiring to leave the company of Germany and move closer to Russia.

Turkish trade with Germany is already drastically reduced. It cut off shipments of chrome several months ago, and Germany's chief materials as cotton, copper, flah, oil-seeds and mohair now still be barred.

The Axis had wind of the move before it was taken. Berlin broadcasters had warned the Turks that a break in diplomatic and economic relations would mean war.

The leadership of war-weary Finland also appeared certain. The assumption of the presidency by Mannerheim, Finnish commander-in-Chief, was regarded as the first step toward the formation of a peace government.

"The brotherhood in arms will be still closer in the future," one Nazi radio commentator declared.

Nineteen Canadian Soldiers Were Brutally Murdered King Tells House

Ottawa, Aug. 2 (CP)—Nineteen Canadian soldiers were "brutally murdered" by Nazi SS troops in Normandy, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today in the Commons.

Mr. King said a court of inquiry had been conveyed by the Canadian and United States armies and that it was found that one officer and 18 men who had been taken prisoner were murdered by members of the 12th SS Battalion of the 12th SS Ranger Division under the direction of their officers.

Mr. King said there was "no doubt that they met their death under conditions clearly in violation" of international law.

Other commonwealth governments and the United States and the Swiss government to demand that the German government make an immediate and searching investigation of the circumstances and issue strict orders that those responsible be punished.

The Prime Minister urged there be no discussion on such a delicate matter, but added that the next-of-kin had been notified, but the names would not be published.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader said all parties were shocked "to keep quiet under such circumstances.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said he joined in protest over the murder of the Canadian soldiers.

Text of Mr. King's statement follows:

Mr. Speaker, I would ask for the attention of the House to a statement that I am about to make. It is my sad duty this morning to inform honorable members of the circumstances in which 19 members of the Canadian forces were killed in Normandy. What I have to say is apart altogether from any other matter of a like nature to which I have previously made reference.

On the early days of the invasion it was reported to the supreme commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force that some Canadian soldiers had been shot after capture by the enemy. At the request of the Canadian commander, a court of inquiry composed of officers of the British, United States and Canadian armies was promptly convened.

That court has now reported, after most careful investigations,

TRAP CLOSED ON GERMAN ARMIES IN BALTIC STATES

Swift Russ Plunge To the Baltic Sea Places 300,000 Men In Jeopardy

WARSAW BATTLE RAGES

By EDDY GILMORE
(AP Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 3 — (AP)—Thousands of Germans trapped in Latvia and Estonia by the Russian plunge to the Baltic Sea 30 miles west of Riga thrashed at the Russian noose today while other Nazis fought violently on a 20-mile suburban arc in defence of besieged Warsaw.

Northeast of the invested Polish capital, Soviet Marshal Rokossovsky reopened a huge drive toward East Prussia on a 200-mile front, striking within 10 miles of the pre-war frontier of the flank of the Junkers.

(The German broadcast heard in London suggested that Russian troops were pouring across the broad and swift Vistula river south of Warsaw, asserting that Nazi planes "sank on the Vistula the Soviet ferries crammed with troops." The communique said: "Fierce defensive fighting" was continuing on the approaches of Pan Prussia between Warsaw and eight miles from the frontier, and the Memel river. The Germans acknowledged loss of Kalvaria, Jelgava and Wilkowischken in Latvia and said they recaptured Birsen. Fighting still was reported against a Russian bridgehead over the Vistula at Baranow and Soviet-Combined Russian advances toward the Beskid Pass through the Carpathians to Czecho-Slovakia were reported.)

The German 16th and 18th armies have been operating in the Baltic States and that's why spoils of the drive to the sea west of Riga, Moscow estimated at 30 divisions of perhaps 300,000 men, there was no official estimate of the number of prisoners nor of the booty in the size of South Carolina.

The Red Army had cut and was astride all railroads and highways leading from the Baltic States to East Prussia. From Tukums on the coastal railroad, Gen. Ivan Bagramian's Baltic Army group fanned out rapidly in three directions: 1. Dashing less than 9 miles from the Riga itself; 2. Northward along the Gulf of Riga; and 3) Toward Valga to be part of a belt 30 miles east, Ventspils and Mazirbe.

Only the sea was left as an escape route for the trapped Germans, but the Soviet fleet and Russian air force menaced this avenue. Front dispatches indicated it may be only a matter of days until the enemy is wiped out in Latvia and Estonia.

Four Russian armies now are closing in on the isolated Germans. The 24-hour midnight communique announcing the plunge to the coast, foretold "German disaster" in a single sentence:

"Thus our troops have cut all roads leading from the Baltic to East Prussia."

King Decorates Maj. Mahony, VC

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Correspondent

With the Canadian Corps in Italy, July 31—(delayed)—(CP Cable)—King George of Britain today personally decorated Major John Mahony of Montreal and New Westminster, B. C., with the Victoria Cross.

The presentation took place before troops fully representative of the Canadian Corps assembled on a parade ground which a few months ago was an operational airfield. Pathe De Royal Diaz in the centre of the field, drawn up three deep in a line almost half a mile long, were the Royal 22nd Regiment, Princess of Major Paul Triquet, V. C., who attended the ceremony in Normandy, and Lieutenant-Colonel Mahony's unit and the British Regiment of Canada, a Toronto unit.

Axis Armies Recoiling On All Battlefronts Before United Nations

—Churchill

By LEWIS HAWKINS, AP STAFF WRITER

London, Aug. 2 —(AP)— Prime Minister Churchill said today he felt that the final end, of the war against the Axis would come sooner, perhaps much sooner, than he once expected.

"On every battle front all over the world," he told the House of Commons, "the armies of Germany and Japan are recoiling . . . I am increasingly led to feel that the interval between the defeat of Hitler and the defeat of Japan will be shorter—perhaps much shorter—than I had at one time supposed."

He mentioned no dates. But, confident and cheerful, he sketched bright pictures of the present and approaching victory. He spoke one hour and 45 minutes before the House, which has just voted itself a seven-week holiday.

Aside from the Japanese reference, the most definite statement he made on this score was: Victory May Perhaps Come Soon.

"I fear greatly," the ruling of false hopes, but I no longer feel bound to defer all victory until come perhaps soon."

In the same vein he said that "one cannot take more than a sweeping glance of the world wars as it passes before perhaps its fifth year and as it approaches perhaps its closing stage."

The Prime Minister disclosed that the Normandy invasion and the coordinated Red army offensive resulted from air agreement with President Stalin at Teheran.

Speaking of the Normandy fighting, he said: "Our combined with the British forces, had taken four full share in the most prolonged conflicts."

"We have fulfilled five indispensable part which was assigned to us by the supreme commander and his deputy, General Montgomery," he added. "Losses of the British and Canadian forces together were about equal to those of the United States forces in proportion to the relative strengths . . . It has been also a great help to us that good fortune and bad all along the front."

The news from, Normandy, he told a cheering House, is "prodigious, is extremely good and "the first American army advancing down the Cherbourg peninsula will be approaching the important city of Coutances. Besides, about halfway across the base of the Brest peninsula."

Of Italy he said: "We may hope that operations of the utmost vigor will be continued by General Alexander (Allied commander in chief) and his army group commanders, Lemer and Autumn".

But he added that while things were going well there, "it is the Russian front which is the main theatre of war, and where the most work tearing the guts of the Germany army".

Stalin Praised.

He said the invasion of Normandy in June 6 had been "a prelude to the Stalin at Tehran that such a plan should be the crowning operation of the end of May or the beginning of June.

The Soviet leader promised in return, Mr. Churchill said, "that the whole of the German armies would be thrown, as indeed they have been, into the general battle in the east."

Other highlights from the Prime Minister's war summary:

1—I am increasingly led to feel that the interval between the defeat of Hitler and the defeat of Japan will be shorter—perhaps much shorter—than I had at one time supposed."

2—The United States navy alone is already double the size of the navy's and the British fleet in Atlantic waters will be greatly strengthened by the end of the year.

3—American and British-Canadian bombing has "enormously increased" strength in the invasion or Normandy, but the United States forces now are larger. "We have inflicted losses on the enemy about double those which we have suffered ourselves".

The critics of British tanks, he said both the Cromwell and the American Sherman are excellent and "the notorious Churchill", he said, thickly skinned 60-tonner, is coming into its own.

5—The Germans were warned that the only result of their Indiscriminate use of rocket bombs "has been to increase the terror and more destructive —will be that their launching sites and the weapons have been struck from their hands by our fighting men will be appreciably increased".

Turkish Situation.

Mr. Churchill confirmed Turkish severance of diplomatic and economic ties with Germany and said that it the Axis struck at Turkey "we shall make common cause with her and take the German menace as well as we can in our stride".

Mr. Churchill declared that the Polish Government in exile in Moscow, he said it would be a marvelous thing if a fusion of rival Polish forces could be proclaimed "when we believe is being liberated by the bravery of the Russian armies."

He said the Allies were in silling irresistibly into new and secure foundations".

The Prime Minister touched lightly upon internal difficulties of Germany, but said these "must shock to the foundations the confidence of the people and the loyalty of the armies".

He said that Ambassador Frank Von Papen, who failed in the assassination plot, "may reemerge, might now be returned to Berlin "to take part in the blood bath that he so largely helped to bring Hitler's hands in an earlier period".

Mr. Churchill said that Germany fleet in the Arctic waters would be greatly strengthened by the end of the year and expressed belief that the interval between the defeat of Hitler and the defeat of Japan "will be shorter—perhaps much shorter—than I had at one time supposed."

Telling of the plan to augment British Asiatic naval forces, he said: "It is probable, however, that the Japanese fleet will have its time taken up with the navy of the United States against it already double the size of that presumptive power."

Mr. Churchill said he did not underrate the task of France "could have been executed any earlier."

"We had not the tackle," he said.

Mr. Churchill asserted Gen. Eisenhower "has a genius for bringing all his allies together and welding them himself an Allied as well as a United States commander."

Germany Increases Steadily.

"In the air, on the sea and under the sea," he said, "the German enemy increases with steady increase." Mr. Churchill declared:

Perhaps Earlier.

"I am increasingly led to feel that the interval between the defeat of Hitler and the defeat of Japan will be shorter—perhaps much shorter—than I had at one time supposed."

He added that the American fleet in the Burma now is carrying far more tonnage than ever before. Finally, he said, with the navy of the United States against it already double the size of that presumptuous power."

RUSSIA REPORTED READY TO ACCEPT NEW FINN PLEA

Believed Assurances Given Which Would Guarantee Finn Independence

CONTACTED WEEK AGO

Stockholm, Aug. 2 — (AP)—Marshal Baron Mannerheim, Finland's new president, was believed today to have received Russian assurances that Moscow compared to consider a new Finnish application for armistice which would guarantee Finland's independence.

It was learned reliably that the assurances were given the Finnish commander-in-chief even before he assumed the presidency from the resigned pro-German, Risto Ryti.

A source whose information on events in Finland usually has proved up to the minute expressed belief that contact was made with Moscow probably more than a week ago, through Swedish intermediaries.

"It is my impression that the Russians said they were willing to consider a new application for an armistice, and still were prepared to respect Finland's independence," he said.

"I imagine Moscow set as a requirement that Finland declare her intention to capitulate, after which the Russians would be willing to receive a delegation to discuss what this would mean in practice."

More German troops were reported leaving Finland, and a usually reliable Stockholm informant considered that this development was "not unlikely."

COMMONS RECESS UNTIL SEPT. 26

Eden Assures No Peace Made With Germany In Next Two Weeks Though Liberty Might Surrender

London, Aug. 2. (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden assured the House of Commons today there would be no peace made with Germany in the next seven weeks—although the liberty of Europe might be ended the enemy might surrender in that period.

Mr. Eden spoke after John Lewis, (Labor) opposed a government motion for a commons recess until Sept. 26, said if the Allies were to "dictate peace" to Germany, the Government then would make peace with the German people, "but that sort of peace they would make.

Mr. Lewis declared:

"You need not be anxious. There is not the least risk of anything like that happening. You are really confusing two different things—the surrender of the armies and the end of the peace which are altogether later stage than the surrender."

After two hours of debate, Commons agreed on the recess until Sept. 26.

58,000 IPRISONERS IN JULY

London, Aug. 2 —(CP)— War Secretary Sir James Grigg announced in the House of Commons today that in the 30 days ending July 26, 50,000 prisoners of war had been taken in Normandy, 3,000 in Normandy and Italy, including two generals, and one admiral captured in Normandy.

He said he had nothing to add to the figures of July 225 of the number of the enemy dead, when he revealed it was estimated that 29,000 Germans had been killed and 57,750 captured by Normandy up to July 18th.

Sir James said it was intended to increase the number of war correspondents in France as facilities were expanded.

Second Normandy Debacle Threatens Von Kluge's Army

Isolation and Capture Of Brittany Within Sight

By GLADWIN HILL, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 2 —(AP)— The British 2nd Army has broken through the centre of the German line, threatening to cruel Mont Pincon massif and force the high ground south of Caen in a second great Normandy debacle, field dispatches announced today.

To the south, American spearheads knifed through German resistance colt as butler toward a "second Cherbourg"—isolation and capture of the Brittany peninsula with its two big ports of Brest and St. Nazaire.

30 Miles Penn Rennes.

Fanning out through Pontorson, 13 miles southeast of Avranches, American armored nd infantry columns were within 30 miles of Rennes in the centre of the Brittany peninsula — baseline and the provincial capital.

(Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons the American cans "might well be approaching Rennes.")

Although the Brittany peninsula is 100 miles wide, 150 miles long and roughly shaped, times as big as the Cherbourg peninsula, its reduction was preceding at a faster clip.

The break in the centre of the Germans' line by LA.-Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's British 1ehesters-ed to engulf the remainder of enemy defences which had suffered the loss of 20,000 prisoners in a week and the destruction or near destruction of a dozen divisions.

No Change on Canadian Front.

Positions were unchanged on the Canadian front in the Orne Valley where the Germans were strongly reinforced with tanks on Tilly la Campagne, south of Caen.

Another front dispatch said German troops were stumbling back in retreat north of Villers-Bocage, the keystone of the enemy defence perimeter in the Caumont sector. One south of Caumont British armored patrols were dashing between the Caumont and Tessy Bocage British tanks seized a "sausage" hill 206, simultaneously other British troops fighting south map stormed and captured Hill 361 and Hill 309, highest ground in the area, gained all the high ground east of Tessy Bocage. Field dispatches said the enemy might surrender in that period.

Mr. Eden spoke after John Lewis, (Labor) opposed a government motion for a commons recess until Sept. 26, said if the Allies were to "dictate peace" to Germany, then Government then would make peace with the German people, "but that sort of peace they would make.

Mr. Lewis declared:

Post-War Plan Talks To Open With 'Big Four'

Washington, Aug. 2 (CP) — The United States will open post-war peace planning talks here with representatives of Britain and the Soviet Union Monday, Secretary of State Hull announced. Britain and the United States will hold similar discussions with China.

Stettinius said he had heard that immediately after, Britain, Russia and China will hold a similar conference in London, with some small amendments to all the others.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull will be the official host but the American delegation will be headed by Edward R. Stettinius, his assistant secretary.

The British delegation will be headed by Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent British secretary for Foreign Affairs who was with his departmental chief, Foreign Secretary Eden, at the Quebec conference in August.

Canada will not attend the same meetings as China since Russia is not at war with Japan.

Therefore the conference will alternate with the United States, Britain, Russia and China, with the United States, United Kingdom and China. But the objective will be the same, to plan a modern counterpart of the League of Nations which will make future aggression impossible.

12 French Bridges Blasted To Cut Hun Supply and Escape Routes

London, Aug. 2 (CP)—Almost all Allied aircraft based in both British and Italy remained grounded last night because of bad weather but pilots promised to improve today in time to enable Allied airmen to return to systematic attacks on the German forces being rolled back in Normandy.

Twelve bridges—most of them rail bridges—over the Seine, Loire, Rhone and Eure rivers,—were blasted yesterday as the Allied air force launched the tactical air force in cutting off routes of supplies and reinforcements or mauled German troops and at the same time reducing their avenues of escape.

The heavies also bombed five enemy flakbar bases in a 180-mile long area stretching below Paris from Melun to Tours, and an oil dump at Rouen, Mediums and light bombers hit a fuel dump at St. Malo in the area ahead of American units in the Brest peninsula and an ammunition dump ahead of the British-Canadian sector southeast of Caen.

In another daylight operation yesterday Liberators and heavies attacked flying-bomb launching sites in the Pas De Calais area a few hours after a double-header blow at the same area by British heavies.

He was awarded by his wife who resides on Dundas Street, a member of the Order of the British Empire. Mrs. Scott received the news this afternoon. Wing Commander Scott has been overseas in England for the past three years.

2.84 IN. RAIN FELL DURING MONTH OF JULY

Despite the popular conception that there was considerable rainfall received during July, only 2.8 inches of rain fell during the past month, it was reported today by officials at the Belleville Water Purification Plant, who keep complete weather statistics. However, there was precipitation on twelve days during the month of July, starting with rainfall on ten days for the corresponding period in 1943. In July last year there was 2.78 inches of rain received.

Temperatures for the two periods also were practically the same with the high temperature reading for the month just closed being 91 degrees as compared with 90 degrees for July, last year. Minimum temperature for July this year was 41 degrees as compared with a reading of 46 degrees for the corresponding period in 1943.

C.N.R. EMPLOYEE HURT IN ACCIDENT

Injured about the chest when struck with a piece of steel, and suffering with possible fractured ribs, Mr. Harry Hamilton, 5, Selby Village, employee of the stores department with the Canadian National Railways, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital, Tuesday noon. Circumstances surrounding the accident were not learned but it was reported by the attending physician, Dr. Van Blaricom, that Mr. Allison was not seriously injured and that he had spent a fairly comfortable night.

HELD ON CHARGE OF ENTERING

Belleville police today are holding William Van Norman, of this city, on a charge of breaking and entering Armour Bennett's barber shop, Front Street, and stealing cash therefrom. Van Norman was originally apprehended by the Provincial Police for questioning, but during the period of detention at the police station Inspector Hayes also questioned Van Norman following which police allege the above charge. He is being held in custody and without bail.

NO ONE INJURED IN COLLISION

Fortunately no person sustained injuries during an automobile-motorcycle collision on the north approach of the upper bridge early last evening. The motorcycle was being ridden south by Mervyn Burkholder, 21 Ontario Street, while the car driven was driven by Frank Tom, 19 West Bridge Street. A pillion rider was hurled to the pavement but also escaped serious injury. Police investigating have reported the damages was negligible.

ROB CLOTHESLINE OF SOME ARTICLES

Clothesline thieves were reported active in the West Belleville district the other night for the first time in some considerable period. The early articles reported missing were some ladies' clothing.

Tribute Paid to Air Cadet Instructor

If members of the Belleville air cadets show unusual ability with their knots and splices, they are especially adept at various forms of signalling, full measure of credit is due the hard working signalling instructor of the local squadron, Mr. J. W. McKay. Mr. McKay is a local inspector for the Department of Trade and Commerce, electric and gas division.

Veteran of the last war, Mr. McKay has been associated with the local air cadets since their inception, his thorough knowledge of signalling serving the boys in good stead. In addition he is well versed in the intricacies of all types of knots and splices and passes this training on to the boys under him with their becoming associated with the corps.

And he does not consider his duties completely accomplished through mere attendance on regular training nights. His interest in the boys goes much further. Last year all but spent two entire ten-day camping period with the local air cadet squadron, while this year he attended the special instructors' course at Bourke, and also the ten-day camp at Hagersville.

"There was never a more conscientious instructor with our cadet corps," commented Commanding Officer Dawson Bond of the local air cadet squadron, as he paid tribute to the work of Mr. McKay. "He really is a great asset to the local cadets."

Creaking Rookies Bow to Youth Of Agile Kut-ups

Kinsmen in Great Numbers Come From Behind to Win From Rotary 16-14

Veni, Vidi, and they nearly won the game. The story of their stand will go down in the archives with the Siege of Moscow, Shannonville Fair and the Fast on the Delaware.

Nine Rotary Rookies, only relics of schoolboy days, left off seventy-five Kinsmen Kut-up beardlings but failed to turn back the determined onslaught on the old gent with the scythe and whiskers, and were downed in fighting by a 16-14 score, after leading throughout the entire game.

Manager Matt (Lone Ranger) Currie wept crocodile tears for the innings. His cohorts absorbed gallons of the lachiest fluid they ever set to earnestly for. The Babies of Britain whimpered above the precious drops of rolling salt even Schwab (The Voice) emerged from his Montreal underground grotto to empire State and sniff the breeze of Kut-up defeat, but scathingly walk away from it and dashed back to hibernate for another six months.

Reading Lucky Sarty.

There was dismay in the Kut-Up camp when the gun pounded out a chorus of clouts that rained over the premises during the first and third innings like the dew over Dixie, Jed in the Empire State, Turner, and Stan (Hand Grenade) Hagerman, the refugees from the Mayor's office, were found around the bases like whirlaway in a workout. Even Bobby Goode's runners trotted unconcernedly around. Mayor Harry Clarke (Old Rollins platter while the Kanlankerous Kut-ups, tears and chagrin trickling down their beardless countenances dashed to the sidelines and wept copiously on the bosoms of wives and mothers.

Kut-up Kapers

Fifth inning the score was Rookies 16, Kinsmen 14. But it-this point the Old Gent with the Scythe and facial spinach climbed into the ring as the 3rd man. Creaking Rookie joints creaked louder. The legs that were the pride of the district when the first Canadian soccer team left for the Boer War began to wobble. Arms that waved flags during the early days of the Kaiser's war, the Rookies stood their ground. Their only disastrous stick with the aging ones in front by three runs. Four batsmen left on the bases. Complete impasticity for the "kill."

The Lone Ranger in dying moments of despair tossed in his super flinging ace. Ted (The Killer) Pulwell. The Rookies faintly fanned the breeze and the battle was over. Last Lap Lou Gehrig entered the battled dishes in Napanee.

The score:

	R	H	E
Rookies	407 030 0—14	16	8
Kut-ups	101 275 2—16	14	4

Umpires: Mayor (Time Out) Rollins, plate; Aubrey (Two bits or yours out) Coe.

Paratrooper L. Reid Reported Missing

Member of a Canadian paratroop unit, Pte. Lawrence E. Reid, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reid, 25 Grier Street, is reported missing in action. His parents have been informed. He is one of three Reid brothers overseas.

Born at Maynooth in North Hastings, Pte. Reid enlisted in December 1942 while living in Vancouver and later transferred to the paratroop section. He went overseas in July, 1943, and was last heard from in Sicily. He is reported missing in the invasion of Normandy. Notification was received by the parents that he had been killed in action but this was later changed to "missing" with the possibility he had been made prisoner by the Germans.

A second son of Mr. and Mrs. Reid, Pte. Elgie Reid, is in Normandy, at present in hospital in the United Kingdom recovering. The third son, Edwin, is still in England.

One Communique To Be Issued Daily For Normandy Front

C. H. Wilson Wins First Place In Crop Competition

C. H. Wilson, Fuzboro farmer, finished in first place in an entry list of twenty-one in the Field Crop Competition sponsored by the Belleville Agricultural Society, according to results released today by secretary Eric Denyes. Grain judged in the competition consisted of Alsike, Timothy and Cartier oats.

The first eight competitors listed in the judging were recipients of cash prizes, which are now in the hands of the secretary. Prize winning competitors included besides Mr. Wilson, who garnered 98 points out of a possible 100, Messrs. Clem Ketcheson, Foxboro, 97; Stanley Eggleston, Belleville, R.R. 4, 97; Harry Ketcheson, Holloway, 95; David Mallinger, Stirling R.R. 4, 95; Joseph Porsteill, Shannonville R.R. 1, 93; J. F. Treverton and Son, Ketcheson, 92; and James Barber, Belleville R.R. 4, 91.

Scoring was done on purity or variety; freedom from other grains; freedom from noxious weeds; stand of crop and uniformity of growth and maturity.

Mr. Ralph Mahaffy, Northumberland County agricultural representative was the judge for the competition. Scoring he stated, was very close with the majority of the many of the contestants. The entry list was one of the largest in years and was a tribute of interest taken by district farmers not only in the Belleville Agricultural Society as well.

Some contestants lost points through grain being lodged, others by other causes and were scored. This was attributed by Mr. Banbury to the late spring and the heavy prevalence of heavy dews, but to the fact that spores were left on the crops of last year, when there was considerable rust apparent in grain crops.

Secretary Eric Denyes accompanied Mr. Banbury on his tour of judging.

Russ Ferry Pilots Good Sports Says American

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 2 — (CP) — The tenacity and fighting spirit of the Russian airmen are reflected in Soviet flyers who ferry fighters and bombers to the Soviet from land lease, Lt.-Col. Joseph H. Thompson, command, U.S. Army here.

Praise was given who have beaten the Germans in sky battles. Many are decorated heroes and are here on furlough from the fighting fronts.

Lieut. William T. Sledge, Kile, Tex., a special services officer, sums up his impressions of the Russian fliers this way: "I've found they are all very fine sports and gentlemen. They'll smile off a loss because they know they've put up a good fight. They never give up; they fight to the last ditch."

NINETEEN

that one Canadian officer and 18 Canadian other ranks, who had been taken prisoner by, and were in the custody of, the German army at the time Hitler's decree of July 12th 23, Reconnaissance Battalion of the 12th SS. Panzer Division, Hitler Youth, consisted of certain of their officers. These Canadian soldiers, by virtue of status of prisoners of war and as such were entitled to protection. This no doubt is why they met their deaths in a manner and under circumstances which are a flagrant flout of the well recognized laws and usages of war and of the Geneva and other international conventions on the treatment of prisoners of war.

In short, they were wilfully murdered by members of the enemy's forces.

The other governments of the Commonwealth have joined with the Canadian government in a request to the Soviet government that the results of the inquiry by the court be brought to the attention of the German government, that a demand be made on the German government for further search and searching investigation and that the German officers and men responsible be punished.

The governments of the Commonwealth have also asked the Swiss government to demand that the German government give immediate strict orders to prevent in future a repetition of such an occurrence.

As I have said we have put the findings of the court into the hands of the protecting power. We have asked them to take appropriate action in the circumstances. This is all that I am able to say on this subject at the moment. Nothing would please me than to usefully be said at this time and I hope honorable members will understand the desirability of avoiding unnecessary discussion.

I will conclude simply with the statement that this House humbly says its sincerest tribute to the valor and honor of the dead and expresses its deep and heartfelt sympathy to the families who have been so sadly bereaved. I may say that the full-text has not been published, but that no names are being published.

Jos. W. Imlah Dies Suddenly Of Heart Seizure

Believed to have been the victim of a heart attack, the late Mr. Imlah was found lying on a chesterfield where he had been resting, by Sidney Jones, his assistant, who was first to arrive. He had been working all day and had been feeling somewhat ill, but was not confined to bed.

A native of London, Ontario, Mr. Barclay came to Belleville seven years ago, and from that time has entered enthusiastically into service club and community work. A member of the Belleville Kiwanis club, he has been active in the civic welfare organization in 1941 and has been a prominent figure on county war loan committees and was for a time acting chairman. With 20 years' experience with the Dominion Post Office, Mr. Barclay goes to the Thunder Bay district well recommended and his many Belleville friends will regret his departure from this city.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

4,735 PERSONS KILLED IN BRITAIN BY ROBOT BOMBS

Nearly One Million Encouraged to Leave London Churchill Tells Commons

CASUALTY RATE DOWN

London, Aug. 3 (CP)—Flying bombs have killed 4,735 persons in Britain, Prime Minister Churchill said today.

Mr. Churchill told the House of Commons 14,000 had been injured and that 17,000 homes had been destroyed and 800,000 damaged since the German attacks began June 13.

The Prime Minister said nearly 1,000,000 persons had been encouraged to evacuate London to escape the blind bombardment from the French Calais coast, a type of attack which he declared has wrong" may be only the first phase of the desperate Nazi campaign of vengeance and slaughter.

On July 6, he disclosed that 2,752 persons had been killed and 8,900 injured by bombs launched in the first three weeks of the ordeal.

He said today that 5,340 bombs had been launched altogether with 2,793 during the first three weeks. Launching Rate Drops

This indicated that the rate of launchings had dropped appreciably and that the percentage of bombs destroyed before reaching populated areas has risen. So far as is known, the chief defence devices are bombings of its French launching sites, anti-aircraft and fighter plane fire and barrage balloons.

Mr. Churchill's figures showed that the rate of fatalities, compared to the number of bombs launched, had dropped somewhat.

"The only result of the use of this indiscriminate weapon so far as they (the Germans) are concerned will be that the punishment after their weapons have been struck from their hands by our victories on will be appreciably harder," Churchill declared grimly.

He warned again that there was a strong possibility that the flying bombs would be heavier and more destructive rockets against Britain. He advised those without wartime duties to leave London

Of No Military Importance

He declared that the bombs were of no military importance.

Between June 15 and July 31, the Prime Minister said, the explosive weight of the missiles launched against England totalled only 4,500 tons, while in the same period Allied planes dropped 48,000 tons of high explosive bombs on Germany.

The Prime Minister's total of 800,000 homes damaged apparently included those with windows broken and those otherwise hit by the blasts, which are felt over an extraordinarily wide area.

'What We Teach of History and Why' Theme of Address at Kiwanis Club

Members of the local Kiwanis club recalled school rooms they left some years ago when Monday noon at their regular weekly luncheon meeting the subject of "history" came up for discussion by the guest speaker, Mr. W. J. Morgson, superintendent of the local Ontario School for the Deaf.

Speaking on the subject "what we teach of History and Why", Mr. Morgson recalled well-remembered historical events and such colorful figures as Columbus and Jacques Cartier. He remained members of less remembered events leading up to Confederation and told why wars and interior developments had great influence upon history as taught in schools.

Much Thought Given to Subject.

He indicated educational authorities had given great thought to the question of what parts of history should be taught in schools, drawing attention of the fact that history can be very dull. "Boys and girls are interested only in what comes down to their level," he said, "and politics is not one of them.

Human interest stories of voyages and discoveries are used to teach because of student interest, but unwritten history is also recognized by such figures like Cartier or Columbus, of which appealing is the side of the child as a tale of Indian life.

Recently there was the question of what facts of history should be given, and the import may be assisted in later life. The basis of history teaching should be to choose subjects which would have influence. Pioneer history is given with the view of instilling in the minds of children the sacrifices of early residents. In such a way they may be assisted in overcoming later hardships in life.

Canadian History Wide in Scope.

Canadian history was termed by the speaker as wide in scope and difficult to teach. In this it must be localized to conform with interests in each particular section of the country. Realizing this, it would be difficult to compose a history suitable for national adoption.

"Canada has a great past; she is carrying her full weight in the present war, and will have a splendid future," concluded the speaker. "Any history of Canada should be such that it should stress the country's greatness."

Club business was confined mostly to reports of various committees on the progress in carnival plans and by the report of President Jack McVeigh of an inspirational tour of the recently acquired property at Robbin's Lake which will be used as a children's summer camp. President McVeigh asked that the value of the property in its intended use but advised members the club would be at considerable expense to suitably renovate the property.

The guest speaker was introduced by Norm Edwards and Kiwanian appreciations expressed by Bill Hopson.

Bills Advanced Through Commons Involve Hundreds of Millions

TOTAL $550,000,000

By FRANK FLEMMING
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 3—(CP)— Hundreds of millions of dollars were involved in bills which advanced through the Commons Tuesday.

After a series of sharp debates extending over several days, the family allowances bill received 3rd reading and was sent on to the Senate. It is estimated the net cost of paying allowances on account of all children under 16 will be about $300,000,000 a year.

Then after a brief discussion the House gave second reading which means approval in principal to the export credits insurance bill. That puts government guarantees behind the post-war export trade of Canada to the extent of $330,000,000 in three different ways, but does not necessarily involve any cash outlay or loss to the government.

There was no opposition to the family allowances bill on third reading or to the export credit insurance bill on second reading. The latter measure will be discussed further in committee of the whole today.

Senate Gov't. Corporation

It provides for the creation of a government corporation to insure exporters against failure to collect for goods shipped to other countries. The corporation will have a capital of $5,000,000 in shares to be owned by the government and may be loaned an additional $25,000,000. It is expected to operate on a cost basis without loss or profit.

To meet other export trade problems the bill authorizes the government to guarantee the credit of governments or government agencies in other countries in Canadian exporters to the extent of $200,000,000 and to make loans to governments or government agencies for the purchase of Canadian goods to the extent of $100,000,000.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) supported the measure but thought it contemplated a greater return to pre-war methods of conducting international trade than would occur. The international trade situation, he said, called for adoption of the C. C. F. proposal of import and export boards and continuation of the methods of planning and control which had been adopted during the war.

Bulk Birth Certificates Eventually.

Last-minute discussion of family allowances brought from Brooke Claxton, parliamentary assistant to the Prime Minister, the information that eventually birth certificates will be required for every child receiving the allowance.

The production of certificates, however, will not likely be required in the first instance since it is doubtful if the provincial governments have facilities for turning out more than 3,000,000 birth certificates in short order.

Each family unit will be a local office in each province for administration, and when local offices will open early in 1943 in order to get organized for the issue of allowance cheques next July.

Before the family allowances bill was resumed, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced that Canada would ask Britain and the United States to assume full cost of air ferry operations in Eastern Canada. The Dominion will pay $120,000,000 for the operations of the United States for outlays that country made on installations.

In making the announcement, Mr. King also disclosed the ramifications of the Canol project North-east Staging Route.

Sir Edward Beauman.

The House adopted on division a resolution to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of a full-time salaried chairman for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. members abstaining. Instead that appointment, would help improve radio service in Canada.

In regard to family allowances Mr. Claxton said he believed the country could carry the family allowances plan and other social services "and at the same time pay for the post-war rehabilitation and still reduce taxation "substantially."

No one could have any doubt that when war costs went down Canada would be left richer and still carry out its social security plans, he added.

He told Hon. G. Diefenbaker who questioned where the money was to come from, that he could "assure that, if events move as we hope and expect they will, the Government's expenditures on war account will be reduced substantially, by next year, we hope, next year and it will be possible to remove the excess tax and the surtaxes and at the same time pay for social legislation of the government without any difficulty."

The War Today—
Events of Diplomacy, Battlefield Signify Hitler's Doom Approaches

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Canadian Press War Analyst)

Two important events which are likely to hasten the Hitler's approaching collapse come out of the east European theatre of war. Turkey's importance of economic and diplomatic relations with the Reich, and the unexpected assumption by the Finnish presidency by Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim, reportedly with an eye to making peace with Russia.

Turkey's move means that the Nazi dictator's grip on the Balkans is slipping fast. The Turkish government says Germany's attitude will determine whether war follows between the two countries. Thus the Turks have declared themselves with blunt firmness. Irrespective of whether they enter the conflict actively, they may grant the Allies valuable air and naval bases.

Bulgaria Not Anxious

Efforts are that Bulgaria now may squirm out of Hitler's clutches. Bulgaria's dilemma is that she may cost the Fuehrer the entire peninsula if she remains loyal to him, or she may needed war supplies and foodstuffs and consequently Danubian bloc approach to Germany.

If Finland is indeed making an 11th hour rush for peace, it is clear recognition of the fact that the Nazi ship is sinking under them.

Important events often find strange bed-fellows in war and so we see another development of far different sort crowding in. That is the great fire which is sweeping Nazi-held Warsaw. Maybe I'm too imaginative, but to me the flames which are pouring out of the heart of the Polish capital tell a story of impending disaster for the Hitlerites.

What Loss of Warsaw Would Mean.

It's like this: The Germans are said to be burning parts of Warsaw in preparation for evacuation. Now the significance of this is that if they can't hold this city, which is the keystone of their powerful Vistula line of defence, they must abandon the line itself. That would mean the collapse of their whole eastern front in the near future, and set Hitler to fighting with his back to the wall of the Fatherland itself.

Just to complete a beautiful picture, we have the announcement by a German military spokesman in Berlin that American tanks have penetrated deep into the Nazi rear in Normandy and that in some places "the last semblance to a coherent front line has completely disappeared."

Rommel Suffered Brain Concussion
D.N.B. Dispatch Says

London, Aug. 2 — (CP) — A DNB dispatch broadcast from Berlin today confirmed that Marshal Erwin Rommel was injured in an Allied air attack in France July 17, but said he escaped with a brain concussion and his condition was satisfactory.

"His life is not endangered," the German broadcast declared.

Rommel was injured while driving in his car, the broadcast added.

This was the first German confirmation of reports received through front line dispatches in Normandy that Rommel had been injured. Some of the reports said he died later in a hospital.

D-Day Was V-Day For Russians And U.S. Fliers at Nome

(This story, telling of D-Day celebrations by Russia and American fliers at Nome, Alaska, was written by a Canadian press staff writer on a recent trip to Alaska).

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Nome, Alaska, Aug. 1 (CP)—D-Day was V-(for vodka)-day for Russian and American fliers at this base as the air transport command, United States army air forces, on the shore of the Bering Sea.

Since last June the Allies had invaded France, they turned this polyglot outpost base, 1,367 air miles northwest of Edmonton, into a bedlam of song and good fellowship.

Churchill was toasted—Stalin was toasted—Roosevelt was toasted. Britons, Russians and Americans were toasted. It was a "victory" party in huge letters.

Many stories are told of the D-Day party, but the most popular going the rounds centres around an American officer who "bottomed up" a large-size drink of vodka with a Russian friend.

Four Famous Canadian Regiments Disclosed as Having Been Engaged In Recent Fighting in Normandy

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the Canadians in France, Aug. 3.—(CP Cable)—Four famous Canadian regiments which were engaged in recent fighting in Normandy were the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regt.) of Canada, from Montreal, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry (Wentworth Regt.) the Calgary Highlanders and the Royal Regiment of Canada, a Toronto unit, it was permitted to disclose today.

The R. H. L. I. and the Royals were the first two Canadian regiments to be identified in Normandy where the Canadians and combined operations raid on Dieppe nearly two years ago.

Previously named in Normandy were the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, the South Saskatchewan Regiment of Weyburn, Sask., Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal, a French speaking unit from Montreal, and the Essex Scottish Regiment of Windsor, Ont.

At the Dieppe raid the Essex Scottish were brigaded with the R. H. L. I. and the Royals, the Black Watch, Camerons and other Canadian brigade which saw action that day. Both brigades were drawn from the Canadian 2nd Infantry Division.

In Normandy Only Few Weeks.

The four regiments whose names were disclosed today arrived in Normandy only a few weeks ago and have performed creditably in actions which gave them their battle honors.

The fighting in which some of these regiments participated has been about the fiercest the Canadians have seen since D-Day.

It was the Royals — The Royal Regiment of Canada—veterans of Dieppe, who advanced from La Mesnil, south of Caen, to capture Louvigny in a 12-hour fight that saw them push the Germans from that strongly-held small valley town and orchard. The Germans had good defensive positions behind the high stone walls of he orchard and-in a 17th century chateau they had once used as a hospital.

Verrieres, southernmost point to which the Canadians have advanced along the Caen-Falaise road, was taken by the Royal Canadian Infantry Regiment after French-speaking troops from Quebec had advanced to within towns immediately north of Verrieres.

Opening Battle in France.

The Black Watch and Calgary Highlanders fought their opening battle in France one week ago today around St. Andre-sur-Orne and at Martin de Fontenay. The battles were as tough as any Canadian troops have seen in Normandy and included bitter street fighting afterwards.

Other Canadian units previously identified as being in Normandy are:

1st Hussars, London, Ont.

The Sherbrooke Fusilier Regiment, Sherbrooke, Que.

The Winnipeg Grenadiers, Winnipeg.

Regina Rifles Regiment, Regina.

Canadian Scottish Regiment, Victoria.

Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Toronto.

Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, Cornwall, Ont.

North Nova Scotia Highlanders, Amherst, N. S.

Highland Light Infantry of Canada, Galt, Ont.

Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, Ottawa.

Fort Garry Horse, Winnipeg.

True beauty depends on youthful skin elasticity

14-DAY PALMOLIVE METHOD MAY IMPROVE YOUR SKIN

Compare face with shoulder skin. You'll find shoulders look "5" more years younger. That's because shoulder skin responds to its elasticity—while facial skin pores are clogged with make-up, unable to breathe for hours at a time. And when pores can't breathe skin starts to age prematurely. But Palmolive can help retain youthful elasticity in your skin.

Look younger in 14 days! Each night for 14 nights, (use a face cloth) massage warm, rich, vivifying Palmolive lather thoroughly into your skin for one full minute. Now a quick rinse and pat dry. Palmolive's 60-second Beauty Massage has been scientifically tested by 2,501 women and 36 doctors. Their reports prove conclusively that . . . in just 14 days . . . things lovelier complexions.

Enemy Resistance Most Desperate Against Canadians

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
(AP War Correspondent)

With Canadian Forces in France, Aug. 3 (AP)—Powerful elite German forces along the eastern hinge of the Allied line in France are offering the most desperate resistance of the whole campaign against Canadian troops trying to take Tilly La Campagne south of Caen.

The enemy command is hoarding this broad sector with not one "crust" but two—two broad belts of massed machine-guns, tanks, mortars and batteries of artillery.

Between these lines a third line of similar strength is being established.

In one of a series of attacks, Canadian infantry broke into Tilly by 10 a.m., yesterday, and had control of the town by early afternoon. During the night, the Germans came back with tanks as well as infantry and the Canadians were compelled to fall back.

Regular tanks were flung at the Allied troops, 12 at a time, and tank robot tanks. There also were 12 of these little counter-parts of the German Army. Six exploded as they were designed to do, at some fixed point of contact, remote control by Germans under Canadian fire.

PTE. JOHN ROBERTSON DIES OVERSEAS

Toronto, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Pte. John Ross Robertson, 26-year-old son of John Robertson of Toronto, died overseas July 28 while serving with the Royal Rifles of Canada, his father said last night.

Pte. Robertson was a nephew of Sam Robertson, superintendent of the London bureau of The Canadian Press, who said last week the Nerissa was sunk in the Atlantic two years ago.

MAGISTRATE INJURED

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 2. (CP) — Magistrate Jean E. Craig was admitted to the General Hospital here last night after he fell from the running board of a truck at nearby Erieau. He suffered back injuries.

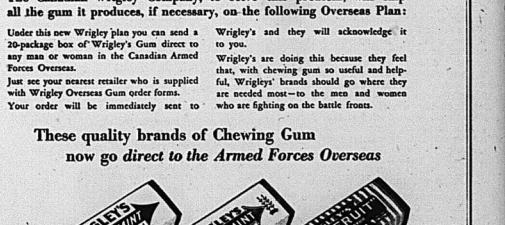
Now YOU can send a whole box of Wrigley's Gum to Canadians serving Overseas!

$1.00 IS ALL IT COSTS YOU TO SEND 20 PACKAGES TO ANYONE IN THE CANADIAN ARMED FORCES OVERSEAS WE DO THE PACKAGING . . . WE PAY THE POSTAGE

This announcement is of great importance to every Canadian with loved ones in the Armed Forces Overseas. For some time the Canadian Wrigley Company has become increasingly aware that the men and women of our fighting forces overseas get only a small amount of the Wrigley's Gum they want.

During recent months, the demand for chewing gum in the armed forces has been increasing by leaps and bounds. This is due to the fact that men under the terrific strain and tension of battle get a feeling of comfort and relief by chewing on a piece of gum. Chewing helps to steady nerves, keeps the mouth moist—makes the tough going a little easier.

The Canadian Wrigley Company, to solve this problem, will ship all the gum it produces, if necessary, on the following Overseas Plan:



Under this new Wrigley plan you can send a 20-package box of Wrigley's Gum direct to any man or woman in the Canadian Armed Forces Overseas.

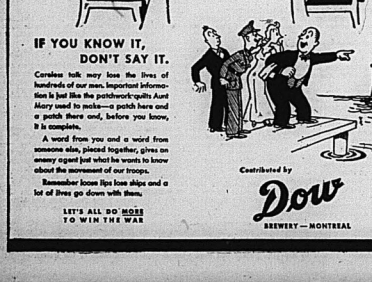
Your order will be immediately sent to Wrigley's and they will acknowledge it to you.



Wrigley's are doing this because they feel that, with chewing gum so useful and helpful, Wrigleys' brands should go where they are needed most—to the men and women who are fighting on the battle fronts.

THIS WRIGLEY OVERSEAS PLAN IS MADE AVAILABLE TO YOU THROUGH THE CO-OPERATION OF YOUR RETAIL MERCHANT

Jaywalkers

"Look at them, wandering all over the place like crows in a cornfield. It's a wonder there are not a lot more accidents in your city than what take place."

The speaker was an out-of-town visitor to this city, who stood near the City Hall watching the usual Saturday morning market and shopping crowds.

And he was not referring to the pigeons that flutter around local shops where they receive their daily rations of grain.

In truth he had reference to the Saturday morning pedestrians who dart hither and yon and through and around moving vehicular traffic with apparently no thought for personal danger.

And in this sense, the Saturday morning Front Street throng is no more nor less a better than this counterpart of other days in the week.

Speaking plainly, there is little or no organization of pedestrian traffic in this city. People wander across busy intersections at will, dodging cars, and trusting in the modern coined phrase, "the driver won't hit you." In their hurry, they will suddenly decide to cross the street between intersections, or from behind parked vehicles they come, some not deigning to look either way for approaching traffic. And some of the pedestrians have the obsession that they are monarch of all they survey, and can cross a busy street, while the rest of the world must stop till they have reached their destination.

Evidence of this is seen in the annual "execution" of pedestrians who run crying to police officials that some "irresponsible motorist" has splashed water on their dress or suit. Nine cases out of ten, had the complainants walked until it was safe for him or her to cross the street, their clothes would not have been damaged.

Red and green traffic lights here are apparently for vehicular drivers only, if one judges by the manner in which pedestrian traffic crosses the street at intersections. It takes but one daring adventurer to defy the traffic lights and zigzag his way through moving vehicles, and a greater majority of those waiting to cross, will follow him.

In the city of Detroit, police cars are stationed at busy intersections and equipped with loud-speaking systems, control pedestrian traffic. Take one step off the white line and the luckless pedestrian hears himself "bawled out" in no uncertain terms. Husky policemen on point duty in the city of Windsor also look after these matures, only on a smaller scale .Pedestrians are liable to a nominal fine if they cross the intersections against the light. The result has been a reduction of traffic accidents in the city, as well as a minimizing of congestion in busy sections.

In Belleville, the worst offender is the itinerant jaywalker, a hardy species of the homo sapiens who disregards all pedestrian traffic and nonchalantly stroll strolls across the street at any point his fancy suits, and who expects all vehicles to humor his whims. Reaching the centre of the street, he will pause, watch an oncoming car or truck, then waiting until it has reached a point within a few yards of him, dash to the opposite pavement with inches to spare.

It should not need a serious accident for the general public to convince itself of the errors of its ways in this regard. Realization of its own responsibilities while walking or driving should be of paramount importance. "Stop, Look and Listen" is as good a slogan for the pedestrian as it is for the motorist approaching a railway crossing.

A Romance of Wartime

Development for war purposes in the Far North of Canada of aviation has at last been disclosed with the announcement by Prime Minister King that Canada is to assume all cost of air line installations in Northern Canada to the extent of $120,000,000, and the direction of the ramifications of the secretly-guarded Northeast Staging Route to Western Europe. At the same time was indicated the gigantic character of the work on the Northwest Staging Route in expediting planes to the aid of Russia under American lease-lend, though it was inaugurated for the purpose of defence against Japan.

This is one of the records of the war that read like a romance, which it is and which can be compared to the great era of exploration of the Northwest in the trading era.

Events move swiftly and many of them secretly in wartime. The war created the Alaska Highway and the two staging routes by air.

Canada is making payment of compensation to the United States for its outlay, the reasons given being that Canada should bear the full cost of wartime installations in Canada as a contribution to the war and that it was not considerable desire that another country should possess a financial interest in permanent installations in Canadian territory.

Women Emigrants

(Manchester Guardian)

Women as well as men are taking an increased interest in the possibility of emigration. They have been receptive to talks about the Commonwealth that have been given in the services. Information on the Dominions has been spread through the National Association of Girls' Clubs, and, of course, the women have followed the welcoming speeches of the Dominion Prime Ministers.

According to the Society for the Overseas Settlement of British Women, there has been a marked increase in the inquiries and applications, and this society, which arranged for the emigration of 18,346 women between the wars, is hearing from members of the services, teachers, nurses and land girls.

All this interest in emigration is rather embarrassing to the agencies which are having to answer inquiries before an official policy has been announced.

Cemeteries Abroad

(Detroit Free Press)

"Two Americans who flew side by side in bombing Germany now lie side by side in Russian soil in the first United States cemetery of this war in the Soviet Union."

From the Arctic to the Caucasus in Russia, from Iceland to Africa, from Saipan to Australia, from China to Burma, similar "bits of America" testify to the role we are playing. Tens of thousands of Americans, loading upon the map, will say here lies my son or husband or father. Never again will these far-flung dots on the globe be as remote and unfamiliar as in the past. A great part of the world has become a battleground of freedom, with American youth consecrating it with their lives.

New Highway Terminology

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The jeep — smartest, lowest-swinging chariot of them all — has become the criterion of the army's roads. If a road built across mud or swampland under shellfire is barely good enough for a jeep to traverse it, it is pronounced, in the army's technical terminology, "jeepable."

The jeepable road is undoubtedly the lowest in the hierarchy of roads. From the jeepable it progresses to the classified, probably, as truckable, busable and passenger-automobilable. Some, of course, will be raceable, most of them will be passable, and even the jeepable roads will be crawlable, or perhaps a better word would be snail's-peacable.

Every day is a little life and our whole life is but a day repeated. Therefore live every day as if it would be the last. Those that dare lose a day are dangerously prodigal, those that dare misspend it are desperate.—Bishop Hall.

To a father waxing old, nothing is dearer than a daughter. Sons have spirits of higher pitch, but less inclined to sweet, enduring findness.—Euripides.

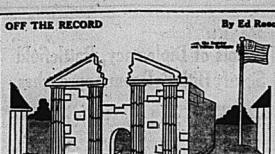
FOR THE FUTURE



To the future, maid and man,
Take the utmost strength you can.
Take belief in God above,
Take your laughter and your love.
Take your faith for times of doubt,
Sense to work your problems out.
Take your courage and your creed.
These the years to come will need.

Yours it is to live to see
What the future is to be.
None of us today so wise
As to follow enterprise
And to see with certain sight
Where the path will lead us right.
All we know is many a task
Will both strength and patience ask.

To the future, maid and man,
To be useful, work and plan.
Howsoever strange it seems,
To the future take your dreams;
Take devotion to the good.
Manhood fine and womanhood.
Heart and mind, and body stout!
They'll be needed, never doubt!

Pyle in Normandy:
Slight Noises at Night Near Front Sound Like Busy Boiler Factory

(By ERNIE PYLE)

Somewhere in Normandy — (by wireless) — We drove slowly across the two pastures in the big M-19 retriever truck with which our ordnance reconnaissance company was to pick up two crippled German tanks. The wrecker truck clanked on. It was just after midnight.

We came to a lane at the far side of the pasture. Nobody was there to direct us. The officers had gone on ahead. We asked a sentry if he knew where the German tanks were. He had never heard of them. We shut off the motors and waited.

I think everybody was a little on edge. We certainly had Americans troops ahead of us, but he didn't know how far. When things are tense and you are tired, imagination of monkeying around. You want to get the job done and get the hell out of there.

We waited about 10 minutes, and finally a sergeant came back and said for us to drive on up the road about half a mile. He climbed on to direct us. Finally we came to a barnyard, pulled in, turned around and then very slowly backed on up the road toward the enemy lines. I stood on the right platform behind the driver so I could see.

It was very dark, and you could see only vague shapes. You could see dark walls of hedges and between them lighter strips of gravel road. Finally a huge black shape took form at one side of the road. It was the first of the German tanks. Just before we got to it we could see more and more stripes on either side of the road that finally, as they were the size and shape of dead men, but they were only forms and I couldn't tell for sure.

Being tense and anxious to get finished, I hoped our truck would be backed on to the load. We passed by, of course, and went heading on up the road.

When you're nervous you feel even 12 inches closer to the front is too much and the noise of your motor sounds like all the clanging of hell, directing the Germans to you.

I knew it was foolish to be nervous. I knew there was plenty of protection ahead. And yet there are times when you have to feel good to start with, you're unconquered and the framework of your character is off balance, and you are weak inside. That's the way I was that night. Probably I'm not that way always.

Finally the dark shape of the second tank loomed up. Our officers and crew were there in the road beside it. We backed to within about five feet of it and the driver and I got out and we climbed down.

A layman would think all you have to do is to hook a chain to the tank and pull it out of the ditch. But we were there half an hour. It seemed like all night to me.

First it had to be gone over for booby traps. Then the officers had to admire our mechanics. They know these foreign tanks as well as their own.

One of them climbed down the hatch into the driver's seat and there in the dark, completely by feel, investigated the instruments, gets of the cockpit and found just what gadget it was that was at the trouble.

He reported that on this tank two levers at the driver's seat had been left in gear and they were bent double. He was able to shift them out of gear.

One end was sent back up the road to get a hackaxe from the wrecker and Dr. McCulloch set off the handles. After five minutes he came back and said there was no hackaxe in Maryland.

Mr. James Davies has returned to Toronto after visiting friends here.

Johnnie Hanley, formerly of this city, is playing great baseball with the team in Port Arthur. Recently in a match there he struck out seventeen men. The members of the Bonnells Inn here are proud of Hanley, who played with them when he lived here.

Ready To Instal 'Imminent Danger' Signals-Morrison

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 2 — (AP) — While more Nazi flying bombs burst upon England, Herbert Morrison, minister of Home Security, told the House of Commons today that Britain knew "about a lot of horrible things" and hinted that the Germans had been able to get some information close to their robots.

His statement came in answer to a question as to whether "A new kind of bomb is coming over which is more silent than the old ones."

"I have knowledge about a lot of horrible things," Mr. Morrison answered. "These bombs vary in their practice somewhat, and I have not been cases in which the noise has not been audible."

He did not make it clear whether he referred to a new weapon inaudible from the ground or to the familiar robot bombs which cut off their engines and glide in silently for long distances after they are previously announced.

Stressing Churchill, Labor, demanded to know if Mr. Morrison was disposed to his statement about "horrible things."

The Minister of Home Security answered: "No, there are all sorts of possibilities . . . anyone doing this job for long in a world where you are up against pretty horrible possibilities."

The discussion followed Mr. Morrison's announcement that he was ready to institute standard audible "imminent danger" signals to supplement sirens. With a dail-minute margin, neighborhood horns will sound three two-second blasts in succession, followed by a brief pause, then a repetition. Known as the flying bomb "all clear" signal, the sound is expected to be only peace in Normandy.

Then it was time to our own hedgerow gate. As we drove in the sentry said, "Officer's waiting for the mess tent." They feed 24 hours a day in these outfits that work around the clock.

But my sleeping bag lay unrolled in the hedgerow and I crawled in it nearby tent. It was 3 a.m. With an almost childish gratitude at being there at all I went right to bed.

Two persons were killed and four others were injured here today just one hour before the first report of the flying bomb attacks on London and the southern counties by daylight today came after a night of sporadic attacks.

EXCUSE FOR PROCRASTINATION

A correspondent writes that she is faced with this problem:

I am 47 years old, troubled menopausa at 45. Never strong, and I seem never to be able to hold a position long enough to do any good financially. My husband has provided for the three of us (12 year old girl at home) to get by on. We have one son, 22, in the army.

Lately I've had pains and soreness in right breast. I have a dread of going to a doctor, lest he say operation. If it should be cancer I haven't enough money to pay for surgery.

Chances are the correspondent has nothing of the kind. Pain and soreness are about the early stages of cancer of the breast in the great majority of cases. A small lump is noticed, as a rule, and no pain or soreness to speak of.

But it would be the height of folly for any woman to stake her life, if such, perhaps it is, on that.

There is just one fair, sensible course for any woman who develops any such symptom, and that is to always better to KNOW, no matter whether it is or is not malignant—immediately. DO NOT PRAY about it. So the woman with breast symptoms should go to a doctor for examination, and be guided by the advice the doctor gives her.

Incidentally there is another point to be considered. Many a timid patient, regardless of the nature of his or her trouble, can hardly go to a doctor, a hospital, an organization, "clinic", "hospital" or institution the personal, human, friendly consideration and treatment a patient gets from his or her own doctor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Baby Chews Rubber

Daughter, 1 1-2 years, has habit of chewing on rubber—any rubber she can get to her mouth—rubber heels, etc. Is she lacking in some vitamin or mineral I could give her to overcome this habit? (C. M.)

Answer—No. Give her a large piece of gristle from a dismembered fowl from cooked chicken to chew on. It is a help in the development of gums, teeth and face.

Bed-Wetting

How does one go about getting your book on bed-wetting? Is it likely to be of any help in the case of a sixteen-year-old boy? (J. A. F.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet "The Bed-Wetting Habit". A good many boys of that age still wet the bed, but generally they can get over it when they have the right treatment. Many boys entering the army or navy have had enuresis corrected by correct bedwetting.

Alcohol

Is there any hope for a person who has become addicted to drinking alcohol to excess once or twice a week, and who gets steadily worse, ill tempered and very disagreeable, sometimes unbearable. (J. F.)

Answer—Only if the person will consult a doctor for treatment. Possibly the person would consent to communication with Alcoholics Anonymous group in his or her community. Also, if no other is available, a classified section write A. A., Box 658, Church Street Annex, New York, N. Y.

Serious Freshness

My second daughter's problem (the first being how to keep the teeth from biting) is not hygiene but pimpling; is oiliness of skin, so I come to you. (W. F. P.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for pamphlet on "Skin Troubles". Also excessively oily skin, blackheads, pimples, so-called enlarged pores.

LONDON LETTER

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 2 — (CP) — This has been a strange childhood for London's children of the war. Not that they seem to object to anything very much — but as you see them leaving town these days there is a feeling that they have not had a chance to know much about the countryside.

Today the wooded parks and the commons and the alleys and even the bomb-blasted wastelands are full and flowers now grow are pretty fine. But short are the days of children. Because with the flying bombs coming to London the sister of the evacuated children are moved in even greater numbers than they did during the "blitz" of 1940 and early 1941.

It was curious in the 'in-between' period, the time between the blitz and today's buzz bombs, to see children playing in the devastated ruins of what the early bombs left. Almost overnight they "owned" anything dreadful wrh 1940's bomb site. It became just an open space in which to play while the wild flowers gradually took root among the rocks of old foundations and the dust and dirt made playgrounds.

Those were the "playgrounds" which, in fact made the difference children found and took over when they returned from their earlier evacuation to later districts during this city. And now they have set up their own "playgrounds".

Many of these children were born as the city rose out of the ruins of the early blitz and trembled to the thud and thunder of fallen bombs. In fact, in short way of life they haven't had much chance to enjoy the countryside as they are already, in the bugs-bomb era, new children have come into the world of the city and have been consigned to the throb of the flying bomb and the crash of the rocket.

Many of these children who have left London — some without — have for their first memory the day when they went to the A.R.P. centre to be measured for and equipped with their gas mask.

HITLER REAPPEARS IN NAZI NEWSPAPER PICTURES

Berlin, Aug. 2 — (AP) — The official German news agency D.N.B. said today in a Berlin broadcast that all German newspapers printed a picture this morning of Adolf Hitler greeting in hospital yp members of his general staff who were wounded in the recent reported attempt on his life.

The sudden reappearance of Hitler was interpreted here as an attempt to offset rumors concerning his safety or as a campaign to regain waning popularity.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED

By GEORGE W. STIMPSON

Protected, 1944, by The George Adams Service.

G. O. P.

"G. O. P." as the nickname of the Republican Party, is the invention of "Grand Old Party."

Just how or when the phrase originated is not known for certain.

Oddly enough, the earliest known use of "grand old party" was in reference to the Democratic, not the Republican Party.

In 1879 Congressman Benjamin H. Hill, a Georgia Democrat, said in the U. S. Senate:

"We are the national parties now. We come back to the grand old party of the north never repudiated, off after secession, that never went, that never left the constitution, that there are any men on this earth for whom I have a higher regard than others, they are the democrats of the north."

It is on record that Senator Edward Lane, an Illinois Democrat, said in the House of Representatives: "The Republican Party is a grand old party, that assures a better trade to our people . . ."

In both these cases, however, the phrase was used without capitals and probably was not intended as a nickname.

Meanwhile the phrase had been applied repeatedly to the Republican Party. On May 4, 1887, the Indianapolis Sentinel said in the following head-line: "The G. O. P. On a Still Hunt for a National Convention Cry." And on May 1, 1888, an unidentified speaker in Minneapolis said: "(A proposed protection tax) is the doings of the G. O. P.—the grand old party—the Republican Party."

"Grand Old Party" as a specific name for the Republican Party may have been suggested by "the grand old party" of Burns. First applied to William E. Gladstone in April, 1886, by Joseph Rosebery; in any rate, "G. O. P." came into general use in the United States about two decades after the Civil War, when the Grand Old Man of England was at the acme of his fame.

Nowadays the Republican Party is referred to as the G. O. P. by persons of all political sentiments, including Republicans themselves.

WEDDINGS

LIVINGTONE—BOVAY

Picton, Aug. 3. A lovely wedding was solemnized by Rev. J. U. Robins, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wallace, Wallington, at 3.30 Saturday afternoon, when their niece Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bovay, Belleville, became the bride of Carmen Livingstone, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Livingstone, Simcoe, Ont. The ceremony took place beneath an arch of red, white and blue decorations and flags.

Mrs. Joe. Hastings, Belleville, was her attendant, wearing a long gown of blue crepe with short, matching veil. She carried red roses. The pretty flower girls were Betty Wallace, who wore a long white frock with pink bow in her hair, and Ruth Hermetie, who wore a blue frock with blue bow. Their flowers were pink and white snapdragons. Mr. J. Hastings was groomsman.

The reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bovay. Pink and white streamers were suspended from the ceiling to the table which was centred with the bride's cake, blue candles and rose vases. The attendants were Mrs. Beatrice Smith, Mrs. Gisele Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Livingstone left to spend their honeymoon in Simcoe. They will make their home in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Wrigtt Clarke and son, Orville, of Trenton: Mrs. Lena Hammond, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Benny Shaw, Toronto.

Questions and Answers

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other wartime matters of the Board rulings should be mailed to the Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville, Ont.

Q.—Is there a week selling for 50 cents a dozen, is there not a ceiling price on corn?

Q.—What procedure must I go through to purchase honey by mail?

A.—When buying honey by mail order you use the special purchase vouchers which may be obtained from your local ration board in exchange for preserve coupons. One voucher is equal to four preserve coupons. It will buy two pounds of honey.

A.—Yes, price ceilings have been set on all apples.

Q.—Must beekeepers register?

A.—Yes, beekeepers producing more than 4,000 pounds of honey must register with their regional ration board, while those producing less than 4,000 pounds are to register with their local ration board. Of course those who registered last year need not do so again.

Q.—Are butter coupons 72 and 73 valid?

A.—No, the validity of these coupons has been postponed until August 10.

Q.—I lost my No. 3 ration book with my canning sugar coupons in it, and would like to know if I can get a new No. 3 book.

A.—No, I am sorry but no more No. 3 books are being issued.

Ans.—Yes, the WPTB has announced that only the most essential articles will be made from cotton fleece fabric with infants' and children's wear topping the list.

An alternative to the jumper is the matching skirt and sleeveless blouse. Finely wool in red, navy, gray and green is used for the knife-pleated skirt and a single-breasted weskit with dark amber buttons and flap pockets. Weskit is lined and has piped detail.

Poor Posture Destroys Pep

By HELEN FOLLETT

Esthey Williams, Swim for Health Girl, has perfect posture.

NO MATTER how lovely her countenance may be, how glorious the hair-do, how expensive the sartorial draperies, a girl does not qualify for good looks bouquets if she carries herself in a slouchy manner. Nothing is lovely sloppy. She lacks spirit, snap, chic.

Poor posture and lack of body balance are exhausting. Women who go plowing along the street head forward, slap loose feet, don't make attractive pictures of themselves. It is the vibrant little goofer who knows how to carry herself splendidly that gets a reputation as a lady of fashion.

It isn't only when one is stepping out at once should be mindful of carriage. There are few pretty moments here for pretty sitters. Men serve the manner in which the average girl does a flop into a chair. She tumbles into a huddle. She should keep the body erect, head balanced, hands neatly posed, feet close together.

Tennis and desk workers should maintain correct sitting position. They won't suffer from the all-in feeling at the end of the day because muscles will not be strained. Nor will nerves be jumping. Poor posture has a depressing influence upon the nervous system, circulation of the blood, functioning of digestive organs.

Rules Simple.

The rules are simple enough; Keep the backbone fully extended, the chest lifted, abdominal fibres held in close as you can. Your shoulders should have an easy pose. Maintain the in-curve at the back of the waistline. This position permits free deep breathing, aids circulation.

Perhaps the beauty class thinks that the preacher of pulchritude harps too often on posture. But it is much more important to appearance than sweet beautifying frifles, like curly-cues, eye shadows, or red veneer for lips and fingernails.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This Young Lady Appears to Have Three Strings to Her Bow

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a girl 18 years old and have a most interesting position with a local firm.

I write to three boys in the service, all of whom I love very dearly. One is an aviator stationed in England, the second is a sailor, very good looking and can say the nice things that a girl likes to hear, the third is a soldier. He's stationed in a former college football star, and he's a fine, manly fellow.

All have been wonderful to me and want to marry me when the war is over, but I just can't make up my mind. Which one do you think would make the best husband?

M. L. W.

Evidently you believe in safety in numbers, but as you're undecided which of the three you love most and that you just can't make up your mind which one you want to marry, the best advice I can give you is not to marry any of them until you're 100 per cent certain.

Keep Married, Writes in His Former Wife, Became He's Lonesome

The young lady with whom I'm going "steady" divorced her husband twelve years ago on the grounds of infidelity. She has supported herself and child for years, and supported her husband before their divorce, as he never even offered to pay anything toward the child's upkeep.

Two years ago he remarried, the young woman being a person of very jealous disposition. He's now in the service, and has written letters to his ex-wife asking her to write to him because he's lonesome. My girl has been answering his letters. Her mother and I both warn her she will get herself into trouble, but she continues.

Shall I forget her? Do you think she should write to her ex-husband, especially since he is married to another woman?

A. P.

Whether you're able to forget her or not, better be certain she's not still in love with her former husband before you marry her. The situation is unusual and I agree with you and her mother that if she continues to write to her former husband, she's likely to find herself in trouble with his jealous wife.

His Favorite Topic Former Wife and Children—Yet, She's Fond of Him

I'm very unhappy; we've been married for ten years and still don't get along. My husband is one of those "I'll do it by and by" kind he can. Bring all my wages home, pay bills, and don't know what it is to have clothes like other girls. For my husband is not satisfied and is always telling me about his first wife and children. I'm 36 and he is 35 years of age. I don't know whether to stay or leave him. Will you tell me what I should do?

E.

Your letter impresses me as coming from one of those masochist Kohlnoors, the value of which your husband hasn't yet discovered.

Women must be sometimes wrong with him if he can't get a job and hold it these days, regardless of his clamoring for every man able to stand. In paying all the household bills, putting up with an unemployed husband who talks continually of his former wife and children he doesn't realize you're human and deserve by an angel.

Whether you should stay or leave him is up to your own conscience.

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

The July War Work Committee of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid held a very enjoyable and profitable evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Reid on Friday last. Ten tables of progressive euchre were played, Mrs. T. Holmes and Mr. C. Stewart winning high scores and Mrs. Lyle Jones, the consolation. The proceeds amounted to $17.55.

Cited for smart Autumn wear is the plaited skirt, but beautifully detailed, black woollen suit worn with a brilliant blouse. One such suit has velvet and passementerie frogs closing the slim jacket and uses the narrowest of braid piping at the hem. Was it a brilliant Parisienne chiffon blouse with a bow neck?

Plans for a Semi-Formal Wedding.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

These are my wedding plans so that a semi-formal church wedding with a maid of honor and one bridesmaid, all of us to wear simple long gowns; a small reception afterward at my home, for the members of the immediate families and the wedding party. Will you please answer some questions for me about other details? J.

1.—My fiance is an Army officer. Since the date of our wedding must be indefinite, would it be proper when the date is decided, to put an announcement in the newspaper? Mr. and Mrs. ... are announcing the coming marriage of their daughter ... and so forth"?

2.—Is it proper to order wedding announcements with a blank line for the date to be written in?

3.—May a semi-formal wedding be held in the evening, say at seven o'clock? And is there any special reason why formal weddings are not held in the morning?

4.—If we invite the reception only the families and the wedding party, would it be proper for us to receive at the door of the church after the ceremony? If we do, who should stand with the bride and groom?

5.—Should the bride introduce guests in the receiving line to the groom if he doesn't know them, and vice versa? At some weddings I have attended, this was not done. Was it because the guest is shaking hands with the groom anyway, and congratulating him?

L. A.

1.—Yes, it is quite proper to send this kind of announcement to the newspapers . . . but this would, of course, be considered news, and not as an invitation.

2.—Yes, often in these days of uncertain wedding dates, invitations are ordered with the blank line for the date to be filled in later. But it is not customary, nor necessary, to order marriage announcements with the date-line left blank, for when necessary the announcements may be sent a bit late. Before you know the date, make as many as possible arrangements with the engraver; choose the style, give him all other wording-details; have him address the envelopes ahead or time so they may be addressed and stamped; then when you know the date, give him this, and the announcements can be promptly mailed.

3.—Yes, a semi-formal wedding may be held at any time in the day or evening. Protestant weddings are not very often held in the morning . . . no reason why not.

4.—Yes, it's proper, and a friendly and charming custom for the bride and groom to greet their friends in the back of the church, when the reception is limited to the families and members of the wedding party. Usually only the bride and groom, their attendants and the nearest relatives receive in the home.

5.—Yes of course the bride should present her groom to anyone he does not know; and he should introduce his relatives and friends to her. It's a mighty thoughtless torpedo bride and groom who don't do this! However, if it isn't done, the guest would graciously take the introduction for granted, introduce herself or himself, shake hands with the bride and offer best wishes to her or shake hands with the groom and congratulate him.

Fashion Flashes

SHINING BEAUTY is achieved via the medium of lustrous black flakes for Miss Vivacious' afternoon frocks. This fabric is used for a pretty dinnerwear frock of sleeveless but with very broad, draped shoulders and a much-draped peg-top skirt. Deep, narrow V neckline.

An exciting fashion, and one that will suggest many uses, is that of the very tailored fur jacket, fashioned of flat fur, of course. Broadtail, sealskin and caracul are used with good effect and the jackets go so nicely with a tweed skirt as well as velvet or crepe.

Bright College Clothes

Youthful frock with plastron effect.

By VERA WINSTON

THE PLASTRON appears in many an Autumn dress, especially in clothes destined to take a college course. In this frock the plastron effect is a black velveteen to match the skirt which is gored all around. The blouse part is of plaid taffeta with matching bow and belt.

All of which adds up to a frock replete with youthful charm.

"But Grape-Nuts Flakes give you carbohydrates and proteins and other food essentials!"
"Ugh! Sound good! Carbohydrates and proteins, useful quantities of iron for the blood, phosphorus for bones like all the other food essentials! Famous Grape-Nuts flavor! Crisp, golden flakes made of two grains—not just one. Clinch out, Sailor, we're having Grape-Nuts Flakes instead!"

In contrast to the boxy coat is the fitted dressmaker coat. A new model has a dropped shoulder and neck seamed detail with soft buttoned side of the fitted waistline. Very distinctive black frogs for the front bodice closing, velvet collar and cuffs.

Coming along any day now are pretty blouses for Autumn suit wear. White crepe is used for a smart blouse with a deep V yoke, deep butterfly jabot and long tight sleeves with a flounced wrist.

CORBIN GOLD CUP

The principle trophy offered for competition at the second annual men's rink lawn bowling tournament, sponsored by the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club at their spacious 16-green club, on Civic Holiday, Generial Chairman Cliff Argue announced today upon receipt of the trophy. Many parts of Eastern Canada, from the Quebec border to Western Ontario, have already affiliated for this tournament, the largest of its kind in Eastern Canada. Besides the beautiful Corbin Gold Cup, offered through the kindness of Mr. L. R. McLean, manager of the Corbin Lock Company of Canada, there is also the Biggs Trophy and the Ritchie Cup to be competed for. Prizes valued at over $700 have been guaranteed by the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club and are on display at the local Sports Office. The public is cordially invited.

In its first year of competition, the Corbin Gold Cup was won by the Crawford rink of Wingham, Ont., who will be back as defenders on Civic Holiday.

A veteran and a youngster pitched the Newark Bears into second place in the International League last night.

Seasoned Mel Queen and 17-year-old Don Johnson hurled two shutouts against Toronto, 1-0 and 4-0. Young Johnson threw a five hitter in the opener, striking out six for his second win against no defeats. Queen outpitched Luther Knott in the nightcap. He struck out eight and ran his shutout pitching three-hit consecutive innings. He was aided by Danny Reynolds' double and two singles.

The pace-setting Baltimore Orioles' three run rally in the last of the seventh wasn't enough in the first game, which they lost 9-8 to the Rochester Red Wings. The Birds' ace, Red Embree, came back in the second game, however, and shut the Wings out with three hits, 9-0.

After being shut out with five hits, 3-0, in the first game by Jersey City, the Montreal Royals bounced through on 12 hits and 13 walks to win the second, 13-4. Crip Polli white-washed Montreal in the opener, notching his second win. Johnny Gabbard accounted for the Royals in the nightcap.

At Syracuse the Buffalo Bisons broke even as they split their third straight double-header. The Chiefs took the first, 6-5 and lost the second, 3-1. Chu-Cho Ramos broke up the first game with a homer to be honored in the last of the seventh. Walter Wilson was too much for the Bisons in the afterpiece, registering six hits as he accounted for his 13th win.

Galt and Woodstock To Have Junior Farm Hockey Teams Sponsored by Red Wings

Galt and Woodstock will have farm clubs in the Hockey Association next winter for the Detroit Red Wings, it was announced last night at Galt by Allan Muir, coach of the local junior "A" club last season, in revealing scouts Orson Cooper and Fred Coe had garnered a flock of puck-chasers, too young for the military draft, for the Detroit N.H.L. club. Indianapolis and the two Ontario teams. Coe will operate the Junior "B" team in Woodstock, it was stated. Murray said his team will bear the name of Galt Red Wings but declined to identify the players who had signed contracts.

Leslie Combs of Cn. Ky., paid $30,000, highest price of yesterday's annual Lexington yearling sales, for a bay colt by War Admiral-Alyarm, a grandsire of Man O' War, which had been consigned by J. H. Hurst of Lexington. William Helis of New Orleans bid in a colt by Menow-Donna Jo for $13,000.

The N. T. Fox $5,000 stake for two-year-old pacers in the grand circuit program at Old Orchard Beach yesterday was won by True Ohler in two straight heats. The Colonel's Lady defeated Parsota in both heats of the $1,500 stake trot for four-year-olds.

Former star gridder with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Maj. Jeff Nicklin, second-in-command of the 1st Canadian Paratroop Battalion, was wounded in action in France when struck by bomb fragments, according to word received last night.

Leo Diegel, Tommy Armour, Joe Kirkwood and Bobby Cruickshank are four prominent United States professionals who are among the first entries for the $5,000 Maple Leaf invitation open golf tourney scheduled to be held in Toronto Aug. 10, 11 and 12. All but Kirkwood have won the Canadian Open at least once.

The Hamilton, Ont., Jockey Club announced last night that thoroughbred racing would start at the track in readiness for the opening of the fall season, summer meeting Saturday. Harry Giddings' Ten to Ace is expected to be nominated for the $1,500 added race.

Toronto, Aug. 3 — (CP) — It's only August, but the voice of the hockey turtle is beginning to be sound throughout the land. Signs of activity are to be found in Montreal here and there, and Ken (Vancouver Province) Hall already is busily engaged straight from the grapevine.

Ken says the National Hockey League is all set to go business this year, and has received the blessing of Ottawa authorities, but that it may have to string along without its cabinet-minister sponsor, Colin Dutton. Red apparently is a busy man now that the construction company working full blast, and may find it hard to handle his chores in hockey's big time.

Things will be duller without Red, if the report is true. Chasing ore that as soon as the teams hit the trail to the ice he'll become, Red will find time to keep right into harness.

About Face:

The Army entry in the Vancouver senior hockey loop is back in the swim again after a brief period spent in the cold of official disfavor. The soldiers were barred from play yesterday by military officials in Vancouver hewing strictly to the Ottawa sports edict, but now the unpleasantness has been reversed. Army has a strong team and is expected to give the current champs, New Westminster Salmonbellies, a stiff run next year, providing Ottawa doesn't hand down another unfavorable ruling.

Odd Ends:

Eddie (Montreal Star) O'Meara says is E. M. Critick, indefatigable researcher into things sporting is going to have a book published in Montreal 400 years ago. There's a chance for it to be a best seller, too. . . . Frank Hanson, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' starry blond football luminary, is definitely sensational as sports officer material for MD. No. 10 in Winnipeg . . . Lou Rockefeller's all-time notables, Tiny Thompson and Hooley Smith, got together for a chat when Tiny came home on furlough from the R.C.A.F. Tiny was one of the greatest goalies with Boston Bruins, and Paul rose to similar stardom with Chicago Black Hawks, and now manages them . . .

London, Aug. 2. (CP)—A free nomination for the 1946 edition of the Nearco, unbeaten as a racer and famed as a sire that has been a big-time bookmaker, Martin Benson, and established on the turf on behalf of the Veterinary Educational Trust.

Nearco, only piece of bloodstock in Britain to have had a private air radio shelter was purchased by Benson $710,000 a couple of years ago. Later he sold the colt to a syndicate of breeders, including himself, at a profit of $9,000.

Nominations to Nearco are practically unobtainable by breeders who don't belong to the syndicate. Among others, he sired the Aga Khan's Nasrullah, winner of the Champion Stakes and third in the Derby last year.

Other owners have given free nominations for 1945 on behalf of the Trust. Sires whose services will be donated include Big Game, property of the National Stud who won the Two Thousand Guineas for the King last year; Tulyar, previous winner of the Derby and St. Leger, and Felstead, winner of the Derby.

The nominations will be auctioned by Tattersalls at the annual Autumn Bloodstock Sales, Bidding is expected to be heavy.

Pamphilos, a three-year-old that once changed hands for $770, virtually threw the Northern England sprint championship with a brilliant victory at top weight in the Ebor Handicap at Pontefract. The colt will challenge for the All-Ages sprint crown at Newmarket this fall.

Pamphilos sore da two-length victory over the older Remunerator, to whom he was conceding nine pounds in weight. A field of 23 contested the five furlongs finish the race, owned by A. J. Purser, a London business man, stepped in 1/4 1-5. Pamphilos originally was purchased by an Irish dealer for $770. He sold him to Purser for double that amount.

International-scale soccer matches may soon be staged in France as a counter-attack for the Allied armies. Military officials have under consideration a plan to send star-packed army and air force teams to participate in a series of exhibition affairs.

Should this come to pass, the two services can call on almost all the leading international players of England, Scotland and Wales.

Followers in Canada of football in Britain will learn with regret of the death of Tom Reynolds, who for 17 years was a special writer on association football for the London Daily Mail. His articles were widely read.

Bomberettes Win Final Game Of Ladies Schedule

Down Deacons 13 to 4 to Tie for Third Spot in League Standing

PLAY-OFFS

Mountain View "Bomberettes" moved into a tie for third place in the final standing of the Belleville Ladies Softball League by beating Deacons 13 to 4 in the final league match at the Armouries Lawn last night. Immediately following the game President Charlie Barnett announced the league play-offs would commence on Thursday evening on the lawn with the Universal girls meeting the "Bomberettes" in the first game of a best-in-three series, while on Friday night the Bell Sargents and SWAC girls meet in a similar series.

After chalking up an unearned run in the initial frame the Bomberettes counted five in the second and from that point Deacons never clear, as the winners scored runs in every frame, except the fourth. They made sure by adding five more in the sixth. Miss Mills, the Mountain View third jacker, helped her team's cause with two home runs as Miss Wilhelm collected three hits with Hillier, Symington and Strachan getting two each. And Sinclair and R. Kelly hit circuit blows for Deacons to account for two of their quarterlies of runs scored. The remaining two Deacon digits were chalked up by Joyce Woodhouse and H. Wannamaker.

Vickie Hillier was on the Bomberette hilltop allowing Deacons but seven hits, striking out three and walking but two. "Stewie" Stewart ruled over the losers, as Deacon errors materially helped the opposition in mounting their score.

Deacons	002 001 1	—	4 runs
Bomberettes	113 005 x	—	13 runs

Batteries: Deacons, Stewart and Woodhouse.

Mountain View, Hillier and Rogers.

Umpires, Pointer and Young.

CASUAL COMMENT
by K.J.C.

A minister of the gospel arrived in a strange town. That evening, he wanted to mail a letter but did not know the way to the post office. Noticing a boy playing on a nearby street corner, he asked him if he would point out the way. The little fellow told him the shortest way to go.

Preacher—Thank you. Now if you will come to my church some day I will show you the way to heaven.

Never yet has a husband been able to arrange the furniture in a room to suit his wife.

Around the town

With C.N.R. and Alemite playing a sudden death game to determine which team shall meet SACO (Maine) here tonight it will be an all-out effort on the part of Johnnie Bawden and Freddie Harris, opposing pitchers....Incidentally this pair teamed together as a pitching duo for many seasons....Looking back we find Harris blanked C.N.R. in their first meeting 2-0, but Johnnie Bawden hurled the "Railroaders" to victory in the second start, 9-3....We are all even tonight....In the meantime the Front Annex "Kennels" aren't taking any too well to the league's decision to abandon the city league playdown and enter into the O.A.S.A. is decided....The Ox Painters have taken the matter under consideration before they release Phil Loft, Murray Green and Whitehead to the Marines....If these three players wish to play O.A.S.A. ball with the Painters they have to be qualified to enter the provincial playdowns by playing in the league games....Simple, isn't it?....Civic Holiday will see the biggest meet of athletic events of the year staged simultaneously at the Fair Grounds....The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club is holding its second annual tournament with the handsome Corbin Gold Cup, value $600, plus prizes guaranteed value of $700....Then the famed Toronto Sunday Morning Mens girls softball team will be here on behalf of the Red Cross in two exhibition games at the Fair Grounds under....The last time the "Classers" appeared in Belleville they attracted over 5,000 persons....Although the game meant nothing to them, the two schools in Deacon girls ran out their schedule string and lost the final game in the Ladies' Softball League to the Mountain View "Bomberettes"....In winning the M. V. girls' squad went into a tie with Universal for third place in the final standings....If these two clubs meet in the league playdowns anyway there will be no further draft game for positions....There will be no girls' game tonight, but it is expected that Hillier of the Bomberettes meet in a league playoff, while on Friday it will be Bell Sargents and SWACO in their best-in-three.

Looking back

Scribe Fred Craig dug back into the Peterboro Examiner archives to do a little reminiscing in his column yesterday. Fred came up with this one: "Twenty years ago at this time Peterborough fans were wildly excited over the battle being made by the Petes to win the second half of the Central League race by virtue and quality for the finals against the Kingston Frontenacs who had grabbed the first half honors. It depended largely on the result of nine.

LESSON NO. 445

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Maybe you know the best opening lead against a slam when you have an ace. Anything you tell me will find my sympathetic ear. But if you ask me, it takes wallin.

The general rule against a slam in a suit is to lead an ace if you have one. Over a period of years, you will get better results with that than with guesses.

But that rule has some gruffos against me, it seems. Maybe I'd of wrung in my earlier days and it is now taking full revenge. Would I lead an ace against a slam, it is often trumped on me.

Not only that. It is just when declarer has the king of that suit. With pasts on, the king is then led and declarer gets to shift a loser on it. It's a-hoigt. That's what I is.

Look what happens to me in a match with this deal:

NORTH
♠ 10 8 2
♥ K 5 3 2
♦ 10 9 8 7
♣ 10 4 3

WEST
♠ 4 3
♥ Q J 9 6

EAST
♠ J
♥ 10 8

♠ A Q 10 9
♥ A 10 7 6 5

♦ J 6 5 4 3 2
♣ Q J 10 8

SOUTH
♠ A K 6 5 4 3
♥ A 4 3
♣ A K 2

The lady in the south is declarer as a contract of six spades. Sitting west, it is my opening lead. There am I with one of those things. To I do or do I don't? I have a think coming.

If my diamond ace is led, it may be trumped and set up the king for a skuff. And that is exactly what would have happened in this case.

On the other hand, banging right to my ace may late; give me two diamond tricks with the setting queen. Anyway, a heart lead seemed safer. So I started with a lead of the eight seven.

South let the queen come around to be won by the ace. The third south club could be trumped by dummy. But with only the third round of hearts as a loser, the small slam in spades is a cinch.

But south was not content with taking only 12 tricks. She saw a way of 13 tricks. So she did it, too by squeezing me. And I didn't even know she cared.

"In Our Time," Romantic

The Belle theatre will present Warner Bros. romantic production, "In Our Time", for the last times today. This remarkable story is concluded with the hardships of current events, takes place in Poland, just at the beginning of the war.

Ida Lupino and Paul Henreid have the leading roles in the production. Also featured are Nancy Coleman, Mary Boland, Victor Francen and Nazimowa, who returns to the screen after a long absence.

Cowboy Capers In Fun Film.

There's nothing new to Jimmy Wakely and his Saddle Pals about being in a western with music. They have been doing it at Columbia in that studio's Charles Starrett and Russell Hayden starrers for many months. But in Columbia's "Cowboy Canteen," which is next at the Belle theatre their well-known songs of the plains encounter some competition in the form of fun.

The picture's story is all about a vaudeville troupe in from coast to a typical ranch for a rest, and ends by establishing a canteen for a nearby army camp. In the process, there is plenty of action but also that aforementioned fire, with Jane Frazee, The Mills Brothers and the Talley Beatty dancers.

Jimmy Wakely died - in-the-wool western fans will doubtless be glad to hear that Jimmy and his Saddle Pals are back on the job with songs.

For the Swingtime of your life-time.....sing out the fun...sing out the songs.....sing out the songs. Sing in "Swing Out the Blues." Columbia's latest new comedy-musical and feature attraction next at the Belle theatre. It's the liveliest thing in swing...featuring the screen's newest singing sweethearts....Dick Harding and Lynn Merrick...and the screwiest and merriest quartet ever seen, the Vagabonds.

The singiest, tunniest musical picture of the season. It will get your feet tapping...your heart laughing ...and your pulse singing! Everybody will be shouting the hit of that if you want to chase the blues see "Swing Out the Blues!" directed by that master of hilarious comedy, Del Lord, it's filled with laughs from start to finish.

Screen snapshots presenting your favorite stars at work and play will be exhibited on the same program.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Song of Nevada"

Roy Rogers' New Picture

"Song of Nevada", Roy Rogers' new western opens next at the Capitol theatre. Its Roy's all time best. The crooning cowboy is given sterling support by Mary Lee and Dale Evans, who supply both music and pulchritude. The Sons of the Pioneers and Lloyd Corrigan from whom considerable comedy content stems. The film boasts plenty of action and spectacle, beautiful natural scenic backgrounds, good production values, fine songs and several additional assets. A package of enjoyable entertainment is in store for all Roger fans.

"Frontier Gal"

Director Walter Colmes is a firm believer in catering to the wide tastes that many musicals fall short of their potentialities because they dish up music that appeals to a limited group of people.

In "Frontier Gal," the added hit Republic musical biography of the famous Hollywood night-club, Colmes has five orchestras creating four different types of music. Eddie LeBaron concocts rhythms in the Latin-American style, Otis Arthelon uses all the same smooth, sweet ballads, Bob Chester makes it strictly with jive, and Matty Malneck puts out some oldfashioned schmaltzy music.

Rosemary Lane, Dick Purcell, and Johnny Downs play the leads and are ably supported by Ralph Morgan, Sheldon Leonard, Marjorie Manners, The Radio Rogues, The Stardusters, Ida James, and Wingy Manone.

A short cartoon and the serial "Captain America" make this ideal entertainment for all.

Color Bar Raises Judge's Wrath In English Court

Liverpool, Aug. 2 (CP Reuter)—The color bar was the subject of another British court case when George Edward McGrath Roberts, West Indian Negro magicians worker appealed against his conviction for failure to attend home guard duties and had his sentence reduced to 56 hours' limited fire of confarthing less than one cent.

In evidence America said he had been refused admission to a dance hall because of his color. He had returned to the hall wearing his home guard uniform but had again been refused admission. The magicient hurt him so much that he tendered his resignation and refused to go on duty any more, he said.

Right to be Angry.

Judge E. G. Hemmerde, K.C., in giving judgment said: "I am told that the position of colored people in this country has somewhat changed since the nationals of each other or our allies joined us in this country.

"If anything that I may say may offend citizens of some other Allied countries, let me say that the Allied nations make up a democratic world, and if they have color prejudice, they must occasionally come to this country. You have been told not. I happen to be one who has not.

"When people come here so rich that they are I think they are entitled to think that they are entitled to conditions of decency and order. If they find that a noisy and intolerant minority are not prepared to give that equal right, I think they have a right to be angry."

Impertinence.

"It is impertinence for any country to attempt the aid of coloured people from any part of the world and then say that they are not able us to deal with you on terms of complete equality."

The judge said that while he could not allow the case on the question of principle because the law was against him, he would think that the justice of the case which would show that the country for which the appeal was intended to property.

One of the principal witnesses was the famous West Indian cricketer, Learry Constantine, who only recently was granted immediate damages against Imperial Hotels, Ltd., for refusing him lodging.

Mr. Constantine in evidence said that thousands of West Indians were serving in every branch of the services and the RAF in particular gave them the highest credentials.

Ralston Replies To Questions On Recruiting Ads

Ottawa, Aug. 2 —(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston said yesterday in the Commons there is no indication that texts of English and French language recruiting advertisements should be identical.

An English advertisement with the caption "Have I the Guts" had been paralleled with a French advertisement which carried the words, "If You Have Blood in Your Veins You Will Not Sit Down."

Col. Ralston spoke in reply to references to the English advertisements made in the Commons Monday by D. C. Ross (PC-Toronto Spadina). Mr. Ross and Gordon, Progressive Conservative House leader.

The Minister said the advertisements were prepared by two sub-committees composed of advertising and publicity experts. One was charged with the English campaign and the other with the French. It was the English committees should prepare copy approved to the area in which it was to be used. Three of the series of eight French advertisements were translations from English advertisements, but there were no translations from French to English.

No Instructions Given.

Col. Ralston said it had been inferred that "guts" were pulled in some parts of the country.

"No instructions were given direct or indirect, by publication or otherwise to pull punches in connection with French-speaking Canada any more than English-speaking Canada," he said.

J. G. Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) asked whether the advertisements were approved by the Minister and whether the one with the words "Have I the Guts" was considered appropriate to some particular area.

Col. Ralston said without "throwing down" the committee he felt that if he had seen that particular advertisement he would not have approved it. He had been subject to criticism for going into details of his administration and in this instance he had felt he could leave the copy of the advertisements to the committee for whose action he took full responsibility.

Mr. Graydon said the one particular advertisement had singled out English-speaking Canadians and should be entirely repudiated by the government.

Col. Ralston said the French advertisements in similar tone had the same general meaning and he would not repudiate either of them.

Canadian Distilleries Will Be Permitted To Make Potable Spirits

Ottawa, Aug. 2 — (CP) — Canadian distilleries will be permitted to revert to the manufacture of potable spirits from time to time between now and the end of the year Munitions Minister Howe said today.

This is in line with action taken by the United States government which has allowed the distilleries in that country to make potable alcohol for one month beginning today. In Canada, however, the holiday to make liquors to go into bond will be staggered, probably a week at a time, and not all distilleries will receive the same week.

"It is possible that some distilleries will get a full month this year in which to replenish their liquor stocks" Mr. Howe told The Canadian Press. "But it is more convenient for us to set aside certain periods with a view to non-interference with the distilleries' contracts for supplying industrial alcohol for war purposes than to follow the United States plan setting aside a month for all the distilleries."

The about ten years Canadian distilleries have been concentrating almost exclusively on the manufacture of industrial alcohol to go into synthetic rubber, explosives and medicines and the consumption of spirits by the Canadian people has been met by stocks in bond.

Officials here said Canada has sufficient rye whiskies and other types to meet the average rainfall consumption for the next five years, but as it takes a minimum of three years to age Canadian whiskies, and longer aging improves the output, the distilleries will be able to put a substantial gallonage into bond if they get two weeks between now and the end of the year.

Gin, however, does not require aging and it is expected the holiday will soon make available in the liquor stores a greater supply of this type of spirit.

Toronto, Aug. 2 — (CP) — Ontario's liquor ration of one 26-ounce bottle per person every two months will remain unchanged, even if Canadian distilleries are permitted to manufacture potable spirits from time to time between now and the end of the year stated Victor Goggin, chief liquor commissioner for the province.

Nazis Offer Huge Reward For Plotter

London, Aug. 3—(CP)—The Nazi regime last night offered a 1,000,000-mark reward ($400,000 at the pre-war exchange) for the capture of a former Leipzig Mayor charged with complicity in the recent attempt on Hitler's life as reprisals continued to mark the German army and civilians.

Announcement of the reward from the German Agency, D. N. B., said 60-year-old Dr. Karl Goerdeler, former Mayor of Leipzig and former Reich Price Commissar, was wanted as "all accomplices" in the plot on Hitler's life. He was said to be in hiding since July 20, date of the abortive uprising in the German army.

Other reports from inside Germany said Gen. Otto Von Stupenagel killed himself after the plot's failure and that Field Marshal Gen. Ernst Von Busch, commander of the Germany army on the central sector of the eastern front, succeeded Hitler after he was grilled in connection with the plot to meet the average rainfall consumption for the next five years, but as it takes a minimum of three years to age Canadian whiskies, and longer aging improves the output, the distilleries will be able to put a substantial gallonage into bond if they get two weeks between now and the end of the year.

Gin, however, does not require aging and it is expected the holiday will soon make available in the liquor stores a greater supply of this type of spirit.

The Day in Parliament

By The Canadian Press

The House of Commons will consider various government legislation.

Yesterday

The House gave third reading to the family allowances bill, which was sent on to the Senate, and second reading to the export credits insurance bill; heard Prime Minister Mackenzie King announce Canada has arranged to assume full cost of air lins installations in Northern Canada to the amount of $130,000,000 Canadian funds; Munitions Minister Howe say that as soon as parliament prorogues action will be taken to set up a royal commission to survey the Canadian coal industry, Finance Minister Ilsley say the government had adopted the policy of refusing licences to new companies seeking to enter the meat loans field; Labor Minister Mitchell say consideration had been given a suggestion that the government take over the strike-bound Halifax shipyards.

Mr. Howe also passed a bill amending the War Revenue Act in accordance with budget provisions and gave second reading to a bill providing for extension of the Civil Service Superannuation Act.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER TWO

The president drove on, pointing out points that would prove through the natural woods, finally coming to a road flanked by well built houses. Each had ample grounds, terraced and banked with flowers.

"These are faculty houses," Mrs. Norwood said. "Ours is at the end of the lane, closest to the gate."

The car pulled up at a compact two-story house adjoining the president's.

"Well, here we are," Norwood said. "This is Miss Marston's home. We thought you might like to stay here, Miss Hallard. There is plenty of room, you already know Miss Marston through your association in New York and on the train, and perhaps you won't feel so strange with her."

"I wouldn't want to intrude —" Jeanne began.

"No intrusion at all," Miss Marston assured her. "We planned it this way. You will have your own room and will share the bath with Miss Roberts—she's Dr. Norwood's secretary and lives with me too. I'm sure you will like her."

Baggage

Their baggage had been brought already in a station wagon and taken inside. The living room Jeanne met Kay Roberts who volunteered to show her to her room.

Miss Marston when the girls had disappeared up the stairway turned to the curb where Norwood was sitting in his car.

"I hoped you would come out," he said. "I wanted to talk to you —there's been no chance for a few words alone since Miss Hallard arrived. What do you think of her? She seems to me to be a nice girl, but of course you're much better judge than I."

"She's very intelligent and quiet and well behaved, the dean assured him.

"Thank goodness for that. We took her sight unseen, you know, and I don't mind confessing I've been worried. Of course we know she comes of good stock, but as well you can never tell."

"I'm sure she will fit in nicely here. There's only one thing, Doctor—"

"What is that?"

"She doesn't seem to want to discuss the past. Naturally, I tried to talk to her as much as possible. Whenever I even skirted her past life in Europe, she became strange—rather frightened, in fact. I would swear that she tried to run away from me in New York —at the station, when we were going to take the train to Shelton."

"Run away?" Mrs. Norwood asked. "Why should she want to run away?"

Miss Marston shook her head. "That's what I can't understand. I stopped at the newsstand to buy a magazine. When I got my change and turned to look for Jeanne she was nowhere in sight. I was frantic. I ran quickly to-ward the train gates but saw nothing of her. Then, by some chance, I turned back and saw her just walking up the station toward the ward the taxi stand."

"For goodness' sakes!" Mrs. Norwood breathed, excitedly.

Dr. Norwood said: "We'll just have to be patient with her, Miss Marston. Some experience she may have had probably unhinged her a bit. Perhaps we might have Dr. Clyde talk with her—he may be able to straighten her out."

Dean Marston acted promptly on Norwood's suggestion and that evening Jeanne found into a different dress, suggested she might like to go for a walk to get better acquainted with the campus.

Dr. Clyde dropped by when she was starting out and was as friendly natural to the girl that she should accept his invitation to inspect the college with him as a guide.

She had no way of knowing that Miss Marston had asked him to come over and had told him on the phone that she thought maybe the young lady had some mental problem he might help straighten out.

Clyde was tall, pleasant mannered, almost dapper in appearance. He looked his 34 years but no older.

His hair was straw colored and combed back smoothly from his forehead. He wore horn-rimmed glasses but frequently removed them and gestured with them in his hand as he talked. His features were rather sharp and high cheek bones gave sort of a Slavic cast to his face.

Popular

He was popular with his students, indeed with everyone in the college. And if at times undergraduates sighed over him, members of the faculty considered it his right because he was the youngest of all teachers and the most eligible.

But I really should be rather good at this sort of thing," Clyde said as he and Jeanne set out from the house. "I've a Cook's guide several summers in Vienna when I was studying for my master's degree. Of course you wouldn't know about Cook's guides, having been born and raised in France."

"I—I used to see them in the museums and places like that," the girl answered. "I often wanted to join their parties and see what they were telling the people who hung so intently on their words, but I never did."

"You'd probably have had a shock," Clyde laughed. "Some of the French guides were anything like I was. I made up much of my story as we went along—sometimes deliberately telling the most ridiculous stories just to see the tourists' eyes pop.

"They'd accept anything I said as gospel, of course. I sometimes shudder for my crimes—because a lot of school teachers came back home and passed on my 'inside history' to their pupils as absolute fact."

First Glimpse

They paused under the statue of Amory Hallard. From the ground it seemed much larger than it had at the girl when she got her first glimpse of it from the car. It was at least ten feet tall and was set upon a three foot pedestal.

"There, my dear Miss Hallard," Clyde said, "is your grandfather. What do you think of him?"

"He's a rather overpowering, isn't he?"

"Don't you remember what he looked like?" Clyde glanced at her. "Why—why—"

"Oh, how silly of me," the professor interrupted. "I never was good at arithmetic, but I should be that bad.

"If I remember my history correctly, he died some 25 years ago, and if I'm any judge of ages you're barely out that—" He broke off with a laugh. "How you'll think I'm trying to learn your age."

"I don't mind," the girl answered, amused. "I'm 22."

"A lovely age—most of our seniors, I believe, are about that old. We finished your course in June?"

"Yes, I took my degree at the Sorbonne."

"Then maybe you'll want to take post-graduate work here. We have some very good courses open to you, for instance, advanced psychology. I'm even supposed to teach a class or two myself, although that comes under the head of medicine and we have no medical school here. I think—in fact I'm sure that we will be able to arrange a scholarship. Which would be fine for you take care of all expenses at any rate."

"Miss Marston said something about working—"

Make Room

"Yes, that's possible too. We could easily make room for you in one of the departments. The work wouldn't be hard, and it's a shame that there is so much money here—money that many people might think rightly belongs to you —but which can't be used for anything but the colleges.

"Your grandfather was overly generous in setting up the trust fund. Of course, too, many of the investments that go to make up the trust have increased tremendously. Things he had no way of knowing would prove to be of more than nominal value—like automobile stock and shares."

"If there is so much money—so much more than is actually needed for the college, why not enlarge the college? Father always said that seems to me to be the logical thing to do."

Henry Hallard had definite ideas—he limited the college to 600 students. We already have spent as much as we can to take care of the present girls comfortably —one in the gymnasium, another into one outdoors for warm weather.

"I wouldn't say that it is the best equipped school in the world —there's nothing more we can do in the way of expansion."

The two of them strolled there the grounds, and thus' the various buildings. In the library they lingered before a large oil painting of Amory Hallard.

Like the statue, to the girl it was somehow overpowering.

It undoubtedly had been a very dominating man when he was alive and his spirit seemed to shine thru' even from the canvas and bronze that recorded his likeness for posterity.

Eyes Picture

Clyde eyed the picture critically, glancing frequently at the girl. She flushed under his scrutiny.

"I'm not a critic, but—finally, that there is much family resemblance aside from eyes. Your eyes are the same bright blue that his are in the painting. Did your father—pardon me, I'm sure you've told me before—"

"I—I don't know," the girl answered.

"Don't know? Oh, yes, I'm being stupid again, aren't I? I remember now that your father died when you were quite young. Naturally, you would have little or no recollection of him."

The buildings, what she had seen of them, were beautifully designed and seemed more like museums than places of instruction.

"Doesn't it kind of make you stick to be broke and know that all these magnificent things represent rightfully is yours?"

"Oh, but they're not — anyway, money had never meant very much."

"The difference is that you've always had everything you wanted. You'll be different now that you've lost everything you had."

"I suppose so," Jeanne didn't sound convinced, as she turned and walked back to Dean Marston's.

"I must have occurred to you that I'm an able-bodied man and that I'm in the army," Clyde said, as they walked along.

"As a matter of fact it did."

"Everyone does," he grinned. "It's a cross I bear. I'll be in eventually, it lists. My eyes, you know—I've been deferred. I have been doing something, though —at Camp Hopkins. It's only five miles from Shelton. I give psychiatry examinations there several times a week."

He glanced at her. Her mouth was tense and strained. She wasn't at ease and she hadn't been all the time they had been together although she didn't want him to know it.

Sending Car

Jeanne and Dr. clyde were laughing as they entered Miss Marston's house, a circumstance that apparently was far from pleasing to Kay Roberts. The secretary arose from a chair where she had been sitting by the living room window, looking out on the campus, a frown on her face.

"Any messages for me while I was gone?" Clyde inquired. "I left word at the switchboard to transfer all calls here."

"Someone phoned — a man. Wouldn't give his name—said it was nothing important. That he'd probably see you at home later."

"That all?"

"Yes—oh, there was a message for Miss Hallard, too — a phone call."

"You're becoming popular already." Clyde laughed at the girl. "For me? Why, I'm on earth —I don't know a soul here, except of course, the persons I've met today."

"Yes, it was very explicit. It's from Mrs. Syrie Wardell. She is sending a car for you at five o'clock to take you to her place for tea. She added that she refused to take no for an answer."

"Well, for goodness sakes!" Jeanne exclaimed. "Who is she, a dowager duchess who can issue commands to the poor country folk?"

Clyde shrugged and turned away. "You hit the nail on the head, Miss Hallard," Clyde spoke up. "Mrs. Ward is the nearest approach to a duchess Shelton has ever seen or probably ever will see.

"But who is she? Why would she invite me? In fact, how does she even know anything about me?"

"Oh, you're quite famous around here," Clyde said. "I think Chicago papers have had write-ups about the extraordinary feat of the famous Amory Hallard being snatched from the jaws of starvation in Europe.

"That's how Mrs. Ward knows about you and why you are being summoned to the royal presence. She's a lion hunter—the celebrity ever escapes her if they stop off in town for as much as an hour."

"Shelton's not a bad person to know," Kay put in. "Has loads of money."

Famous Estate

"That's rank heresy for you not to have heard of the famous Ward estate, 'even if you have lived all your life abroad,' Clyde said. "It's one of the favorite perennials of the Sunday supplements—almost as well known as the Firemiths' estate of the Astors in Washington.

Both of them have eighteen hole golf courses on the grounds, so that gives you some idea of the size of Ward Park, as the duchess calls her daughter."

"I'd love to go there some time," Kay said, enviously. "I've been here for five years now, and I've never been asked inside the gates. I can't see how I can possibly interest a woman like Mrs. Ward. Jeanne interrupted. "My experience is little different from that of thousands of other girls who were caught abroad."

"Ah, but your name is Hallard," the professor reminded her. "In Mrs. Ward's eyes, that makes a big difference. Your father and your grandfather were contemporaries. Hillon, her family made its fortune in the packing business, Amory Hallard made his in farm machinery."

Clyde added that, unlike the elder Hallard, Hillion and his daughter had gone in for acquiring personal possessions and social standing rather than using their money philanthropically.

"Her fortune is still pretty much intact," he said. "The Duchess, of course, gives generously to charity and various movements but the world always knows about it. It is not one to hide her light under a bushel."

"You've succeeded in arousing my curiosity about Mrs. Ward," Jeanne said. "I think I'll go at that. It may be fun."

"There never was any question in my mind whether you would go. As I said before, when Mrs. Ward commands, the lowly ones obey. You'll see one of the most celebrated objets in the world at her place.

"She and the old man, when he was alive, virtually looted all of Europe's treasures of old masters —at least the ones that were for sale."

"You sound like you have considerably about Ward Park, Dr. Clyde. Have you been there?"

Share Hospitality

"Oh, several times. When the Duchess runs out of visiting celebrities, we mere professors are permitted to have the hospitality. She's the sort of woman who must constantly be surrounded with excitement of some kind. She's like an old general, full of plans."

The Ward place, he explained, was about five miles on the other side of Shelton from the college.

"Does she live there all alone?" the girl wanted to know.

"She lives with her nice, Lucia Ward," he answered. "Incidentally she's the old lady's sole heiress. She'll come into a tremendous fortune when her aunt dies."

"You and I should have chosen our families more carefully, Miss Roberts," Clyde said, with a half laugh. "Imagine having control of all that money — or the Hallard money, either, for that matter."

Kay adjusted her horn rimmed spectacles.

"My imagination isn't that good, Doctor," the secretary answered. "I have nothing to look forward to but a long life of hard work."

CANADA'S ROLE IN PACIFIC WAR BEING STUDIED

It is Expected Navy and Air Force Will Play Major Part

AWAITS NAZI DEFEAT

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Ottawa, Aug. 2. (CP)—While no official comment is forthcoming, there are those here who think Canada's role in the Pacific war may soon be more clearly outlined.

These facts are available:

1.—Confidential reports from the Canadian Army's 29 Italian officers with the Australian, New Zealand and American forces in the Southwest Pacific are being studied at defence headquarters here with a view to the grant of a program for possible active participation by military formations.

2.—Preliminary reports have been received by Air Vice-Marshal L. F. Stevenson and his R.C.A.F. mission in the Southwest Pacific and it is assumed they have something to do with a possible switch of Canadian air power to that area.

3.—Canadian naval doctors have started to study tropical diseases and ship conditioning on the assumption that the Canadian navy will participate in force in the Southwest Pacific theatre.

4.—Preliminary reports have been received from Air Vice-Marshal L. F. Stevenson and his R.C.A.F. mission in the Southwest Pacific and it is assumed they have something to do with a possible switch of Canadian air power to that area.

CANADIANS OPEN NEW ATTACK IN CAEN AREA
Fierce Battle Rages Three Miles From Prussia

Smashing Artillery And Aerial Blast Supports Assault

Americans Take Rennes In Heart of Brittany

Allied Supreme Headquarters, AUG. 3 (CP)—German armored columns, pressing into the heart of Brittany, captured Rennes today, while in every other point along a 70-mile front British and American forces were making powerful bids for the flanks of the enemy.

Canadian troops struck out with a new attack south of Caen which imperilled the whole Nazi defence in western France. A tremendous air and aerial bombardment accompanied the attack.

The American thrust to Rennes, ancient capital of Brittany and important rail and highway centre, came after a two-day advance which carried them 45 miles from Avranches.

The Americans were pushing swiftly toward their first great war base of St. Nazaire, 80 miles west of Rennes, which is located in the centre of the Breton peninsula. Other west coast ports have been reported in the outskirts of Dinan, after an advance of 35 miles from Avranches.

Gen. Bradley's forces thus had opened a wedge 30 lee deep and 35 miles broad in the heart of Brittany in a series of speedfield dashes.

St. Malo, a highly important port across the bay of St. Michel from Normandy, apparently was being bypassed by the rampaging American columns which had driven 45 miles deeper into Brittany.

Lashing out with a new attack supported by another of the Allied smashing aerial and artillery bombardments which saturated the area of attack with steel and fire, the Canadians struck in the 'Tilly la Campagne' area south of Caen.

This offensive intensified the danger to German troops battling a stubborn rear guard action in the hills and forest lands which they have turned into a fortified area in what is the keystone of their defences.

It is in this area, British staff officers said yesterday, that the Germans must stand and fight or with the prospect of being destroyed.

Web of Steel

The first army of a prospective counter-offensive—La Chambre aux Belgian—was wearing a strong web of steel from the direction of captured Vire and Estry.

And now the Canadians were striking out from the south with the apparent purpose of meeting it.

German resistance about the area yesterday, apparently in a state of confusion to where to go. A deep penetration into the valleys below Caen from the Canadian sector, a dispatch pointed out, would cut across the Germans' communication and would be a disaster for the enemy's campaign in the whole of the rest of France.

Rocket-firing Typhoons added the whiplash to the confused enemy rear yesterday, sending a train up in flaming destruction, damaging 19 more and destroying or damaging 136 other vehicles.

In the Roncey-Gavray area, inside a 30 by 16-mile area between Avranches and Vire, where at least two German armored divisions were faced with threat of entrapment, the roads were so cluttered with wrecked vehicles, transport that the allied bulldozers were put into action to clear the highways.

Another British spearhead was driven into the centre of the 60-mile battle-front south of Caen, its leaders thought they may be able to squeeze out through Falaise.

85,000 Prisoners Since D-Day

The invasion of Western Europe has rolled into its 59th day with at least 85,000 prisoners and 2,000 vehicles inflicted on the Germans.

(A Nazi correspondent at headquarters of Gen. Guenthe Von Kluge reported that "the situation in the western sector of the invasion front still is critical," a British broadcast said.

On the Allies' eastern sector lies the front attacking Dr. Goebbels' captured five towns before dawn and are locked at the gates of the Germans' keystone city of Villers Bocage, which now is believed to be the hub of defences.

The Germans still were defending the town, a source said, but were leaving it virtually empty for fear of the great artillery and fire shelling, a front dispatch said.

Another British column within its ten region south of Villers Bocage advanced within 2,000 yards of Juvigny-Le-Tertre, while the village of La Lande to the west and Juvigny were in Allied hands.

The Germans were fighting savagely in the area between Villers Bocage and Caen, but the Allies, although it was not yet apparent whether they intended to make a stand and fight or attempt a mass retreat, a front dispatch said, "are pushing east from the Vire Le Beny bridgehead sector in a most satisfactory manner."

German Commanders Puzzled Over What To Do With Armor in Normandy

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
(AP War Correspondent.)

With the Canadian Army in France, Aug. 3. (AP)—German commanders are "scratching their heads"—as a senior Canadian staff officer said—today over a problem that is now not merely critical but acute:

What will they do or try to do with their armored division in Normandy?

Yesterday they milled about with armor south of the Caen-Falaise road in sector of the front. Rocket-firing Typhoons caught them with their tanks —apparently uncertain just where to attempt to go. This attack destroyed 18 enemy tanks, heavily damaged 19 more, destroyed fifty other vehicles and damaged 76 more.

All the forces he has in the American sector have not been able to stop or seriously impede the 1st army's columns.

At the centre the British 2nd Army still is thudgeoning its way with two elite armored units—the Adolf Hitler and Hitler Youth Panzer divisions, along with several other divisions.

By using this relatively great force he has thus far been able to prevent a deep Canadian breakthrough to the valleys south of Caen and thus across his lateral communications—a development which, if made in strength, would spell disaster for his campaign in the whole of Normandy.

Now, he asks himself, can he move his heavy armor from this sector?

And, although up till this morning's attack, there had been no set gain by the Canadians on this front where action has been focused about Tilly La Campagne for several days, German forces in this sector already have their hands full.

750 U.S. HEAVIES SLASH BAVARIA FRIEDRICHSHAFEN

Powerful Drives Of Air Fleets Are Coordinated From Italy and England

BLOWS IN FRANCE

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 3. (AP)—More than 750 United States heavy bombers from Italy attacked German industrial targets near the Swiss border at Friedrichshafen today and the Germans said another strong American Armada was striking from England in the skies above Bavaria.

London, Aug. 3. (AP)—American heavy bombers were reported by Berlin radio to be approaching through Austria into southwest Bavaria and also in strength in western Germany in great, co-ordinated blows from Italy and England.

The big Friedrichshafen plants, manufacturing Junkers and Dornier aircraft, were pounded in a one-hour attack by 750 heavy bombers escorted by fighters which shot down 20 of the enemy planes, the United States Strategic Air Force announced.

The Swiss told of planes flying over their eastern districts, sounding sirens in Zurich, St. Gotthard and St. Moritz. The direction of their flight was not stated, but the goal was in the area of Munich, fourth largest German city, a hub of five trunk railways and a manufacturing centre for construction of robot bombs.

For 12 hours without let-up, advices of the flying from in struck England today in the longest, unbroken attack to date.

Nazi 'New Weapon,' Pilotless Pick-a-Back Bomber, Shot Down

By RODGER D. GREENE
On the British Front in France, Aug. 3 —(AP)—A German attempt to exploit a new aerial weapon—a pilotless pick-a-back bomber crammed with high explosives—failed in a spectacular but harmless crash into the sea off a British beachhead, it is disclosed.

The crewless plane was shot down by an R.A.F. fighter several nights ago.

"It's still a colossal splash but that's all," said Capt. R. C. Lewis, Montreal, who said he shot the bomber from his beach anti-aircraft post.

"The idea is old but the Germans have given it a new twist. It's a Messerschmitt-109 fighter 'married' to a Junkers-88 bomber. The latter is fully stripped of all armament and its glass-house, or pilot's cabin, removed, forming around a great block of Germans with a British advance cast of five tons of explosives under their wings to the vicinity of Vassay. A British staff officer said the front said, "we are pushing east from the Vire Le Beny bridgehead sector in a most satisfactory manner."

Yugoslav Partisans Take Fortress Of Gornjivavkuf

London, Aug. 3. (CP)— Yugoslav partisans have captured the strategic stronghold of Gornjivavuf in the Upper Vrbas River valley in Bosnia after a 15-hour battle, last night's communique from Marshal Tito's headquarters announced.

Heavy losses were inflicted on units of the German Prince Eugen division and Ustashi forces, the pro-Nazi political wing.

The partisans were declared to be in full possession of the whole breadth of Yugoslavia, but nowhere more determined battle rages in Croatia, where they set up positions to defend crops now being harvested.

QUICKER RESCUES

London, (CP)—The average time taken to free people trapped in bombed buildings in Southern England has been reduced by more than half compared with the heavy raids of 1940-41.

Allied Plans All Ready In Event of Surrender Or Collapse of Germany

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 3. (AP)—Plans for immediate follow-up of the surrender or collapse of Germany are reported here to have been worked out in great detail.

Full Co-operation of Allies.

"Officials familiar with their provisions said today that they call for co-operation among Britain, the United States and Russia in the hour of victory.

Early victory forecasts by Prime Minister Churchill yesterday brought a renewed wave of speculation here over what will happen if the Germans surrender first to the Russians, or what differences will make if they give up instead to British-American forces.

The answer given to both questions in official quarters here is: that will not make any difference. Either will accept Germany's unconditional surrender at any time or place—in the name of all the Allied powers.

Britain and the United States pledged unconditional surrender at Casablanca conference 18 months ago. Russia formally subscribed to it at Moscow. A further commitment to joint action in peace and victory as well as in war was made at the Teheran conference.

The European Advisory Commission of British, American and Soviet representatives was assigned the task of working out plans for military and political co-operation when Germany quits. The commission has completed its work.

Two Detailed Periods.

The plans cover two distinct periods:

1.—The end of organized resistance. This may cover several days or even weeks :: may come as a single orderly surrender. The enemy cannot fresh might collapse and the Russians march through to Berlin while British, American and Canadian troops were still fighting their way through France.

2.—Occupation. This provides for the occupation of Germany by British, Russian and American troops, joint occupation of Berlin, and a joint military commission to administer the country and supervise the German authorities functioning again. Completion of the task of disarming Germany, including destruction or conversion of its armament factories, is called for.

UKRAINE STATE CHARGES 150,000 PATIENTS KILLED

Committee Says Nazi Doctors Intentionally Spread Infectious Diseases

MANY ARE STARVED

Moscow, Aug. 3 (AP) —The Ukraine State Atrocities Committee charged today that 150,000 patients died in a German hospital at Slavuta, about 160 miles west of Kiev, during the two years of Nazi occupation.

The committee charged that German doctors intentionally spread infectious diseases by injecting the patients at gunpoint into a room where 1,800 were already dying of typhoid and tuberculosis.

Evidence was collected by investigators under Nikita S. Kruschev, head of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, and the committee, which included medical and legal experts, their findings were given a full page, with photographs, in all Soviet newspapers.

The patients were starved to death on a diet of 250 grams of potatoes a day, with no bread, only pulp and containing less than two per cent of starch, the committee said.

Votes Are Ordered By Ont. Labor Bd. In 2 Local Plants

Toronto, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Votes were ordered in two cases decided yesterday by the Ontario Labor Relations Board involving two Belleville, Ont., companies and their employees in the case of Local 333, United Garment Workers of America (A.F.L.), petitioner, and Deacon Brothers Ltd., respondent, and the Canadian Labor Agency, Interviewer, the board found that there was no merit in the objection on the part of the employer in the Canadian Labor Agency case and ordered that a vote be taken to decide whether or not the employees wish the agency to act as bargaining interviewer.

In another case involving Local 426, United Automobile Workers of America, (C.I.O.), petitioner, and Belleville-Sargent & Co. Ltd., respondent, the Canadian Sargent Employees' Guild, Intervener, the board decided that a vote be held to decide which of the two unions desire to bargain through the petitioner or the intervener.

Two voting constituencies are to be established; one including all employees except the office staff and all persons above the rank of foreman—both the vote will be between the petitioner and the intervener; the second constituency will include office staff who will be asked whether or not they wish to bargain through the intervener.

London, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, announced in the House of Commons today that 53,747 civilians had been killed and 68,798 injured and detailed in hospital by German bombing of Britain from the outbreak of war until last June 30.

There were no deaths or injuries in 1939.

Figures for the other years were:

1940: Killed: 23,447, injured: 30,532;

1941: Killed: 20,881, injured: 21,841;

1942: Killed: 3,236, injured: 4,159;

1943: Killed: 2,367; injured: 3,466.

1944 (the first six months only): Killed: 3,404, injured: 8,825.

Seven Hospitals Hit By Robombs

By TOM YARBROUGH
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 3 (AP)—Flying bombs droned over southern England and London this afternoon in continuation of an unbroken 11-hour assault which began at midnight and was the longest attack yet without a lull.

Anti-aircraft gunners in southern England maintained almost continuous barrage. Some robots were reported destroyed over the English channel.

Seven hospitals were hit, 10 patients being killed at one, and explosions covered a wide area. One bomb wrecked a big house 30 yards from a shopping area crowded with Saturday trade. It was feared—in the permissible phrase—that "there were a number of casualties."

The anti-aircraft guns along the south coast were in action most of the night. At dawn the commander destroyed two flying bombs simultaneously, the guns of Kraken's fifth city of old Poland. (A German report said that Stettin had been hit on 17 miles across the Vistula in that area the Russians would push the battle within 45 miles of Krakow).

Marshal Ivan Konev, the tall, broad-shouldered hero of Moscow and Stalingrad, hit Germans reeling at five Carpathian passes leading into Czecho-Slovakia, last reported 15 miles east of the Dukla pass, and in the extreme south of the active area Reds were 120 miles from German Silesia.

Outside of Warsaw, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces hammered at slowly-crumbling Nazi defences on the Narew front and the east bank of the Vistula. He appeared to be waiting for other Russian forces advancing from positions 30 miles west of Siedlce to join him for the main push across the river.

In the northern sector, where the Russians are pushing against Nazi troops isolated in Estonia and Latvia, major advances are now under way between the Dvina and the lake country north of Daugavpils.

The Germans originally were estimated to have two armies totalling 200,000 to 250,000 men in this area, but the number actually trapped was uncertain.

Further south, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's troops advanced west of Tarnopol to positions only 75 miles from Krakow and 123 miles from German Silesia, front dispatches said, capturing 15 towns and villages.

Two Vistula Bridgeheads.

(The German admitted the Russians had thrown two strong bridgeheads across the Vistula 120 miles southeast of Warsaw, and had driven 17 miles west of the river at one place.)

Chernyakhovsky's forces led the drive toward east Prussia by capturing Vilkaviskis, 11 miles from the border, taking Budreisi, slightly to the south, then moving west and smearing Dydrivke. Resistance was savage in spots, but there seemed to be no major massing of Nazi forces east of the border.

Northeast of Kaunas, Chernyakhovsky's troops appeared to be aiming at the heart of east Prussia, hitting north of the Niemen River toward Tilsit, last reported 15 miles away. They reported taken in this area and the westward drive approaches to Gumbinnen, Insterburg and Pretzisch Memel as well as Tilsit, or perhaps plunging between the two directly to the Baltic Sea.

Front dispatches said Germans were digging in hundreds at the gates of Warsaw, while Red Army tanks edged within 15 miles south of the Vistula. Stormoviks maintained low-level attacks of Nazi troops up and down the stream.

Royals of Toronto Avenge Dieppe At Caen and on Odon and Orne

By ROSS MUNRO
(C.P. War Correspondent)

With the Canadians South of Caen, Aug. 3 —(CP)— (Delayed)—This is the story I have wanted to write for nearly two years—the story of the Royal Regiment of Canada, Toronto, how it came back to Normandy and here on the Caen front avenged the heroic men of the Dieppe Raid. Battalion who were killed, wounded or taken prisoner on the beach at Dieppe in the early morning, August 19, 1942.

I went to Dieppe with the Royals and Fusiliers Mont-Royal in 1942. They went into the narrow Pulls beach 600 yards. Fifty-four of us got back to England. Now the Royals have returned to Normandy and most members of the regiment who survived Dieppe and won decorations for gallantry are with the unit.

I was in the same assault craft with them on that beach. Then a captain, Anderson was wounded in the head as he left the craft. One of the worst men in the craft full of gallant soldiers was Ruggles who was hit by a burst from a machine gun and medical aid continuously.

LETTER OF THANKS SENT TO MAYOR

The mayor and city officials are in receipt of a letter of appreciation from Captain Bruce McIlwaith, chairman in charge of the Canadian Women's Army Corps band and soldiers' benefit which headed a parade and played a concert here a few weeks ago.

The letter conveyed to the council and citizens of Belleville the thanks and appreciation of personnel of the battalion for the "warm reception and fine dinner given us during our stay in Belleville."

ASSISTS IN RESCUE OF EXHAUSTED SWIMMER

A former resident of Belleville, Mr. James Bennett, Water Street, Peterborough, played a prominent part in the rescue from drowning of Mrs. Dorothy Thompson of that city as she became exhausted during a swim across the Otonabee River at Inverlea. Hearing the woman's cry for help, Mr. Crooks, with another man, swam to her rescue and later assisted in artificial respiration.

Mr. Crooks's wife is the former Miss Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morton, Trent Road.

TYENDINAGA SCHOOL WINS SIXTH PLACE

A Tyendinaga township public school, S.S. No. 16, won sixth place in the Provincial Rural School Grounds Competition for the term of 1943-44, according tl results recently announced by J. A. Carroll, superintendent of agricultural and horticultural societies for Ontario. The competition was held under the auspices of the horticultural societies branch and has produced excellent results in improving the appearance and beauty of grounds at rural schools.

First place winner in the provincial competition was S.S. No. 11, Smith township, Peterboro County with 97 points. The Tyendinaga school with 77 points was the only Bellevile district school to be listed among the prize winners.

CARELESS DRIVING CHARGE IS LAID

In regards to the motorcycle-automobile crash, which occurred at the south approach to the upper Moira bridge, Sidney, on Tuesday, a charge of careless driving was preferred against Frank Tice, 19, of Belleville, in police court today. Following investigations it was alleged that Mr. Tice was at fault in that his motor car struck a motorcycle driven by Mervyn Thompson, 21 Ontavia St. The case will be heard in the next city police court sitting. No person sustained injuries.

TOMATO PRICES SHOW MARKED DROP

As the season for the beginning of canning tomatoes at the district canning factories is drawing near, a substantial drop in the price of this garden commodity is anticipated. Orders on hand reduce market with six-quart baskets today bringing 75 cents to $1, a substantial drop from the 40 cents the berry box two weeks ago. Tomatoes were from 25 cents to 40 cents above prices on Thursday's market.

Green corn sold generally at 10 cents the dozen ears while huckleberries brought 15 cents and 25 the basket. Bagged black currants were 40 cents and the red variety 25 cents. Cucumbers were also freely offered at 75 cents the peck, while potatoes brought $1.50 the peck. Bunched vegetables fetched the usual dime per bunch.

DISPLAY OF NORTHERN LIGHTS TONIGHT

With Old King Sol again getting in a few telling licks before being forced to say uncle by the steady rain, all is well for the interesting populace today were constructing on the type of weather to be expected following Wednesday evening's display of northern lights. Shortly before midnight lights in the northern sky were plainly visible as they flashed for some time over the northern horizon.

Many residents were heard commenting the display of northern lights in summer meant continued hot weather, while others were just as certain it was an omen of cooler weather to come. Let's trust the second guessers are the correct in their prognostication.

Capt. J. Yanover Arrives Home

Captain John N. Yanover, Canadian Armored Corps, and proprietor of the City Hotel here, arrived at his home this week after two years service overseas.

Captain Yanover, well known in this district, especially as a sports chicfas, has been attached to No. 3A District Depot, Kingston and at present is spending a few days here with his wife and family.

Receiving his second lieutenant's commission with the Argyll Light Infantry in 1942, Captain Yanover graduated from the Brockville Officers' Training Centre with the rank of lieutenant, going overseas shortly afterward.

In England he was attached to the Canadian Armored Corps and a few months prior to his return home was appointed technical quartermaster with the rank of captain with a unit of which Major "Chippy" O'Brien, former Picton athlete was officer commanding.

He returned with a number of France, Italy and Sicily veterans, who arrived at Kingston this week. Among the district men returning with him was Lieut. J. A. Redick, Trenton.

Says Germans Evacuate Troops Out of Finland

Stockholm, Aug. 3 —(AP)— Reports that Finland has withdrawn from the Germans may be in the process of evacuating all their troops in the country as a result of Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim's election as head of state, Hyll as the Finnish president.

Despite Hyll's non-committal agreement with the Germans not to make a separate peace with Russia, the Nazis were said to have sent the Finns only one infantry division and a few planes to bolster the active southern front.

This division and a German division long stationed in northern Finland were reported already withdrawn to Estonia.

(A Reuters news agency dispatch received in London from Stockholm said it was reliably reported that the change in leadership in Finland was preceded by a Finnish-German agreement in Berlin consenting to a separate Finnish peace with Russia and a Nazi promise to evacuate German troops at least from southern Finland.)

The election of Hyll and Mannerheim had received advanced assurances from Russia, England, and the United States that Finland would consider an application for such an armistice as they would guarantee Finland's independence.

POLICE COURT

"You could be charged with falsifying a document," commented Crown Attorney B. C. Denman after Ernest Hollingshead, Trenton, was convicted of having two native wine permits this year, when the case was arraigned before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in County Police Court here today.

The accused was fined $25 and the proceedings that Benn had erased the Christian name on his sister-in-law's wine permit and substituted his own. Hollingshead's wife's name was entered by Traffic Officer H. Caldwell, and following a conviction, a fine and costs, amounting to $23.75 in all was imposed.

J. B. Cassidy, Trenton, pleaded guilty to a charge of using gasoline not issued for the respective vehicle in this case he was issued, contrary to the Oil Controller's order, Cassidy was given a three months suspended sentence and ordered to pay costs of $2.00. Provincial Police investigating officers told the court Cassidy had admitted that he had purchased the gas which had been purchased for use in another car.

Michael Brant, 17-year-old Shannonville farmhand, charged with theft from his employer and was given a suspended sentence and ordered to pay costs of $2.00. Provincial Police investigating officers told the court Brant had admitted stealing to give him another chance and take him back at his old job.

Convicted of parking his motor vehicle on the highway cost Cpl. Warren Fraser, Trenton, the costs of the court, while Percy Malia, Trenton, paid $10 and costs after being convicted of driving without being in possession of the current year's licence.

A. Weatherall, Carrying Place, was assessed ten and costs after admitting failure to turn his motor vehicle out to permit another car to pass. Weatherall also received the warning of the court regarding his attitude in this case after Traffic Officer Caldwell had intimated the accused assumed had indifferent attitude when charged. Driving a motor vehicle with a forged driver's licence cost Chas. Vancoot, Belleville, $7.50 including costs.

Airman Drowns At Wellington

Member of the personnel of an R.C.A.F. Marine Section, stationed at Wellington, a young airman was drowned Wednesday afternoon while swimming off a beach in the section quarters in a former brick manufacturing plant.

Identity of the drowning tragedy victim has been withheld by air force officials pending notification of the next-of-kin.

Swimming with a number of his friends, the airman's absence was not noticed until the party decided to return to quarters. A search failed to reveal any trace of the flier and an alarm was sent out.

Grappling from were procured and some time later the body was recovered from sixteen feet of water about thirty yards off the dock, and entangled in a weed growth at the bottom of the small inlet to West Lake.

Drs. R. S. Thompson and Sarles, the former a county coroner, were called and resuscitation methods employed for a long time. These efforts proved futile and the young airman was officially pronounced dead by the doctors.

Lightly-Clad Man Cools Off in Jail

When the boys see a lassie stroll down the street clad in scanty shorts these hot days they merely whistle and lament the fact the lady sex can discard clothes in an effort to keep cool while they must be will covering.

Let a male discard his trousers in an effort to ward off the heat of the day pronto the straight-laced shake their heads in disgust, call a policeman or go hysterical.

Little yesterday afternoon just that occurred when a local man was seen wandering about the C.P.R. station, Front Street, in his shorts and a light shirt. Sure enough police were called with the result the well fact drunk charges in the city police court tomorrow. Well, at least he tried to keep cool, little thinking he would finally cool off in the cooler.

Otherwise about town another man took yesterday's heat wave to such a degree he is now languishing in the county jail charged with assaulting his wife. Charges will be heard Friday also.

Hitler's Newspaper Says German Army Is Now a "Nazi Army"

London, Aug. 3 — (CP) — Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, the Volkischer Beobachter, was quoted in a Berlin news broadcast today as declaring the German Army is now a "A Nazi army and will be run by Nazi laws."

The paper, commenting upon recent events in Germany, said they "marked the transformation of the old army of the last war into the new Nazi army of 1944," and added:

"It is only obvious that in this war the army must be truly National Socialist."

Murder of Rifleman Dav. Wellman Receives First Word From Her Son Who Was Taken Prisoner at Hong Kong

Stirling, (Special)—Hope, flickering feebly in the home of Mrs. David Wellman, formerly of Roslin, and now of this village, suddenly burst forth in a full flame of brilliancy here on Wednesday when Mrs. Wellman received her first letter from her son, Rifleman David Wellman, who has been a prisoner of war in Hong-Kong for nearly three years.

The letter, its date of writing and place of origin deleted by captor censorship, was received by the sad cloud of Japanese censorship that has enshrouded Hong Kong activities since its capitulation in December, 1941.

However, comparative freshness of the letter, despite its lack of dates, brings the belief that it was written fairly recently.

Not Aware of Father's Death.

The young soldier, who apparently has not been in receipt of the weekly letters written by a hopeful family, starts his letter with "Dear Mother and Dad," and it is hoped unaware, according to this, that his father had died. Also, the letter bears Japanese markings on the envelope, pointed out by Wellman family as a Chinese friend interpreted the marking as being those of the Japanese.

"I am very grateful to the Japanese", Rifleman Wellman writes "for this opportunity of writing you. It is well and I hope this letter finds you all at home the same. I just think of the good times we had to be here. I hope by this time next year to be back home again. Please remember me to all." Many friends. I hope to get a reply to this letter very soon."

That is all there was in the letter.

Enlisted in 1940.

Rifleman Wellman, enlisted with "B" Company, Midland Regiment in Picton in early 1940. In October of that year he transferred to the Royal Rifles of Canada and left for overseas the same month.

On December 15th, 1941, Mrs. Wellman received a cable that her son was "missing from his unit" at Hong Kong.

A year elapsed. But hope did not die in the Wellman breast. In October 1942, the family received an official communication that Rifleman Wellman was a prisoner of war in the hands of the Japanese.

Various stories that trickled in from time to time from Japanese occupied Hong Kong activities, the former British beaten, brought the news of the missing Canadian soldier. This did not deter Mrs. Wellman from writing to her son's sisters, which she apparently has never received.

Now there is joy in the Wellman household and needless to say, a warm welcome is extended welcome back to the lonely Canadian soldier "Somewhere in Hong Kong".

Pte. W. Gardiner Back From Overseas Sees 4-Year-Old Son For First Time

Seeing his four-year-old son for the first time, Pte. William Gardiner, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gardiner, 723 Foster Ave., arrived back in Belleville on Wednesday after nearly five years service. Enlisting in September, 1939, with the Lincoln and Welland Regiment he went overseas with the first contingent the same year and was stationed in England for an Headquarters with service both in England and the Mediterranean war theatre.

Going to Africa at the main Canadian forces when they went ashore at Brest in 1940, Gardiner was in France in full swing before being forced to return to England and the Invasion of Normandy Isolation. In June, 1943, he went to the Mediterranean front for the advance guard and was "dunked" off Algiers when an Axis sub got St. Catharines girl.

their ship. He was picked up and landed at Algiers only to be hospitalized following an attack of malaria. In later saw service back in Sicily and in Italy, as cash pay officer in the latter war theatre.

After almost five years overseas Pte. Gardiner is back enjoying civilian past tis peak and that the war in Europe will soon be over. His brother, Sergt. Pilot Gardiner, R.C.A.F. overseas, is also with the forces now serving in the highest praise.

Born in Niagara Falls, Gardiner enlisted in the Toronto military district and was stationed at Camp Borden, returned to that depot before beginning his 30-day furlough. His parents moved to Belleville six years ago, his father being an C.N.R. engineer out of this centre. His wife is a

The War Today—Hitler's War Machine Starts to Break Up As in East

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Allies continue to tear into the disorganized Nazi ranks on the various fronts of Europe, and a late dispatch from British headquarters in Normandy says that, in the battle of the Falaise gap, "the great retreat."

That may well be so. The odd fact is the Germans are up against an overwhelming strength in both men and materials which have been spared through the bloody beachheads of Normandy.

Hitler's fighting machine in France is beginning to break up, just as it is doing on the eastern front.

If the Americans succeed in cutting off the Brest peninsula and capturing the great port of Brest—and today's reports indicate amazing progress — it will provide harbor and rail facilities which will aid the Allied striking power. However, Cherbourg can fill the bill for the time being without Brest, and we may expect that there will against further Allied invasions be no delay in pressing the drive on Paris. The Canadians and Britons are destroying the Nazi right wing and the centre in the Vire area while the Americans are in Britanny on the other flank.

Pagan Gods Desert Hitler

Hitler's pagan gods have deserted him. At last he's feeling the mighty gelatin of the Red Army's fist.

Yesterday and today in the vital Red armies slashing his entire line from Estonia to the Vistula at the very border of the "sacred soil" of East Prussia. It's a giant's grasp from the eastern theatre to bolster his hard-pressed forces in France. And he has nothing like enough men or equipment in the west to prop things up for long.

The Germans claim that the Allies have 50 divisions in Normandy, but that's so it might mean close to 700,000 men. When you consider that the Germans have only about 65 divisions in western Europe, Hitler's problem becomes double clear, for he has many points to protect with these troops.

ROYALS

we could not hit back." said Anderson. "But the chance came and the battalion was practically all new but everyone knew its business. It was as anxious as we were to pay off a debt."

On the night of July 18 the Royals captured Lovejoy Wood and a 17th. Century chateau, the scene of conferences before the Odon River flows into the Oren. All night long the Royals dug in orchards and through woods. Anderson directed the attack and Ruggles was there, too, for his revenge.

Then the Royals went over the Orne and on July 25 shared in the Canadian attack south of Caen against the German line guarding the road to Falaise, 15 miles to the southeast. While the Royal Hamilton-Light Infantry, another Ontario Regiment, fought its way into Verrieres, five miles south of Caen, the Royals under Anderson's direction got two companies 600 yards behind the village.

The Germans threw in counter-attacks and the enemy soon had them around the town. A squadron of Canadian tanks commanded by Major Denny Lane, D.S.O., Toronto, supported the Canadians. The Royals could not be relieved for half a week when they established themselves on a knee just east of Verrieres which they held well due in.

During the night the Germans came at the Royals, S.S. Troops, big, strapping soldiers accompanied by tanks, they waved potato-masher grenades and other weapons, shouted, screamed, and made all the noise they could.

The Germans thought they could scare us into bolting but the men stuck tight in their trenches and not one of them moved," said Capt. Struthers. "They held their fire until the Germans were right on top of them and then we blasted them with everything we had."

Not a single German who got anywhere near the Canadians returned to his lines. Enemy dead littered the grain field before the Canadian positions. After the attack was beaten off and then another was made with the same wild shouting. Some Germans bellowed at the Royals: "Surrender, Canadians!" and the Royals shouted back "To Hell with you, you sons of ——!"

The Royals drove off this attack also.

The Germans gave up trying to break through the Royal defence and on August 2, C.N.S. engineers and sappers, the Royals, were "just the usual hill—mortaring and shelling."

"New and Secure Foundations"

The world can trust Prime Minister Churchill for a phrase. On Tuesday he said "the whole of Europe is adding irresistibly into new and secure foundations." He declares among other striking things that the end of the war would come perhaps soon. "I no longer feel bound to deny that victory may come perhaps soon." In reference to the length of the struggle he noted, that the interval between the end of the war with Hitler and that with Japan "will be shorter—certainly not longer—than the one time supposed."

Mr. Churchill's speech on Tuesday was a masterly effort. In it the great British leader who for long stood with the British nation almost alone, fighting the foe when the Axis was most strong, demonstrated that the democracies of the world have not disappointed their leaders and the faith that democracy had in their power to fight against the powers of darkness and evil.

The strength of this great leader was indicated again as he paid high tribute to Russia by quoting in full the powerful English words his praise of the Russians, "It is the Russian army who have done the most work tearing the guts out of the German army."

The events of late have shown the mighty power of the Allied federation of United Nations, girded to the utmost of their power to beat down the Nazi dragon and the Teutonic beast. Battles in the east of Europe and the invasion through Normandy with the rescue of the greater part of Italy from the hands of the Nazis show how the Allied Nations have stood together in their great cause.

The master of irony indulged one moment in a reference to Von Papen that might make the mind of the German vey uneasy who failed to keep Turkey neutral and might now be returned to Berlin "to take part in the blood bath that he so narrowly escaped at Hitler's hands in an earlier period."

He warned the Hun of the consequence of the bombing by robots, which serve no military advantage.

Hun Realization

If the Hitlerites ever read the references to the approaching collapse of Germany, it must make them bitter to realize that the people whom they have trodden under the feet of their battalions and tried to blow to bits with their bombs are about to come back into their own after the purge of this tyranny from Europe.

While Hitlerism is still making its last desperate efforts to hang on in hope of a way in which to crawl out, the world of freedom is getting ready for the liberation of the nations and their restoration. Everything that Hitler has fought for is crumbling away on the battlefields of Eastern Europe, on the northern stretches of Italy and in the land of the Normans and Bretons.

The enemy must now have come to the stage where he can see no way out and realize that his exodus from the scene must soon begin. It must enrage the insensate beast of Hitlerism to realize that all its viciousness and foulness did not shake the peace-loving peoples of Europe.

The time draws on apace when the usurpers of occupied Europe must yield and those responsible for atrocities prepare to face the judgment of this world.

Once again Germany approaches the time when she must surrender and this time there will be such control as will prevent her escaping retribution. Twice she and her leaders have plunged the world in blood. Just 25 years ago she tried it on a world-wide scale. She collapsed in 1918 and the collapse that is ahead will be even more great. The Hun can never again say with the lie on his lip that he was not beaten in this war and in the past.

A cry was made this week that "the hour has struck," that the climax has been reached" by a German political broadcaster with a wail that the Allies are bringing to bear against the enemy the Allies' total military power. What else would a Hun expect the peace-loving nations to do, than to go on a basis of power in order to crush military tyranny forever. Then he lamented that Allied decision was reached "to stake all on one card in a sweepstake effort to win the war in a matter of weeks before we can use our new weapons." The Hun realizes he is not staking all on a sudden decision to end the war. What they have been doing has been to build up Allied power to the sublimest power so that the Hun can be swept off his foundations in the most effective manner.

"Our new weapons" of the Huns, what are they? One of these is the robot bomb which does nothing of any military consequence but kills civilians and destroys their homes. It was the Hun, the would-be destroyer, speaking when those words were used, "before we can use our new weapons."

As has been said the robot bomb has achieved nothing of military value, it has only strengthened the decision of the people to call Germany to account for her deeds of murder.

Dr. Otto Kriegk, political broadcaster, was thinking of "new weapons" of Germany and only hoping for a chance to use them and regretting that they could not be of any service.

That is the attitude of the Hun. Monday it was said that the German attitude towards the bomb attempt upon Hitler did not show much sympathy for people who were apathetic. Huns' regret is only that Germany has not been able to enslave the world for Hitler's herrenvolk.

But the effort of the enemy is becoming dust and ashes and with the elimination of this evil the world will set itself about to correct the evils and wash away the stains of aggression and tyranny.

Only 10 Years

(Montreal Gazette)

Yet it was only ten years ago today that the venerable Hindenburg died, and this man, who had seemed so unequal and so ill at ease in Hindenburg's immense presence, added the finishing touch of his office to his own, and became supreme in the Reich. There would be nothing but the bitterest futility in recalling this anniversary did we not learn, from it, the lesson for the future. If it is only ten years since Hitler seized supreme power, it is only five years since he placed himself in a position powerful enough to challenge and affright the world.

Five years is not long in passing, particularly when nations rest in a fool's peace, and take an excessive comfort from their inherent powers. It took only five years for the blind and despairing country to attack the world, and it will take about five years for the world to put that country down.

Is it only ten years since Hitler took power? So we ask, and in so asking we confess how we have failed to measure our years, while Hitler intensely measured his minutes. But, from being the most criminal calamity in our history, it could be the most constructive, if we will only be wise in time.

Worse Than Ancient Huns

(Hamilton Spectator)

The Huns on the whole are no different from their early forebears in goatskin who murdered and plundered throughout the same Europe. The leopard cannot change its spots, and the Huns are jungle beasts; those of this day, from the German lowlands down, are mentally the barbarians of old, in whom the blood lust runs wild and menaces all civilization. They have advanced little from the code of their raw ancestors, save in the skills of destruction and slaughter. When the mood takes them, they can easily out-Hun Attila and his ferocious hordes.

JUST FOLKS

CROW-TERROR

I'll stand, wherever I must go,
To watch a kingbird fight a crow;
To see the black and bulky thief
In size and strength find no relief,
But helter-skelter quit the field
And to its tiny rival yield.

Above him, not one-tenth his size,
The gallant little kingbird flies,
And proves the crow, with all his stuff
And raucous boast, is mostly bluff;
A feathered bully of the air
That stand to battle doesn't dare.

"Go to it, kingbird!" oft I shout,
"And knock the flabby monster out!
Go to it! Sock him one for me!"
Ashamed that fellow ought to be
To dive and turn and rend and twist
From such a small antagonist!

And yet I wonder, can it be
That lesson's meant for men like me?
The kingbird driving off a crow
Is merely letting mortals know
That size and strength in fear depart
In terror from a fighting heart.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 3rd, 1924

The Rev. J. J. Wilson of this city will preach at the Old Boys' Reunion service in Simcoe Street Methodist Church, Oshawa.

Mr. Milton S. MacKay, formerly agent for the C.P.R. and Dominion Express Company here, has been appointed General Passenger Agent for the Northern Navigation Company with head office in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Deacon have returned to Rochester, N.Y., after visiting relatives here.

30 YEARS AGO

Belleville residents who are touring Europe these days of war rumors, include Mrs. Thomas Ritchie, Miss Holden, Rev. A. R. Sanderson and Mrs. Sanderson, Mr. John Elliott, Mr. Charles J. Bowell, Mr. H. P. Ketcheson, Mr. L. E. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Reid and Captain C. F. Wallbridge and family, also Mr. McRae, who is visiting his home in Scotland.

The Tyrolean stage which has been the connecting link between the C.P.R. at Ivanhoe, and Bellerille for many years, has made its last trip as carrier or express; other arrangements having been made to forward the express here. The stage, however, will make two trips weekly to this city. Messrs. Tanner, the proprietors, will devote their attention to business in Madoc.

The effect of the war outbreak in Europe and the war rumors of further entanglements have itself felt here today in a serious manner, as representative of cheese exporters have received notice to buy no more cheese owing to the menace to commerce.

Unpretentious Men, Many Over Age, Perform Great Work on Tank Repairs

By ERNIE PYLE

Somewhere in Normandy — (by wireless) — I know of nothing in civilian life at home by which you can even remotely compare the contribution to his country made by the infantry soldier with his life of brutality, suffering and death.

But I've just been with an outfit whose war work is similar enough to yours that I believe you can see the difference between life overseas and in America.

This is the heavy ordnance company which repairs shot-up tanks, wrecked artillery, and heavy trucks.

These men are not in much danger. They work at shop benches with tools. Compared to the infantry, their life is velvet and they know it and appreciate it. But compared with them your life is velvet. That's what I'd like for you to appreciate.

These men are mostly skilled craftsmen. Many of them are above military age. Back home they made big money. Their jobs here are fundamentally the same as those of you people who work in war plants. It's only the environment that is different.

These men don't work seven, eight, or nine hours a day. They work from 7 to 7 in the morning until darkness at night. They work from 12 to 16 hours a day.

You have beds and bathrooms. These men sleep on the ground, and dig a trench for their toilets.

You have meals at the table. These men eat from mess kits, sitting on the grass. You have pajamas and sheets. These men sleep in their underwear, and they don't even know when Sunday comes. They have not sat in a chair for weeks. They live always outdoors, rain and shine.

In the War World their life is not bad. By peacetime standards it is outrageous. But they don't complain — because they are close enough to the front to see and appreciate the desperate need of the men they are trying to help. They work with an eagerness and an intensity that is thrilling to behold.

(The company is working under a half-acre of trees and along the hedgerows of a couple of adjoining pastures. Their shops are in the trucks or out in the open under camouflage nets.

Most of their work seems unspectacular to describe. It just consists of welding a new piece in the sides of tanks, of changing the front end of a truck blown up by a mine, of repairing the barrel of a big gun hit by a bazooka, or of welding the coils of a radio, or welding new teeth in a gear.

It's the sincere way they go at it, and their appreciation of its need that impresses me.

Corp. Richard Kelso is in this company. His home is at 11236 Rose-St.) Chicago.

He is an Irishman from the Old Sod. He apprenticed in Belfast as a machinist and then went to sea. He went to America when he was 20 and now he is 45.

He still has folks in Ireland, but he didn't have a chance to get over there when he left. He married in England. He is thin and a little stooped, and his fingers stain like pencil. He is quiet and intent and very courteous. He never did get married.

Kelso operates the milling machine in a shop that is completely covered deep with extra strips of steel, for these boys pick up anything heard and it makes a pretty mighty hoard money.

When I stopped to chat, Kelso had his machine grinding away on the rough tooth of the gearwheel of a tank.

The part that did the cutting was one he had been working on most of his business of war so much in unforeseen, so much is riding on each right moment that were it not for improvisation, wars would be lost.

The tooth he was working on, for instance. Suppose a tank strips three teeth of one side of a gear. Then it is helpless and out of action. They have no replacement when they stock. They have to repair the broken one.

So they take it to their outdoor foundry, make a form, heat up some steel till it is malleable, pour it in the form and—mould a rough gearstooth which is then welded on—and there's a new tooth. Sometimes it requires almost complete relief. Of course only a physician can inject that into a living vein.

THE WIDOW FO-KO-MOO

Your little brochure "Unbidden Guests" is just about the most useful thing of the kind I've seen. It found many effective helps in it for ridding the house of cockroaches, ants and fleas. But there's one pest, a dangerous one, you failed to deal with—the black widow spider.

(Mrs. W.W.)

Fo-ko-moo is one name (unknown origin) for the spider otherwise known as black widow, hourglass spider, absolution spider, T-dot-spider, or, scientifically, Latrodectus mactans.

Distinguishing feature of this spider, whose bite produces painful but rarely fatal poisoning, is the brilliant red or yellow hourglass-shaped patch on the belly of the otherwise shiny black spider.

An hour or two after person has been bitten by a black widow nausea, vomiting and severe pain and cramps in the belly and in arms and legs begin. At the same time there is a feeling of constriction of the throat and spasm of muscles in many parts similar to that of lockjaw (tetanus) so that the victim can speak with difficulty. Skin becomes red-hot and moist, blood pressure rises, severe convulsions, delirium and increased breathing rate and the victim becomes extremely nervous and thrashes about screaming with pain. The belly becomes rigid as a board but not tender to pressure. Blood count shows leucocytosis of 25,000 or more compared to number of white corpuscles above the 8,000 mark in your cubic centimeter (drop of blood).

So there you are. Now what to do? First a shot of morphine with atropine, to relieve or at least moderate the pain, and quieten the victim's anxiety. Then intravenous calcium chloride solution injection into the vein. Effect of this is dramatic within ten minutes at the most in the experiences almost complete relief. Of course only a physician can inject this into a vein.

The absence of medical care saybody can give the victim of a black widow bite calcium chloride by mouth, fifteen grains given to the solved in half a glassful of water sweetened with sugar or syrup, by 15 grains of gluconate

William A. Buckley was the first presidential nominee to conduct a campaign by radio broadcast. His example was followed in 1920 by Warren G. Harding.

Of the six Presidents of the United States who died in office, James A. Garfield was the youngest—49. The ages of the other five when they died were: William H. Harrison, 68; Zachary Taylor, 65; Abraham Lincoln, 56; William McKinley, 58, and Warren G. Harding, 57.

For 300 years the Harvard English Department persisted in spelling the name of the great English dramatist, and poet "Shakspere" on the theory that was the manner he spelled it that-way. A few years ago Harvard changed the spelling to read "Shakspere" for the more generally accepted "Shakespeare."

NAZIS CRISIS IN THE EAST

From East Prussia to Turkey, events on the eastern front rush to critical showdowns. The Red army, travelling at times at the rate of a mile an hour, is reported (1) at Warsaw's gates, (2) threatening the penetration of the "Suwalki triangle" annexed to Germany in 1939. The Reds are in pre-war Germany. In Turkey (3), the threat of war is imminent as Turkey breaks off diplomatic relations with Germany.

Canadian Troops in France Told Of Murder of Their Comrades by Nazis

By ROSS MUNRO
(CP War Correspondent)

With the Canadians in France, Aug. 1, (CP Cable)—From the battle-line to base areas Canadian troops in France were officially told today of the murder of 19 of their comrades by members of the German 12th S.S. Panzer division.

A statement from Lieut.-Gen. Crerar, Canadian army commander, giving the stark facts of this atrocity was read to the troops by officers and posted on every orderly room notice board.

The 300-word statement said a court of inquiry after an exhaustive probe had determined that the 19 Canadian soldiers taken prisoner were "deliberately murdered . . . in clear violation of the well-recognized laws and usages of war".

The General's statement said the troops should not allow their deep anger to take, under any circumstances, the form of retaliation in kind.

In silent anger the troops listened to this official confirmation of a story many of them had known for weeks—that Canadian prisoners had been shot in cold blood by their German captors. Then for fresh fighting hatred hardened to savage battle, like men who had death all around them, this was shocking, bitter news.

Occurred Near Favie.

The murder of these 19 soldiers occurred near Favie, two days after the landing. Favie is a district of the Caen-Bayeux highway, and towns in the district include Bretteville, Le Mesnil, Putot, Norrey-en-Bessin and Putot-en-Bessin, where Canadian troops fought.

Thirteen were shot in one group with Schmeiser machine-guns, and the remainder were shot in small groups. The bodies were left unburied by the Germans and later buried by Canadian troops when the area was occupied. One of the murdered Canadians was an officer.

This is the first confirmed case of enemy atrocities against Allied troops in Normandy. There were no such authenticated incidents in Sicily or Italy.

Informing Canadian war correspondents of the findings of the court of inquiry a Canadian staff officer suggested the Canadians had been executed because a German commander was infuriated as their refusal to talk when interrogated. The German officer responsible for the slaying was said to be a small major.

Proof that the Canadians had been taken prisoner and that they were fit and well before they were shot was obtained from French civilian witnesses.

Antagonies Performed

All the bodies were later exhumed so that autopsies might be performed by a well-known pathologist. The court of inquiry was instructed to ensure that its findings would stand careful scrutiny and the chairman — a major-general — was not a Canadian by the request of the Canadian army. Other members of the court were two brigadiers and two lieutenant-colonels. The court's report was "completely dispassionate," said a Canadian staff officer, and every effort was made to ensure that the German case was presented.

The evidence presented to the court, however was sufficient to hang any man in any court in the world," the officer added.

The 12th SS troops who carried out the murders are a Hitler youth division which the Canadians have fought and beaten in a half-dozen battles on this sector. They always provided ferocious opposition and fought to the end.

Members of these SS divisions are youths whom Hitler trained for war. They have little knowledge other than that of fighting. Most of them are less than 20 years old and have been in some kind of army organization for six or seven years. They are trained killers and when you see them in pictures of war reports they look their part despite their youth. They have been the Canadians' bitterest enemies on the Norman battlefields.

Last month Lieut. Leo Heaps of Winnipeg said it was the opinion of "several soldiers" that at least 30 Canadians had been "murdered" by the Gestapo in the tiny town of Audrieu. Heaps, attached at the time to the British army, told at an army base in England how the bodies of the men lay sprawled against a wall and suggested that they had been killed "cold-bloodedly, probably after capture." French residents said the Gestapo had been "busy" in the vicinity and although Heaps stressed the fact that there was no official confirmation, he was of the opinion the men had been "murdered."

CANADIAN GREETS WINNIE

Group Captain W. R. MacBrien, Ottawa, commanding officer of the Canadian fighter sector in France, greets Prime Minister Churchill as he arrives on his recent visit to the Royal Canadian Air Force, in France.

Ab. K. Gunter, Trenton, Took Part In Fast Sea Action Off Brest

A United Kingdom Port: —Just before a Canadian destroyer went into action with an all-Canadian group against enemy armed trawlers off Brest, Able Seaman Keith Gunter, of Trenton, Ontario, was posted in the "crow's nest", high above the ship. Gunter was to be the "eyes" of the ship in the torrid action which ensued and which resulted in three enemy trawlers being sunk in their own backyard.

When Gunter reached his post, the ship's Captain tilted back his head and shouted at him: "Can you hear me?"

No answer.

"Can you hear me there in the Crow's Nest?" bellowed the Captain.

No answer. But Able Seaman Gunter could be seen at his post.

"Can you hear me", bellowed the Captain in a voice that could be heard half-way to London.

"No, sir", came the prompt reply from the lofty perch.

During the 55-minute action, which ensued, Able Seaman Gunter must have spent a harrowing time, for the Oerlikon fire from the German ships was cracking high and savagely around the destroyer. But he stuck to his post and reported faithfully.

Then the action was over. Gunter's ship, the last in the line, headed for home. Reports on the scrap were received from H.M.C.S. Qu'Appelle, the senior ship, and the other ships in the group. The captain of Gunter's ship was on the bridge discussing the action with his officers.

Twenty minutes went by. A half hour. Then from the Crow's Nest came a timid but insistent voice. It was Able Seaman Gunter who had been forgotten in the heat of the action and in the elated period immediately following.

"Please, Sir", he begged, "may I come down now?"

"Yes, Gunter", said the captain in an almost conversational voice, "do come down".

Able Seaman Gunter promptly obeyed.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

London, Aug. 2 (CP)—When the war ends, General Montgomery may find himself engaged in a new campaign, the battle of politics.

Rumors, which so far have brought no comment from the commander of the Allied land forces in Normandy, suggest there may be a political career waiting for him when he finishes his immediate job of licking the Germans.

"There is some ground for believing that the general does cherish political ambitions, and we agree with those who are hoping that he eventually he will stand for parliament," said the Daily Mirror in an editorial titled "Monty, M.P.?"

"He would possess the confidence of a great proportion of his countrymen and make an ideal representative of all those who are fighting in this war. It is easy to imagine him becoming an outstanding figure in the House of Commons.

"It is suggested, with what degree of accuracy we do not know, that he contemplates associating himself with the Liberal party, in which case that ancient and somewhat moth eaten political organization might get more pep than other parties a real run for their money."

Brian Colquhoun, 41-year-old director general of aircraft production facilities of the Ministry of Works, is resigning his position to go into practice as a consulting engineer. Colquhoun always kept a pair of wooden scissors on the wall of his office inscribed "to be used for the red tape only."

Lady Spencer, one time Lady-in-Waiting to the Queen and now a county councillor in the women's land army, was calling at the palace and as she passed through the gates a group of American soldiers asked her the meaning of the letters W.L.A. on her armlet.

"Women's land army," she replied.

"Is that so," said a soldier. "We thought it might be we love America."

Motion For Withdrawal Of Charge Is Denied

Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 2 (CP)—A motion asking withdrawal of charge of ill-treating a soldier against Lt.-Col. W. A. McIntosh was denied today during a general court martial at the Canadian Driving and Maintenance School. The motion was made by W. C. Kerr of Chatham, civilian counsel for Col. McIntosh, who is a former resident of Windsor, after Capt. R. D. Evans, prosecutor, completed his case. The motion made no reference to a second charge against the colonel—of conduct prejudicial to good order in the army.

The charges arose out of incidents June 26. Col. McIntosh is charged of assaulting Cpl. W. J. Sillers in the Officers' Mess for refusal to serve a bottle of liquor for which the officer had no permit.

Lieut. A. R. S. McDonald of the R.C.A.M.C. testified today that he treated Sillers for scratches and bruises after the incident and said that one of the corporal's teeth was chipped and another loosened. Capt. E. M. Warren, dental officer, said he attended Sillers the day after the incident and the corporal's teeth were removed but that the had been done because they were bad.

Mrs. A. P. Stephens, John Street, spent last weekend at Moira Lake.

Misses Mary and Jean Cook, William Street, are holidaying at Camp Tawas, Michigan.

Mrs. R. Smith is holidaying with friends at Moira Lake.

Mr. Charles Randall is holidaying in Napanee, the guest of his sister, Mrs. H. B. Post.

Dr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Stobie returned home yesterday, after an extended holiday trip to Alberta and West Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Cousins and Shirley and Joyce Jenkinson, all of Hamilton are spending two weeks visiting with friends at Moira Lake.

Allan McKenna, Burnham Street, underwent a serious operation in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday.

Mrs. G. B. Poste, of Napanee, has been spending the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Neva Masterson, in this city. Also visiting Mrs. Easterbrook were her daughter, Barbara, Napanee, and Dolores Poste, of Kingston.

Despite the warm weather which did not seem to darken the spirits of anyone or mar the success of the evening, the girls of the Belleville Hospitality Club and St. Michael's Club were royally entertained on Wednesday night by the air force personnel of Mountain View Bombing and Gunnery School. The occasion was a dance, arranged by the station, following the Field Day which was held during the afternoon. A large crowd of enthusiastic dance and music lovers was reported as in attendance, some girls hailing from the town of Picton and surrounding district. The Mountain View Jive Bombers was the featured band for the event, and as usual was very well received by everyone.

WEDDINGS

KERR—HALL

St. Nicholas Anglican Church, Kingston Road, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 7 p.m. on Saturday, July 29, when Rev. K. D. Whalsingah united in marriage Evelyn Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall of 21 Medford Avenue, Toronto, and Kenneth Wellington Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr, of Marmora.

The bride was becomingly attired in aqua blue designed georgette with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mrs. Vera Beck was her sister's bridesmaid. She was dressed in pink silk jersey with blue accessories. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. The groom was attended by Everett Nobes.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with about seventy in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr will reside in Toronto.

BOYER—HEDGER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Thomas' Church on Friday, July 28, at two-thirty o'clock, when Dorothy Jean Hedger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hedger, became the bride of Lawrence Joseph Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Boyer. Gladioli in a profusion of hues formed a lovely floral background for the occasion. Rev. Rural Dean A. Beauchamp Payne officiated at the ceremony. Prof. E. Wheatley, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., presided at the console of the organ.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was a charming picture in a floor length gown of white chiffon, fashioned with a lace bodice falling into a full sweeping skirt, sweetheart neckline and long tight fitting sleeves. Her headdress was a halo of French lace from which fell a cape length veil. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Attending the bride were her two sister, Mrs. Everett Dickey and Mrs. Cecil Post, the former wearing a long gown of pale green lavender organdy, and the latter in lavender chiffon. Both were shoulder length veils and carried bouquets of pink roses.

Misses Arlene and Dorothy Dickey, nieces of the bride, were very pretty little flower girls in their pastel blue voile frocks with matching Dutch caps and carrying nosegays of pink roses and baby breath.

Mr. Everett Dickey acted as groomsman.

The Secret of Charm

Lovely Janet Blair knows health is one secret of charm.

By HELEN FOLLETT

GOOD APPEARANCE, as we have come to know and appreciate it, is within the reach of nearly every woman who is blessed with health and fresh tricks like a little Swiss watch. Women who have distinguished themselves on the stage and screen, who have prominent places in the world of business and industry, are good looking. They are perfectly groomed, they wear clothes that are flattering and in good taste, and that's the big factor, a factor much more important than features or figure.

The really great beauty creates her own type. She submerges little defects that may be present, by developing a radiant personality. She creates so strong an impression or illusion of beauty that any irregularity of feature is lost sight of, overlooked.

Expressiveness of Eyes.

It is doubtful if there ever lived the perfect.

Lily Langtry was considered the greatest beauty of her time. Years ago, an old lady who knew Lily well told me that when she wasn't turning on her charm, she was downright plain, that her loveliness was in expressiveness of eyes and lips.

One of the greatest drawbacks to chic appearance is the failure of the majority of women to see themselves in full length perspective as others see them. A full length mirror should be among every woman's good looks equipment.

Vitality Necessary.

No woman can be animated, sparkling, unless she is blessed with vitality. She must get her beauty sleep before she really needs it, she must wash out her lungs with fresh air, and get exercise out of doors to keep her musculature in firm condition.

Creams, lotions, make-up, pretty clothes are wonderful helps, but nothing in the world will bring a real glow like a sunny nature, splendid health, a kindly attitude toward one's fellow creatures.

It's not just how you look, pretty or plain! It's what you are, what you are doing with your life.

Items of Interest For Women

To Remove Lipstick Stains.

Lipstick or rouge marks at the neck of that favorite dress frock needn't be a problem. If the dress be washable, first rub a little vaseline or glycerine into the stain before you launder it in gentle fine fabric suds. For material that won't wash, or when you want to remove the stain without dipping the whole dress, first rub in a little vaseline, then sponge with carbon tetrachloride. If a trace of color remains, sponge with denatured alcohol. For acetate rayon and colored materials, use one part alcohol to two parts water—that is, one-half cup alcohol to one cup water.

Take Care of Leather Luggage.

When that leather suitcase or trunk has become shabby, it is simply a matter of minutes to improve its appearance. First, wipe the leather clean with a cloth wrung out of lukewarm water and pure, extra-strength suds. Rinse with a clean damp cloth, and rub dry with a soft cloth. Then apply a mixture of linseed oil and vinegar. To get this mixture, boil about half a pint of the oil in an old saucepan. When this is nearly cold, stir in an equal quantity of vinegar. Pour into a bottle and rub a little on the leather with a flannel. Polish with a soft cloth. Shake the bottle well each time before using.

Keep Mould Out of Needles.

Lale summer is a fine time for mold unless you take extra precautions Mold flourishes in any dark, warm shut-in space and the kitchen breadbox is a favorite abode, with much loss of good food as a result. Each week wet a wash it out with hot water and extra-soapy suds, scald with boiling water, then dry thoroughly. Leave it open to sun and air before closing it up again. To allow for proper ventilation, the breadbox should have small openings such as nail holes at each end. As crusts and odd slices of bread are most likely to attract mold, they should be collected every few days and dried in the oven for crumbs. Remember to remove all stale bread that shows signs of mold, and wash and dry the box to prevent mold spreading to other loaves.

CENTENARIAN DIES

Wife Preservers

Rotting-filled quilts may be washed by hanging them on a line and washing them down with a hose, using warm water. Soap jelled inside, rubbing the soap well in with the hands. Rinse with clear water, pull excess water by gently squeezing it between the hands, and leave on line until thoroughly dry, shaking gently occasionally.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Forbidden Fruit is Always More or Less Tempting

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a girl of 25 years and in love with a married man of 27. He says he loves me but I'm not so sure he does. He asked his wife for a divorce but she won't give it to him, although he claims he doesn't love her.

I'm not bad looking and could get other friends, but they don't interest me as much as this married friend. I've been going with him a year now. Give me advice on this subject please.

D.J.F.

It's not a new trick, that of the married man who hides behind his wife's skirts and claims she won't give him a divorce. How do you know that he isn't "stringing you along," and doesn't really want a divorce? At 25, I think you're very foolish to waste your youth on prospects so indefinite.

Sounds like a spinster aunt I know, but cut out the married man.

When Love's Young Dream Gets "Mad" and Turns Nightmare-ish

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years of age and in love with a girl of 18, whom I have been taking out for some time. Both my parents are dead and I need the advice of an older person.

My girl friend and I had an argument and now we aren't on speaking terms. I'm unable to eat or sleep on account of this, and know she's unhappy too. I'm very stubborn and am trying to forget her by running around with the boys. But when I see her, I get that old feeling again. Do you think she will make the first move if I keep on being stubborn, or shall I speak to her first?

C. D.

Just a part of the heavenly quality of youth, this getting "mad," being stubborn, refusing to speak, waiting to see which will give in first. Don't you realize what wonderful times you're missing? Why not quote President Wilson's old adage: "I'm too proud to fight." Hold out your hand to the girl the next time you meet her.

Leaves Husband When She Discovers His Former Family

Dear Miss Fairfax:

No one could have been more in love than I was when Jim and I married three years ago. He has not been drafted because he had a perforated ear-drum, and is working as foreman in a defence plant and makes a very good salary. We have no children.

A few weeks ago I discovered that in his early youth Jim had a common-law wife and had by her two children. She could not marry him at the time owing to some divorce muddle. But he has promised to marry her when that got straightened out. Meanwhile he met me. We fell in love and he never told me of this former family.

I heard about it and went to see the woman. She was very badly provided for, and seemed pitiful to me. Now I've left Jim, intend to get a divorce in the hope that he will do his duty by that poor woman. My parents say I'm a fool. But it isn't so much his past life but that he deceived me in not telling me of this family. Do you agree with my parents that I'm a fool? I could never trust him again.

Bereft

No one could consider you a fool, unless such a one wholly lacked ideals. You tell me you could never trust him again. Why should a young woman go through life with a man in whom she has no faith? He deceived you the same as he deceived the other woman. And whether he marries her or not, your decision, which is in accordance with your own conscience, seems right to me.

Picton, Aug. 3—The tag day held to raise funds to provide comfort for the crew of H.M.C.S. Hallowell, frigate named in honor of this district, was an outstanding success. Though planned only ten days previously, the sum of $1,192.11 was collected Saturday, it was revealed last night. Mrs. S. J. Collier was convener with team captains being Mrs. J. Goodwin, Mrs. S. M. Hinton, Mrs. G. Seeley, Mrs. Mc. Conway, Mrs. N. McKibbon, Mrs. R. Harrison, Mrs. L. B. Calnan, Mrs. M. Buttars, Mrs. H. Cleave, Mrs. M. Mason, Mrs. R. Cowper, Mrs. P. Kemsley.

With other donations, the unit is nearing the $2,000 mark, which is the initial objective. Word was received yesterday that the H.M.C.S. Hallowell will be commissioned into the Vikker yards in Montreal, Aug. 16. It is expected that a delegation of local people will attend.

Major F. A. Scott, M.D., Returns

Among those returning from overseas this week is Major P. A Scott, M.D, who has been in England, Sicily and Italy just under four years. He arrived in Kingston today and was met by Mrs. Scott. Major Scott was in command of the 2nd Field Hygiene Section and accompanied the Canadians to the Mediterranean area.

John Hubbs, ex-M.P., received word yesterday that his son-in-law, Capt. George Stinson, had been killed in action in Normandy. No details were given. Mrs. Stinson was formerly Margaret Hubbs and is in Montreal. Capt. Stinson was a native of Hamilton.

Mrs. S. Welsh received word yesterday that her grandson, Norman Welsh, a mariner with the U.S. force, who had been missing since June 6, is safe and well. He is the son of Ray Welsh, Rochester, formerly of Picton. He had been serving in Normandy.

Three Rutter boys are now serving in the services with the enlistment in the navy of Edward Rutter. His twin brothers, Leo and Leon are serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rutter.

Fire Call During Practice Drill.

While holding a practice drill, the local fire department received another call. Peering a door to the Ken Foster Meat Market, they found that an iron pot used to melt fat had been left on the electric heater. The building was filled with smoke but no fire had started. This is the second time that the department has received calls while holding practices.

At the Rotary Club meeting yesterday, a draw was held for three pictures donated by Garnet Hazard, Canadian artist, who spoke at the club recently. More than $200 was realized. Winners were William Branscombe, Russell Gardiner and Miss Catherine Bond. President S. M. Hinton announced that the boys' camp fund had been oversubscribed by $100. The boys who were sent to camp near Peterboro, were guests and told of their outing. W. S. Lane was guest speaker.

Parcel Travels Nine Months.

While local people are getting letters from overseas in a few days, this parcel did not fare so well. A letter received by Mrs. James Hedges yesterday from Gunner Fred Scott, in England, advised that he had received his Christmas parcel on July 13. It had been mailed on November 29. He stated the contents were still good with the exception of candy. Where the parcel had travelled in the nine months is a mystery. Other letters indicated that several other parcels sent at the same time were not received until June, while others were received on time.

Sees Action in Channel.

A newspaper story from London last week told how Canadian motor torpedo boats in the English channel smashed up three German convoys in three hours, and sank an E boat and an R boat. In a letter to his parents, Stoker Mechanic Garrett Harris reveals that he took part in this engagement. He stated that one man in his craft lost his life, and the boat received port with several holes in her. One Canadian boat was lost. This is the action in which the Germans became so confused that they fired on each other.

Heady Society.

Miss Violet Anglin of Kingston, has been appointed superintendent of Prince Edward County Children's Aid Society. She succeeds Ralph Hubbs who resigned after holding this position for 15 years. Miss Anglin took over her new duties yesterday. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Anglin, Kingston, she was educated at Kingston public and high schools and later attended Queen's University. She has been associated with Kingston Children's Aid Society since 1939 and has received special training in this work.

Mrs Mary Bell this week entered Belleville General Hospital as nurse-in-training. Before leaving Cherry Valley Sunday School, in which she was a teacher, presented her with a gift.

Canning of peas has ended in Prince Edward County. The acreage and yield was a very large one.

ALLAN MILLS

Members of W. I. Are Entertained

Allan Mills—Mrs. Morley Barlow was hostess to the ladies of the Women's Institute on Wednesday afternoon at her home. The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. Geo. Eastwood.

Several ladies handed in their yard of print, which is to be used for overseas quilts.

It was decided to send cigarettes to the boys overseas, and several ladies promised fruits, sugar, etc., to make the Christmas cakes for the overseas Christmas boxes.

It was moved that the same bodies at last year act as the buying committee for articles to be purchased for the boys' boxes, and any one caring to donate anything towards the packing of the boxes, will be gratefully received. Boxes will be packed in early October.

Mrs. A. V. Sworn, convener for historical research, took charge of the program. Mrs. A. P. Williams gave a splendid address on "The menu, "A Country can not rise above its youth".

The topic, "History of Bonarlaw Community", was given by Mrs. A. Burkitt.

Mrs. J. Barlow gave an instrumental number, and Mrs. O. Webb and Mrs. C. McKeown rendered a duet, with Jean Barlow, as pianist.

Mrs. M. Barlow put on a contest. Lunch was served by the hostess and assistant hostesses. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Lindsay Mumby. Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baker are camping at Crowe Lake.

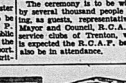
TRENTON

Fiftieth Ship To Be Launched



Trenton, Aug. 3. (Special)—An interesting ceremony is to take place Saturday at the docks of the Central Bridge Company on the east side of the Trent River when the fiftieth ship built by that company since the war, is to be launched.

The Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, is to be on hand accompanied by E. R. Murphy, Deputy Minister of Public Works, and W. F. Fletcher, of the British Ministry of War Transport.

With the request from the British Government for more and more ships, The Central Bridge Co. started a few short months ago to fill these orders. Her employees, previously bridge builders, set to work with a will to win and have gradually increased their production until at the present time every 10 days sees them finishing a ship, or sight a month. Thirty-two or the important little tugs have been built by this company this year, seven of which are at the present time in the water of the Trent waiting crews, while four of them sailed from their moorings on Saturday last. Some of these very same tugs are said to have taken part in carrying supplies during the invasion.

The ceremony is to be witnessed by several thousand people including as guests, representatives of Mayor and Council, R.C.A.F. and service clubs of Trenton, while it is expected the R.C.A.F. band will also be in attendance.

Personnel of Belleville Ladies Softball Teams Announced, To Meet Sunday Morning Class

Upwards to 40 girls from the Belleville Ladies Softball League will make up the two all-star girls' teams to play the heralded Sunday Morning Class between girls' nine from Trenton at the Fair Grounds on Civic Holiday. Two games are scheduled, afternoon and evening, with all receipts to be given to the Belleville unit of the Canadian Red Cross.

The Sunday Morning Class team is recognized as the greatest girls' softball attraction on this continent and are coming to Belleville at no expense to the Belleville Ladies' Softball League, sponsors of the ex-games for the Red Cross.

The roster of the two Belleville teams selected from the personnel of all teams in the league, was announced today by President Barnett who will guide the teams against Dr. Doyle Vaughan's Classers here on Monday.

Personnel

The first team selected to play the afternoon game commencing at four o'clock includes: Millie Foster (Reliance), Mary Reynolds (Combines), Bessie Doolittle (Sargents) and Lois Calcutt (SWACO) as pitchers; Twila Lapman (Sargents) and June Bland (Reliance) catchers; Kay Coathup (Reliance) and Jean Cornwal (Universal) first base; A. Frslick (SWACO) and E. Allison (Universal) second base; Mrs. Sword (Dascona) and Pete Manly (SWACO) third base; Irene Colden (SWACO) and Miss Martinoff (Sargents) shortstop. The outfielders include: A. Wright (Reliance), Miss. Reeves (Universal), Miss Donaldson (Dairyfield), Mrs. Bubar (Reliance) and L. Besmark and D. Read from the Combines.

The evening team's roster will be Vickie Hillier (Bombercrits), Miss Mathews (Sargents) and P. Colden (Reliance) as pitchers; Joyce Woodhouse (Dascona) and Mary Echelon (Universal) as catchers; Mills (Bombercrits), Rowbotham (SWACO) and Tuttle (Dascona) first base; Allison (Sargents) and Stewart (Dascona) second base; Doris Dorey (Universal) and Clancy Elliott (Reliance) third base with Helen Hutchinson (Universal) and Helen Garrow (Reliance) at shortstop while the outfielders will be as follows: Helen Benn, (Sargent), Dot Rorsky (SWACO) Madeline Kelleher (SWACO); Webster (Bombercrits), Reddick (Sargents), Reliance, (Combines) and two yet to be named.

McCormick Makes Scoffers Like Him

By JOE REICHLER

(Associated Press Sport Writer.)

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—Ten years ago, scouts shook their heads after watching him play—and exclaimed "he never will do," but today Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds is rated the best first baseman in the major leagues.

However, in his first full year with the Reds, 1938, McCormick clouted his way to 640 bases at bat, both high for the loop, and batted .302. He joined the select group of players who made 200 or more hits in their freshman year. The next season he topped his 200-hit total, again to lead the league in that department, and batted .327, the most potent.

In 1940, he added the doubles title and for the third time in succession led the league in runs batted in his first five years with the Reds. McCormick drove in 617 runs, more than any of the other top sluggers of the circuit in the corresponding period. McCormick has the unique distinction of being selected for the National League all-star team in each of his seven years in the majors.

This year he got off to a bad start. After hovering around the .370 mark for the first half of the season he staged a batting spree to climb to a point over .300 in the past two weeks, he drove in 54 runs, 16 at bat or a .364 average and batted in 21 runs.

RAILROADERS WIN SUDDEN DEATH GAME WITH RALLY

SCORE IS 6-5

Ability to hit in the clutches, together with some snappy infielding proved the needed combination for the local C. N. R. softballers to earn the right to continue on in the O. S. S. A. playoffs as behind the six-hit pitching of veteran Johnnie Bawden they scheeed out six runs in the seventh to defeat nine ace at the fair grounds Wednesday evening.

Trailing five to two going into the last half, the railroaders came across the plate to win the ball game, but not before showing streaks of wildness and being guilty of walking in one of the losers five runs, Bawden bore down in the latter part of the game to hold the opposition scoreless from the fourth on.

Glenn Harris did the chucking for the Alemiters and although hit for 14 safeties, fared pretty well until the seventh when infield errors proved his downfall.

Langman Triple

A hit followed by three walks filled the sacks with one out in the right foot in the third inning and when Langman lashed out a game through with rousing doubles the game appeared to be all over but the shouting. Alemiters got two back in their half, however, as Langman made his throw to shortstop's error and Wright came through with his only round tripper of the evening. Alemite added one more in the fourth on the latter's leadoff four in the seventh to end the scoring.

Harris' offerings were hit steadily by the railroaders but he rose to heights on occasion to pitch the side without damage. In the fourth and sixth innings, C. N. R. loaded the bases only to see the runners die on the baseplate.

With a triple and two singles, Carson led all hitters. Wright came a close second with a homer and a single while Bill Whalen accounted for two safeties apiece and Murray and Day two apiece. Jenkinson was the only Alemite batter to get more than one safety. Feature of the game was the C. N. R. infield play with Frank Murray at short rising to heights at times to cut opposition runners down at first base.

The teams:

Alemite: Dickey c, Hammett 2b, Phelps 3b, Barriage ss, Martin cf, Booth lb, Langman p, Jenkinson rf and Harris p.

C. N. R.: Martin lb, Langman rf, Wright cf, Day lf, Carson 2b, Murray ss, Bellis 3b, Bawden p, and Whalen c.

C. N. R. ..... 002 000 40x—6 14 1

Toronto, Aug. 7 — (CP) — What may well be the world's oldest curling rink will be in operation this winter at far-northern Fort Chimo, Wells in the Northwest Territories. There are numerous evident curlers among the employees of the Canol project at Norman, so it was only a matter of time until they got together and drew up plans for what it is believed will be the most thermonut curling rink in the world.

Ambitious backers of the plan say they intend to use three or four refrigeloo end to end and install a heating system so the rousers can cart to their hearts' content in comfort. All told there are about 150 prospective curlers now itching to get started, and most of them are having their own rocks shipped north.

Two Army Privates Expected To Sell Millions in War Bonds

By The Canadian Press

Two U.S. army privates last night were expected to sen upwards of $14,000,000 in war bonds at New York with Promoter Mike Jacobs predicting a record $10,000 ring fans at Madison Square Garden for the 10-round match between Beau Jack and Bob Montgomery, Friday, the purchase of a bond being the requirement for admission. The two fighters, both on furlough from camp, are known for punches for the fourth time and getting only training purses, although they took down about $100,000 each for their previous encounters. The bout has no bearing on the lightweight title, now held by Montgomery.

The $55,000 Hambletonian test stake, yesterday's feature of the grand circuit at Old Orchard Beach, Me., was captured by Mrs. Thorne Scully's Red Lover with the only thrill in a field of nine not nominated for the $40,000 Hambletonian at Goshen, N.Y., next fall. Yankee Maid, the favorite, was second.

Mervy (Red) Dutton, managing director of the National Hockey League last night advised E. W. Bickle, President of the Toronto Leas, he would resume direction of the clinching affairs of the sidered devoting attention to his extensive business in western Canada.

Catherine Kerr of Winnipeg provided an upset at the 38th annual Canadian carnival, Kelowna, B.C. yesterday when she defeated Shirley Strickland, Australian, in the 100-yard free-style event. Doris Geldard of Toronto bowed in the finals of the 50-yard junior girls' breast stroke feature while a Brantford team, the Lions, won the mixed medley relay to a Victoria team.

The R.C.A.F. squad from Clinton, Ont., captured the team championship in the regional track and field meet yesterday at Little Stadium, London from every other station in western Ontario while airwomen Mary Aylmer emerged with the honors in the women's division.

Lanier New Strike-Out Pitching Ace

Cardinals' Ace Has Whiffed 104 So Far in the 1944 Campaign

PIRATES LOSE

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sport Writer

Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals reigned as strike-out king of the Majors today, with his total of 104 victims boosting him past Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

The pudgy left-hander threw the third strike past seven Pittsburgh hitters last night as the Cards hammered out an 8-4 verdict to make the Bucs second trip downed 13-3 with three to go before reaching home.

Lanier's total of 104 strikeouts topped by three Voiselle's bag and was five more than Hughson acquired to pace the American League, where Hal Newhouser of Detroit was his closest competitor.

If the Cards can break even in their remaining 54 games, second-place Cincinnati could grab the flag only by winning 46 of 58, a task more than 200 points above the 1944 form.

As St. Louis aunfet Pittsburgh the smouldering pennant hopes at the start of a long home stand, the Americans had a race marked time.

White Sox Split.

The Mackmen pulled the opener out of the fire, 8-3, on a seven-run ninth inning in which a triple by Bobby Estalella and doubles by Joe Burns and Hal Epps were the big blows.

Geoff Maltzberger saved Johnny Humphries' fifth win in the finale by slogging a pinch-hit double as Chicago took a 7-3 edge. Tony Cuccinello enjoyed a perfect game with four singles.

A Chicago-Philly game was posted because of the Philadelphia Transportation strike and all other clubs were on open date.

Publicity Item.

When Beau Jack and Bob Montgomery meet in Madison Square Garden's 10-rounder Friday night, the U. S. Government will pay $15,500,000 (give or take a few million) to put on the show . . . War bond sales, that is, as costing from $1,000 to $100,000 are the only way you can get in, as if you buy a $100 bond you get to see the scrap free and the government will give you $25 for your trouble.

Washburn Is No Match For McCready

Dr. Hall Wins Unpopular Decision Over DeGlane In Semi-Final STEALS SHOW

Despite his egotistic threats "Gentleman Jack" Washburn, John Mackay manager, was challenged Earl McCready to a wrestling joust, was no match for the fearless Ontario farmer when McCready not only beat the aged Washburn in two straight falls to please 1,700 rabid fans at the Hume Arena, but McCready made Washburn say "uncle" and actually concede the second fall as he lay helpless on the mat, a victim of a hold-and toe-hold.

Although the advertised main bout proved far from general expectations in the matter of producing competition, the semi-final match between Doctor DeGlane and Dr. Len Hall not only stole the show, but saved what had been a listless program of muscle-bending and torrid sweltering weather conditions.

Protest Decision

Hall was declared the winner by Referee Cliff Fox amid a throng of boos, hisses and cat-calls from patrons who awarned the ringside claiming Hall had used illegal tactics. The bout was staged on the ropes for leverage and any partisan sympathy for Hall was adjudged to be unfair practice. But then the villain role was Hall's and his actions and Hall had previously been set up as the villain while DeGlane was the hero, everyone knows is to order. However, in this case such popular opinion didn't gain any favor or advantage and the Montreal adonis was counted out despite his popular opinion and his loud verbal protests.

For 22 full minutes of a 30-minute limit bout Hall and DeGlane staged a wrestling bout that was interesting from toe-stomping to Hall's pin-wheel antics in the hemp. DeGlane showed the stronger with his flying head scissors that did Hall no good at all. Hall's flying tackles, the step-over toehold and once grabbed a towel from the corner which he attempted to strangle DeGlane, which naturally aroused the latter's ire and he went to work with some flying headlocks. Here's where Hall came into his own with DeGlane and for a time Hall pinned him, using his feet into the ropes for leverage to get himself out of trouble. For tolled the fatal count of three and loud yells arose from the press gallery. They went for little, the decision stood and so did DeGlane as the victor.

Dunlop Knighted

In the main bout Referee Bert Maxwell aroused the ire of Earl McCready when he broke the latter's fingers off the ropes. McCready took the matter up with Referee Maxwell and gained the first fall speedily with the applause of a series of rolling figure fours to win. The second round McCready gained a body hold on Washburn to apply strong pressure making Washburn cry "enough" and conceding the whole show. McCready has disposed of Katan and his manager, Washburn, but no doubt Promoter Frank Tunney will have some new trick or trade to bring Washburn back to when the rasslers resume activities at the Hume Arena next week.

Red Embree Headed For Good Season

The Birds' fire-balling ace is tied with Al Jarlett of Rochester and Mike Ryba of Buffalo for games won, with 13, and he leads the league in strike-outs, with 104. His record assumes impressive proportions when it is seen that he has been pitching only since May 28. Until then he was with the Cleveland Indians.

Red displayed a striking propensity for racking up third strikeouts as he led the Eastern League in 1941 with 318, to be second highest in the international record of 330, set in 1923 by a young Baltimore pitcher named Bob (Lefty) Grove.

In the one league game played with Embree, Baltimore blanked Syracuse Chiefs to a 9-2 victory over Rochester. Eddie Smith was credited for both Bison runs with a homer with one on in the sixth, his 30th of the year.

A man dashed into the police station at midnight.

"My wife", he gasped. "I went out and my wife I have been missing since eight this evening. Oh find her for me!"

"Particulars?" asked the sergeant, "Height?"

"I—I don't know."

"Do you know how she was dressed?

"What-kind of dog?"

"Brindle bull terrier, weight 53 pounds, four dark blotches on his body, shading from grey to white, three white legs, and right front leg brindled all but the toes. A small nick in his left ear".

New York, Aug. 3 — (AP)—With the Brooklyn Dodgers taking two of a six-game series with the Cincinnati Reds, Manager Leo Durocher found comfort in the American pennant race. The determination is growing that anything can happen in baseball.

We however, are referring chiefly to the Yankees. You can happen single until Ernie Lombardi leads the league in stolen bases.

New York, Aug. 2 —(AP)—Back in 1937 Roy Cullenbine, current Cleveland outfielder, was doing a great deal of hitting in the minors for Toledo's Mudhens in the American Association and appeared headed for the big time.

One day fun-loving Fred Haney, Mudhen shortstop, called Cullenbine aside just before the game and made a proposition.

"Do your best out there today, Roy, a couple of times, and I'll see what we can do to get you up to the big league," Haney said.

Roy had a "2 for 4" day, made a couple of circus catches, and felt just a bit cheesy as Haney led him to a box behind the Mudhen dugout.

"Roy," Haney said, "there are the scouts who wanted to meet you."

LESSON NO. 44

By SAM GORDON
The Ribbster

Fullness, Mr. Hemingway. If you really like to squeeze, let's hold hands like those:

♥ K 7 5 2
♦ K 9 8 7
♣ 6 4

WEST — EAST
♠ 7 — ♠ J 8
♥ 9 6 — ♥ J 6 3 4 3 2
♦ A Q 10 — ♦ J 6 5 4 3 2
♣ 7 6 5 — ♣ K Q J

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 9 8 7 5
♥ A 4 3
♦ None
♣ A K 3

South is declarer at six spades. Normal play will gather the 12 needed tricks without carving any effort. But a squeeze on west will produce all 13 tricks.

The opening lead from west is the heart queen. After studying the future, south wins with the ace, draws two trumps, and takes the top two clubs. A third club is trumped by dummy.

A small dummy diamond is trumped by south, who leads all trumps except one. That leaves each player with only three cards. Here they are:

NORTH
♠ K 7
♥ 8
♦ 3

WEST — EAST
♥ J 9 — ♥ Q
♦ 4 — ♦ J

SOUTH
♠ 7
♦ 5

South now leads the last trump. West is up against it. He may as well give himself up. He must let go of a card while dummy waits to see the card that is released. West is squeezed, and how.

Shall west cough up the diamond ace? If he does, dummy fires a heart and takes the last two tricks with both hearts.

Shall west fling a heart? If he does, dummy gets rid of the diamond king and takes the two last tricks with hearts.

It is like being caught in the jaws of a nutcracker.

A ... — Lovely Hedy Lamarr, featured with William Powell and James Craig in M.G.M.'s gay star-studded romantic comedy, "Heavenly Body," coming to the Belle Sunday after midnight, 12.05 a.m.

AT THE BELLE

"Cowboy Canteen"

"Cowboy Canteen" the Columbia picture now showing at the Belle theatre has in it the greatest gang of entertainers ever corralled in one, lassie, loaded, stuffed, musical... they give out with a $1,000,000 worth of entertainment. It's filled with hard riding...grand gals...and great guys...It's a Western jam-boree of fun.

Besides the star, Charles Starrett, "Cowboy Canteen" boasts a cast of expert cowpunchers and entertainers. There are Jane Frazee, Vera Vague, Tex Ritter, Dub Taylor, Guinn (Big Boy) Williams together with the Mills Brothers, Jimmy Wakely and his Saddle Pals, Roy Acuff, and the Smoky Mountain Boys and Girls. The Tailor Maids and Bill Boyles.

"Swing Out the Blues," Gloom Chaser

"Swing Out the Blues," Columbia's newest, new film-comedy, is the delightful do-hit attraction. This new picture, said to be the hottest thing in swing and replete with rousing musical songs, is featuring the popular baritone, Bob Haymes, and lovely Jane Morris as the screen's newest singing sweethearts. Other feature players in the cast are The Vagabonds, Janis Carter, Tim Ryan and Joyce Compton. It was directed by Mal St. Clair.

Sunday Midnight Show

Hedy Lamarr and William Powell are co-starred for the second time in "What Happened to Hedy," M-G-M's star-studded romantic comedy to receive its world premiere at the Belle theatre Sunday after midnight, 12.05.

The film is a delightful tale of a marital mixup that results when a famed astronomer (Powell) takes up astrology. James Craig is cast as an air raid warden who unwittingly becomes the third angle of the triangle. Fay Bainter, Spring Byington, Henry O'Neill and Connie Gilchrist are also in the cast.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Song of Nevada"
(Roy Rogers)

Roy Rogers Ridin' the trail to danger and romance in his latest and greatest musical western "Song of Nevada" opening tonight at the Capitol theatre. As he tries to open the eyes of an eastern lovely who has fallen for a Park Avenue moothie with larceny on his mind. A tune-studded, star-filled Rogers hit, loaded with thrills, adventure and romance, with an exciting story of the modern cowboy's hope in entertainment, and the country's favorite cowboy star topping all his previous hits.

"Trocadero," Musical

Producer Walter Colmes has answered a common charge leveled against Hollywood musicals by the public's star-studded "Trocadero," the added musical hit at the Capitol theatre. Critics frequently complain that musical plots are so flimsy and unbelievable that they make the musical sequences seem like a collection of vaudeville acts.

"Trocadero" escapes this charge by presenting the biography of Hollywood's most famous night club as the framework for a tuneful, frolicsome musical. Rosemary Lane, Johnny Downs, and Dick Purcell head the cast which includes Ralph Morgan, Sheldon Leonard, Marjorie Manners, columnist Erskine Johnson, cartoonist Dave Fleischer, the Radio Rogues, Wiley Mannons and the Statisticians.

Biggest treat of the picture for popular music lovers will be the playing of four "name" bands: Eddie Oliver and his Ambition, Matty Malneck and Bob Chester—all well-known to people who have "hep"—and Freddie Slack, a musical menu which is a sure bet to send audiences wild.

A color cartoon, the serial "Captain America," as well as the six minute short subject "Badge of Honour" narrated by the famous Canadian actor, Raymond Massey complete the big program.

IN THE SENATE

Ottawa, Aug. 3 — (CP) — The Senate yesterday gave third reading to a bill extending provisions of the civil service superannuation act to cover certain classes of employees not now covered. It now awaits royal assent.

The amendments to the act will give more than 3,500 civil servants, who declined to come under the Act when it was first passed, one year in which they may take up an option to come under the act.

SPANISH FOREIGN MINISTER DIES

London, Aug. 2 — (AP) — The German DNB agency announced today the death of Spain's foreign minister, Count Francisco Gomes Jordana. The agency said he died suddenly at San Sebastian.

Drew Says Ontario Could Provide Generous Bonus For $45,000,000, Federal Plan Cost $100,000,000

Richmond Hill, Ont., Aug. 3 (CP) — Premier Drew of Ontario said last night that in the family allowance bill which has been passed by the House of Commons Prime Minister Mackenzie King "has treated our classic inflicted constitutional rights with arrogant contempt." He added that the Ontario government will "resist, in every way possible, this carefully-planned attempt to break our constitution by a steady process of attrition."

Addressing a Progressive Conservative rally in this York County town, Ontario's Premier said that while the province was not consulted on the bill it was content to pay $100,000,000, half the initial annual cost of the allowance scheme. If that otney were handled by the provincial government, expenditure of $45,000,000 would provide family allowances for Ontario on a more generous scale than America Act. That is why the government of Ontario will not consent in any such high-handed procedure."

Conference to Discuss Federal Bill

Mr. King had said in the House of Commons that the federal bill would be discussed at the coming Dominion-Provincial conference and that the provinces would be asked for their co-operation in regard to treated our classic inflicted consti- their views in detail, said the Premier, adding:

"Mr. King makes it quite clear that the provinces have a joint interest in the administration of this bill and yet he has the sublime effontery to pass this bill without consulting the provinces, thereby whose co-operation he now asks."

Premier Drew said he had been urging for nearly a year the calling of a Dominion-Provincial conference and had received "no reasonable explanation" as to why it had not been called sooner. It was essential that such a conference be held "before legislation was introduced into the House of Commons affecting the joint interests of the Dominion and Provincial governments."

Criticizes Mr. King's Objection.

He also criticized Mr. King for his objection to the bill being called a bribe and said that "if anyone had any doubt on that score it must have been removed" by speeches Tuesday night by Mr. King and Premier Godbout of Quebec.

Mr. Godbout told a political meeting that "this baby bonus is the result of his collaboration with Mr. King and in the same evening Mr. King went out of his way in the House of Commons to point out the very special advantage this bill offered to the people of Quebec."

"On Mr. Godbout's own statement supported by the evidence of Mr. King himself, this bill is an outrageous bribe offered to the people of Quebec immediately before an election, upon which Mr. Drew's last chance of political survival depended."

Mr. Drew said "this sort of conduct on the part of the Prime Minister of Canada can lead only to domestic chaos."

$8,000 IN CANADA BUILDING NEW WAR PLANES

Toronto, Aug. 2 — (CP) — Hobby authorities say there are more than 50,000 persons in Canada, ranging in age from eight to 60 years, who are continually building airplanes. There are 25 model airplane clubs in Toronto but the number of nonclub builders runs into thousands.

CAPT. LOU SMITH WOUNDED

Toronto, Aug. 2 — (CP) — Capt. Ernest L. O. Lou, Smith, son of Brig. and Mrs. Arthur Smith of Winona, Ont., has been wounded in Normandy, it was learned here. Capt. Smith was an Acting Company Commander in the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry.

DEATH OCCURS

The White House has announced the death of Miss Marguerite Le Hand (above) who had served as an assistant and personal secretary to Franklin D. Roosevelt for 20 years. Miss Le Hand's death was caused by cerebral embolism and was described as unexpected.

LIBEL THREATENS

Maxwell Anderson, famed playwright (shown at top), finds himself in an interesting political drama with U. S. Congressman Hamilton Fish, of New York (below), who threatens libel action based on charges appearing in a political advertisement during Fish's primary campaign. Anderson has challenged Fish to bring the action. Wendell Willkie has offered to defend Anderson. Presidential candidate Tom Dewy has said he doesn't want Fish's support. There the matter stands.

AIRMEN'S STORY OF STUDENT

Toronto, Aug. 2 — (CP) — Airmen in No. 1 Training Command are telling a story of a student airman flying from Kingston to Toronto who was horrified to see the outline of a Focke-Wulf 190 heading toward him over Lake Ontario. He quickly banked out of its path only to discover it was a model plane which had got away from its owner.

U.S. Forces Take Another Airfield

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 3 — (AP) — American forces have blasted the Japanese from another airfield and three more villages on Guam, and have captured nearly two-thirds of the former United States possession.

As soldiers and Marines carved out gains of more than a mile all across the island, the doomed enemy force of perhaps 18,000 men today was falling back into the jungle-covered plateaus of Guam's northern third.

There was still no confirmation of Tokyo radio reports that American naval invaded Rota Island between Guam and Tinian.

Rota is the last large island in the southern Marianas not yet dominated by the Americans.

Americans captured Tiyan airfield, fighter strip just to the centre of Guam Tuesday. They now have seven airfields in the Marianas, well within Superfortress range of Japan.

It was disclosed that the invaders have killed about 23,000 Japanese in the southern Marianas, at a cost of 3,139 American dead or missing.

On the British New Guinea coast, 1,300 miles south of the Marianas, units of a Japanese force of perhaps 45,000 trapped in the Wewak-Aitape sector since April, made two new Bazaal-shoring clashes against American lines Tuesday. Both attacks were beaten back with heavy Japanese losses.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was folding his paper to leave for his office, and as usual, William I want you to do a little thing for me downtown today, but when I say it's a little thing I dont mean it's not important, so if you forget it you'll hear from me at great length, I assure you.

It's as good as done my dear, what is it? pop said, and ma said, Members are advertising that they've got in a small and limited supply of La Charm lipstick, and they're sure to be exhausted the very first day because the government is taking practically all the available lipstick ingredients for munitions and ball bearings and goodness knows what all, including military secrets. They'll only allow ten to a person and I want you to stop in at the cosmetics department on the first floor and get me a La Charm lipstick. The shade I want is Blush of Dawn, she said.

And when he came home this afternoon was said, Well, William, you've got something for me, I hope and trust.

I've got a La Charm lipstick in your favorite shade, Flush of Sunset pop said and ma said, William Potts I expressly told you Blush of Dawn, the only shade that's an iota of use to me. Now really William, I mean really, she said.

Now come, my dear, if you overslept for 12 hours and opened your eyes to the sunset and thought it was the dawn, I'm sure you wouldn't know the difference, pop said and ma said, If I opened my eyes to any other shade except Blush of Dawn I assure you I'd know the difference, immediately. Any other shade is an expensive waste as far as I'm concerned and I'll much rather see you bring me home anything, she said.

Then you've got your wish, my dear, because I forgot all about it, pop said. Aren't you lucky I didn't get you Flash of Sunset? he said.

Not being the end of the subject and me not sounding as if she felt lucky.

New Zealanders Within 4 Miles Of Florence

By DOUG ROW
(CP War Correspondent)

With the 8th Army in Italy, Aug. 3 —(CP Cable)— New Zealanders of the British 8th Army stood fast yesterday in a U-shaped wedge driven into the crest of the last range of hills before Florence after a night advance with tanks, infantry and artillery that carried them more than 2,000 yards forward to within four miles of the city.

The German defence remained as fanatical as any yet encountered in Italy but the New Zealanders appeared to have reached a position from which it might be possible to deliver a climactic blow.

In an unclosed sector of the Florence front Canadian tanks of an Eastern regiment under Maj. Don Cameron of Vernon, B.C., and Capt. Frank Simard of Westmount, Que., made a new advance against slight opposition, shelling and mortaring as they progressed.

The tanks forded a shallow river and pushed more than a mile along roads under a moonlit sky before dawn today through a rustic countryside dotted with trees and hills.

The fords were reached the previous night by Capt. William Prince of Sunnyture, N.B., and Lieut. Eugene Bisnett of Verona, Little difficulty was experienced in the crossing.

British Pursue Japs Who Leave Dead And Ammunition

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 3 — (CP)— British forces pursuing Japanese troops fleeing Northeast India have lost major contact with an enemy force retreating from hill positions eight miles northwest of Tamu, near the Burma border, it was announced today.

The Japanese left many dead and a large quantity of equipment.

Machine-guns were attempting to cover the withdrawal of main Japanese forces south of Churachanpur, on the Tiddim Road, 40 miles from Imphal.

Superforts Scored Hits On Jap Coke Ovens

Washington, Aug. 3 —(AP)—The B-29 superforteress which struck the Japanese Steel Works at Anshan in Manchuria scored direct hits on coke ovens and other factory buildings in an important blow at the enemy's war making capacity, War Secretary Stimson reported today.

Stimson told a New Conference the attack was carried out by a "substantial" force of the United States army's new giant bombers, which hi Anshan and Tangku, the port of Tsnsin in occupied China, on July 29.

750 Enemy Planes Were Downed in July In Mediterranean Area

Rome, Aug. 3 — (AP) — The Mediterranean Allied Air Force shot down 750 enemy planes in July, it was announced today. It lost 478 planes, including 308 heavy bombers. The M.A.A.F. dropped 42,000 tons of bombs.

SAYS GERMANY NEAR END

King, acting commanding officer of the Elgin Regiment when it left Canada, who has just returned to St. Thomas from overseas in an interview last night expressed the opinion that in spite of German threats of bigger and better robombs, that "the war with Germany is approaching its end."

Canadians Rain Destruction Upon TillyLaCampagne

By ROSS MUNRO
(CP War Correspondent)

With the Canadians in France, Aug. 3, (CP Cable)—Canadian guns and mortars rained destruction on the German stronghold of Tilly La Campagne south of Caen during the night following an attack on the village by the Lincoln and Welland regiments.

The Ontario infantrymen encountered strong opposition from enemy machine-gun positions, artillery and mortars. Then fighter-bombers hit the village and Canadian artillery gave it concentrated barrage of fire while it was still smoking from the bombing.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes struck the village repeatedly and also took out other targets south and east of Tilly and wrought havoc among German tanks and vehicles attempting to move on roads on the Canadian-British sector.

Bill to Stabilize Prices of Fish Given Approval

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(CP Staff Reporter)

Ottawa, Aug. 3—(CP)—With the blessing of members of fishermen from both east and west coasts the House of Commons last night placed its approval on a bill to assure stable prices for fish in the period of transition from war to peace.

In six hours of calm discussion which contrasted with the sharp exchanges that occurred early in the week, the House of Commons in House advanced two important pieces of legislation designed to bring with fish prices and export trade.

The Export Credits Insurance Bill passed through third reading and the Fish Price Prices Bill received second reading.

Export Trade Stabilizes

The export trade legislation is designed to set up a corporation to insure exporters against inability to collect the price of the products sold whether it be from bankruptcy of the purchaser, currency fluctuations or inability of the purchaser to pay due to governmental restrictions.

It also authorizes the government to lend money to other governments or their agencies to enable them to purchase goods produced in Canada and guarantee the securities of other governments and their agencies issued on account of the purchase of Canadian goods.

Trade Minister MacKinnon said the insurance feature of the bill was on the same lines as British legislation which had been in effect for 26 years. He regarded the insurance phase of the bill as the one which the government would prefer to see employed and the lending and guarantee provisions as designed for emergency conditions after the war.

When Howard Green (P.C.—Vancouver South) urged that provision be inserted to bar loans to the governments of enemy countries, Finance Minister Ilsley said that was not desirable. The scheme would last for forty three years from the time of passage of the bill. It might be desirable to help those peoples of former enemy countries if they were under different governments.

Fisheries Minister Bertrand on his floor prices bill said it might never be necessary to use the $25,000,000 fund provided for the purchase of fish should prices fall to unduly low levels.

The bill, however, would offer security to fishermen on the same basis as the bill already passed to provide a floor for farm prices.

King Says Bruce Violates More Rules Than Any Member

Ottawa, Aug. 3. (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the Commons that Dr. A. L. Bruce — (PC-Toronto Parkdale) violated more rules of the House than any other member.

Dr. Bruce, directing a question to the Prime Minister as to whether he had conversation with Premier Adelard Godbout of Quebec, on family allowances, attempted to read a press dispatch purporting to show that Mr. Godbout had collaborated with Mr. King on the legislation.

"There are many more cries of 'Order', but Dr. Bruce continued to read until the Speaker sitioned for him to sit down.

Mr. King in the meantime said that as a matter of fact he had not talked "once" to Mr. Godbout on the subject.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, interrupted to say there were indications of collaboration on the part of Mr. King and Mr. Godbout.

Dr. Bruce attempted again to ask the Prime Minister a question, but he was interrupted by repeated shouts of order.

Husky Canadian Lumberjacks Arrive in France

London, Aug. 3 —(CP Cable)— Husky Canadian lumberjacks of the Canadian Forestry Corps, have landed in France, it was reported today.

The lumberjacks, embarked in a great grey Liberty ship at a British port. One English reporter who covered the embarkation said "overboard" in describing these "big bronzed husky men," who for the last three years have been employed in forestry work in the woods of the Scottish highlands.

"Never have I seen troops in better shape or more eager to be at the enemy," he wrote in a dispatch to his London paper. "Among these tough and brawny lads I picked out the toughest and brawniest and certainly tallest—Pte. Kim Rennison from Vancouver Island, who stands six feet four inches in his sustine boots.

The report quoted one of the Canadian officers as saying that he did not know what the unit's job would be in France, but "besides cracking down trees we hope to get a crack at Jerry."

NO MORE TROOPS FOR HARVEST HELP

Kingston, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Defence Minister Ralston in a letter received by the Farm Aid Committee of the Chamber of Commerce here yesterday said that additional members of the Canadian armed forces cannot be withdrawn from training to assist in harvesting the crops.

CHILDREN'S CONCENTRATION CAMPS SEE UP

Stockholm, Aug. 3 (CP) — The Nazis have established concentration camps for children in punishment Austrian school boys in small towns who organized into anti-Nazi groups and sabotaged orders from their Hitler youth leaders, independent sources said from Germany last night.

Lem Franklin, Negro Heavyweight, Dies

Newark, N.J., Aug. 3 — (AP) — Leo Franklin, Chicago negro heavyweight, who suffered a brain concussion and partial paralysis when he was knocked out in a bout at Meadowbrook Bowl here July 24, died today in city hospital.

The 28-year-old fighter was removed to the hospital shortly after his fight with Larry Lane, Trenton, N.J., Negro, ended in the knockout, and Dr. Herbert Conner had explained that the injuries were attributable to Franklin's fall to the canvas rather than the blows.

DEPARTMENTAL ESTIMATES

Ottawa, Aug. 2 — (CP) — An indication of the course of Canadian foreign policy into the post-war era may be disclosed tomorrow when the Commons studies the Department of External Affairs, estimates for Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today that his departmental estimates would be taken up tomorrow.

M.W.McCutcheon Named as Chief Prices Division

Ottawa, Aug. 3 — (CP) — Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, announced today the appointment of M. W. McCutcheon, Administrator of Services for the last 18 months, as Chief of the Prices Division, with headquarters in Ottawa. Mr. McCutcheon, born in London, Ont., was assistant general manager of a Toronto insurance company (National Life Assurance Company) before joining the Prices Board in 1941.

J. R. Croft of Toronto, Deputy Administrator of Services since early 1943, has been appointed administrator of services to replace Mr. McCutcheon.

Tramway Strike Unwarranted Is Mitchell's View

Ottawa, Aug. 3 (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell said today in the Commons that he did not believe the strike of Montreal tramway employees was warranted."

"On looking at the national and international situation, I don't think the strike is warranted on such a point," said Mr. Mitchell after outlining the cause of the walkout which began at midnight last Sunday.

He said the strike arose out of a dispute over a clause in a new agreement being negotiated between the company and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, in the clause the union asked that all new employees be "C.B.R.E." men within 30 days after employment.

RUSSIAN PILOTS, POCKETS BULGING, VISIT FAIRBANKS

Last Christmas Stores Had Trouble Holding Back Supply of Toys for Local Trade

(Editors: This story describing the spending "sprees" of Russian pilots in Fairbanks was written by a Canadian Press staff writer on a recent trip to Alaska.)

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 3. (CP) — A young pistol-toting officer, his pockets bulging with the largest-sized pre-war American dollar bills, today is a familiar sight on Fairbanks streets. Citizens are beyond the eyebrow-raising stage because they've seen similarly-dressed men come and go for the last two years.

The officer, a Russian pilot and war hero, most likely is shopping for silk stockings, canned meats, jewelry, toys and other "luxuries" to fly back to his family and friends in Russia on his next trip in a lend-lease United States-built fighter or bomber.

Last Christmas the stores had a tough time holding some of their supply of toys for the local trade. The Soviet fliers tried to buy it all.

Charlie McLean, proprietor of a night club situated 1 1-2 miles west of the city, says most of the Russians he has seen "are here for a holiday".

"The majority, in Alaska on furlough from the fighting fronts, carry the one-star and two-star decorations on their tunics, which usually means they've shot down 10 or 20 planes. They get a star for each ten planes downed.

"They are free spenders. Their behavior is exemplary and they are always the perfect gentlemen. I think they're tops".

The Russian women, most of whom are in their 30's and blonde, are attractive. They look and dress much like Canadian and American women and it would be difficult to single them out from Anglo-Saxons. They are the beauty parlors best customers.

PLACE IN ARMY FOR VETERANS OF PRESENT WAR

These Men Can Help to Train Reinforcements for Big Battles Says General

PRACTICAL TRAINING

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Camp Borden Military Camp, Ont., Aug. 3 — (CP) — There's still a place in the Canadian Army for battle-tired veterans of this war—peasing along their experiences and knowledge to recruits training in Canada to reinforce troops in France and Italy.

An appeal to veterans to come forward and help to prepare reinforcements for big battles ahead was made here by M-aj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, General Officer in Command, Camp Borden, during an interview with The Canadian Press. The need for reinforcements with practical knowledge of field conditions now was greater than ever.

Gen. Worthington, commander of a Canadian armored division overseas until he took over his present command last May, stressed the importance of "battle experience" in present-day training.

"There's no need to send reinforcements into battle lacking the knowledge of front-line conditions," he said, tapping a yellow pencil on a desk to emphasize his words. "Thousands of soldiers from Italy have been discharged from the army. Where are they? I don't know.

"But there's a big job of work for them at training centres. I can use any number of them, utilizing their front-line knowledge in the training of soldiers ticketed as reinforcement for France and Italy."

There was little glamor about a hum-drum job as instructor at a training centre.

"However, they should know better than anyone just how necessary it is for recruits to have a practical knowledge of the front-line conditions," he continued. "They were among those who have complained when soldiers were sent forward as replacements, untried and not knowing what they had to face or expect.

"It is up to them — their duty—to come back into the army and pass along what they have learned in bitter combat. They know the conditions recruits will have to face."

Fleets of Trucks, Cars Help Out In Tram Strike

Montreal, Aug. 3 — (CP)—Huge fleets of trucks of all shapes and sizes, backed up by all available taxis and private automobiles, worked mightily today to take some of the edge off a complete tie-up of the city's tram and bus services.

As employees of Montreal tramways started their third walkout within 17 months, strike-wise Montrealers put into operation plans that had been in the making for the last few days.

Today, the employees of scores of large factories gathered at strategic points throughout the city, to be picked up by fleets of trucks that took thousands to their jobs. The selected corners blossomed out suddenly in the huge signs indicating which company had selected each particular corner as a pick-up point.

Trucks could be seen everywhere. They were augmented by jammed taxis and by private vehicles, most of which picked up pedestrians until they were full.

But motorized conveyances could not cope entirely with the problem presented by withdrawal of the city's 1,100 streetcars and buses from their usual runs, and pedestrian traffic swelled as those not fortunate enough to get a lift started walking to work.

Still other residents, faced with the prospect of walking up to seven or eight miles, merely checked to make sure the strike was definitely on and then went back to bed. Hundreds more converged on half a dozen railway stations within the city area, thankful that incoming suburban trains could at least bring them into the centre of the business district.

Hester Organized Now.

As the morning wore on, a powerful sun gave warning of another scorching day, but Montrealers were agreed that at least this third tie-up of public transportation came in better circumstances than did the previous two. One previous strike came in bitter February gales while another was in the midst of deep spring slush.

Meanwhile, police were on the alert throughout the city to cope with any disturbances that might arrive but early reports indicated the strike was without incident.

Last night, Paul Emile Marguerite, regional organizer for the Canadian Congress of Labor, spoke to Montreal citizens in a radio broadcast and outlined the union's stand in regard to the strike.

Mr. Marguerite said the union did not ask for a closed shop which would require the company to hire workers who were members of the union or who had to join the union before being employed.

Later he issued a statement saying the union was ready "at any moment" to discuss the possibility of a settlement to the best interests of the parties concerned.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

Written For The Canadian Press
By FLG. REG. MOIR

With The R.C.A.F. Intruders in Britain, Aug. 3 (CP)—A Canadian and an American in the City of Edmonton Squadron "really had the unique experience of fighting a JU88 over a 10,000-ton German liner near Rostock.

Flt. Lt. C. M. Jasper of Spokane and his navigator, Flt. Lt. C. A. Martin of Ottawa (385 Chapel St.) were cruising about looking for trouble when they saw the enemy. He flew directly over the liner to gain the shelter of its anti-aircraft guns but the Canadian fliers knocked it down pronto.

There's no end to the variety of targets the City of Edmonton Mosquitos shoot up as they prowl over enemy territory. Aircraft, trains, barrack-blocks, troop columns—it's all the same to them. Recently Sqdn. Ldr. E. R. McGill of Saskatoon (412 20th St.) and Flt. Lt. T. G. Anderson, Winnipeg, (163 Chestnut St.) destroyed a Dornier 217-J in the air, damaged another on the ground and shot up a freight train all on one patrol.

A single two-second burst of cannon and machine gun fire by Flt. Lt. D. A. MacFadyen, D.F.C., Toronto (29 Chestnut Park Rd.) was sufficient to destroy a German Junkers 52 recently while on patrol in France.

Flt. Lt. F. H. R. Cotterill, Toronto, probably established a record for speedy destruction of enemy aircraft when he downed four German planes in 20 minutes and bombed an enemy airfield between combats. He was on intruder patrol.

First he sent a JU52 down in flames from 600 feet with two short gunfire bursts; three minutes later a second victim was finished off. Then, near Orleans airfield, the Canadian spotted three aircraft with lights on, one landing, the others circling the field. Picking out the second in line, another JU52, he blew it up. Suddenly he noticed another enemy plane dease its lights and streak away. He caught it and gave it a short burst and saw it burst on the ground. Cotterill then planked two 500-pound bombs on the airfield and gave but took a look vicinity of the field saw another JU52 coming in to land. One burst sent it crashing.

Near the Baltic coast two Mosties piloted by Sqdn. Ldr. Bob Kipp, D.S.O., D.F.C., Kamloops, B.C., and P/O. M. H. Sims, Vancouver, spotted a JU34 and a Heinkel 111 over Bagnkop Island. Kipp got the Heinkel and Sims closed with the JU34 and saw it crash and blow up on Langeland Island.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER THREE

"Looks like we're in the same boat then." Jeanne laughed. She glanced at her wrist watch. "Oh, my, I'd better be getting ready if the royal carriage is to call for me on the stroke of five. If you'll excuse me, Mr. Clyde — and thank you very much for showing me around the college. You've been a big help."

"It was a pleasure."

"Oh, Miss Hallard, I completely forgot. Here's a letter for you — came in the afternoon mail while you were out".

Jeanne retraced her steps and put out her hands for the envelope.

"Who would be writing to me?" she puzzled.

"Women—women", Clyde snorted. "I never knew it to fail. They get a letter or a telegram and they spend more time wondering who it is from than it would take to tear it open and read. Why don't you open the envelope now and settle your doubts?"

"If you don't mind". Jeanne slid her finger under the envelope flap and looked curiously inside. She flushed and turned quickly toward the stairs and went to her room.

"It must have been something unpleasant", Kay remarked. Clyde said nothing.

It had been cut from a Santa Ana, California, newspaper and told of the death in France of Vera Taylor, niece of Miss Celia Taylor of Santa Ana.

Vera Taylor, the story said, was among refugees trying to escape when they were riding had run off the road and crashed over a precipice. There were no survivors. Celia Taylor had received word, the newspaper report said, from the Red Cross.

Jeanne had barely finished dressing when the maid tapped on her door to say that, Mrs. Ward's car was waiting at the door.

Miss Marston was coming in the house as she went out, and the girl stopped for a moment to tell her where she was going.

"It's a lovely place", the Dean said, enthusiastically. "I'm so glad you're getting the chance to go there so soon".

There not only was a chauffeur in front of the car standing at the curb, but also a footman who quickly opened the door of the limousine and touched the brim of his cap as Jeanne stepped inside.

"I guess Mrs. Ward hasn't heard about the manpower shortage", Jeanne thought to herself as she settled down on the soft cushions.

Indeed, it was apparent that Mrs. Ward was untroubled, also, by the war-time problem when the car rolled under the porte cochere of the huge greystone mansion.

A uniformed maid met the girl at the door and conducted her inside, where a butler took over and led her through several rooms and up a terrace.

Mrs. Ward herself seemed as regal as Mr. Clyde had described her. Her silver hair was arranged high on her head and seemed almost to support a small coronet.

"Miss Hallard, ma'am", the butler announced, and retreated.

"It was so good of you to come, Miss Hallard", Mrs. Ward said. Her voice was husky, almost masculine. It was the voice of a person accustomed to giving orders.

The girl murmured that it was good of Mrs. Ward to ask her, a stranger, to her house the very day she arrived in town.

"I've been quite interested ever since I heard about you", the woman said. "You see, I knew your father quite well, before he went abroad. Afterwards, too—I visited at your home outside Paris when you were just a baby".

"Oh, I didn't know that", the girl murmured.

"I suppose you remember very little about your father, you were so young when he died. It's remarkable what a distinct impression you have, after all these years in France".

"Yes, always". American teachers—except for languages, of course".

"Yes. I understood that was quite a bone with your father. He insisted on you being American although he was an expatriate".

"He loved the life in Europe, so I've been told", the girl answered. She turned around to the new Mrs. Ward looking at some one behind her.

"Oh, my dear, you must meet Captain Bennett—Max, this is Jeanne Hallard. He's quite a frequent visitor here", she added to the girl.

Understanding

"You're a very understanding woman, Mrs. Ward", Max said, with a smile that Jeanne instantly liked. "Miss Hallard, it's a great pleasure to meet you again after so many years".

"I'm afraid I don't understand, Captain".

"You wouldn't and you probably don't remember, either. I swore at the time I'd never forgive you for being such a little brat, but of course I'm much older now and you're grown into such a charming young lady that I couldn't hold even a life-long grudge against you".

"You—you have me at a disadvantage", Jeanne said. She was obviously bewildered.

"It was on the dock at Villefranche. I was decked out in a blue and white sailor suit, and wearing quite proud of myself because Mother and I had been invited to tea aboard a big yacht. I was all of six years old then. You, I would say, were no more than three, but strong enough and impish enough to catch me off balance and give me a shove.

"I sprawled into the oily, dirty water, completely ruining my beautiful sailor suit. I can still remember how mad I was as mad as only a small boy can be when his dignity is offended".

Mrs. Ward laughed and Jeanne joined with her, and a moment later Max was chuckling, too.

"Would it help if I apologized now?" Jeanne asked.

Forgotten.

"Immensely. As a matter of fact I'd quite forgotten the whole thing until I heard your name. Then it all came back. I understand berated because an aunt of mine was graduated from Hallard college".

At Mrs. Ward's suggestion, Max took the girl in hand and introduced her to a number of the other guests. Lucia, Mrs. Ward had been presiding over a tea urn, strolled over and was introduced to Jeanne.

Mrs. Ward's niece was a tall girl with blonde hair which clung sleekly to her head on a long bob. Her features were perfect and she was a very pretty girl despite a petulant expression about her eyes which warned that she was a person with a temper that was easily aroused.

Lucia and Max seemed old friends and she would have walked off with him alone if the captain hadn't insisted that Jeanne meet little group by taking her hand. The three of them sat down on the terrace.

They discussed the war and the many changes that had come over the map of Europe since the invasion of the low countries and France.

"I can't bear to think of what has happened to the Riviera resorts", Lucia said. "They always were so gay. It seems to me they were the closest thing to heaven I ever expect to see".

"You'd never think that if you saw them now", Jeanne said. "The streets are never cleaned, people shamble around, hair starved, their clothes in rags, scrambling wildly for scraps of food".

"How about the black market?" Max wanted to know.

"It exists, there as everywhere else, but very few people have enough left to patronize it. The best things, I hear, go to the Nazis and the co-operationists".

"That's shameful", Lucia said. "I don't mind, really".

"I'm glad to send around one of Aunty's lawyers if you like. I'm quite sure they could find a way to pry quite a chunk out of the estate, if they really tried".

"Thank you, no", Jeanne replied. "Aren't you interested in money?" Lucia was astounded.

"Not particularly. I don't mind working—I think everyone should do something to justify their existence."

"Bravo", Max applauded. "You're a girl after my own heart".

Lucia made a gesture of annoyance with her right hand and for the first time Jeanne noticed a large ring on the third finger. It was an unusual ring, with a heavy green setting in the shape of a scarab." As she looked at it a thrill of fear shot through her.

Max Bennett offered to take Jeanne back to the college in the army jeep he had driven to the Wards, even after another officer who was with him, reminded him that a staff meeting made it imperative that they return to camp without any detours.

"Thank you for the compliment, captain", the girl laughed, "but I'm not going to have you court martialed on my account. I'm sure Mrs. Ward will send me home in the car that came for me".

Despite Max's protests, that was the way it was arranged but only after she promised she would see him again, very soon.

In the limousine going home, making sure the chauffeur and footman were not watching her, Jeanne opened her purse. She unfastened a small safety pin from the lining and took out a ring it had held.

The fellows were talking and arguing on my front steps, and the paper boy went passed on his bycicle and threw the paper and I caught it and started to open it to the comic page, saying, G, look what it says.

Oh boy, I bet Sam wishes it really was him, dont you, Sam? Aiming Martin said, and Sam Cone said, I dont have to wish, because it really does mean me.

Him being the most famous liar around, and we all started to yell meaning we didnt believe it and Sam said, What's you reading all about it for, and I says and I can prove it, he said.

Then I says, how are you, who by? I said, and Sam said, By our doctor, that's who, He's making experiments with all kinds of different vitamin pills, and I'm the one he's making them on, and he's got one special kind that goes right to my legs, and that's when I win all them races, he said.

Wowie, that's the biggest one you said, Sid Hunt said, and Sam said, If you want to bet on it I'll bet you anything I can collect at office right now.

Then I says about this? I said, It says here, "Sam Cross, or to give him his full allowance of names, Samuel Aloysius Cross, will be 19 years old next month." Since when were you 19 and how come you your middle name Swallow? I said, and Sam said, I'm not saying I'm 19, but that's how old I look right after I take the pills, and my middle name is always Swallow. They called me that because my father was Aloysius Cross, and I was waiting to hear whether I was going to be 4-F or not, he said, as the result being more and louder yells, and we all looked at monks over each other's shoulders, most of them seeming easy to believe after Sam Cross.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Tells of Stomach Relief After Suffering 2 Years

Gas, Indigestion, Acidity and Heartburn No Trouble to Her Since Taking Syntone; Also Free from Dizziness; Sleeps Better and Feels Better.

Painful gas and bloat — indigestion after meals — sleeplessness — nervousness — burning sensation and pains in chest — sharp pains in side — palpitation and stuffy feeling due to gas — weak, worn-out feeling — headaches and stomachic pains due to excess acidity. These are some of the penalties of an upset stomach. But there is no need to endure this suffering. You can get prompt, pleasant relief by taking Syntone Herbal Compound. Benefit by the experience of such well known people as Mrs. Ada Fonger, Komoka, Ont., who says:

"I suffered misery with stomach troubles in the past two years. Food I ate just seemed to sour in my stomach causing gas, indigestion and heartburn. An hour or so after every meal I got bad attacks of heartburn with belching up of food sour liquids. Horrible dizzy feelings often came over me and my head ached almost every day. Nights I would lie awake with the gas and distress keeping me from sleep. Often times I was so encouraged to be tantalizing a little bite and then I kept on eating. Now I think it is the greatest medicine in the world. I can eat hearty meals and have practically no trouble with indigestion, gas or heartburn. I have been free from that awful dizziness and spots before my eyes. I sleep so sound and rested for now and I also feel better in every way."

2-YEAR-OLD GIRL FOUND HELD BY TRAP DOOR

Kitchener, Ont., Aug. 2 —(CP)— The body of Mary Ann Pavich, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pavich of nearby West Montrose, was found yesterday. She had been by the head and one arm from a trapdoor in the barn. She had been missing about 10 minutes when her body was found.

The child had apparently climbed a short ladder between a shed and the trapdoor, but it is not known what caused the door to fall on her.

HAT-SNATCHERS' HEYDEY

Capetown, (CP)—A hat shortage has led to a hat-snatching epidemic in Capetown and it seems no one is immune. Among the recent victims was the chief constable of the Capetown morality police whose headpiece was snatched less than 100 yards from police headquarters.

Ernest Blaind Dies Suddenly At Napanee

Napanee, Ont., Aug. 2. (CP) — Stricken with a heart attack this morning while at work, T. A. Hockey, operator at the Express Printing House, here for the past two years, died in the hotel room shortly after phoning his employer that he would be unable to come to work.

He had lived here the past two years and was married to Phyllis Ida, wife last July. He formerly worked for the Ontario Intelligencer in Belleville and also had assisted with the publishing of the religious periodical Christian Advance here.

Born in Belleville, he served overseas in the last war and is survived by his wife, in Napanee, two daughters, Miss Margaret Blaind of Belleville, and Mrs. Walter Day, and two sons, Tom and William Blaind, both of this city.

MAN'S CLOTHING AT BAY BRIDGE CREATES MYSTERY

Mystery surrounds the finding of a man's wearing apparel left abandoned at the north approach to the bay bridge. The discovery was made early today by Billie Holway, Belleville, who was returning to the city after spending the night at his parents' summer cottage. Holway informed city police following which Sergt.' Doug. Ellis recovered a pair of work trousers, cotton shirt, vest and a quilt of farm work boots. In the pants pockets was a wallet containing several snapshots, but no means of identification. As the articles of wearing apparel were found at the bridge approach the clothing was later turned over to Provincial Police.

Authorities are at a loss to know whether there had been a drowning, or whether some farm hand had had washed in the bay and then completely changing his apparel had left leaving the soiled clothes along the shore line, Sergt. Harstein, of Napanee, added there had been no reports of a farm hand having been missing in this area during the past 24 hours. However, Provincial Police authorities are endeavoring to establish ownership of the abandoned clothes in an effort to clear up the entire mystery.

This afternoon Provincial Police officials announced they had located the owner of the abandoned clothes, on a Prince Edward County farm. The owner, a child drowning home claiming he had forgotten his wearing apparel.

Maj.-Gen. Hayes In Philadelphia For Conference

Philadelphia, Aug. 3 (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding General of the third service command, came here today as the United States army made apparent preparations to take over Philadelphia's paralyzed transportation system.

Hayes and other army officers went into the conference with officers of the Philadelphia Transportation Company to lay out plans for a union movement to end a bus, trolley and subway work stoppage that started Wednesday amid reports of violence and stranded thousands.

An army lieutenant, accompanied by a sergeant, with an armful of placards, entered the 69th Street elevated train terminal and went directly to the terminal office.

Russians Speed Up Effort to Bottle Up Any Waterway Escape

Stockholm, Aug. 3 —(AP)— Russian trucks loaded with speedboats, torpedoes and mines were speeding up the Soviet counter-offensive in the Sea west of Riga today in an effort to bottle up any waterway escape of 20 to 30 trapped German divisions, advices from the Finnish countryside said.

By sowing mines between Finland and Estonia, the Red command and by operating speedboats against the German evacuation fleet, Russians could hamper any German evacuation through the Gulf of Riga.

The trucks, mines were reported headed for Dubbeln on the gulf, within the 10-mile Russian corridor 35 miles west of Riga. The Russian plunge to the sea earlier this week cut off an area about the size of South Carolina garrisoned by up to 200,000 Germans of the 18th and 16th armies.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, Aug. 3 (CP)—Small index gains were posted by the base metal group in the first hour of early session on the Toronto stock exchange today, while the golds and industrials were down slightly. Turnover was at 171,700 shares here in the first three hours.

The new listing in the golds, West Dome Consolidated 13 cents to 1.15. Northern Canada firmed 7 cents to 2.60 and small gains were posted by Sullivan, Cochenour Willans, Pioneer, Lamaque, Preston East Dome, Kirkland Lake Proprietary, Preston, O'Brien, Convest and Beattie. Shawkey dipped 20 to 4.80 with small declines came out for Steep Rock, Bralorne and Labrador.

Soft spots in the industrials appeared in the steel and foods. Small losses were dropped by Penny Farmer, Hiram Walker, British American Oil, Dominion Foundries and Steel of Canada.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 3 — (AP) — Stocks moved forward to make a little headway now and then in today's market but many backed and stumbled.

Caution was the watchword in boardrooms as customers either trimmed accounts or bought sparingly. Many of the issues that helped lift the Nasis should suddenly surrender.

Prices, slightly uneven at the start, displayed more irregularity near the fourth hour. Dealings were slack throughout.

Grains were in the relatively rare habit of edging up 1/8 in the early proceedings to a 1944 top. Occasional strength was shown by American Telephone, J. G. Penney, Consolidated Edison, Martin-Parry, Woolworth, Delaware & Hudson, Southern Pacific and Kennecott.

Canadian issues were quiet.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Cattle trade was slow with prices about steady at the opening of the live-stock market here today. A few butcher steers and heifers were offered. Quotations were: Cattle 30, calves 70, hogs 200, sheep and lambs 60. No sales were reported, nor were 800 head of cattle, mostly stockers.

HOGS

Toronto, Aug. 3. (CP)—Prices were unchanged at Bacon-Hog Marketing reports for early today. Grade A, dressed, Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton $17.50, London $17.40, Hull $17.35, Ranch $17.50, Stratford, to farmers $17.50, to truckers $17.65, Lindsay, Canadian Grade B1 delivered $17.10.

Research Engineers on Tar Sand Believe They Have Key to Vast Wealth

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Edmonton, Aug. 3 (CP)—Research engineers in white coats bend over laboratory tables jammed with pipes, U. J. Pupes and bubbles and with the pungent fumes of a distillery the skim a tarry substance from the surface of water.

In that rite, performed with the skill of long practice, the research men believe they have found a key to open the door to wealth that never came before. By it, engineers demonstrate how oil-rich bitumen can be extracted from tar sands.

It's a long story they tell here about the tar sands along the Athabasca river 250 miles northeast of Edmonton, a region which has 70 per cent of the world's known oil supplies. Their eyes shine when they say there are more than 1,000 square miles where the tar sands lie in unknown depth. Perhaps there are 30,000 square miles. They talk with certainty for no one has had time to examine all the area.

The actual oil produced from the sands is minute but engineers believe that when it could be, provincial authorities say. What they have found is a modern plant, using methods developed in Alberta research laboratories, which will be constructed soon on Athabasca, to serve as a model for others to tap the vast deposits 100 miles miles.

They think one efficient provincially-owned plant will be enough. If the efficiency of the extraction method is demonstrated, they expect private industry will build others. The Dominion government has contributed $37 thousand a plant at the tar sands area now. The Dominion is using methods not exactly the same as those proposed by provincial research officials.

Patriots Force Enemy To Use Strong Forces

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 3 — (AP) — Patriot uprisings finally have forced the Germans to use strong forces, backed by artillery and bombers, in an effort to maintain their hold on southern France, General D. Eisenhower announced today.

In some places maquis (brush) fighters have been forced to disperse from areas where they had wrested control and in others they withdrew in fierce fighting which inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, but the Germans were punching at a shadow, the supreme commander's communique disclosed.

The French sometimes were attacking from strong, withdrawing and hitting again in increasingly powerful blows—now all the more crucial as the American drive into Brittany carries the threat of a full-scale battle for southern France.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

Toronto, Aug. 3 (CP) — The Ontario War Labor Board yesterday reserved judgment on the application of four unions representing employees of The Ottawa Journal and The Ottawa Citizen to certify as bargaining agents for them a blanket contract and a joint newspaper negotiation committee of 12 members.

FURTHER TRAINING AS COOKS

Guelph, Aug. 3. (CP)—Men and women who have been cooks in the Royal Canadian Air Force for the last two or three years are arriving at the R.C.A.F. School of Cookery here for further training. They are selected members of cooking staffs in stations across Canada and will be trained as full-fledged cooks.

NURSE SHORTAGE KEEPS HOSPITAL BEDS EMPTY

Toronto, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Dr. M. J. McHugh, physician-in-chief at the Toronto Hospital for Treatment of Tuberculosis at Sanatorium, Weston, said last night that 140 of the 850 beds in the hospital were empty because of a "serious shortage in nursing and housekeeping staffs."

THREE ELECTROCUTED

St. Redemptor, Que., Aug. 3 —(CP)— Three men living in Levis County village were electrocuted today when a ladder on which they were standing to repair a barn roof touched a 30,000-volt wire. They were Joseph Bergeron, Hon. Thomas Martel, 71, and Ulric Carrier, 58.

10 JAP ATTACKS THROWN BACK

Chungking, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Japanese forces have made sharp gains in the eastern sector of the Hunan province fighting, but at encircled Hengyang, laboring spt in its fifth week of siege, 10 separate enemy attacks were thrown back, the Chinese high command announced last night.

MOST OF BRITANNY PENINSULA CUT OFF

Russians Advance Swiftly Toward German Silesia

American Forces 43 Miles From St. Nazaire, Nantes

Fighting Rages in Streets Leading to Heart of Rennes

By GLADWIN HILL
(A.P. War Correspondent)

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 4 (AP) — U.S. armor and infantry, spreading in a widening and lengthening bridge over Brittany, reached within 43 miles of the twin big ports of Nantes and St. Nazaire on the Loire today and cut off most of the peninsula.

In the middle of their shrinking line of organized resistance, the Germans continued attached to stave off an encircling thrust to Audaye Sur Odon and drove British troops from three villages west of Aunay.

There was intense air activity over the Canadian-British front during the past 24 hours, William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported, with hundreds of fighter-bomber and rocket-firing blasting enemy gun positions, transport and armor. Operations on the ground south of Caen were confined to heavy patrolling, he said.

196 Miles From Rnd

While bursting through country 20 miles south of Rennes, the American forces also spread 27 miles west of that rail and highway hub to the centre of Brittany, coming within 196 miles east of Brest.

Yet other forces pressed in relief strikes to within two miles of Evran, seven miles north side of turned Dinan, the north side of Brittany, and jumped off to attack the Dinan-Lamballe road, south of St. Malo which had been bypassed in the drive to Dinan.

Fighting raged in Rennes along streets leading to the heart of the town, where an estimated 2,000 fanatic enemy garrison was holding out.

The Americans struck due south close to Bain-De-Bretagne, 10 miles south of Rennes and 43 miles from Nantes, a port city of 185,000 population on the Loire River.

They also were within five miles of Pipriac, 30 miles southwest of Rennes and 43 miles from St. Nazaire, the U-boat base and U.S. troop port in the First World War.

Although there still was fighting at Dreux, field dispatches said the position of the German garrison there was hopeless.

(Secretary of War Stimson in Washington yesterday announced the capture of Rennes and subsequent dispatches from correspondents at Allied headquarters also told of the seizure of the city. These dispatches based on the pull Washington announcement and the official line report that American troops had pushed beyond the communications centre Supreme headquarters did not announce capture of the city.)

Retreat Is Confusion

Bedraggled German units which once formed a solid line along a 100-mile expanse in Normandy were retreating in confusion and abandoning their equipment virtually everywhere except along a short stretch between Vire and Caen. The Allied offensive had developed into a sudden threat to the whole 40,000 square mile Seine-Loire quadrangle of northwest France.

Faced with the growing danger of entrapment along the Orne River, the Germans near the middle of their still-organized line in Normandy slaved off an immediate British threat to Aunay Sur Odon, bolstered by reinforcements from east of the Orne River, the Germans drove the British from the villages of St. Georges D'Aunay, La Lande and Le Manoir immediately west of Aunay.

The British staff officer discounted the German gains around Aunay, declaring that the counter-attacks might be the enemy's final gesture to cover a retreat from the river bend.

American armored columns pressing eastward along the north side of the Jivelon Peninsula from Dinard are headed toward Dinan, which is the junction of the force moving southward beyond Rennes was threatening Nantes and St. Nazaire.

190,000 Prisoners

In the 24 hours up to yesterday afternoon, American troops took 8,000 more prisoners, bringing their total since D-Day to around 70,000. The British have captured an estimated 90,000, making the probable total 190,000.

The American toll have buried 10,000 German dead, and the Germans are estimated to have buried at least that number of their own dead.

On this basis, conservative estimates of German wounded on the American sections of the line would total 40,000. On the British sector the German dead and wounded are estimated to be at least 30,000, making the over-all total of German casualties 190,000.

Allied losses have been 37,000 for each of about 37 under-strength enemy divisions in the D-Day defense layout, the German casualties have equalled about half of their initial strength. This does not necessarily mean that the German force only half of northern France actually has been halved, however, as there have been considerable replacements.

American troops now are 110 miles south of Cherbourg, captured five weeks ago, and in their current offensive, are 15 miles from Avranches, which fell on the 30th.

With the fall of Mytikyina, the only remaining known remaining north of the Mogaung-Myitkyina line of the Japanese Fifth and Eighteenth Army, flailing its armor with dread shells and bombing its lines of communication.

The U.S. 5th. Air Force alone reported 1,000 tanks and vehicles destroyed or damaged in ten days.

RESUME SCOTCH WHISKY PRODUCTION IN 1945

London, Aug. 4 (AP)—Food Minister John T. L. Lewellin announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the manufacture of Scotch whisky would be resumed in Britain during the coming year. He said distilling would be limited, however.

Navigator in Modern Night Fighter Sits Side by Side With Pilot

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the R.C.A.F. in England, Aug. 4 (CP)—Navigators of some of the night intruder squadrons are the "Half-Wing Fliers," the navigators who play such a part in making possible the exploits of the full-wing men, the pilots.

It is the pilot you hear of when the latest Bomber Command homing from their night sorties far into German territory but without the navigator the pilot could go no where with his plane. He is also the symbolic that in the modern night fighter the navigator, who used to be back of the pilot, has moved to the front.

Today they sit side by side in the same cockpit, boys like Fg. O. Holetsky of Montreal, who won a D.F.C. for his navigating of Squadron Leader Bob Kipp, D.S.O., D.F.C. and Bar, of Toronto. In the City of Edmonton intruder squadron.

Together these two have ranged the length and breadth of Germany under cover of darkness, and more or on May 3 they set up a record, destroying four night fighters in six minutes.

Yesterday took them across enemy territory on the way to Munich and over Lake Ammer, 15 miles south-west of Munich, they got their first victim. Then they went on to Landsberg, and two over an airfield and then on to another airfield for their fourth victim.

Every successful intruder operation depends on the skill of the navigators whose job demands an inexhaustible patience as well as vigilance and skill. Then, when the enemy does appear in the gun sights, it is the pilot who deals the death blow while the navigator sits back and watches the final triumph go to the man at his side.

The fault probably is with the system of reporting "kills," crediting them directly to the pilots because the pilots themselves appreciate the navigator.

MYITKYINA FALLS TO ALLIES AFTER 3-MONTH SIEGE

Victory Gives Allies Two Good Airfields And Junction Point To Upper Irrawaddy

3,000 JAPS SLAIN

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
(AP War Correspondent)

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 4 — (AP) — British, American and Chinese forces have captured Myitkyina, major Japanese base in northern Burma, after a bitter and bloody siege that began last May 17, it was announced today.

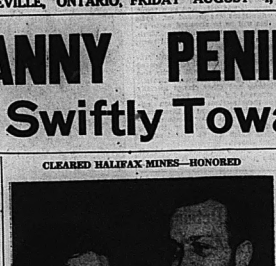
At least 3,000 Japanese were slain in the during the 2½ months of fighting. The last remnants of the garrison either were killed or captured in the final mop-up of this largest city in Northern Burma.

The victory gave the Allies control of two Myitkyina airfields and an important road and rail junction on the upper Irrawaddy river for a prospective link-up with the Ledo Road which runs to the east in a combined effort to open a land route to China.

Forward Allied troops in North Burma are firmly established probably more than 20 miles from the advance elements of the Chinese marching northward. Possibly aerial contacts already have been made between the two armies.

In Jap Hands 2 Years

Fall of the city, which had been in enemy hands more than two years, came after Allied forces had put to flight Japanese troops who invaded northeast India.



A new phase of the North Burma offensive campaigns is expected to be mounted from Myitkyina under General Stilwell. But the most immediate benefits of the city's fall lies against oil town Imphal, airfields and fields on the famous "hump" route into China.

Myitkyina's capture was an essential step in Stilwell's drive to link the new Ledo highway with the old Burma Road. The North Burma and Yunnan campaigns both form part of this program.

The city, which has a population of 30,000, is the terminus of the trunk railway from Rangoon, capital of Burma, and the airline mid-way to the south.

With the fall of Myitkyina, the only remaining known remaining north of the Mogaung-Myitkyina line of the Japanese Fifth and Eighteenth Army, flailing its armor with dread shells and bombing its lines of communication.

The U.S. 5th. Air Force alone reported 1,000 tanks and vehicles destroyed or damaged in ten days.

CLEARED HALIFAX MINES—HONORED

Two of the principals who took part in the hazardous operations in clearing enemy mines from the approaches to Halifax harbor are shown here. At the left is Lieut. Brands, U.S. Navy, and Lieut. G. H. G. Rundle, R.C.N.R., who met in London when the United States officer was decorated by the Canadian government. Lieut. Brands was made a member of the military division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire for "gallantry, skill and coolness, in carrying out hazardous duties." Lieut. Rundle, awarded the George Medal for his part in the operation, is shown above admiring Lieut. Brands' decoration.

Total Exclusion of Jap Immigration to Canada After War Govt. Policy

—Prime Minister King

Ottawa Aug. 4 (CP)—Complete exclusion of Japanese immigration after the war was announced today as a government policy by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a statement on Japanese in Canada.

A special commission will be set up to determine which Japanese are loyal and which disloyal, he said. Loyal persons would be sent to Japan, whether or not they were born there. Those loyal would be treated justly, but would not be allowed to congregate again in British Columbia.

ALLIED CAPTURE OF FLORENCE APPEARS NEAR

FOE CASUALTIES HEAVY

Rome, Aug. 4—(AP)—The British 8th Army reached Florence today.

South African troops gained the outskirts of the city and sappers working forward found that five of six bridges across the Arno river within the city had been destroyed, Allied headquarters announced.

Rome, Aug. 4 — (CP) — Allied army into Florence appeared imminent today, with the German falling back before the unrelenting pressure of New Zealand and South African troops.

The Germans were on the run back through Florence, and their rear flanked from the north while the tip behind the Tuscan city.

Nazi forces departed last night from a point south of the city. From that vantage point today Associated Press war correspondent Lynn Heinzerling looked down on Florence and through the smoke of German guns just outside the city were able to pick out glistening church domes.

(Today's German communique said German troops had "detached themselves toward a narrow bridgehead immediately south of Florence" and that renewed Allied attacks against this position were frustrated, with the exception of one limited position—that Allied artillery fire was directed "on the historic city with its irreplaceable cultural treasure.")

The latest advance gave the 8th Army a strong hold on the hills two miles northeast of Larcenola. Giogoli, less than five miles south-west of Florence, was captured in the course of the thrust.

NEXT TWO WEEKS MAY GO FAR TO DECIDE HUN FATE

Premier King Says Canada's War Effort is Near Peak

PEACE PREPARATION

Ottawa, Aug. 4 — (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King, opening debate on external affairs in the Commons today, said the "next two or three weeks may witness battles which will go far to decide the fate of the German stronghold both in the east and the west."

The gigantic Russian offensive has "hurled back the enemy on a scale never dreamed of in modern warfare" and in Normandy the advance of the Allied forces was steadily continuing, said Mr. King.

Canadian forces on land, sea and in the air were participating in the war in Italy and Western Europe. In the Orient the war against Japan was being carried on by land forces in India and China as well as by sea.

In various parts of Europe underground forces in large numbers were engaging the enemy, he continued. Throughout the war they had harassed the enemy. In the period of liberation they would be of great value. The attitude of Turkey and Finland illustrated the trumbling German system.

These events all came as result of plans made at conferences such as those of Casablanca, Quebec, Cairo and Teheran. The Casablanca and Quebec conferences were essentially devoted to military plans. The Cairo and Teheran conferences dealt partly with political matters and were calculated to impress neutral satellites with the determination of the United Nations to achieve total victory.

TIMES OF LONDON TO PUBLISH AIR EDITION IN INDIA PAPER

London, Aug. 4 (CP)—The Times of London has announced that beginning today it would publish an "air edition" on India paper. It will be the same size but only half the weight of the regular edition. Arrangements have been made for a regular service to be flown to Canada and the United States, reaching the eastern seaboard within two days.

CANADIAN UNIT FOR INDIA, SECOND FOR AUSTRALIA

From 400 to 500 Officers and Other Ranks Drawn From Units Now in Canada

TRAINED TECHNICIANS

Ottawa, Aug. 4. (CP) —Between 400 and 500 officers and other ranks of the Canadian army, to be drawn from units now training in Canada, will be sent to India and Australia in the near future, defence headquarters announced today.

The unit destined for India will include mainly technical personnel and will total between 300 and 400 other ranks.

The announcement said they will serve with the Indian army "for the present."

The detachment going to Australia will be employed in duties connected with signal equipment in the south-west Pacific theatre.

Highly trained technicians, they will serve "for the present" with the Australian army.

Powerful Traps Close on 47,000 Isolated Japs

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 4. (AP)—Two powerful traps today ensnared more than 47,000 Japanese on Guam's north plateau and some 40,000 more in the British Solomons, the Navy announced in dispatches from Admiral Nimitz's headquarters.

Against the Solomons, a Japanese army once 60,000 strong is caught between Australian and U.S. Seapk River on the east and American and Australian troops on the west.

Added to the dead were 5,000 estimated by Admiral Nimitz to have been accounted for by marine conquerors of Tinian over which the American flag was raised formally Wednesday.

Four thousand civilians have been interned on Tinian and 7,000 on Guam.

Newsman Finds Prone Position Best Under Fire

By HAL BOYLE
(AP War Correspondent)

Beneath an American tank near Rennes, Britain, Aug. 4 (delayed)—(AP)—Everybody thinks the safest place in battle is in a tank today—except a strong-circle of non-co-operators.

I was surrounded but are too stubborn to know when they are licked.

And as a result, the ancient city of Rennes, which is the hub of military layer cake with a core of 40,000 nervous citizens doubly encapped by a circle of "suicide" German squads surrounded by a great American armored and infantry ring.

The powerful American units thrust to the outskirts of the city last night, then withdrew to the west temporarily because this former capital of Brittany and key to the defense of big submarine pen-meter of German troops who have not yet been captured, they are in a hopeless trap.

I know why I'm lying under this Sherman tank with the most advanced tank units now moving away from Rennes, horizontal rather than vertical because the Germans have thrown over three cracking air bursts with their 88-millimeters. I'm under their stronghold in a tiny village on the northeast outskirts of Rennes.

CUT ALUMINUM PRODUCTION

Washington, Aug. 4 —(AP)— A slash in aluminum production, involving the closing of two plants and curtailment of a third, last night followed a War Production Board announcement that 48 per cent of the entire 1944 armament program was completed by mid-year.

Germans Reeling Back In Flight From the Vistula

Other Forces Only 5 Miles From Czecho-Slovakia

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(AP War Correspondent)

Moscow, Aug. 4 —(AP)—Russian hosts which have driven the German Vistula River line advanced swiftly today to within 21 miles of Germany Silesia, while other army groups in the south chalked town and villages inside pre-war East Prussia from positions three miles from the frontier.

Another triumph in the Carpathians announced by Red army men who carried the red army within five miles of Czecho-Slovakia after driving the German from Jabolonka, the short distance from the crest of Uzok Pass through which the Germans fled in the First Great War.

Russians forces moved within 38 miles of Krakow, fifth city of pre-war Poland, one difficult hill away.

In this area west of the Vistula, some 110 miles below Warsaw, the Russians were within 30 miles of Tarnow and 28 of Kielce Junction, the last large Nazi bastion before Krakow.

No Details of Advance

Official sources were silent on the siege of Warsaw, where Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's army group was pulled up just east of the Polish capital. In the Baltic states, Russian tanks were pattering the streets of Riga and Pravda said they entered the city. Soviet troops had captured 382,000 and also west toward Liepaja, Latvia's second city and a west coast seaport.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, while pinning a big group of Germans in the pocket in the Warsaw siege zone, broke loose with his left flank 110 miles southeast of the Polish capital, and pushed a wedge more than 15 miles deep from the Vistula bridgehead at Sandomierz.

Red army infantrymen crossed the Vistula on pontoons and rafts, followed by tanks, in the Sandomierz sand. In the heavy fighting that followed, 2,000 Germans were killed and 250 captured, Pravda said.

Fierce Threatens Enemy

The Russians crossed the upper reaches of the Vistula under continuous artillery fire and strong German curving along the west bank threatened to cut off those Germans in the bridgehead. Ivan G. Konev's westward drive on Krakow, however, were by-passed Debica and Tarnow, 45 miles to the east.

(The Soviet news agency Tranocean, in a broadcast heard in London, admitted today that Soviet troops in Polish underground forces striking at the German rear in Warsaw had seized the capital.)

(The broadcast said German "patriots" had copped 2,000 Partisans attempting sabotage in the Warsaw area, but that in the Carpathian foothills fighting progressed against "some major groups.")

Moscow, Aug. 4 — (AP) — Marshal Rokovsky, 3rd While Russian army commander, threatened to split into pre-war East Prussia at any moment, dealt out a heavy blow today on German soil from positions in Western Lithuania only three miles from the East Prussian border.

Vilkaki Captured

New gains included the capture of Vilkaki, East Prussian border city on the road to the Prussian capital centres of Tilsit and Insterburg, 40 miles from Schirwindt. Also in the new gains were Grikshoden, a point northeast of Vilkaki, and other points farther north, including Lukstal and Sultzal, both less than 30 miles from the Frontier and 55 and 60 miles, respectively, east of Tilsit.

The Moscow communique said nearly 500 towns and villages were captured by the Russians on all fronts yesterday. These included 200 localities taken west and northwest of Kaunas, former Lithuanian capital.

'Boxing Marquis' Dies on Operations

London, Aug. 4 —(CP Cable)— The death on operations of Sqdn. Ldr. Lord David Douglas-Hamilton, 32, famed ex-Oxford athlete once known as "The Boxing Marquis," was announced yesterday by the Air Ministry.

Youngest brother of the Duke of Hamilton, Scotland's premier peer, Lord David was the husband of Countess Mountbatten's "beautiful girl." He toured widely with his wife in the days of campaigning. She was director of the "Women's League of Health and Beauty."

Tremendous Task of Getting Ballots To Yanks Overseas Handled by Air

By C. R. BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 4 (CP)—United States fighting forces overseas are being furnished machinery for the forthcoming presidential election and they are being given a fair chance to vote whether they want to or not.

Plans are proceeding with the determination and detail that would entitle a soldier in Italy or a seafaring balloting machine in Washington. Only insurmountable difficulties of place and movement will rob a soldier of his chance to vote.

There is no way of estimating how many the service vote will be and guesses run all the way from 1,500,000 to 8,000,000.

The administration wanted a straight federal ballot acceptable to all states in which the service personnel would mark ballots only for president, vice-president, senators and representatives in next November's election.

But most states want the ballots to have all the names of federal, state and local offices candidates, and that is how it will be.

However, 19 of the states have approved use of the short federal ballot in those cases in which all political appeals for aid fail to receive the ballot of his state.

Those from the other 28 states will have to use the state ballot or nothing at all because of the broad decision of the necessity of filling out applications and the difficulty of finding out in time to vote only a small percentage of those applications.

The war department, navy and maritime commission have the responsibility of getting the application forms to the overseas forces, returning them when completed, and then getting the ballots back to each state for counting.

This tremendous task, involving millions of pieces of mail, is being largely by air. The material has been given almost the highest priority, second only to official dispatches.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

DROWNED AIRMAN'S IDENTITY MADE PUBLIC

Identification of the airman who lost his life in a drowning accident off a dock in Wellington on Wednesday afternoon has been released by RCAF officials. He was LAC. S. DeClare, with next of kin residing at Montreal. DeClare drowned while swimming with companions in Lake Ontario off the Lakeside Villa.

CASE OF ALE IS CONFISCATED

On these hot sweltering August days quite frequently there are cooling breezes off the Bay of Quinte onto Victoria Park where citizens and visitors alike enjoy the refreshing shade. Yesterday afternoon three airmen decided the inviting coolness of the park would also make an ideal place to relax beneath a tree and engage in the time-honored art of quaffing that thirst with a bottle of ale. With a case of ale in tow the airmen were enjoying their beverage when the police cruiser happened by. Climax to the airmen's afternoon was confiscated and they may face charges of consuming ale in a public place.

THOUGHT CLOTHES WERE IN CAR

Provincial Police solved the mystery surrounding the finding of a man's clothing on the beach at Bowmanville and the discovery of a car abandoned along the bay bridge road and discovered by Billie Holway early yesterday morning. The wearing apparel was the property of Mr. Benedetti Pearson, Durham County, farmhand. Provincial Constables Makey and Caldwell investigating the matter and were informed by Pearsall he had been swimming off the bay bridge on Wednesday night and had returned home in a motorcar along with a friend. Pearsall was of the opinion his companion had placed his working clothes in the rear of the motorcar, but when he found such was not the case he went to bed intending to return to pick up his clothes yesterday morning. In the meantime the passing motorist saw the pile of clothes and reported the find to police.

CUSTOMS RETURNS FOR JULY TOTAL $312,202

Customs and Excise returns for the Belleville office showed a slight increase during the month of July as compared with the corresponding month last year. The increase was reported today by local customs officials. Returns for the month just completed were $312,202 as compared with $300,377.32 for July, 1943, which represents an increase of $12,865.38.

TURRIFF RESIDENT COLLECTS BOUNTY

A lone wolf, seeking new "pastures," strayed too far from his lair and was brought to earth with a blast from the shotgun of Albert Sauly, of Rawdon, Hastings County Township. The wolf pelt was brought to the county officers here and the bounty claimed by Mr. Sauly. The animal was the first seen in the immediate district in some time.

$50 FINE, COSTS ON PRICE CHARGES

In Thursday, court counsel represented Mrs. Jena DeVault, West Bridge Street, when she was charged on six charges of violations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Act pertaining to increased prices of canned goods. R. C. O. Butler acted as special supprtment Attorney while F. G. Cushing represented the accused. Mrs. DeVault pleaded the defendant guilty and levied a fine of $60 and costs on each of the charges. The prosecution alleged an increase of one cent per unit on canned goods had been charged and above the ceiling price set by the W.P.T.B. Time was given to pay the fine.

Landed on Runway Only 496 Yards Long By Night Among Hills

London, Aug. 4 — (CP Cable) — Flt. Lt. J. D. Rice of Springfield, Ont., today was named as the captain of one of two aircraft of R.A.F. transport command which in one of the most daring feats of the war landed at night among the Yugoslav hills on a rough runway only 496 yards long to evacuate part of a British mission.

Captain of the second aircraft on the flight, which took place on an undisclosed date, was Wing Cmdr. A. N. Francombe of Northumberland.

The airmen were informed before the flight that the runway was 700 yards long, but found on circling down their Dakotas that it was slightly uphill, only 50 feet wide and in some places fairly soft. They managed to land and get off safely.

Fair Board Decides to Expand Prize Lists for Children Exhibitors

Expansion and adjustment of prize lists insofar as they apply to separate and public school children of this district, will open a wider vista of prize-winning possibilities for these exhibitors, it was decided at a meeting last night of the women directors of the Belleville Exhibition Board here last night.

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of Mrs. Homer Sandercock, wife of Exhibition President Homer Sandercock, and met in the Board of Directors.

Residential Peanuts, Board decided to give the former Pair a new name. From now on, it will be known as the "Belleville Exhibition."

Restriction of school exhibitors especially in the writing classes does not give sufficient scope to the many school children who annually participate in these activities, it was felt. And as a result, adjustment was decided on. Prize lists will be so revised as to attract many more children which, it was thought, would result in more prize winners.

Straw hats, the women's activities by the lady directors. Special attention will be paid to the fine arts, household science, domestic science and other classes specially arranged for Special prizes in these sections have been approved by the Board of Directors.

Directors, at their meeting, voted to increase the 1944 attendance races which will be divided among four classes.

Exhibition prize lists will be off the presses within a few days.

15-Year-Old Boy Is Sent to Boys' Training School

A fifteen-year-old local boy was committed to the boys' training school, Bowmanville, and in conjunction with the Guelph Reformatory by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd after the lad had pleaded guilty to three charges of theft.

The boy admitted to breaking into Armour Bennett's barber shop, Front Street, and stealing $10 in cash, and to stealing a .22 calibre rifle and 30 rounds of ammunition from the Corby Thurber Hardware shop. A charge of stealing cash from a motorcar belonging to Mrs. Hope police also brought a plea of guilty in today's court. Provincial Constable Makey introduced the latter boy when Crown Attorney Hayes entered the Belleville charges.

Inspector T. D. Ruston, of the Children's Aid Society, was in court to inform His Worship the lad was at present in Bowmanville. He was from the Bowmanville Boys' Training School and has been constantly in trouble. Mr. Ruston suggested the move to Guelph, while Crown Attorney Hayes, K.C., was of the same opinion.

9-Year-Old Boy Being Detained In Shooting Case

Pending a charge of wounding, a nine-year-old Peterboro boy is being detained by Inspector T. D. Ruston, of the Children's Aid Society, in connection with the shooting of 13-year-old Kenneth Ellis, Wolfe Island, and Mrs. Clara White, Actinolite.

Today Inspector W. H. Lougheed, of the Criminal Investigation Bureau of the Provincial Police, arrested in Belleville to take charge of the investigation. He was also accompanied by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan yesterday, and he was visiting at his uncle's home in Actinolite when the shooting took place. Provincial Police were informed that the little girl had been left in charge of five small children with her parents and the Minnies went berry picking. It was during their absence the boy is said to have picked up the 38-55 calibre rifle and pulling the trigger the Machester struck with the bullet passing through the White girl's abdomen.

"It was necessary to fully investigate the matter in the event of a fatality," Inspector Ruston said after a Children's Aid Society detention home and the Belleville general hospital authorities, as well as investigating police under Inspector Lougheed and Lt.-Col. Donnan and Attorney Donnan from his office at noon.

Theatres Co-operate In Recruiting Drive For Women's Army

Corporal Lois Pilkington, C.W.A.C. formerly of the Belleville staff of that service here, arrived in the city yesterday in the interests of theatre co-operation in the drive for recruits for Canada's women's army.

An informative film which brings out the advantages for Canadian women and their usefulness in the army is being shown at these theatres. Called the "Badge of Honor" the film narrated by Raymond Massey, shows the splendid work being done by the army of Canada.

Theatres joined forces in the two-weeks drive for recruits, with C.W. A.C. officials, and are asking their facilities in the general effort to secure the five thousand recruits so urgently needed by the C.W.A.C. at this time.

The Women's Army opens splendid possibilities for the young women of Canada, the Corporal Wallet, Day of Dunnville, and Miss Margaret Reid of Belleville. One brother, Thomas Blaind of Rochester, N.Y., also survives.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Indianapolis, Aug. 4 —(AP)— A fresh young tree is growing high up on the east side of the Indiana war memorial between stone figures depicting "Victory" and "Peace." The Fifteen stories above the pavement, the tree just leaves twinkling in the hot breeze, the tree appears to be a popular about two feet tall.

'Stranger' Bests Firemen Team In Game of Quoits

Formerly prding themselves as being just about tops in horseshoe pitching ability in and around Belleville, members of the local fire department were severely defeated slightly Thursday evening and today are wondering just how it was done. And it remained for a native of Northbrook, Lennox and Addington county, to don the fire chasers how to toss ringers and do it consecutively.

While the boys were enjoying a friendly game of "quoits" a stranger appeared stating he would like to take a few shots. Elden Lapum was chosen with one of the firemen taking the stranger as partner and the game commenced. But lo! apparently it wasn't much of a game for the stranger tossed ringer after ringer to rapidly mount the score against the opposition. Three games to nil was the final count.

And who was the stranger? Oh yes, it was Magistrate J. L. Lloyd, chief magistrate for the county, who had been spectator of two firemen on this week's night shift and who decided strictly in line of general duty.

"GUEST" SHOOTS DOWN TWO NAZI PLANES. -

London, Aug. 4—(CP)— Flt. Lt. W. B. Feglar of Toronto yesterday flew as a "guest" with an American Mustang squadron and scored the only double victory of the day. Feglar shot down two enemy planes in planes of the United States 8th Air Force escorted heavy bombers against military targets in France.

Perspiring Citizens Seek Relief From Heat In and Along the Bay

It's hot—and it is going to be hotter, for the weatherman holds out no respite from the current heat wave.

Sweltering residents took to the highways and byways yesterday in an effort to escape the heat of the city and seek the elusive breeze that were conspicuous by their absence, in city confines.

The thermometer climbed with the ninety-degree mark running second place to the July high of 94 degrees. Water in the bay here registered 78 degrees.

But don't turn off the refrigerator. There is plenty of hot weather ahead and present prospects point to a nice sunshiny holiday.

Camps and resorts in the district have their full quota of residents and guests these days, while Old Sol is literally turning on the heat. Incidentally, if one can forget the discomfort of the warm weather, it is well worth while to view the near tropical beauty of a harvest moon, that now, in the full, is carpeting lake, stream and countryside with a blanket of silver radiance. The Bay of Quinte here was a veritable picture last night, one that would delight the eye of a tourist folder photographer. Adding to the nature! picturesqueness of the scene were the silhouettes of rowboats, as lazy owners allowed them to drift across the "Long Long Trail."

Bay Bridge Favorite Spot.

Youth took full advantage of the high temperatures to indulge in the favorite outdoor sport of hot weather. Swimming spots in the district were crowded, not only with youngsters but the vim and vigor but-sedate middle age seeking the coolest comfort of the water.

The Bay Bridge was the mecca for hundreds of the younger element. Cars lined the roads and shoreline near the bridge, while a number of the more daring, diveplunged and leaped from the lofty perches of the bridge superstructure. Cars lined the breeze-seeking residents lined the bridge road, while the shoreline was dotted with parade of swimmers who lined the bridge structure like sardines on a telephone wire.

Gasoline rations took a "beating" and precious "saved" fuel was utilized by many family jalopies as their owners sought the comparative coolness of rural roads and water places.

Residents, it seems, are standing up well under the attack of the heat squadrons. Hospital authorities reported no cases admitted as a result of the warm weather.

The War Today— Conquest of Brittany Will Add Much to Strength of Allies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Canadian Press War Analyst)

The fast-moving drive into Brittany may be the beginning of a into a race to determine whether the American armored columns can reach the Breton peninsula with its magnificent ports before the weakened Germans have had time to bring troops out of Brittany to defend their southern Normandy line.

Of course we don't know how strongly the garrisons of Brest, St. Nazaire and Lorient—the chief objectives—may be garrisoned. However, in some measure of enemy weakness, in our walk-over of the Breton capital of Rennes. This is a pivotal rail and highway center. The Germans would defend it to the best of their ability.

Charges Are Laid Sequel to Accident

Hamilton, Aug. 4 —(CP)—Police said today that charges of dangerous and reckless driving and careless driving have been laid against Phillipe Reindeau, 34, of Port Erie, Ont., alleged driver of an automobile which collided with a transport last Tuesday near Winona, Ont., resulting in the death of three women and injuries to another woman and man, besides the driver.

The three women killed included, Mrs. Nalda Raymond, 31, and Mrs. Beatrice Arnaud, 22, both of Clavet, Sask., and Mrs. Jean Sharron, 31, Ontario Provincial Police said Mrs. Raymond's husband lives at Gatineau Point, Que., Mrs. Arnaud's husband is serving overseas.

Police said it is not expected the charges will be heard for several days as Reindeau is still in hospital as a result of his injuries.

Allied Drive Into Normandy Ruin for Nazis

By CHARLES BRUCE

London, Aug. 4 (CP)).—The current Allied offensive, in France and Italy, combines with a sledge-hammer movement across central France reminiscent of the tactics used by Von Schlieffen strategy employed by the Germans in making war in the west.

The Allies now are establishing a line running northeast-southwest across the base of the Cherbourg Peninsula and also behind it. As German resistance is eliminated in pockets and salients south of Caen, most and east of Avranches, the front will be virtually straight.

Once this straightening is achieved, the front could be swung counter-clockwise through central southern France, possibly forcing the Germans to reverse their front facing the English Channel.

This in effect would be a reverse application of the Schlieffen plan—holding back the left flank and swinging the right. The depth of the front has swung on the Caen hinge into a knockdown, drag-out fight continues in contrast with the fluid fighting to the southwest.

The last route to the west an open flank now exists against which Allied armor could operate, when together with the Russian crossing of the Vistula, is now the object, H. O. Martin, London Daily Telegraph Military Analyst, as spelling ruin to Germany.

He quotes a remark by Count von Schlieffen, the famous German military strategist, made during war games of 1905 to test the plan that the Russians were to cross the Vistula, and that Edie, it would be impossible for Germany to continue a war against France.

Martin sees the following:

1. British forces "fighting at the best speed" against the enemy's back door which the Allies are pushing open in the direction of the enemy, will turn leftwards through the Bocage to pin German forces with their backs to the "Seine-Loire River."

2. The possibility that the United States 1st Army, having swept through Rennes (Ille et Vilaine) will "strike into Brittany, also will swing leftwards in its turn and head for Paris.

The Germans' Brittany garrison is believed to comprise only two or three weak divisions and a comparatively small force could contain these while the Allied main body swung eastwards with its left flank anchored on the Channel.

CHASED U-BOAT FROM LINER'S PATH

Flt. Lt. Kerrigan, D.S.O., D.F.C., Repatriated, Figured in Incident Last Winter

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 4 — (CP) — A soft-spoken, blond-simon who does not look as though he chased a U-boat from the path of the Queen Elizabeth, quietly answered questions here today about that exploit and others.

He is Flt. Lt. Harold (Boy) Kerrigan, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Westmount, Que., one of a group of 300 R.C.A.F. repatriates who arrived here recently.

Last winter the big vessel was speeding through the bleak North Atlantic and, unknown to the liner's officers, a U-boat lay in her path.

Here at last was the opportunity for which The German Navy had been waiting. Occasionally their officers had fleeting glances of the big green ships as they sped across the seas, zig-zagging elusively and outstripping any attempts to catch them.

But this time it was different. The U-boat was in position, waiting silently to launch torpedoes. The sea was calm, conditions perfect.

Then out of the darkness dove Kerrigan and his Liberator crew. It was one of the first time in which searchlights were used in the anti-submarine war and the big aircraft ran over the spot.

Kerrigan thought the U-boat in his first run, but he found the raider when it started to hurl flak at him. He made another run, but the U-boat had submerged. Meanwhile the Queen Elizabeth, warned of the danger, altered course and put safely to sea between herself and the U-boat area.

It was for his work in this connection and in sinking another U-boat that Kerrigan got the D.F.C. He got the D.S.O. after an attack in which he sunk one U-boat, tried to sink another and then brought his flak-ridden Liberator and wounded crew back to a Scottish coastal command base.

$1,000,000 Fire Sweeps C.A.S.C. Ottawa Garages

Ottawa, Aug. 4 —(CP)— Damages estimated at $1,000,000 resulted when an early morning fire of undetermined origin swept through the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps garages at Lansdowne Park, destroying more than 90 military trucks and cars and a big quantity of valuable equipment.

The service garages and workshops were in the huge general purpose building of the Central Canada Exhibition group which is in the south-central part of the city near the Rideau Canal and adjacent to the Federal District Parkway.

The building, with approximately $500,000, was demolished in a fire that started at 6.15 a.m., and was a smouldering heap of debris at 9.30 a.m. An official said the city of Ottawa, which owns the building, holds insurance partly covering the damage but he added the army's $500,000 contents loss is uncovered.

An unidentified sergeant, asleep who first noticed flames and smoking from a workshop, ran back into the building to warn comrades. He became trapped and was slightly injured when he jumped from a second storey window. His 25 comrades of the night shift all got out safely. Later a fireman suffered minor cuts from falling glass. Military officials said no other persons were injured.

The building is isolated and there was never any danger of the fire spreading. However, some of the hundreds of military trucks parked in an adjoining lot were badly damaged.

Find No Oil 'Melon' For C.C.F. To Cut

(The Financial Post)

Out of the Alberta election, electioneering between Social Credit and the C.C.F. comes a significant fact. Albertans is that it would take only a little industry to put Calgary Power, Somehow, they claim, the location of the seats of these industries will work wonders for the people of Alberta.

Social Credit Leader Manning avows his own antagonism to industry—but he has to say, at every turn—but he collected these figures to demonstrate the promises that there would be a delightful melon to cut if Alberta's oil industry were taken over.

Total spent in development, exploration, production of oil in Alberta $136,760,000

Total income Alberta oil production $118,404,000

Loss to oil companies, public, etc. ..... $ 18,294,000

Total oil wells drilled 1,330

Dry holes 535

Gas wells 775

Producers 440

Manning declared he had his data and taxing the competitive enterprise system of oil, Alberta claims have got $13 millions without risk, or anything.

An important natural resource from the development of which everybody benefits has been tested at enormous cost only to those enterprising individuals willing and, for the most part, able to take the risks of doing so.

The only other way this natural resource could be tested and developed is the socialist way—the way of compulsion—by something over citizen, willing or unwilling, able to stand risk or unable, to provide funds through extra taxes to do the work.

The corollary, of course, is that if governments are going to pay lip service to the enterprise system, expect it to work, they must encourage risk-taking. Currently that means above all else amending tax rules to make the rewards of risk-taking attractive.

British Govt. Steps Up Evacuation Of Children From London

London, Aug. 4. (CP)—The governments program to clear London of women and children was stepped up today following the 14-hour record flying-bomb blasting yesterday. All mothers with children of school age now may register for evacuation.

Heretofore all children were eligible for government aid in leaving, but only expectant mothers or those with children under five years of age came under the program.

The Nazis' robot blows on London and southern England fell off during the week after Allied bombers hammered the launching sites with 3,000 tons of bombs. It was announced officially only a few persons had been killed.

The 16-hour attack yesterday resulted in hits on dwellings, business houses and ten hospitals. This attack eased off late yesterday afternoon after a blanket of low clouds lifted from Dover Strait and gave anti-aircraft gunners better visibility.

TURKS BREAK WITH NAZIS

After many months of neutrality Turkey has broken diplomatic relations with Germany. The Allies are now expected to ask, and receive, bases from which to blast the Nazis out of the Aegean Islez and to attack Nazi satellite countries. Allied forces might move against Bulgaria (shown on map), whose border is reported to be strongly fortified.

First Artificial Fertilization Of Human Ova

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, Aug. 4 —(AP)— The first artificial fertilization of human ova, regarded as a giant step, entirely outside the bodies of the mothers and fathers, was announced today in a journal of science.

Although this is technically the first actual step in test tube babies which for years have been rumored in laboratories, the experiments indicate absolutely no way to produce babies artificially.

They are a medical study of the primary steps in human conception. Two of these human eggs divided, each into two cells and a third divided further into three cells.

These early steps are impossible to observe in life. The test-tube technique makes them visible for the first. Everything in this study was done under the eye of a microscope with photographic attachments which made permanent records.

The work is reported by John Rock and Miriam F. Menkin of the Department of Gynecology, Harvard Medical School, and the Fertility Clinic Laboratory, Free Hospital for Women, Brookline, Mass.

The human ova were obtained from women in their thirties, during surgical operations in which finding and recovery of these eggs was a by-product.

Obituary

KENNETH ARKELL
(Eldorado).

Eldorado, Aug. 4.— There passed away suddenly at his summer cottage, Moira Lake, on Wednesday, July 19, a respected citizen in the person of Kenneth Arkell. The death came as a distinct shock to his many friends for although he had been ailing for the last three years due to a heart condition he was active in his every day duties.

For the last 25 years he conducted a grocery and general store and in 1941 was appointed postmaster at Eldorado. He was born at Orangeville, son of the late Catherine Wilcox and Francis Arkell. For a number of years he was in business with his father in that town, later leaving to reside in Madoc, where he met and married Estella Baker. To this union, one daughter, Lillian was born, now Mrs. Earl Armstrong of Madoc. Surviving are his widow and daughter, and one sister, Mrs. J. B. Torrance of Brampton.

He had been a Methodist and a member of the Sheridan "Epworth Era Back to God League". For the past year, Mr. Arkell had attended the Holiness Movement Church in Madoc.

Funeral service was conducted at the home on Friday, July 21st, in charge of Rev. Russell Clarke officiating.

Interment was at Orangeville.

House Discusses Shipping Policy For After War

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 4 (CP)—Determination of government policy on Canadian shipping after the war awaits the report of a committee of civil servants which has been studying the matter, the House of Commons was told last night by Transport Minister Marchand.

The minister disclosed Canada will have some 300 merchant ships after the war compared with 27 before the war. He added:

"There is quite a divergence of opinion as to what will become of the merchant ships built and owned by Canada after the war. It is impossible to state at the present time.

"But there is no difference of opinion as to whether Canada should retain as many of these ships as can be used for the benefit of Canada. Whether our Canadian merchant marine should be operated by the government or by individuals or private companies is another matter."

No one with any experience, however, he said, could hope that all Canadian exports and imports would be carried in Canadian ships.

A brief discussion of post-war shipping problems arose first by R. W. Mayhew (L-Victoria, B.C.) during discussion of transport department estimates when he urged speeding the fish floor prices bill through third reading and a bill to provide a permanent full-time chairman for the Canadian Maritime Commission through second and third readings.

Mr. Mayhew said there was no reason why the great supplies Canada would produce after the war should not be carried at least partly in Canadian ships. Canada required 5,000,000 bushels, one every 10 seconds for 10 years. That would call for a fleet of ships, he said.

Clarence Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) said the Canadian government must "get down to business" and "get after the first Great War" in the interest of private shipping companies. He said he thought there was no intention of sabotaging any of the ships now under the government.

Ian Sinclair (PC — Cumberland) and Vincent Pottier (L—Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare) warned against the operating ships after the war Canada might be up against the competition of foreign ships with cheaper rates of wages and living much lower than Canadians.

Denies Motion To Have McLean Books Produced

Toronto, Aug. 4 —(CP)— G. D. Conant, master of the Ontario Supreme Court, yesterday rejected a motion by James A. Thornton asking that books of two companies of which Harry F. McLean is president and director be produced in court.

Thornton's application was in connection with an action he has brought against McLean and the two companies—the Dominion Construction Co., Ltd., and the Grenville Crushed Rock Co.

Therrien, suing on behalf of all other shareholders of the two companies except McLean, claims that McLean as majority shareholder controls the companies and that he has "in fraud of other shareholders, caused large sums of money to be illegally disbursed to himself and other persons."

In his statement of defence, McLean denies fraud and other allegation in the statement of claim and says all moneys disbursed by the companies have been properly accounted for in the balance sheet, presented at the last annual meeting of shareholders. The balance sheet was approved by shareholders, including Therrien, he maintains. Both companies also deny fraud.

In connection with the application that the books be produced, Mr. Conant ruled that the issue of plaintiff's right to the damages must be determined before the question of producing the books can be considered.

Hun Troops in England Said Moving to Port To Leave Country

Stockholm, Aug. 4 — (AP)—The newspaper Aftonbladet said today that long trainloads of German troops had been seen moving toward Hango, Finland's southwestern coastal fortress, and that transports were waiting to carry them out of the country.

The newspaper, which quoted a traveller from Finland, said the troops were taking their guns and tanks with them.

Japs Report P-38's Attack Manchuria

New York, Aug. 4 — (AP) — Japanese broadcasts said today P-38 planes had attacked northern Manchuria, and that this "proved that a raid by fighter planes from continental bases is possible."

A broadcast heard by Federal Communications Commission monitors said it was clear that "the enemy has a base for attack" Manchuria continuously. Tokyo claimed that today's raid did no damage. B-29 Superfortresses went to Manchuria last night.

Says British Landing Made in Island Off Yugoslav Coast

London, Aug. 4 — (CP) — A British landing on the Dalmatian Island of Korcula off the coast of Yugoslavia, Wednesday was reported by the German high command today.

The broadcast communique said the amphibious operation, protected by destroyers and many fighter planes, began "today" and that garrison of the island "after short but hard fighting withdrew."

The Thirty Years 1914-1944

On August fourth 1914 Britain became at war with Germany in the first of the two great struggles of this generation. That war raged for four years and over three months. For almost five years the Second Great War has been waged on a scale vastly greater than the other. This struggle is now dragging to the last stage for the German enemy is being pressed back everywhere. When Germany falls there is the criminal Jap to be dealt with and likewise to be treated to a crushing defeat.

When war broke out in 1914 there could be little realization that the struggle would be so vast in scale, or that there would be a second struggle with the same enemy but as the years passed it was forced upon us mankind's attitude that the course of Japan and Germany was not satisfactory. The course of Hitler made it certain that war could not be avoided and after the lull of the incident at Munich it was clear that Hitler with Germany's was endeavoring to bludgeon the world into acceptance of his demands which were nothing less than world power.

Now with the Second World War nearing a successful conclusion, we are taking steps to prevent Germany again threatening humanity in the way in which she has done for over nine years of the thirty-year period.

When the war ends with Germany with the liberation of Europe and the war with Japan is speeded up to its conclusion, the United Nations' world will be ready to proceed with the rehabilitation of the Continent.

This age has been tried sorely by the avarice and savagery of Germany on these two occasions, first in an imperialist form and this latter time under the name of dictatorship, aggression and Nazism. The vast task facing the world now is one worthy of the United Nations—to make the world safe for freedom and democracy and guarded against selfish aggressors.

In the first of the two wars, it was German militarism and imperialism that was at the roots of the strife and in this war it was the same principle with the added Germany with militarism and its spirit of greed and desire for aggression along with the most reprehensible character in history, Adolf Hitler, with his mad philosophy of look and greed for the race of Huns.

With this mad warlike Germany the world has twice in a generation found itself at war and forced to fight for its utmost to protect its freedom and existence. This time the United Nations are finishing the war strong in power and stout of will and there will be steps taken which will make it impossible for the Huns again to desecrate the peace and democracy of the world.

The great hope of this generation 1914-1944 is that the next generation and the following will reap the rich fruits of the world's sufferings and ordeals in a peace which cannot be broken by the enemies of humanity.

7,785 Killed on Highways in 13 Years

Figures just released by the Honorable George H. Doucett. Minister of Highways, show that in the past thirteen years 7,785 persons have died and 135,918 were injured in motor vehicle accidents in the Province of Ontario.

Comparing the death and injury toll with population figures, Mr. Doucett said, "This largely unnecessary loss is equivalent to the death total which would result from the complete destruction of a city such as Kenora, or of Simcoe and Wiarton combined; while the injury total would be about equal to the combined population of Windsor and Fort William; or of London, Port Arthur and Sudbury."

"During 1943," said Mr. Doucett, "there were 11,021 accidents reported to the Motor Vehicles Branch, in which 549 persons were killed and 8,628 persons were injured. Corresponding totals for 1942 were 11,591 and 10,205 injured.

"Largely due to an increase in fatal accidents involving child pedestrians, the death rate on the basis of miles travelled or gasoline consumption was higher than in 1942."

"This situation," said Mr. Doucett, "demands that motorists exercise increased care in driving and at the same time emphasize the need for greater supervision and more attention to safety training by parents and teachers."

"The pedestrian is the greatest sufferer as far as fatal accidents are concerned and an examination of the circumstances of such accidents should cause us to remember that for our own safety when walking, we have certain duties to perform and responsibilities to accept. It will not be consistent upon our individual rights. At the same time the driver must keep in mind the fact that the vehicle under his control is a deadly engine power and he must drive accordingly."

"While the problem of accidents is thus to a large degree a matter for the individual driver and the individual pedestrian, the proportions of the problem, which will tend to increase when restrictions on driving are removed, make it a community problem and a provincial problem as well. There is a need for increased and fulltime educational effort to combat accidents and I believe this work calls for the close coordination of provincial agencies but also the organization of county and city safety groups who will be empowered to work with problems intimate to the individual communities, in co-operation with the Department of Highways."

The Hun is Surprised

(Transatlantic Daily Mail)

German prisoners marching ashore at a South of England port blinked and stared round them in puzzled bewilderment, for this place is not supposed to exist.

"They must be mad Yanks," said one of the first ones to his comrades. But then they saw the name of the town painted up as large as life on a municipal dust-cart, and his interrogation officer confirmed it to them.

As each new group came out of the ship you saw the same reaction. First puzzled bewilderment, then disbelief, then reluctant conviction, and finally a look of crestfallen amazement.

But he was at once hushed down by his friends. Evidently he seemed to feel there must be some mistake.

Four Luftwaffe personnel were shocked and indignant when they learned where they were. They argued lengthily among themselves, trying to discover where was the catch in the whole story.

Sea Monster Routed

A sea monster story to end all sea monster stories comes from Punta Arenas, Chile, where police exhibit a ton of sea-creature slain by gunfire after it had marched up a populous street. One story states that the monster beat on doors and windows as it proceeded from the shore, and that its frightened victims caused women to faint in belief it was a ghost. Strong-hearted citizens helped police erect a street barricade to halt the stranger's advance. The creature, apparently a huge sea horse, turned back to the sea. When slain by police rifle shots, it was found to be 12 feet long, with a head similar to a dog and comparatively short flippers. The creature was virtually hairless and the color of an elephant.

FARMER'S WIFE

No woman leads a busier life
Than she who is a farmer's wife.
She's up at morn to greet the sun;
'Tis dark before her tasks are done.
A dozen useful skills she knows:
She cooks for hungry men and sews,
She sweeps and dusts, and milks the cows
And drives them to the field to browse.
From spring until the trees are bare
Two gardens are her constant care—
And one's for truck, the other flowers.
For her there are no restful hours.
'Tis hers to gather up the eggs,
To bring the daily pails of pigs
To know before she goes to bed
The stock is watered, strawed and fed.

On Sunday, trim as silver birch,
She leads the children into church.
On Monday, with the breakfast through,
The family wash is hers to do.
When sickness strikes, or injury,
Both nurse and doctor she will be.
Sometimes a mason's work she'll do,
And carpentry and plumbing, too.

When autumn comes some help she'll need
The dusty threshing crew to feed.
Three seasons through, without a stop,
She'll can a part of every crop,
Until her cellar shelves are filled
A vault of peaches, pears and plums.
And how she does so much, so well,
Only a farmer's wife can tell.

Pyle in Normandy:

Many Freakish Jobs Confront Tank Repair Crews of Ordnance Corps

By ERNIE PYLE

Somewhere in Normandy (by wireless) — Ordnance tank repair company gets some freakish jobs, indeed.

The other day the company I was with had a tank destroyer roll in with nothing wrong with whatever wrong with it except the end of the gun barrel was corked tight with 21-2 feet of wood.

What happened was they had been running along a hedgerow and as the turret operator swung his gun in a forward arc, they ran the end of the barrel smack into a big tree.

You would think the vehicle had to be going 100 miles an hour to plug the end of the barrel for a 1-2 feet simply by running into it. But it doesn't. This one was going only 20 miles an hour. It took the ordnance boys four hours to dig the wood out with chisels and reamers. The inside of the barrel wasn't hurt a bit and it went right back into action.

A 3-inch anti-tank gun was brought in with a hole in the barrel about six inches back from the muzzle. The hole came from the inside! What happened was this: a German bazooka gunner fired a rocket at the anti-tank gun. It made one of those clean little hole-jobs—went right smack into the muzzle of the big gun.

About six inches inside it went off and burned its way clear through the barrel. Nobody got hurt but the barrel was unrepairable, and it was sent back to England for salvage.

* * *

A tank was brought in that had been hit three times on the side within a few seconds. The entrance holes were about two feet apart. But on opposite side of the tank where the shells came out, there was only one hole. In each angle of fire had been such that the second shell went right through the hole made by the first one.

* * *

In another case an 88 shell struck the front slanted apron that shields the breech of one of a tank's guns. The shell didn't get through. It hit at an angle and just scooped out a big chunk of steel about a foot deep and 18 inches wide.

It's very improbable that in the whole war this same shield would be hit in the exact same place. Yet they can't afford to take that chance, so the additional armor had to be made strong again.

They took acetylene torches and cut out a big rectangular piece, ground part with slanting sides the same as the original watermelon. Then they fashioned a steel plate the same size and shape as the hole, and welded it in.

The result is that the plug fits into the hole like a cork in a bottle. It would be impossible for a shell to drive it in. It's as really stronger now than it used to be.

* * *

One of the most surprising things I saw was a mobile combination of outdoor ordnance shops in Normandy was a mobile tire repair shop.

There already are half a dozen of the big 6-ton trucks in Normandy. They fly anything from a motorcycle to tank tires. They don't bother with ordinary holes and patches. They just throw away their work is on tires damaged by shrapnel or bullets.

Each one-unit outfit consists of one officer and 15 men. They've been specially trained for their work. Their sergeants are ultimen back in civilian life.

They move in three trucks. When they set up, the tires are taken off to each side of the road. A "T" thus making a shop with three wings. You get in at the top of the "T" and disembark.

Tires on the ground tires are stacked all around. One set of soldiers works all day and night vulcanizing the rubber around the damaged places. Then they take the tire to the machine. A machine roughens the edges of the holes so the filling will stick.

Then they mould in fresh rubber and put the tire back on the proper car machines. It's hotter than blazes in there. It takes an hour and a half to cure a tire, which tells you see they can't turn them out very fast.

They'll repair a tire that has up to 100 holes in it. I've seen more than that they send it back to England. A six-hole tire takes about 20 minutes making. One unit can run off a maximum of about 60 tires a day. The whole shop is set up in a former orchard and we've got a nice, comfortable outfit with neta you could hardly see it. The officer in charge was Capt. George Eberhardt of Iowa. The "Hawkinson Tread Service" in Washington, D.C., is the outfit running it while he's away.

His first sergeant is Stephen Hudak of (51 Piore ave.) Akron, of all places. I've been finding more famous folks. I've been finding more damned square pegs in square holes in this war than lately. Something must be wrong.

Army Court Martial Acquits Col. McIntosh

Woodstock, Aug. 4 —(CP)— Lt.-Col. N. A. McIntosh of the Canadian Army Driving and Maintenance School was acquitted yesterday by a court martial here on a charge of ill-treating a soldier. The court's finding on a second charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman, was not guilty. The order in the army was forwarded to military headquarters in Ottawa and will be made public there.

The court's decision was announced by Brig. A. E. Walsh, D.S.O., V.D., the presiding officer, at the conclusion of a closed sitting of the court this afternoon. The closed sitting began after Argument by counsel, Lt.-Col. Kerr of Chatham, for Col. McIntosh, and Capt. R. H. Evans of Ottawa, prosecution—this morning.

The court-martial opened Tuesday and the charges were based on an incident in the officers' mess June 26, when Lt.-Col. McIntosh, former resident of Windsor, being arrested on a charge of being A.W.O.L. here, assistant mess steward, for refusing him a drink on the grounds his liquor quota was used up.

In the argument this morning Capt. Evans argued that Col. McIntosh probably thought he was Major Billers and Mr. Kerr held that the accused was justified in refusing to checking a mess steward for a breach of discipline.

The judge advocate, Major A. S. Ferguson of London, Ont., commented that provocation is not a ground for acquittal, but may lend to mitigate the charge.

Unless there is an immediate appeal, Col. McIntosh's finding will be made public until they have been received by military headquarters in Ottawa.

IT IS THE WAY OF CLINICS

My wife has suffered for years with headaches—often a dull one coming on at night and in recent years becoming more violent. Dr. speaks by the best doctors in our own vicinity and by the clinics at ..... and ..... summed up to this that she has no organic trouble the trouble is purely functional. Is that mean anything to you? W. G. S.

I hope you will not think I am mean to you if I tell you what it means to me.

It means that the what you call the best doctors in your vicinity and the obscure practitioners who manage to get customers by submerging their identity in the impressive name of "clinic" were unable to make a diagnosis, but they were not honest or courageous enough to say so.

The malarkey about "purely functional" trouble is a safe bet in any case if a doctor is in doubt, and of course it doesn't mean a thing.

As you asked me to recommend a doctor I am sending you the name and address of one by personal letter. I have no interest in him financially or otherwise but I will say frankly that he is among the few to whom I go with my own troubles. If you get an appointment with him, however, don't try to take up the doctor's time telling him what the highlights at the "clinic" thought of your case. Just let him what your expert opinion of the case is and what you want the doctor in that fashion please do not try to "tell" the doctor anything. Let him tell you. Just tell him the present complaint and then answer the doctor's questions and let him get on with the examination.

The main thing you want to think they must take time to explain to the doctor why they have come and why they have not come before or to apologize for seeking advice at last.

Even in my daily mail many letters begin with a sentence, a paragraph, sometimes a page of irrelevance, such as "I am writing you to ask some questions" and then start asking the questions. If I get the letter I am usually lucky if you are writing to me, and if you ask questions I assume that is why you have write to me. These are busy days for

Can't Get Air Into Breathe

I always thought you are supposed to expand your chest and pull your stomach in or up, but if I understand your breathing you should forget your chest and breathe more with your diaphragm. Haven't you talked things up a bit? How are you going to breathe in and use your diaphragm at the same time? (C.W.C.)

Answer—Very little! It is too complicated to explain here. If you wish to know about breathing, access, gymnastics, etc., send 10c cents and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet "How to Breathe."

One is Watch Out

Have just had a complete examination including X-rays. Doctors say I have a very nervous condition of colon. No organic trouble other than nervous weakness. I have been told vitamins will help me. What vitamins should I take? —(H.C.S.)

Answer—When a doctor can't find out what is the matter he can always take refuge in "just nervous condition" or "nervous exhaustion." That should be your cue to disengage yourself and try to find a doctor who is brave enough to say so if he can't make an honest diagnosis. Next day I get into whether vitamins would help you or not, but you say, "but I haven't the ghost of an idea.

Insulin

Can you tell me of the latest book or manual that will inform about the new protamine zinc insulin?—(L. S. B.)

Answer—It is a difficult problem to switch from ordinary insulin to the newer and more prolonged action of protamine zinc insulin, and your physician should advise you to change over with comfort and safety.

Foods Leaving Acid or Alkaline Ash

Please state whether white bread leaves acid or alkaline ash. (W. S.)

Answer—Acid. In the red book "How to Live" (Copy 'Why' for over send 25 cents, and stamped self-addressed envelope) are lists of foods that leave acid ash, alkaline-ash, neutral-ash. But if I were you I would not pay much attention to that technical detail in arranging your meals.

Washington Spotlight

Washington, Aug. 4 —(CP)— American newspaper readers are likely to be exposed, for the next few months, to a great deal of information on Canada's internal and external political situation, but it is unlikely many will digest it.

Reports in the Canada and Canada sections to be real and friendly. Real knowledge and understanding of Canada and Canadians appears non-existent among the great masses of people.

Next month's large group of American and British newspaper correspondents will go from Washington to London, Paris and Moscow to cover the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration.

It is a safe bet that their interest will be fairly divided between U.N. R.R.A. and the Canadian Army, the Socialist trend, and the rise of the Rice Populaire. Also the chances of the two-day visit to Canada of visiting general election.

Canada has been given a lot of publicity here in recent years. The people of the United States have learned to be "solid" on Canada. They accept and treat Canadians as well-liked neighbors.

But the masses of people, especially those living in the great industrial centres, know little of how Canadians live and conduct their economy.

They are politely but not deeply interested in such things. Canada is a happy, robust country and a good place for a holiday. That is all they want to know.

GRANT'S NAME

There is a persistent legend that Ulysses Simpson Grant was christened Hiram Ulysses Grant, and that General Thomas L. Hamner, the Ohio Congressman who nominated him to be a cadet at West Point, made a mistake and put down the name Ulysses Simpson Grant on the application papers.

The maiden name of Grant's mother was Hannah Simpson.

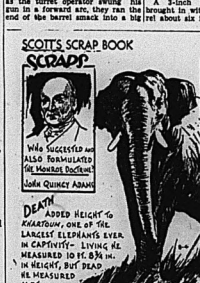
According to the usual version of the story, the error went on the record roll at West Point and later Grant adopted Ulysses Simpson because he regarded it as more euphonious and because his initials would spell "USG."

The fact is that Grant was christened Ulysses Simpson Grant, the name he bore throughout life.

For some unknown reason, when Grant reported at the Military Academy he signed his name on the descriptive list as Hiram Ulysses Hiram Grant.

Perhaps it was his intention at that time to change his name by dropping the Simpson and substituting Hiram as his middle name. But he was appointed as Ulysses Simpson Grant and his name so occurs on all official records.

He was also known as the children of a lawyer named Jesse R. Grant.



In 1885, after U. S. Grant had died and was as a soldier, Jesse R. Grant wrote the following paragraph about his grandfather and son in a letter to Richard A. Wheeler, of Stonington, Connecticut: "As usually the case in the first, there was a good deal of anxiety about what to call the name for the child. It was finally settled that the last a dozen names selected by the family should be all put in a hat, and the first drawn should be the name. Ulysses was drawn, and his mother's name (Simpson) adopted for the middle name."

This letter first appeared in print in August 14, 1885, in the Belleville (Mass.urt) Republican.

The history quoted was included in a book entitled "American Ancestry of U. S. Grant," privately printed by Dr. H. S. Nicholson.

WEDDINGS

SALLIS—EVANS

At Ottawa United Church, the Rev. G. Everett Ashton, chaplain of H.M.C.S. "Hunter" officiating, Miss Elsie E. Evans of Gladstone Avenue, Ottawa, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Evans, of Sturgeon Falls, was united in marriage to P/O. William Sallis, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. Alfred Sallis, of Vancouver, B.C. The groom formerly resided in Picton.

FINLAY—HAZLEWOOD

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Nora Hazlewood, 29 Bridge West, when her youngest daughter, Lulu Marie, was united in marriage to Owen Leslie Finlay, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finlay, of Brighton Township.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Delve, of Wooler, under an arch of evergreens and summer flowers.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. William Hazlewood, the bride looked lovely in a two-piece dress of Sierra blue shore-taffeta, with matching veil. She wore a cameo pendant, the gift of the groom, and carried a mixed bouquet of Briarcliffe roses, baby breath and gladioli.

Miss Norma Finlay, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing shell pink sheer made on princess lines, with white hat and veil, and carrying a nosegay of mixed flowers. Mr. Robert Hazlewood attended the groom as best man.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a brooch of costume jewellery, and to the best man, cuff links.

Following the ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served to the friends and relatives of the immediate families.

They will reside in Brighton Township.

FISKE—HAZELWOOD

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, July 29, in Castleton United Church parsonage, the Rev. Alfred Bishop, of Jessie Lillian, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hazlewood Morganston, to Gerald Fiske, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fiske of Pontypool. The couple were attended by Miss Gwen May, cousin of the bride, and Private Max Fiske, Dental Corps, brother of the groom.

The bride looked lovely in a street-length dress of blue silk jersey, with white accessories. She wore a corsage of cerise gladioli and bridal roses. Miss May's dress was of pale green mesh silk jersey, with white accessories and a corsage of cerise gladioli and bridal roses.

After the ceremony, the bridal party motored to Port Hope and Brighton, where a wedding luncheon was served.

Amid showers of confetti, the happy couple left for Bancroft and district north, after which Mr. and Mrs. Fiske will reside on the groom's farm at Pontypool.

Fashion Flashes

LUMINOUS BEAUTY is expressed in the fine suits and frocks of black satin so important for early autumn. A smart wealth of black satin is cut on very slim lines and is worn with a pinch satin sash pallieted in silver and gold.

THE MAJORITY of topper coats made for fall are cut with wide shoulders and deep armholes for wear over suits. A handsome new model is in gold suede cloth, 36-inch length and set-locked. It has self collar braid embroidery worked as a wide hemline border and edging the four vertical, slit pockets.

LOOK OUT for the tax-free fur-trimmed coat. The type of coat uses fur in very narrow bands. A slim wrap coat of almond green wool has a narrow band of mink edging the collarless neckline and the fur is continued down the front.

IT LOOKS as though the bow neckline blouse is here to stay. for it appears in daytime and evening blouses for autumn. A softly tied big bow, which gathers the square neckline yoke into soft folds, is the feature of a handsome blouse in white chiffon with a silver cord. Bishop sleeves caught into frilled cuffs.

LOOKING AHEAD, we discern the importance of the finely handled dinner or theatre suit. Black, brown velvet is used for a handsome model; very slim, the jacket with a curved, fluted peplum. A cluster of ermine tails at the neckline suggests an ermine muff or hat.

A WEALTH of leather accessories uses high shades, such as sulphur yellow and fuchsia. Hat, belt and gloves in suede is a recurring theme. Also, there are umbrellas with suede-leather-covered crook handles, as well as lapel ornaments and earrings.

Jumper News

By ALICE ALDEN

GIRLISH AND CHARMING, the jumper has become part of the wardrobe of the younger woman. Nice on its own as a sun frock, it takes just as kindly to a blouse.

Eleanor Parker models this neat jumper dress with a square neck fore and aft. It is of fine flannel in lime yellow and here it is worn with a simple, soft sateen blouse.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Lover Urged Her to Return to Her Husband and Children.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is no solution to my problem, but it may keep some other girl from marrying a man she's just met and isn't certain she really loves.

When I was in high school I fell in love with a classmate. We were closer to each other as time passed. He was putting himself through college, working at odd jobs. Gradually we fell deeply in love and drifted into intimate companionship. I went to college and was swept off my feet by the glamour of a football star, and married him. A letter from my classmate came, telling me he was going to join the air studies and accepted a job, so we might be married.

That was twelve years ago and my heartbreak has never ceased. My husband loves me and our children, but the memory of that first love persists. A year ago we met again and it was as if we had never been apart, though each was married to another.

"I spent several days with him before I returned home. A few months later I could not stand the separation longer and left my family. When I went to this man again," he wisely made me realize the folly of my act and my moral obligation to my children and husband, and his to his wife and children. I went home and have been happy.

My husband received me and asked no questions. He made certain promises ... which he has failed to keep.

If it were not for the children I would divorce him, but I love my father and he loves them dearly.

I am to be condemned for my acts of infidelity. Yet I know in my heart if there is ever an opportunity to see this man again I will go straight to his arms, obliterating my responsibilities and obligations. As you see, there is no solution.—Unfaithful Wife."

Deep in her heart, my correspondent knows that the only solution to her problem is that grim word "duty." Would she be able to hold her lover by giving herself to him? Then they get the second time, he urged her to return to her husband and children. If he yielded to her, as human nature is prone to yield, wouldn't she soon find herself a millstone around his neck?

And what had once been the miracle of first love had degenerated to disillusionment, dust and ashes?

The Marry-Go-Round

Mrs. Solomon, the 700th. Wife, Speaks.

Consider the war-time housewife. She hasteneth forth in the early hours of the morning to register, membereth not her books, to keep them handy. She cherisheth her points, both red and blue, yet never can remember which are meat and which are fat. They are a dread nuisance.

She fetcheth her shopping-bag and she may bring home the fruits of her search. For, the shopkeepers and the high priests of the market-place are loth to deliver the goods. They scorn her pleas and are haughty, saying, "No. NO DELIVERIES." They get mad at her when she giveth the small order.

She battleth her way into many shops and glareth at the people who would precede her. But what profiteth it her, though she turn her most radiant smiles and her handsomest upon those who have greeted her with bows and graciousness? For lo, she now saith "Hi" to the butcher, she saluteth sweetly in line and taketh her turn. She biddeth her chagrin when he saith, "No Madam, no lamb!" She swalloweth her sorrow, and purchaseth bringeth home a pound of tripe.

Into the self-service emporium she entereth bravely and without hesitation she grabbeth a basket-carriage and pusheth it around deftly. She reacheth for cans from the high places, and clutcheth them as rare treasures.

She pileth her go-cart high with packages and she picketh the underripe melon, and departeth pridefully from the stockings for the triumph. For hath she not bought SOMETHING?

She returneth to her home and maketh the house to shine with cleanliness. She washeth and ironeth the bathroom curtains, and darneth the stockings for the family—even her one remaining pair of Nylons. She maketh the vegetables for the cooking of the dinner. She maketh the salad dressing. She scrubbeth at the draught of the unexpected guest. For the chops have been purchased and the liquor is low.

Then with own hands, she waiteth the lawn and weedeth her war garden. She pulleth radishes and plucketh onions and saying, "Ten cents saved is ten cents earned!" Bridge parties and beauty parlors are forgotten. She knoweth them no more. And in the evening, she doleth herself up and waveth her own hair. She receiveth her lord and master with bright smiles, after his day's labors.

Then she fondly and saith, "Well, Lilli One—and what hast thou been doing with thyself TO-DAY?" And she meekly replieth, "Oh, nothing. Darling!"

Gifts for a Bride-Elect's Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a personal shower for a bride-elect, what are appropriate gifts?

A favorite gift for the personal shower is lingerie, often embroidered with the initials or monogram of the maiden name, and very often embroidered with the first name of the bride-elect. Other appropriate gifts are a bottle of perfume, bottle, or a bottle of perfume, costume jewelry, handkerchiefs, gloves, stockings, photograph frame, jewel case, traveling clock, cosmetic table or desk clock, a desk item, compact, day purse or evening bag (usually white), bill clip, key-case, jewelled comb, item for travelling bag, pen and pencil set, address-book. Sometimes a joint gift is given; for example, a breakfast table set or a piece of luggage, perhaps fitted, or a fitted writing case. And often, at the kind of shower a relative gives the bride-to-be a shower gift. Many a bride-to-be leaves for registering her wedding list.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

PROBLEM OF A DIVORCEE'S NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I shall be very glad to have your advice about this problem, which involves a friend of mine. For fifteen years this woman has owned and operated a public stenography office under her own name ... Grace Borden. (I have changed her name and the names of all the people involved in this question). She is very well known in the business world and is active in professional club groups as Mrs. Grace Borden. Recently she sold the business (her name will no longer be used in connection with it), and is divorcing her husband, who plans to marry again. Although Mrs. Borden expects to lead a far more social life than she has been able to in the past, she naturally does not want to be known in club circles by her former husband's name ... Arthur G. Borden. Knowing that it would be correct to use her maiden name prefixed to her married surname, she planned to be known as Mrs. Carter Borden.

However, Carter is the name they gave their only son, who is being married next month. His fiancee objects to her future mother-in-law having the same name, feeling it will cause a good deal of confusion, especially if the change is made so close to the time when their girl will become Mrs. Carter Borden.

This is complicated, I know; but you would be surprised, Mrs. Beeckman, how many times this particular question has come up in my experience (I'm the woman's editor of a large newspaper in the West.) — S. T.

As a matter of fact this question has come up several times in my own experience. And I suggest that as a very practical solution to this name-problem your friend call herself Mrs. G. Carter Borden. Another would certainly be hers after her divorce, and if she keeps this much of the name and prefixes the "G." (for Grace) to make it different from the name of her new daughter-in-law, the difference in names can be made to clear away the name-confusion.

If your friend adopts this form of name, I hope you will persuade her to write out the "Grace" after the Mrs. (even if her new daughter-in-law tries to persuade her to do this!) Since she will now have the time and freedom to take part in more social life, she should not use a name-form that is socially incorrect. And while using the "G." is not the best social form it is the best available under the particular circumstances.)

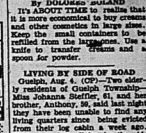
The Experts Say

(By The Canadian Press)

"OUR SUGAR ALLOWANCE" — Home canning is taking an important place in wartime Dominion again this year and now is the time to check on canning "do's" and "don'ts" for even when every precaution is used in the actual canning, carelessness in handling jars and storing may lead to spoilage, says Laura Pepper, food chief of agriculture department consumer section.

DO: Test sealers for leaks before storing. Wipe sealers clean and make sure no food is adhering to the sealing edge. Store in cool, dark, dry place. If storage space is limited, jars may be wrapped in paper. The cartons in which new sealers are packed make good storage containers. Do examine sealers each week after canning to make sure products are keeping.

DON'T cool or store sealers in an inverted position, stand them right side up. Don't lift sealers by the lids. this may break the seal. Don't lighten tops once sealers are cool, the seal may break. Don't store sealers of canned food in too warm a place, the food may expand and break the seal.



WORKING GIRLS might note that fruit or fruit juice should be included in each day's breakfast, according to the advice of the Penman Sports Department Nutrition Section. Tomato juice is plentiful now all across Canada and one glass of it will supply about half the day's requirements of Vitamin C—the vitamin which helps teeth, gums and blood vessels healthy. Grapefruit juice, when you can get it, is an even richer source of Vitamin C. Or, for a change, try cutting an orange in quarters and eating it in your fingers.

MEASURING TRICKS: Sticky solid fats are hard to measure accurately and without mess in quantities of less than a cupful. The Nutrition Bureau suggests what the experts call the "water displacement" method: If the recipe calls for half cup of fat, simply fill the measuring cup half full of cold water, add the fat piece by piece until the water is just at the one cup level, pour off the water and there is the right quantity of fat, neatly measured.

'Bomberettes' Win Opening Play-off Game

Eke Out 14-13 Win Over Universals in Free-Hitting Contest

SIX HOMERS

In a free hitting game the Mountain View "Bomberettes" drew first blood in the Belleville Ladies Softball League play-offs by beating Universals 14-13 at the Ammonites Lawn last evening.

Hopelessly outclassed in the early stages the Universals rallied strongly in the latter stanzas to threaten within an inch of victory when they left the tying counters stranded on the runway in the last inning. Extra hits made the difference in the scoring as the Bomberettes counted a trio of circuit blows and five two-base smashes, while the Universals treated up three round-trippers and the same number of doubles.

LAW. Wilhelm, the Bombertes' second sacker, led the hitters on the attack with a perfect night's batting average of five for five as he collected a pair of home, three doubles and a single in five tries. Webster and Rivers also hit round-trippers for the winners. Jean Cornell, the Universals initial sacker, paced the losers at bat with two circuit blows, a double and a single to count four for five. Helen Tuttle banged out a home run, double and two singles for a perfect turn at bat also.

Open Scoring.

The Bomberettes scored all of their runs in the first two innings, following which the Universals battled up to blank the "Air Girls" from then in. Universals scored runs in every innings they went to bat as the batters held a field day shoving little mercy to the pitchers. Home runs two on the Bomberette firing line and two on the relief hurler, Mattie Richardson hurled for the Universals being touched for 18 safeties. The Universal receiving end, Skipper Alexander's Universals no particular help during the final analysis came around.

The Box-score:

Mountain View, Webster ss, Strachan 3b, Wilhelm 3b, Mills 1b, Rivers c, Maitland rf, Grant rf, Edwards as and Hiller p.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Aug. 4 — (CP) — Truly, an era in the world of sport, in Toronto at least, has passed into the proverbial limbo. Animals, reptiles, fangs in the Queen City are reportedly casting blase eyes on the fleet of wrestling promoters to supply them with "hero-villain" contests to chills and thrills, not to mention spines. The girls now are booing the he-roes and cheering the villains.

Always, in happier days, the girls would scream themselves into hysteria as the ugly-visaged villain gouged, bit, pulled and kicked the handsome hero, and they would applaud madly when the "good fellow" reversed the tables and won out, Alger style.

Some of the girls, when asked why their strange aversion to handsome Whipper Billy Watson, stretched on the canvas and branded him a "clothes horse" and a "pretty boy with a lot of conceit." They made no bones of the fact they would like to see anyone — man, woman, lion or masked marvel — trounce the erstwhile hero.

All of which is very strange and unfathomable. Perhaps it presages the end of the "bobby socks" era.

Hiller Note:

A professional wrestler pal of Hiller's, Ernie Dusek, of Omaha, credited with discovering what decmocracy, Canadian style, is all about. The real gentleman, Karl Pojello by name, defines it thus: "Democracy? That's a name to a farmer. He drive tractor and smoke pipe and on his tractor radio play. That is democracy."

Here and There:

Al Urquhart has retired after a long career as a railroad engineer. That doesn't mean much to the younger generation, but oldsters will remember him as a member of the original Regina Roughriders football team of 1912. Brian Timmis was called him the greatest guard he ever saw, and Urquhart seconded the motion heartily. Al also played with Regina Victorias when they took the Allan Cup in 1914 . . . The rink at Windsor, Ont., will be named fall. Cleveland Barons, Detroit Red Wings and Pittsburgh Hornets all are due to train at the Motor City. There's a move afoot to build a roller skating rink in Halifax, and revive once-popular roller-hockey . . . Jimmy Ward, one of the famous old Montreal Maroons, is slated to coach a hockey squad in Portland, Ore., this winter.

HILLIER BEST GIRL

LAC. Ross Malkin of Barrie, won the individual track and field day championship at the annual field day at the Mountain View R.C.A.F. School of Bombing and Gunnery on Wednesday. Ideal weather conditions welcomed the athletes when 42 events were completed. Malkin captured the majority of the track events.

To the Ground Instructional School went the group honors when they amassed 62 points in the day's program. F/L. Stickland was in charge of the Ground Instructors team. . . Next came Maintenance with 45 points, Belleville Recruiting with 26 points fourth Headquarters Staff with 21 points and fifth Air Training Squadron with 17 points. Time: 2.20.

220 yards—Malkin, Pte and Sayard.

Sqd./Ldr. Campbell, Flt./Lt. Hutchinson and Flt./Lt. Hall.

Obstacle Race—Won by Maintenance. Three members of each team ran the race with each member carrying a different piece of equipment. Pte. Dixon, Headquarters, Blake and Allison.

Cpl. Charters and Pte. Fox.

Hillier, Cpl. Charters and Whitten.

Pte. Wee Reese, former Brooklyn Dodger shortstop had his jaws at the service of Lippy Durocher, last week. Just before the Dodgers left for a 6 to 3 victory over the Reds, a nurse, who recently returned from the battle front, told the Dodger chieftain to deliver a message. There's a boy out there who wants to know if you remember him at shortstop," she told Lippy. "He says his name is Wee Reese."

Chicago Cubs Moving up To Higher Company

Land in First Division After Winning 10 Out of 11 Starts

Cholly Grimm's banjo strummed a merry tune today as the Chicago Cubs inhaled rarified first-division air, succeeding the first three months of the season in and out of the National League's upper crust.

The Bruins headed home via Pittsburgh with a nine-game winning streak behind them and 10 victories in 17 eastern starts. Since June 28, when Grimm's crew was mired in last place by 4½ lengths, Chicago took over the runner-up post at the eastern entries. For the first time this season, the Western clubs backed the first-division spots.

Bill Nicholson stepped up his home-run production from its usual sub-par start and clouted No. 23 and 24 yesterday as the Cubs whipped Brooklyn twice, 6-2 and 7-1. Five Chicagoans have been on hand as the New-York Giants in the home series derby and passed on to Phil Rizzuto's take the R.B.I. lead with 73.

The Cubs handed Pittsburgh 15-2 with Teddy Wilks winning his seventh decision against 10 defeats, and one loss. Danny Litwhiler batted in six runs with four hits, including a home-run blast.

Chicago's White Sox went into a fifth-place tie with Cleveland in the American League by downing Cleveland twice, 5-3 and 3-1. Bill Dietrich nosed out Al Smith in the opener with the help of Johnny Rigney's relief pitching. Lou Gerard got the nod over Chief Reynolds in the second.

Leafs Lose Again; Bears Beat Royals And Red Wings Win

Teams and players and records may come and go, but the International League's Bill Dwyer appears to go on forever.

The veteran Newark outfielder holds a few records most likely to fall in the near future. He is the only man in the minor leagues to have made more than 2,500 hits or to have driven in more than 1,000 runs.

His mates recorded their 12th win in their last 14 starts last night when they blasted the Montreal Royals, 12-6. Steve Kiik, Mike Portugal, Jerry Crosby and Bill Drescher made sure of the Bear victory as they all clouted safeties.

Ken Brondell hooked up with Toronto's Alex Carpenter in a 10-inning pitching duel at Jersey City victory, 4-1. Limiting the Leafs to six hits, Ken notched his 10th victory as Manuel Salkis suffered his 10th loss.

The tightest pitching duel of the night was put on by Rochester's Bill Trotter and the Syracuse Chiefs' Bob Tiefel, as the latter emerged in the ninth when, with the score locked at 1-1, Maurice Sturdy tripled and counted on Earl Naylor's long fly, Rochester winning 2-1.

CASUAL COMMENT

By R.J.C.

A Grave Mistake

The business man sank wearily into his armchair.

"You look very tired, dear" said his wife. "Have you had a very hard day at the office?"

"Not exactly," he answered; "but when any office boy came in with the old story of going to bury his mother's funeral I decided to teach him a lesson and accompany him."

"And, of course, you found it was a football match?"

"No such luck—it was his grandmother's funeral."

Overseas News.

We received a letter from North Africa from Bob, Jerry Spafford, who is in the Royal Canadian Air Force Service on the U.S.S. Dodge. A son of Jerry Spafford Sr. the pointer of Jerry is a chip off the old block as he wields an eyeglass pen in the air in his duties in World War No. 1. Born in Belleville, Jerry Jr., entered the United States Marine Service and has seen plenty of action in many parts of this war torn world. While at the Belleville Collegiate Jerry starred at Intercollegiate track and field meets particularly in the cross country runs, his favorite sport.

However, more recently Jerry has been in the combat art of fighting and only recently represented Canada when he wrestled on the Lieut. Newman champion of the U.S. Marine Service, in a title match somewhere in North Africa. Upwards to 4,000 American service men witnessed the bout. Here's how Jerry described the bout—"I really picked a hornet's nest when I challenged "Leo the Lion," who is out to make a name for himself here in Africa, but the fans are clamoring for a return bout, which makes me feel a little better even though I lost the first bout.

"A rather amazing scene occurred in the ring when I was standing in the ring back to my dressing room. An excited Frenchman rushed up to me screaming 'brave' and planted a kiss on each of my cauliflower ears. Gosh, Mother — embarrassing, what?"

Jerry is boatswain on an American Liberty ship ferrying supplies to Allied soldiers and he hopes to engage Newman in a return bout, if their respective boats ever reach North Africa at the same time again. Two interesting press clippings from enclosed letter were interesting. Maybe after peace has been restored Promoter Frank Tunney may be prevailed upon to use Bob, Jerry Spafford, of the U.S. Marine Service, in one of his bouts at the Hume Arena. A local boy getting on a card at one of Toronto arena would have a strong box office appeal.

Around the Town.

Jack Alexander's Universal gals made it close for the Mountain View Bomberettes last night holding them to 13 . . . If the opening game of the girls' softball play-offs is any indication as to what is to follow then the fans are in for a treat again tonight when SWACO and Bell-Saraflex open their play-off series . . . The Bomberettes carried the potent bats into last night's game, especially Law. Wilhelm, their second sacker, who had a perfect night at bat for five hits, a homer, three doubles and a single . . . Jean Cornell had four round-trippers, a double and a single . . . Jack Cornell had four singles, a double and a triple . . . Dave Webster, Helen Tyrpie counted a perfect batting score of four for four, including a homer and double . . . It was the batters' night as a total of 32 hits were registered . . . Incidentally Law. Vickie Hillier, the Bombertes' pitcher, captured the individual W.D. honors at the Mountain View R.C.A.F. field day on Wednesday, Lac. Ross Malkin of Barrie winning the men's championship . . . When the local "All-Stars" meet the Sunday Morning Class girls at the Fair Grounds on Civic Holiday Vickie Hillier will be on the mound with Joyce Woodhouse (Descon) behind the receiving end . . . Vickie should look a lot better with a catcher the calibre of Joyce Woodhouse to back her. Two ancient softball pitching gems in the persons of Johnny Rawden and Jim Hunter, meet up in another local softball battle at Victoria Park this evening when C.N.R. and the Marines open a best-in-five series with the winner going out into the O.A.S.A. playdowns . . . Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 447

By SAM GORDON
The Ekibber

An unusual hand in bridge does something to you. It makes you feel that now is the time for all good men to use judgment. But if you follow rules, you are more likely to get better results.

Hop to this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠A Q J 3
♥A Q J 8 6 5 4
♦Q
NORTH
♠K 7 4 3
♥9
♦A 5 2 3 2
♣J 8 7 3

This is how the bidding should go by rule:

SOUTH	NORTH
2 H (1)	3 C (1)
3 H (3)	3 NT (4)
4 S (5)	4 NT (6)
5 C (7)	6 S (8)

This is what the bids have said:

1. (2H) My opening of two in a suit shows at least nine tricks; is forcing to a game in something.

2. (3C) Bedding a biddable club suit, my hand contains at least one sure trick. With no sure trick, my first reply would have been two no-trumn.

3. (3H) My heart suit is rebiddable.

4. (3NT) No more takeouts. No assist. Days not pass.

5. (4S) I have another biddable suit. Having bid my first suit two times before showing my second suit, it is at least two cards longer.

6. (4NT) This is the ace-asking asking convention.

7. (5C) The Ekibber's convention reply for showing two aces and no kings.

8. (6S) With opponents known to have the heart king, a grand slam bid is too much of a gamble without seeing partner's exact cards. The grand slam is known to depend on losing no heart tricks.

A pair would probably reach the same result even if partners did not give out with so much information. Rule merely tells how to do it in case the necessity arises.

Rules, when you heed them, help when you need them.

"This is the Life"

Most little boys—and some girls for that matter—dream at one stage or another during their childhood that they are misunderstood and ruled by their families, and thus reach what to them is the monumental decision to run away from home and make their own way in the world.

It's a familiar tale to parents everywhere.

Disappears.

Mrs. O'Connor was living with her children in a New York theatrical hotel when Donald, her youngest, turned up missing after a matinee performance. A frantic search ensued, with Mrs. O'Connor torturing her mind with visions of tragedy.

Then Fred Brownes (fellow trouper and intimate friend of Donald's late father), returned to his room on another floor of the same hotel, to discover the missing child sitting at atop a small straw suitcase in the hallway.

"I've runned away from home Brownie, and I never gonna join your act," the infant Donald announced with boyish unconcern. (He was then all of three lights removed from his mother's suite.)

Short Trip.

That, of course, is the end of the story of the little runaway.

It was related by Browne himself, while serving as Donald's stand-in during production of Donald's current starring picture, Universal's "This Is The Life", with Susanna Foster and Peggy Ryan, coming Saturday (F the McCarthy theatre.

The years have changed Donald's outlook, as they change most men's.

So it was that only recently, before he went into the Army as a private in the Air Forces, Donald bought a new home for his mother, which he fondly told her he hopes to share with her for a long, long time after the war is won.

AT THE BELLE

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek"

If reports are to be believed, then Paramount has a new laugh hit on its hands with "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek," starring Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton and comes this week-end to the Belle theatre.

Full of unusual twists and situations, with the most hilarious and funny surprise finish imaginable, this latest fun-film tells the story of Betty's predicament when she rises from too good a time at a dance thrown for soldiers in the town of Morgan's Creek. Betty has a very stern father—William Demarest, the town's chief of police and a very meek and mild boy friend — Eddie Bracken, who can't make the army grade because of high blood pressure. What happens to Betty and to him as a result of the dance, doesn't bring his blood pressure down.

Diana Lynn is seen in another one of the wise-cracking, kid-sister roles that are fast making her famous. She had a similar one in "Henry Aldrich, Major and the Minor." Porter Hall plays a mean Justice of the Peace who brings disaster upon Betty and, as an additional Preston Sturges treat, you'll see "McGinty" and "The Boss"—those two fabulous characters from "The Great McGinty" (Brian Donlevy and Akim Tamiroff) who make brief but impressive appearances.

A complete vaudeville show on the screen—and best of all in technicolor will be presented in "Showboat Serenade" to be presented on the same program with the Canadian, Paramount News of the World. "The Phantom" serial will be exhibited on Saturday afternoon.

"Heavenly Body" Sunday.

Hedy Lamarr turns from glamor to comedy and joins three famous purveyors of laughter in the M-G-M production, "The Heavenly Body" which will receive a preview presentation at the Belle theatre Sunday midnight at 12.05.

In it she co-stars with William Powell, master of the lifted eyebrow school humor, especially known for his role of Nick Charles in the "Thin Man" series.

Arthur Hornblow, Jr., who produced, also has many comedy films to his credit, including "The Major and the Minor" and "Artist Mr Love."

Hedy, herself, had one previous venture into comedy when she co-starred with Clark Gable in Comrade X.

Fay Bainter and Spring Byington are also cast in important roles in "The Heavenly Body."

A swell surrounding show has been assembled for exhibition on the same program.

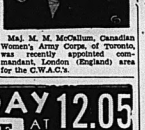
AT THE CAPITOL

"Song of Nevada"
(Roy Rogers)

Roy Rogers rides the trail to danger and romance in his latest and greatest musical western "Song of Nevada" last night at the Capitol theatre. As he tries to open the eyes of an eastern lovely who has fallen for a Park Avenue smoothie, he has larceny on his mind.

A tune-studded, star-filled Rogers film, loaded with thrills, adventure and romance, with an exciting story of the modern west that's tops in entertainment, with the country's favorite cowboy by topping all his previous hits.

"Trocadero"



In producing "Trocadero" which opened last night at the Capitol. The musical story of one of Hollywood's most fabulous night-clubs, producer Walter Colmes has scooped Hollywood's producers of a sock story that has been in front of their noses for years.

The word "Trocadero" connotes after-dark romance, intrigue, style to people in all corners of the globe. Few people visit Hollywood without spending at least one evening in filmland's most popular retreat. For years it has been a mecca for the great and near-great of the entertainment world.

In "Trocadero" Walter Colmes captures all the gayety, glamour, and color of the subject which serves as the framework for a lavish musical. Rosemary Lane, Johnny Downs, and Dick Purcell head a cast which includes Ralph Morgan, Sheldon Leonard, Marjorie Manners, Columnist Erskine Johnson. Cartoonist Dave Fleischer, the orchestras of Eddie Le Baron, Gus Arnheim, Bob Chester and Matty Malneck.

A color cartoon, the serial "Captain America" as well as a six minutes short subject "Badge of Honour" narrated by the famous Canadian actor Raymond Massey complete the big program.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER FOUR

She let her fingers wander over its large, surface for several minutes before she finally took a deep breath and held it up before her eyes. She traced the scarab design with palpitating care.

Yes, there was no doubt of it. Her ring was the exact duplicate of the one she had seen a short time before on the right hand of Lucia Ward.

She shuddered as she pinned the circlet back inside her purse, her mind in a turmoil as the car sped along the country road.

It was only as she became conscious of scattered houses flashing by the window that she rapped on the glass partition between her and the driver's seat. Then she found the speaking tube.

"Please stop on the main street of Shelton," she told the chauffeur. "I have some errands I want to do."

When he asked if she wanted to stop at any particular place, she said she didn't—any place would do.

In a few minutes he pulled up in front of Shelton's principal women's shop and stopped. The footman ran around and opened the door.

"Shall we wait, Miss?" he inquired politely.

"No, thank you. I have several things I want to do—I'll walk out to the college. It's not very far."

The man touched his cap and a moment later the big car was out of sight on its way back to Ward Park.

Jeanne paused uncertainly, looking around to get her bearings. Then she headed for a drug store on the corner.

"Which way do I go to the station?" she asked a girl behind the soda fountain and thanked her after she got the directions. She noticed that the girl glanced at her curiously, but thought nothing of it at the time.

Walks Along

As she walked along the street, however, she remembered and wondered, in spite of what she was planning, whether she hadn't been too careless.

The girl looked like a co-ed—chances were she was a student at Hallard who was taking advantage of the labor shortage to earn some extra money after school hours.

If she were a college girl, she undoubtedly would have heard of Jeanne Hallard. Mrs. Ward said the papers had printed stories about her. Likely, pictures had been sent up from New York.

She was quite sure, the more she thought of it, that the girl behind the fountain had recognized her and would remember that she had inquired how to get to the station.

"Well, at any rate," she shrugged. "It will make no difference, anyway. Someone is likely to recognize me at the station, so there's no use in worrying."

It was about a four block walk to the station. She was glad, as she fumbled in her purse, that she had brought what money she had with her now.

When she had left the house she had debated briefly with herself whether to bring her purse or leave it in the room, and finally she decided to take it.

"When does the first train leave?" she asked.

"There's one due in fifteen minutes for Chicago," the man answered. "The eastbound train won't be through for a couple of hours."

"That's fine. I want to go to Chicago. Is it necessary to buy a seat?"

Crowded Trains

"You'll have to do that on the train, Miss. Trains are so crowded these days that we never know in advance what space is available."

Just as she was counting the money from her purse, a hand touched her on the shoulder. She spun around quickly, right showing in her face as the color ebbed and half laughed.

"Oh, it's you, Dr. Clyde!" she exclaimed.

"Who were you expecting, the police?" he asked in a humorous tone. "What's the meaning of this anyway? I thought you were going to settle down in Shelton for awhile and here I find you buying a ticket out of town."

"Well—I——"

Clyde took her firmly by the arm.

"I think we'd better have a little talk, Miss Hallard," he said. "You seem to be very much upset about something."

"Say, do you want this ticket or not?" the man at the window demanded.

"Not now," Clyde answered. "The young lady has changed her mind about going away."

"You—you have no business saying that, Dr. Clyde," Jeanne was rebellious.

"Oh, but I feel responsible for you, Dr. Norwood asked me to keep an eye on you. What would he say if he found I'd let you slip out of town, right under my nose?"

"But I don't want to stay here—I won't go away."

"Why? Surely, you can't have taken such a dislike to all of us so suddenly. •We're not very exciting around here, I'm admitted—maybe a bit on the stuffy side—but it's not a bad place to stay until you get on your feet."

"I—I must go away, Dr. Clyde, I must——"

"Now, don't get hysterical." The psychiatrist was leading her toward the outside door. "Suppose we get in my car where we can talk privately—quietly. Then you can tell me what's wrong."

"But the train—I'll miss the train," Jeanne was desperate.

"There are lots of trains, my dear. If you miss one, you can take the next one."

It was useless to argue and rather than create a scene the girl went along with him. He opened the door of his car and helped her in, shutting the door. A moment later he had entered from the other side and was seated next to her.

"Now, suppose you tell me what's wrong," he suggested.

In spite of herself Jeanne started to cry. Clyde let her alone until her self control returned, and then gently prompted her.

"I'm—I'm not Jeanne Hallard, the girl said. "I'm Vera Taylor."

Dr. Clyde looked at her sharply.

"What's that?" he demanded. "Did you say you are not Jeanne Hallard?"

"Yes—that's what I said."

"Are you sure you feel all right?" Clyde was plainly worried.

"Of course I'm all right. You're a psychiatrist, you should know whether I'm telling the truth or not."

"I think we'd better get out of here—some place where it's less public. A lot of people pass by the station, you know."

The girl shrugged. Now that she had told her secret, she didn't seem to care what happened. Clyde drove several miles till he came to a road that skirted the river, then pulled over to the side and stopped.

"All right," he said. "Now tell me about this idea that you're not Miss Hallard."

"I'm really not," she insisted.

"Well, suppose I say I believe you—will that help you talk? It's better for you to get the whole thing off your mind, now that you've started."

In France

"It's necessary to go back quite a ways. I had been in France, studying at the Sarbonne. When the war came, I had no particular reason to come home. It all seemed so remote. I have no family but an aunt who lives in California, so I thought I would stay.

"Paris went through the first World War without suffering much damage. But this time came the debacle. I had to get out as fast as I could. I had no time to contact government officials or any one. I had a chance to get a ride to the south of France, and took it.

"Somehow, somewhere along the way, my passport disappeared. The French family I was with—friends I had lived with in Paris—got an identity card for me. They had to bribe someone to give it to them, and when I got it I discovered I was described as a French citizen.

"That did complicate things," Clyde mused. "I can begin to see what complications."

"Well, to make a long story short, we lived in the mountain village for more than a year. No one bothered us. Then, when I heard that the Germans were moving into unoccupied France, I thought I'd better get out.

"I appealed to the authorities, but I couldn't get no place. Finally I was able to escape into Spain and after a long time, got out of there and into Lisbon.

"It was almost desperate there when I was unable to prove who I was. I can't blame our officials too much, because thousands of persons were besieging them, claiming citizenship, trying every possible means to get passports to America and getting to America.

"My money was gone—when I met a woman who introduced herself to me as Madame Gogl. I was sure it was a false name, but I was in such a mess that I didn't care what name she had or how she got a passport for me."

"A stolen one, no doubt," Clyde interjected.

The girl shrugged.

"I didn't care where it came from. My own had been stolen and used by someone else. I felt it was only a fair exchange if I could get one for myself. Your ideas of right and wrong get terribly warped when you are put in such a position."

"On your child." The professor was sympathetic. "How did this Madame Gogl, or whatever her name was, fix things up? How did you ever get confused with Jeanne Hallard?"

"The passport she showed me was made out to Jeanne Hallard, the girl replied, "and the description was very similar to mine. The height and weight the same. we both had brown hair and blue eyes and fair complexions."

"And very beautiful figures," Clyde put in.

"Madame Gogl said she would fix it so I could take over the passport—all I would have to do was have my picture taken and substitute it for the one already in the book."

"What had happened to the real

Jeanne Hallard?"

"Madame Gogl said she was dead—that she had been killed in a bus accident trying to get from Paris to Lisbon."

Clever Woman.

"I see. Very clever woman, this Madame Gogl. And did she want to fix all payment? You said you were virtually broke."

"That was what amazed me. I expected her to demand a large sum of money, but she didn't. She said all she wanted me to do was to keep the identity of Jeanne Hallard for awhile. That I could be of great service to an organization she belonged to".

"Sounds very melodramatic", Clyde commented.

"That's what I thought. I didn't know what I would be letting myself in for, but the woman assured me that I wouldn't be asked to do anything that I couldn't do easily and without involving myself in any way. I would merely be returning a favor in exchange for a passport which would get me safely back to America.

"I held out for several days, and then said I would do it. It seemed the only way I'd ever get out of Europe."

"Under the circumstances, I'd say you did right", the professor commented.

"Madame Gogl gave me a ring and a ring with a large scarab-like setting. This, she said, would identify me to other members of the organization to which she belonged. I was to obey orders, she said, from anyone wearing a similar ring.

"She had made arrangements with the Red Cross — introduced me to them as Jeanne Hallard and I produced the false passport. Apparently, Dr. Norwood had arranged for credentials, as in a few days I was on a Spanish boat leaving for South America.

Espionage.

"Of course, I suspected there was something behind Madame Gogl's proposition. I suspected that she might be connected with espionage or something like that, and I was determined not to do anything that would betray my country to the enemy. I planned, once I arrived in New York, to slip quietly away and report the matter to the F.B.I. Then I would go to my aunt's home in California and start afresh. I've known since I was a child".

"Yes?"

"No, sir, I didn't and, I'll tell you why. I got a large setting off the boat in New York, a steward brought me an envelope. I opened it and found a clipping from a California newspaper telling of the death abroad of Vera Taylor. I was terribly frightened. It frank that someone in this country knew all about the arrangements Madame Gogl had made with me in Lisbon. It meant that I was being watched. I didn't know what to do.

"When Miss Marston was so kind to me in New York, I wanted to tell her about the predicament I was in — to confess my real identity — but I was afraid of involving her some way.

"So I said nothing, and determined to go ahead with the masquerade, slipping away as soon as I possibly could. I thought I could break away from her at the station in New York, but she stayed up with me. Then I thought for a few days and see what happened".

"Then why were you trying to leave town just now?" Clyde asked.

"Because, at Ward Park, I saw an exact duplicate of the ring Madame Gogl had given me on Lucia Ward's finger. All my fright returned, and I decided to get away from her as quickly as I could".

"It probably was just coincidence", Clyde said. "Perhaps you were thinking so much about it that when you saw Miss Ward's ring and found it similar, you jumped to the conclusion that it was a duplicate of yours".

Jeanne shook her head.

"No, it's a natural conclusion, Dr. Clyde, but it isn't true. I looked at Lucia's ring very carefully—I memorized every line of it and as soon as I got a chance I looked at my own. They are identical".

"That's very strange—and at the same time it's reassuring".

"What do you mean?"

Be Alien.

"Simply this—you know Miss Ward is not an alien. Her family has lived here for generations. It is unthinkable that she would be aiding our enemies in any way. So your worries about Mme. Gogl seem to be without foundation. Whatever her organization may be, it certainly can't be harmful—there's no reason for you to have any more fear about staying here".

"I'm not so certain about that, either", the girl insisted. "I forgot to tell you that the letter I got at the house this afternoon, the one I opened when you were there, was exactly the same as the one I received at the boat in New York.

U.S. Bombers Hammer Many German Targets

London, Aug. 4 (GP)—More than 1,200 U.S. heavy bombers attacked a variety of targets in Germany today, including the Pennemunde experimental station, where Hitler is said to develope flying bombs and rockets.

About 1,000 fighters accompanied the bombers, which made the armada a 2000 strong.

The targets included:

Port installations at the great naval base of Kiel.

An oil refinery at Bremen.

The plants made a flying roundtrip of about 1,200 miles to the German Baltic coast town of Pennemunde, 190 miles north of Berlin.

Before days bombers from Italy and British acorgard German supply routes across France.

Weather cleared today over most of Europe, enabling the Allies to use their their overwhelming air power.

The Germans reported violent air battles over the western Germany, and claimed many American planes were destroyed.

Early in the day, British and American planes from Italy bombed the railroad yards at Villach and Portes Les Valence and bridges near Montelimar communications in the Po Valley of northern Italy. The Russians were reported, bombing and shelling Nazi troops in villages and railroads in the path of threatening red armies.

Army Asks Hitler To Carry Out Purge Nazi Radio Says

London, Aug. 4 (CP)—The German radio said tonight the German army has requested Hitler to carry out a purge in the army to cleanse it of the July 20 traitors," and that Hitler had approved.

A court of honor is to inquire into the attitude of the generals," the D.N.B. dispatch said, "its function will be to investigate who had taken part in the plot (the July 20 attempted assassination of Hitler) and those who participated.

Among those on the court of inquiry, the official news agency listed Marshal Karl Rudolstedt, decposed commander in France and frequently reported a victim of the purge. Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, also was named for the court.

The D.N.B. announcement said one field marshal and four generals were expelled from the army at the first session of the court today.

The announcement also said that Artillery Gen. George Lindermann, "deserted to the Russians."

Members of the court of honor" include Gen. Heins Guderian, new chief of the army; Gen. Hans Schroth, Lt.-Gen. Specht, Infantry Gen. Kriebe; and Lt.-Gen. Kinzel, baron, D.N.B. said.

Those ousted today were listed as Marshal Erich Von Witzleben, who stormed the Magistrat Linden and who was supposed to be the military leader in the purported plot; Gen. Fredrich Fromm, Gen. Hoepner, Lt.-Gen. Von Hase, Maj.-Gen. Stieff, and Maj.-Gen. Von Treschkow.

2nd Edition of History Of Cheese Making Out in Revised Form

The second edition of "History of Cheese Making", by C. M. James, Dept. of Belleville, is just off the press in a revised and enlarged form. Mr. James has made a study of the past several years in research work in connection with his interesting subject.

A brief review reveals the following topics:

1.—The accidental discovery of rennet by the application on Arabic long ago.

2.—The eighteen most popular varieties of cheese and where produced.

3.—Beginnings in Canada and especially in Ontario.

4.—Recent changes in factory cheese in Canada.

5.—The remarkable achievements of Hastings County in cheese production, which resulted in:

6.—Foreign demand for and appreciation of Belleville cheese.

7.—The splendid services of "Cheese Boards."

8.—How to raise the consumption of cheese in Canada from an average of four pounds per person per year as at present to ten pounds or more.

The above outline gives an idea of the plan and purpose of this history, but it is much more to interest and instruct. The James Press, Belleville, Ontario, are the publishers.

Says Germans Unable To Cope With Red Power

Moscow, Aug. 4 —(AP)— Maj.-Gen. John R. Deane, commander of the United States military mission to Russia said today after visiting the front that there was no evidence that the Germans have suffered a disastrous defeat" despite statements of the Russians.

He quoted one of the prisoners interviewed in his five-day visit as saying:

"The Red army has developed a speed in manoeuvre and crushing power with which the German forces are unable to cope."

Germans Are Warned 'Polish Home Army' Is Part of Forces

New York, Aug. 4 —(AP)— The BBC, recorded by CBS, today broadcast Polish reports, said yesterday in a Polish-language broadcast in Germany that the Polish home army is a part of the Polish armed forces and that the Germans would be held responsible for treating any captured Polish soldiers in the manner provided by International Law for prisoners of war.

Early Settlement Of Tram Strike Seen Less Hopeful

Montreal, Aug. 4 (CP)—A strike by 4,000 men in the operating departments of the Montreal Tramways Company entered the second day today and hopes of a speedy settlement to restore the street car service to the city appeared less hopeful.

Members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.) on the system's 1,000 cars were ready to carry the fight "to a finish" and talked of a strike lasting as long as two weeks.

STEINHARDT LEAVES TURKEY

London, Aug. 4 (CP)—The German-controlled Paris radio said today that Laurence Steinhardt, United States Ambassador to Turkey, left Ankara yesterday for the United States.

Eisenhower Squats In Dusty Grass To Receive Report

Somewhere in France, Aug. 4 — (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower squatted in the dusty grass by a Normandy roadside yesterday and received the details of the American offensive which a few hours earlier rolled into Brittany.

Low-flying planes were zooming in and landing at a nearby airfield. Heavily armed jeeps churned up clouds of dust as Gen. Eisenhower and Lt.-Gen. Bradley, the American commander, chatted in the midst of grass and discussed the continuing drive.

Gen. Eisenhower hopped into his fast plane late in the afternoon and continued his trip to get last-minute reports from Gen. Bradley and later from Gen. Montgomery, Allied Field Commander.

Foiled in Attempt To Stow Aboard Liberator Plane

Montreal, Aug. 4 (CP)—Fifteen-year-old Norman May is on his way back to Midland, Ont., foiled in an attempt to stow away on board a Liberator of the R.A.F. transport command.

Young May went home to resume his schooling after R.A.F. T.C. officials and police officers thwarted his attempt yesterday. He said he wanted to get overseas to help beat the Nazis. Air Marshal Chief Stoker Petty Officer George May, who lost his life in the crash of the passenger liner Arthur off the Nova Scotia coast.

WOMAN INDICTED ON MURDER COUNT

Salinas, Calif., Aug. 4 —(AP)— Mrs. Frances Andrews, 34-year-old member of the Salinas Valley's elite social colony, was indicted by a Monterey County grand jury yesterday on a charge of murdering Jay Lovett, 19, a farm boy, last July 31.

The youth's body, shot through the head, was found near Mrs. Andrews' ranch. Grand jury witnesses identified the gun, discovered near the body, as belonging to Mrs. Andrews.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ms took me downtown with her this morning to buy me a 2nd best new suit to save my Sunday one, and then I went in different shoes with her for her own shopping, and after a while I said, G, ma, I'm hungry.

I believe I am too, ma said. Well, we'll go somewhere in Quinte Tea Room, we'll go there and have a little lunch, ma said.

When we did, sitting at a little round table with dollies on it instead of a table cloth, and the waitress came over and ma said, May I see a menu, please?

We dont have any menus because the guest generally tells us what to tell you what's nice today, the waitress said little important earthings we've got some nice ones are nice, she said, and ma said, Yes, that sounds very nice.

Not to me it dont, I said, I'm hungry, I want a hot dog sandwich, I said, and the waitress said, I'm afraid that's out of our line, we dont serve anything so that sort. The cottage cheese salad with chopped olives in it is nice, she said.

Has it got lettuce with it? I said, and the waitress said, Yes indeed, practically everything has lettuce with it.

Then, I dont want it, I said, and she said, The avocado pear filled with celery and nuts is especially nice, and I said, I wish you had hot dog sandwiches. Gosh, I'm hungry, I cant eat stuff with lettuce and celery in it, I said.

Well, I can let you have a small portion sausage roll in half and served on Melba toast, the waitress said, and I said, Well, okay, if you have it without any lettuce or even parsley.

Which she did, tasting a little better than it sounded but nothing to write home about, and after that I partly filled up on a small size strawberry Sunday with teeny little cakes.

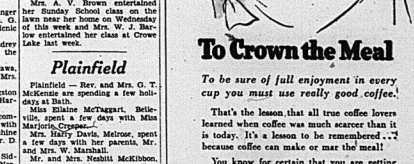
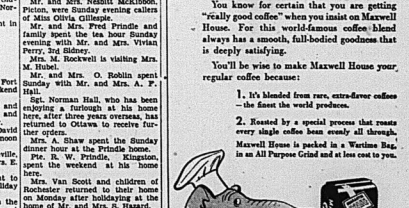
Mitchell Expects As Good A Year In 1944 as in 1943

Ottawa, Aug. 3. (AP)—Labor Minister Mitchell answering questions in the Commons today on farm labor shortages, said "I feel sure that the end of this year rolls around we shall have accomplished just as good a job as we did last year."



W. J. M. Lockhart (PC-Lincoln) asked about the possibility of obtaining help from the west to process the crops in his area.



Mr. Mitchell said this was only one of the many manpower problems facing his department.

"We went through the same thing last year," he said, "and at the end of the year, through our organization as a whole, the crop in Canada and we took off the crop in Ontario, The farmers, along with Selective Service faced up to this problem".

EAST PRUSSIAN TOWNS REPORTED IN FLAMES

Nazis Withdraw 5 Miles In Centre of Allied Front

Russians Carry War to Germany For First Time

Cavalry Forces Within 30 Miles of Krakow

By LEWIS HAWKINS
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 5 — (AP) — The Russians have carried the ground war to German soil for the first time since the conflict started by penetrating the northeastern part of East Prussia, Berlin reports indicated today, and Moscow dispatches said "fires are raging in East Prussian towns which now are objectives of Red Army infantry attacks."

The German high command communiqué said there was fighting in the "Suduam-Schaaken" sector of Suduam, the Soviet name for the eastern part of East Prussia between the Rivers Inster and Angerap and the Masurian Lakes.

While the battle for Warsaw raged, the Red Army flung strong cavalry forces across two water barriers in a smashing drive to within 30 miles of Krakow, the last big city prompting of the German Generalgovernment, and farther northeasting invasion of German Silesia.

Break Across Border

A Transradio broadcast from Berlin said "heavy fighting is raging on a distant Soviet formations which have broken through on the East Prussian border north of Wirballen (Virballe)."

Virballe is a frontier post about a mile from the East Prussian border. The village itself is two or three miles from a station on the main railway between Kaunas, former capital of Lithuania, and Insterburg, largest city of East Prussia.

It is in this area that the Russians have been reported shelling East Prussian territory for several days.

"Smoke floats over German lands and we can smell things burning," said a Pravda correspondent's report published in Moscow which told of burning East Prussian towns.

The Germans, frantically determined to turn Krakow into a defensive hedgehog position, were reserves from garrisons in Czechoslovakia.

Military reports indicated the Russian advance through the valley of the Upper Vistula, which reached the dizzy pace of more than 30 miles a day this week, was bound to slow down at the outer defences of Krakow, but Red Army patriots were expected to have the city under siege soon.

Rokossovsky's forces still pounded at the eastern gates of Warsaw. It was announced in Moscow that his position there has bettered in the past 24 hours despite stubborn German resistance and heavy counter attacks with strong forces which have been struck from the north and northeast.

No Remarkable Advances

No sensational advances were reported from points 25 miles from the East Prussia border, where the Russians were shelling the enemy on his own territory.

Marshal Ivan Chernikhovsky apparently was spreading out over a huge area and massing large bumbers of troops — in fact an entire army — for the assault upon East Prussia and northern Germany.

His forces, with 200 localities yesterday west of Kaunas on both sides of the railway leading to Konigsberg, East Prussian capital, and southeast of Gerdauen, Capture of News Wies put one column within four miles of Suwalki and within 16 miles of East Prussia.

The Moscow communique announced the capture of Gorzlaw, 37 miles northeast of Krakow and Nowy Korczyn, on the Vistula, seven miles southeast of Gorzlaw. Three intermediate towns of Stopnica and Pacanow were captured in a total bag of 100 localities.

Lightning Kills One Man; Injures Another

(By The Canadian Press)

One Ontario man was killed and another injured yesterday in an electrical storm in Western Ontario during a heat wave extending from Eastern Canada to the Prairie Provinces.

Donald D. Ridley, 43 year old farmer of East Zorra Township was killed by a bolt of lightning as he was driving a binder on his farm near Tavistock.

Gordon Dill, in West Zorra, was injured when a bolt set fire to his father's barn as a group of men were threshing oats. Flames destroyed the barn and its contents while the Embro fire department and a volunteer brigade prevented the flames from spreading to surrounding buildings.

Ottawa sweltered under an unofficial 100 in the shade and most of the House of Commons fanned themselves languidly with official papers.

A number of government departments closed down when staffs complained of paper sticking to their moist fingers.

Half Billion Bushel Wheat Crop Prospect Calls for 18,000 Harvesters

By GEORGE FINLAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Aug. 5 (CP)—Wanted: 18,000 harvesters for Prairie wheatlands at wages ranging from $4 to $6 a day.

The most acute harvest-labor shortage since the war, with prospect of a 500,000,000 bushel wheat crop, has brought appeals from government agents throughout the Prairies for workers.

Manitoba requires 4,000; Saskatchewan 10,000 and Alberta 4,000.

Labor Minister Mitchell is "confident we will get the crop off in Western Canada this year," but remains "not without the problem of headache" for Prairie authorities.

"At the moment the question of where the workers will come from is obscure," said James McNair, Saskatchewan Provincial Farm Help Service, in Winnipeg.

Appeals have been made to city and town workers to spend vacations and days off in harvest fields.

Military authorities are expected to grant furlough leave to 4,000 men while an equal number of workers will be released from Ontario, but none will be permitted to leave late crop districts. American harvesters, may be brought in from the Dakotas.

Many Indians are expected to come from northern Manitoba reservations to work in Manitoba fields this harvest.

Harvesting has started in the early crop districts of Southern Alberta and will be general throughout the West by Aug. 15.

SUGGEST CANADA HAVE SEAT ON POST-WAR BODY

Members of Commons Refer to Proposed Plan for Peace Maintenance

GREAT, SMALL POWERS

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 5 — (CP) — Spokesmen for Canada's two major political parties, divided by inference, claimed a seat for Canada on the council of the proposed world organization for the maintenance of peace during yesterday's debate on external affairs.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King explained that initially the four great powers, Russia, China, United States and the United Kingdom will be on the council by right, that the other members of the body could be chosen by some process of election.

"In determining what states should be represented on the council with those four great powers, it is, I believe, necessary to apply the functional test," said Mr. King.

"Those countries which have most to contribute to the maintenance of peace should be most frequently selected. Also military contribution made during this war by the members of the United Nations provides a sounder working basis for a selective principle of choice."

On the basis of military contribution after the Big Four Canada might stand next on the basis of air power and economic development would be rated high to the Big Four in what it had to contribute to the maintenance of peace.

Howard Green, (PC-Vancouver South) principal spokesman for the Progressive Conservative Party said Canada should be on the Council. If not on the Council Canada should through British Commonwealth consultations make its position known to Britain.

Great Nation Within Commonwealth.

Mr. Green said Canada should not be content with being a leader in the middle class, but should set out to be a great nation, associated with Britain but with its own foreign wealth.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said he thought Canada might become a great nation sometime, but should be content to fill the role for which it was naturally qualified in the world, that of a leader among the small nations.

World peace, he said, could be attained by the great powers alone, Mr. Coldwell said that the progression of all states was necessary and an adjustment of balances between the big countries would lead only to trouble.

A similar warning was voiced by Mr. King when he said a simple extension of the rule of the great powers and the rest is unreal and dangerous. Each state possessed, in varying degree, power and the capacity to use it for the maintenance of peace.

The debate ranged over a wide field including the post-war settlement of the Japanese problem in Canada, British commonwealth relations and an international air force.

Train Crash Kills 46 in Ga.

Stockton, Ga., Aug 5 (AP) — A west bound Atlantic coast line passenger train crashed into the locomotive of a by-passed freight markaliding near here early today, killing at least 46 persons, mostly railway laborers going home for the weekend to Alabama.

H. L. Tomlinson, station agent for the railroad, said at least 46 bodies had been found. Briefly all the dead he said were negroes members of a work gang which had been at Doctortown, Ga., Tomlinson said more bodies were in the wreckage, but he could not estimate the number. An undetermined number were injured.

Turner Rockwell, managing editor of the Valdosta Times, who reached the scene shortly after the crash, said two passenger cars were demolished and two others damaged.

Rockwell said an apparent rail failure hurled the passenger train into the freight as it passed the siding. The passenger cars struck the engine of the freight, one splitting lengthwise. It was in the car that most of the dead were found, Rockwell said.

Showdown Looms In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 5 (AP) — A showdown with possible arrests appeared imminent today between the government and striking street car, bus and subway operators who refused to heed an army appeal to end a five-day transit tie-up marked by racial violence and a drop in war production.

The army disclosed that its next step in the dispute, stemming from white workers' opposition to the upgrading of Negro transit employees, would be to co-operation with the Department of Justice.

In Washington, James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney-general, said flatly that persons who obstructed the war effort should feel the army took over the Philadelphia-Suburban Transportation Company were "very likely to be arrested—and soon."

Officials of the C.I.O. United Transport Workers Union, which represents most of the workers, have opposed the strike.

The Philadelphia street and subway-elevated service was restored yesterday, the first under army control, but it collapsed last night when relief operators failed to appear and only a few buses operated some vehicles during the day.

At the 5 p.m. rush hour only 21 subway-elevated trains and one street car, under army direction, were operated with normal service provided by 77 trains, 1,529 street cars and buses.

Army and navy officials estimated that transportation for the part-war from the tie-up had caused a loss of over 500,000 man-hours in war production up to today.

FULL JAP RETREAT TO GIVE 700-MILE COAST TO ALLIES

Japanese Expected to Yield Last Positions in Dutch New Guinea

ENEMY OUTFLANKED

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 5 — (AP) — The full retreat of Japan's last 700-mile sweep of Netherlands New Guinea coastline to Allied forces was under further bitter fighting.

General headquarters reported that thousands of outflanked Japanese were abandoning all but the strongest along the coastal Geelvink Bay and in upper Vogelkop peninsula, an area comprising nearly a third of New Guinea.

The sea and air base at Monakwari, on the northern end of Geelvink Bay, and the air centre at Nabire, some 200 miles southeast, were among key points the Japanese were abandoning. They also were believed to be withdrawing from Moemi and Waren, flank air bases south of Manokwari.

A steady rain of bombs and rockets from carrier planes on Japanese crowded into the north end of Guam marked the beginning of the second week of the invasion of that Marianas island today as American forces entrenched the area from the conquered heights of 674-foot Mount Barrigado.

The BBC, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, said today there is mounting evidence on a Japanese decision to abandon their last positions in Netherlands New Guinea.

"Enemy transport barges are moving eastward and troops are withdrawing south and west as best they can over the rugged country," said the broadcast, quoting a cabled dispatch from John Hingston of the Australian Broadcasting Commission.

Federal Income Tax Balances Due on Aug. 31st

Ottawa, Aug. 5 — (CP) — Income taxpayers who took advantage of the postponement of tax-paying originally due April 30 are nearing the end of their four-months' period of grace and will have to make payment by Aug. 31 to avoid penalties. Balances due on 1943 taxes were originally payable April 30, but Income Revenue Minister Gibson announced that while returns would have to be filed by that date payment could be delayed until Aug. 31 without incurring the five per cent penalty.

Official sources give no indication of the proportion of tax-payers who took advantage of the extension, which was announced on March 31. Since the extension was granted the compulsory savings part of income taxes had been eliminated, giving a measure of relief to some of those who were concerned as to how they would meet the payment.

FLORENCE SUBURBS SOUTH OF ARNO IN ALLIED HANDS

Though Huns Have Proclaimed City Open, Foe Paratroops are Within City Limits

'VIVAS' ON WALLS

By NOLAND NORGAARD
(AP War Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 5 — (AP) — British 8th Army troops have completed occupation of the suburbs of Florence south of the Arno river and, bearing down along a 9-mile sector, are pressing the enemy back against the stream on both sides of the city, Allied headquarters said today.

General Alexander's command announced "although the enemy proclaimed that he regards Florence as an open city, he has seen fit to use it for his military traffic, and when outfought south of the city has blown up all the bridges except the historic Ponte Vecchio, which remains, however, intact along the northern bank of the Arno within the city limits."

There were few reports today indicating actual fighting within the portions of Florence reached by 8th Army units, but an Allied spokesman said "it is obvious that any intends to oppose the crossing of the Arno on both sides of the city which remain in no man's land."

All along the south side of the Arno, British, Indian, New Zealand and South African forces crushed the Nazi back and left themselend to the weakening defenders into small remnants.

A front dispatch from Doug How, Canadian Press war correspondent, said last night there were few signs of destruction in the city, but — into Florence by the main entrance into Rome — little civilian rejoicing at the arrival of the Allies because advancing was going on nearby.

Walls Marked with 'Vivas' for Allies

He said the walls of Florence were liberally marked with "Vivas" for Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Gen. Alexander.

Two and a half miles east of Florence, a British division punched through Bango A Ripoli to within 3½ miles of the city and held while the enemy still held high ground to the north.

Advance elements pressing down into Florence were reported engaged in fierce fighting and delaying action, reminiscent of the flurry of fighting in Rome, as they fell back, which the Nazis formed necessary in order to get enough time to extricate their forces from the city.

Fonte Vecchia Undamaged

The Fonte Vecchia, or Old Bridge, was reported spared Fonte Vecchio because it is the historic bridge for traffic. It resembles the old London bridge, with shops built on either side and is 400 miles away from the stream.

To oppose possible 8th Army crossings on either side of Florence, the German command directed an Allied movements in the Arno valley.

A message reaching the Allied command from the Florence Provincial Committee of Liberation said the Germans had evacuated inhabitants of the city from the Porta Romana north bank.

In the centre of shoving the enemy from the few footholds left below the Arno river, Indian troops enlarged their bridgehead over the Pesa river and reached Scandicci, last west of Florence.

A British force moving along both sides of the upper Arno and Pesa valleys to Florence captured Rignano, 3½ miles south of the Arno and Incisa, junction point of Pontassieve.

Only minor progress was reported in the remainder of the 8th Army front, while on the Allied 5th Army's sector along the lower Arno American artillery and mortars hammered enemy movements and gun-posts.

American medium bombers carried the burden of yesterday's air attacks, with steady hammering of enemy communications in northern Italy and southeastern France.

Panicky Flight Leaves Even Some Sentries Behind

May Establish New Defence Line East of Orne River

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
(AP War Correspondent)

On the Canadian Front in France, Aug. 5. (AP)—The Germans in a five-mile-deep withdrawal along the centre of the Allied front in Normandy today had given up control of 50 square miles of territory. The lowns of Villers Bocage, Esquay and Evrecy were occupied by the British and Army.

South of this battered sector and the immediately adjoining British sector the Germans for hours have been moving their forces back and forth in great confusion.

Their movement is now extremely windy (frightened)" declared a Canadian staff officer. "He is trying desperately to provide some kind of a bolt hole for himself. These are the days of decision."

The German retreat along the British-manned centre of the line just to the right of the Canadian front was so fast that even some of their sentries were left behind and cut off.

Many Tanks Smashed.

The German columns grouped for withdrawal provided Allied air blows which in the last 24 hours have cost the Nazis 42 more tanks damaged, four smashed for good and 31 other vehicles destroyed.

Every movement is proceeding "every which way", as a staff officer described it, with no every form of locomotion down to horse-drawn carts.

German pressure has not relaxed on the right of the British sector but the back-stepping at the centre and the continued movement to the rear of supply and reserve forces which had been confronting the Canadian front on the Allied left led to the belief here that the enemy might be trying to pull in back east of the Orne in strength and establish a new line there.

Offensive patrolling by the Canadians is continuing except on the extreme left in the area from just above Troarn to the coast, where opposing troops are facing each other from trenches and barbed wire tangles, just as in the First World War.

American Forces Advances.

The supreme headquarters communique confirmed that the slackening American 1st Army tank-infantry force drive west on the Periers-St. Lo road had reached Loudac, 85 miles from the great port of Brest, and was continuing onward.

The Germans told of a penetration to Pontivy, 10 miles farther).

The American columns driving south of Rennes on two roads were reported to have reached Derval and Chateaubriant, 30 and 33 miles respectively, southeast of Rennes.

The American thrust through Brittany has split the 15,000 man Brittany isolated German garrison forces—brought invasion troops for the first time into territory of strong Maquis resistance, whose front line co-operation with French forces of the interior is possible.

Patriots Active.

In the department of Morbihan bordering the bay of Biscay in Southern Brittany, French patriots for months have been blasting German communications and skirmishing with the enemy. In these areas some 1,400 Germans have been reported killed against a loss of 200 members of the Maquis.

South of the area of the British triumph in the Noyan country the Germans still had a salient several miles wide and several miles long running up into Allied territory between the contested city of Vire and the Bay of Vire, but this is being rapidly battered in by several parallel Allied spearheads shoving east from the Avranches area.

The Americans were driving east from Brittany as well as up the Avranches corridor and passed Fougeres, 30 miles northeast of Rennes, and farther northeast struck to within little more than a mile of Barentan, 24 miles east of Avranches.

New Allied Air Force Created To Support Balkan Resistance

Balkan Air Force Headquarters in the Mediterranean theatre has been played!—(AP)—A new Allied air force has been formed for the purpose of supporting Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans and other resistance elements in the Balkans, and has begun operations from Italy and Southern France.

Desert Fight for Life Dramatic Episode in Colorful War Career Of PO. Geo. Ostrom, Now at Home

Missing 29 Days, Befriended by Arabs, He Escapes Death and Capture by Near Miracles—Is Widely Travelled

OVERSEAS 3½ YEARS

Nearly blinded from the attacks of ravenous desert flies, he slowly crawled on all fours for many hours through the trackless sand.

Devoid of cease, of human life, the white wastes of desert beckoned him with inviting fingers. For two days and nights he had not tasted food or water. His strength was ebbing fast. Parched, cracked lips scarcely covered a swollen tongue. His clothes were torn and the color of his ragged khaki uniform.

Slowly, painfully, he reached the crest of a sand dune. He attempted a cry, but his lips disintegrated and fell prone. A fever-stricken mind told him it was the end. Raising himself to his elbow, a last long despairing cry echoed from his throat. "Allah, Allah, Allah!"

Then the miracle happened. For indeed it was a miracle—and had not the three desert nomads, members of the Bedouin Arab tribe appeared at that moment, Flight Sergeant George C. Ostrom, now a pilot officer, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ostrom, 20 Cedar Street, would now be lying in a nameless desert grave instead of sitting in the comfort of his home, relating thrilling actual experiences that would do credit to the imagination of the most colorful fiction writer.

It is a strange story of adventure, of hair-breadth escapes, of happenings.

It is an epic of a man's fight for his life when overwhelming odds were against him. And it is the thrilling yarn of a lone Canadian airman's twenty-one day trek across enemy-infested desert wastes, first at times life, as well as hope, were nearly lost.

It is a story interspersed with that humor that only the fighting man can produce under battle conditions. It is the story of the "Rock" to Capetown; from London to Suez, Lydda, Palestine, South Africa, from Cairo to Canada.

Ostrom's story is told in this story. For instance there is the thrilling moment when Ostrom's flying machine dropped from nose to rudder by a lightning bolt high over enemy country. Fabric torn from the fuselage. The plane lurched, dived, climbed at them from the dark yawning abyss below. Machine guns and other heavy equipment were jettisoned to lighten the load. But six fighting Messerschmitts soared high through cloudless African skies. Far below had lain the target, Nazi-occupied Bengasi. Strangely quiet, the harbor was washed by blue Mediterranean waters. had given little evidence of enemy activity.

Ostrom, with other members of the bomber's crew had whistled in surprise. This looked too easy. Their job was to swoop low over the harbor, "lay their eggs," which in this case were mines, and return to their Buzz base. Other bombers had preceded them at various times on similar missions and had reported lack of enemy opposition. But this was too good to be true. "There's no go," sang out the pilot. And the big ship swooped down to her objective. Crewmen sprang to their positions.

Harbor installations reached up a' them. Bursts were on the objective. Then it happened. Hell broke loose. Every anti-aircraft gun in the Bengasi defences opened up simultaneously. Deadly flak enveloped the bomber.

"It was so thick that we could have got out and walked home on it," was Ostrom's description.

Fragments tore through the fuselage. A motor conked. The gallant ship wavered, then resumed her course. Out went the mines and a crippled ship vainly strove to set altitude.

Slowly she rose and attempted to set her course for home. But she had taken too much. It was all over but the shouting. Forty miles inland from Bengasi, Ostrom and a fellow crewman named Holland, "baled out."

Brought Down

From one thousand feet they gradually descended to the desert. Cutting themselves loose from their chutes they studied the situation. Forty miles away lay Bengasi, and a Nazi prisoner-of-war camp. Three hundred and fifty miles across the trackless desert lay the British lines and safety.

Holland scowled, his head. "We can't make it. I am in favor of giving ourselves up. We would perish in this desert alive."

Ostrom, however, had a different opinion. "To hell with a prison camp. I'm for trying to get home." His argument prevailed and the two airmen set off on their long trek, little dreaming it would be the last for one of them.

Stumbling, falling, blinded with sand, they struggled for days, bone burning within them, into that wild desolate waste, where nothing but nomadic tribes are to be found, or parchance an enemy patrol sent out to search for them.

Their little supply of food and water ran out. Gradually they began to weaken. Then began Desert flies attacked them as they staggered slowly forward.

Companion Dies

Weak from lack of food, he fared on a few berries and roots. Days passed. A blazing African sun poured down its heat. Each succeeding night brought little respite at night to the nearly prostrate man. Large desert flies that attack only the eyes surrounded him. So weak he was that he could hardly self, he was forced to lie in the sand and suffer their attacks.

His face grew dark. His tongue began to swell. His eyelids were red and sore, while drifting wastes of desert. Finally he could not stagger along. He sank to his elbows and knees. But hope refused to die. Another day passed. He lifted a weary head, and hope died. In his semi-delirium, he told himself this was the end. A despairing cry for help rang from his lips in Arabic. Then his eyes fell upon a last effort stared unbelievingly. On a nearby sand dune stood three burnoused figures. "It can't be true," he murmured faintly, as consciousness mercifully left him.

He wakened hours later in the tent of a wild, fierce looking Bedouin Arab tribe. A grey-bearded, hooded figure bent over him, offering warm goat's milk through his parched lips. Another, The Sheik Chipatli, an Arab bread. For days he lay recuperating. Arab women came to see him. Tribal gun bearers wandered nonchalantly through the tent where he lay.

A fierce argument awakened him one morning. His friend, the aged chief, was talking in loud tones with a strong Arab. Later Ostrom learned the arrangement in the pay of the enemy and wanted to turn him in. His Arab friends refused. But Ostrom had to leave the camp.

Friendly Arabs

His desert friends gave him food and water and a camel, a horse, a long white Arab gown. to wear. When he emerged from his tent, women of the tribe stood in a circle, holding in their hands skins of goats' milk. He drank from each in turn and drank a sip from each skin to denote friendliness.

A few days later found him at an oasis. But here he made the serious mistake of drinking too much water. It affected his legs and for three days he could not move. On the fourth day he was sufficiently recovered as to be able to resume his journey.

By this time he was 130 miles from his base. He had walked and camel and came in contact with a British patrol far behind the German lines. It was an intelligence squad, which operated miles inland to get information of enemy troop movements and supplies. Here he was treated royally and his presence wireloaned to Cairo.

But his troubles were not yet over. Leaving the patrol, he continued his journey, finally contacting a friendly Arab chief and his camel. The two new-found friends journeyed together for two days when a cloud of sand in the distance revealed a squadron of Nazi desert tanks.

A Neat Trick

"Quick," murmured his Arab pal. "Put this cloth and mount the camel." Handing him a cloth, the Arab took one of his own, wrapped it pair as they wandered slowly thru' the lines of armored vehicles, touching their foreheads in Arab token of greeting, and murmuring "Effendina." Little did Rommel's tankmen dream that the ancient Arab too old to walk were an Allied uniform beneath his dirty burnouse.

Two days travel after leaving the kindly Arab brought Ostrom into contact with another patrol, a lone armored vehicle equipped with wireless. Masters of camouflage, the car crew could halt and conceal their vehicle so that it was almost invisible in the sand.

This eventually saved their lives. The next day, Nazi dive bombers caught up with eight vehicles loaded with British Commandos. Swiftly they dived to the attack, machine guns staccatoing death. Only five British vehicles and seven planes flew off. But a scant half-mile from the scene of destruction, Ostrom and the patrol, so cleverly concealed by the desert were unnoticed by the enemy.

The patrol took him as far as they dared, and a few days later an aircraft from his squadron arrived and took him to Cairo.

That was on June 19, 1942. He was reported missing on May 22nd, the same year.

At Cairo he went to hospital to recuperate from his desert experiences. Later he was employed in an administrative capacity there.

World Traveller

At present he is spending a month's furlough with his father here.

Child Locked in Car Found Crying In Terror While Parents at Theatre

When passersby referred to the scene as "a crying shame" they did not mean to be sarcastic, but a most pathetic to hear a small child screaming as though in terror while locked in the rear seat of a parked motor car while its parents were watching the program in a nearby theatre.

Pedestrians were the first to have their attention drawn to a small child on the rear seat of a parked car at the corner of Front and Dundas Friday night. The child, alone in a locked sedan, was screaming as though in fear of its life. Efforts to attract the attention of the child failed and after some difficulty managed to pry open a car door to reach the frightened child. Mrs. Percy Badgley, 339½ Front st., volunteered to take care of the small child until the parents could be located.

It was some time before an Air Force officer and his wife arrived and identified themselves as the parents of the child. They were taken on to the police station and after identification established allowed to return home. The baby, Peggy Gail Arthur Harman stated charges of some description, under the Children's Delinquency Act, would be laid against the parents, the careless parents. Police learned the parents had secured their car, with the sleeping child in it, at about 9.30 p.m. and entered a nearby theatre to attend the late show. Upon leaving and finding itself deserted the child naturally became frightened.

W. H. 'Cap' Ross Drowned in Bay Near Govt. Pier

The body of 48-year-old Winfield H. "Cap" Ross, Inspector of Communication Purchase for the Canadian National Telegraphs, who was drowned while bathing in Government Dock on Friday afternoon has not been recovered at a late hour Saturday morning, police officials announced.

Mr. Ross was alone in a rowboat, which he had rented from a local boat livery, when fellow employees observed him standing up in the boat some distance from the local dock and called to him. Receiving cold polite they had seen Mr. Ross fall into the water, but when they looked again he was gone. Procuring a boat, they rowed to the scene and found all of Mr. Ross' clothes in the bottom of the boat, with the exception of his shoes. It is believed he was swimming under the boat when he was seized by cramps or exhaustion. Members of the police and fire departments dragged the harbor, but that searched for the body until long after dark and failed to find it. The search was still in progress late Saturday night.

The late W. H. "Cap" Ross was born in Cowansville, Que., 48 years ago. He was a veteran of the last war where he gained his commission. He had been a resident of Belleville for the past 16 years employed by the Canadian Communications with the Belleville division of the Canadian National Telegraph. Surviving is his wife Ruth, who is employed at the Reliance Industries Limited, other members of the family survive at Cowansville.

NEW CORVETTE WILL CALL HERE

H.M.C.S. "Belleville" will be Inspected by Public Sometime This Autumn

The H.M.C.S. "Belleville" newest corvette addition to the Royal Canadian Navy will slide into a special berth in this city some time this autumn where residents will be afforded in first hand opportunity to see at close hand their protege of the navy.

This information was released by the Belleville Corvette Committee at a meeting held last night under the chairmanship of Mr. J. B. Boyce. Officials of a Kingston shipbuilding yard where the "Belleville" is now receiving her finishing touches, formally notified the committee that the new corvette would call at this city on her way to sea.

The date of her arrival, however, has not been set as definite information of the vessel's completion is not available as yet.

Decision to launch immediate efforts for organization and arrangements for the reception of officers, crew and equipment for the ship's personnel when possible through the generosity of residents of this city got under way immediately.

Initiative, Ability of Gardener Transform Marshall Rd. Property Into Gardens of Floral Beauty

Harry Reeve, in "Spare Time," Specializes, Cultivates, Raises, Hundreds of Flowers and Vegetables

FAMILY ASSISTS

A slim, erect man, his English cap pulled down over one eye, gazed proudly at his flower and vegetable gardens on his property on the Marshall Road.

A carpet of variegated color, enough to shame a rainbow, spread a mantle of petals over the land—a floral gem etched against a setting of waving green grasses.

A soft evening breeze waved gently the proud heads of datura lilies, their eight-inch blossom stems braking slowly into the fullness of colorful bloom.

The man shook his head. "They will be out in a few minutes", he muttered to himself. Later the magnificent flowers, bells like heaven shedding blue, white and yellow, nodded gracefully as if in appreciation of their owner's compliments.

Spare Time.

He works ten hours a day at his job in Trenton. In his "spare time" he has grown, cultivated and raised a quarter-acre of blooming beauty, a half-acre of vegetables, seedlings, etc. besides constructing for his family, putting his property into some semblance of condition, and giving personal instruction to eleven-year-old son George and fourteen-year-old daughter June in the art of gardening. In addition, he attends personally to his hotbeds, and for "entertainment" is hesitant to refuse invitation to his modest home.

Acquiring the former Vickers property, that faces the Belleville Fairgrounds, Mr. Reeve, with the magic wand of his ability and initiative, has produced an almost miraculous transformation. Brown coarse grasses, hiding a humpy terrain, but covering rich soil, dilapidated buildings, and a general run-down condition of the whole, challenged him.

He did not hesitate. He took off his coat and went to work. He did not have the benefit of modern machinery. He is being typically British, and having an excellent knowledge of the potentialities of hand-turned soil, he faced his problem grade by grade. Soon rich black earth showed where tough sod formerly existed. Long hours of hoeing and raking had its results. Every inch of the soil now under cultivation, has been the result of this labor.

Youthful Gardeners.

Chips from the paternal block. George, the nine-year-old son and his sister June, asked for and received their own garden plots. The youngsters dug their soil by hand, planting it and are now the proud owners of as productive a pair of vegetable gardens as one would wish to see.

In addition to his many irons in the gardening fire, Mr. Reeve intends mixing some landscape beauty with his practical vegetable era. Already in the process of construction is a handsome rockgarden which when finished will measure twenty-one feet in diameter, and will be terraced. The "piece de resistance" will be a tall bird fountain which will be located in the centre of the garden.

Next year, ("If I can find time") Mr. Reeve plans to instal tennis and badminton courts on the north-east corner of his property. "These will be for the children exclusively," he said. They will be able to form their own clubs and invite their friends here to play. I would rather have them following these healthy recreational lines seeking their pleasures elsewhere."

George and June are untiring in their efforts in the family garden as well as their own. They can find them hard at work. They have raised potatoes, corn, tomatoes, peas, green, red peppers, carrots, beets, onions, and as the season's time, catering to neighbors' wants, are bringing in a handy income.

Mr. Reeve's knowledge of soils and keep their own money. They do not seek "trade" dollars. They do not call for flowers or vegetables. Generously will many spend money to "pay the dentist." June has her own ideas about this thrifty, energetic and imbued with the Reeve spirit of business ability, is not only healthy, but profitable.

Natural Ability.

Mr. Reeve comes by his love of floral beauty and gardening ability naturally. His mother and grandfather in England possessed the same trait. Pictures of low-thatched cottages in an aura of floral beauty are a family heirloom. Yet these people received their abilities and the exercising of them as merely a hobby. They did not grow, nor sell for profit. Their beautiful flower beds, rose-hedges and other landscape shrubbery were a labor of love.

Battles of Next Two Weeks

Prime Minister King foresees the possibility that the coming two weeks of battles may be so important as to go far to decide the fate of the German stronghold both in the east and the west. The Prime Minister has faced the war with a realistic attitude and every Canadian realizes how careful he has been to give a fair emphasis so that there might be no complacency through a realistic attitude on the part of the people of the Dominion to the gigantic task which faces the Allies. This sanity of view such as has been voiced by the Allied leaders of all countries has helped to keep the magnitude of the task before the people, so that they should not weaken or lessen their effort because of undue optimism.

The great United Nations' leaders had faith and confidence in the final victory after a heavy struggle.

The result is apparent today when the scene changes and the conflict swings on to its last achievements. Therefore Mr. King is justified in the view he assumes. It is in accord with the opinion of the United Nations' leaders.

Mr. King in his address in the Commons on Friday laid stress on the Allied planning in the greatest conferences in history, those of Casablanca, Quebec, Cairo and Teheran, the results of which are stupendous in the effects and their victorious offensives which leave the enemy unable to mount a drive at all. The greatness of the Allied plan throws stress upon the great leaders who were the outstanding at these conferences. The meetings were all milestones and stepping stones to victory as are the brilliant victories which have come to Allied arms.

The union of the Allied Nations has been something that rivals anything the world has ever seen. With union and with the strength of spirit of the United Peoples and their military and industrial power and potentialities fully harnessed to the war task the results are easily understood.

So Mr. King can speak now in the utmost confidence of the titanic effects of the blows the Allies are striking and are going to strike upon the Hun, the world enemy.

Swiss Action

The Federal Council of Switzerland has made qualification in the old custom of sanctuary, expenses of a political character and it now becomes a privilege instead of something which can be claimed as a right, the decision being left to frontier commanders as to who shall be accorded the privilege of sanctuary.

It needs no words to convince anyone that it is because of developments in Europe and the world at large due to the presence in it of a band or gang of criminals, which include the Nazi gang leaders, among them Hitler, Himmler and the rest of the Axis bandits and warmakers.

There have been reports from time to time of the flight of the upper Nazis in foreign lands and of the possibility of a general exodus when the time of fate comes to pass for the German gang. Knowing as they do of similarity and the crimes dread punishment for their crimes, the world has considered just what such arch bandits and murderers will do when they find all sinking or sunk about them. Will they flee for refuge to some neutral land to try to escape trial in the hope that they will not be rooted out and brought to judgment?

"The right of sanctuary," says the New York Times, "was one of the first rules of conduct laid down by civilized men. In ancient Greece, temples and altars were inviolable. Many a defeated soldier or maltreated slave found in their shadows a sanctuary denied him elsewhere. With the establishment of Christianity the right of asylum or sanctuary became attached to the church or churchyard . . . Under international law most countries, including the United States, have granted asylum without question to the losers in intra-country uprisings or to the leaders of countries defeated in war. The best-known modern example, however, and one which the Swiss probably had in mind when they wrote the new regulations, was that of Kaiser Wilhelm. Branded an international brigand during World War I, he lived out his years sawing wood at Doorn, the Netherlands, where he had sought and found sanctuary."

But the Nazi gang leaders are so stained with crime against humanity that no nations would care to grant the privilege of asylum to those who have so outraged humanity. The United Nations has planned to bring to judgment the war criminals who will constitute a large number.

As for the Nazi criminals, the more likely instead they will find at the end of the war may be flight if they could find a place open to them. Loaded with crimes against human beings, soldiers and civilians alike, the world knows well this outcome of facing a court of trial and their natural instinct would be flight.

Turkey Breaks With Germany

Turkey's break with Germany in diplomatic and commercial relations is a sign to the world that the Axis is doomed.

Turkey has been friendly to the Allies.

One of the benefits to the United Nations of the severance of relations of Turkey with Germany will be the shutting off of war materials and supplies to the Germans.

With the United Nations stands the vast majority of the humanity of the world. Turkey was recently the only force left in association with Germany about a year ago.

What U. S. Soldiers Read

(New York Times)

Of the 189 periodicals approved by the army and selected by the expressed preference of 2 per cent of a "soldier group" for a particular periodical, nearly a third are humorous. Soldiers are great jokers and lovers, and the comic relief is all the more enjoyable because of the hard and dangerous task for which they are trained. Their appetite for detective stories seems to be smaller than that of civilians. Sometimes one stumbles and there must be a multitude of the latter that reads nothing else.

Moving-picture magazines have no great number of military addicts, but considerably more than radio magazines. The camera has its fair share. Sports are scantily represented. The army, navy and air journals are well followed. The standard general and technical monthlies and weeklies are on the list. Harper's Bazaar, Good Housekeeping and Woman's Home Companion are natural food for the Wacs and Waves, but they are story papers too, and to many boys the sight of a copy may be like a peep into the living room at home.

Many of the entries are far from strictly "educational." Postmaster General Walker trusts that "we shall not see this erring Esquire, thrown out of the second-class mailbag so indignantly, is in good and regular standing with the army.

Square Milk Bottles

(Winnipeg Tribune)

An American glass company is experimenting with square milk bottles. They are reported in use in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and to be meeting with general favor. The square containers mean that householders can now put a couple of quarts of milk in the ice box without crowding out everything else but the ice.

Great galleries of rosy pictures have been painted of the push-button world of the future: We will gladly trade the whole plastic-fringed prospect for a few practical improvements such as this square bottle idea plus a surefire way of opening a shoe-polish can without dumping the goo on the floor.

Finns, allied with Germany in the war against Russia, have had more than enough of war and are believed to be trying to expedite their exit from the Axis group. It has come at the time when the satellites of Germany have every reason to be uneasy.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1944, Edgar A. Guest)

WISE AND FOOLISH ANGLERS

He knew to much of how and when
And all that lies 'twixt wrong and right,
Of wind and tide, and where they hide,
To fish when bass aren't apt to bite.

He'd read the books wise men have penned;
Was versed in piscatorial lore.
The wind's not right; they'll never bite.
If I were you I wouldn't go."

Yet many a time some fishing fool,
Whose knowledge of the signs was small,
At night would pass him by with bass
He never should have caught at all.

Pyle in Normandy:
Mosquito Columns Over 200 Feet High One of Odd Sights in France

By ERNIE PYLE

Somewhere in Normandy — (by wireless — Mosquitoes are pretty bad in the swampy parts of Normandy. Especially along the hedgerows at night, they are ferocious.

Here in Normandy they have something I've never seen before even in Alaska, the mosquito capital of the world.

When you drive along a Normandy road you sometimes see dark columns extending 200 and 300 feet straight up into the air above a hedge. They are columns of mosquitoes swarming like bees, each columns composed of millions of them.

They were mosquito bites.

As we talked this man said, "Look at them mosquitoes! Ain't that a pipeline."

And sure enough the mosquitoes were diving just like dive bombers, but come back up like fire balloons they'd just folded up and died beautifully and floated on the surface.

In one small-arms repair section that I visited the only man who knew or cared anything about guns before the war was a professional gun collector.

He was Sergt. Joseph Toth of Mansfield, O. He was stripped down to his undershirt. The day was warm for a change. He was washing the rifles, cleaning the damaged rifles in a tub of water with a sponge.

Both used to work at the Westinghouse Electric plant in Mansfield and in their spare time each money collecting guns. He belongs to the Gun Collectors' Assn.

He says each one of the gun collectors back in Ohio has a different specialty. Some collect pistols; some pumpguns. His own hobby is machine pistols. He has 35 in his collection, some of them very specialized ones.

Ironically enough, he has not collected any guns here at all, even though he's in a world of machine pistols and many pass through his hands.

"It isn't so much the collecting," he says. "It just has to be in your blood. When I monkey with a gun, I like to take it apart and put it back together again."

Both also like to talk. He'll talk all day. As the other boys say, if he could always have a new type machine pistol to talk about he'd somebody to listen to him at the same time, he'd undoubtedly be the happiest man on earth.

Eggs are not plentiful enough in Normandy to supply the whole army, but the quartermaster can dig up a few each day. We buy them from farmers' wives at the rate of eight cents apiece. We're hoping some day to buy one from a farmer's daughter.

These Normandy eggs are fine eggs, and we get every fourth one is as big as a duck egg. The five hens that lay them are very precious, so we make it a practice not to kill them. They're all over the country.

We pass up regular breakfast in the mess and have our breakfast fast in our own tent, every morning. Usually a combination of cruel fate I have become the butt of the breakfast jokes. Yesterday breakfast Gargantuana.

Those who have watched me in, their eats and snore while I get out at the crack of dawn and slave over a hot typewriter. Well, I'll fix 'em. I'll oeufs in real Normandy butter—fried, scrambled, boiled, or whatever as suits the whims of their respective chefs.

Except when I'm away with troops, I've been at this occupation now for two months, and although my clients are smart enough to know that I've deliberately flattered about my culinary genius, I've become a sick sick of the job.

So someday I'm going to carry out the most diabolical scheme that my mind, with the greatest care, the most delicious breakfast ever served. Imagine, then, a table adorned hummingbird eggs and crisp French fried potatoes and fresh venison, done to a turn, and grape jelly and autumn-brown toast and jellied and apples and thick, luscious coffee.

Then I'll wake them up and I'll serve it to all four of them on a silver platter, and I'll say, with a bow to Mr. Whitehead, and a curtsy to Mr. Brandt, "Good morning to you, sir," to Mr. Brandt, and a long salute to Mr. Bullet. And after I've left I'll walk out casually as though I'm going up the battle-line for the day.

But instead I'll go on away and I'll never never tell them what I've done. I'll never, not even if they put an ad in the paper, which they will without doubt, do nothing from lack of sustenance, and eventually they'll starve to death in this faraway and strangely beautiful land. Ha, ha.

The Day in Parliament

POOR CIRCULATION

Statistician of one of the large life insurance companies reports that coronary heart disease has apparently increased and is still increasing, this has been given as the cause of death in 4.7 per hundred of insured claims paid in 1936, in 243 per hundred thousand claims paid in 1935.

Whether such statistics or any statistics show that coronary or other forms of heart disease are actually on the increase, I don't know. Some medical authorities seem to believe there is more heart disease now than there was twenty-fifty or a hundred years ago. That a good many layman harbor the same belief is impressed upon me by letters from laymen. It is the conviction of these ambitious but untrained (that is, untrained in the science of Pathology) writers that the alarming increase in heart disease, as they see it, is largely due to nervous tension, drinking coffee, eating meat or too much meat, or both, or to some other dietary confusion (narrowing, constriction or stoppage of a branch of the coronary artery).

Efficiency of the circulation depends upon the proper constriction of the heart, but also upon the state of the arteries in regard to smoking, it is the consensus of medical opinion, so far as this I can determine, that it does cause heart disease, but that coronary occl

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Pfc. Sgt. G. C. Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Osborne, 386 1-3 Front Street, has arrived safely back from overseas.

Bobby Langabeer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Langabeer, 178 James Street, is progressing favorably following an appendectomy performed on the Belleville General Hospital, on Monday.

Mrs. (Dr.) Douglas McAteer, and daughter, Marion, of Lansing, Ont., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Carver, Church Street.

Miss Helen Jeffrey, and Miss Helen Scott are leaving today for Rochester, N.Y., where they will spend the next few days. They will return home by way of Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto.

The Deacon Brothers' Social Committee, in charge of Miss Margaret Meeks, held a jolly wiener roast for the employees of the company and their friends at Oak Lake on Thursday night. . . . A large sprinkling of star forges personnel from Montlake View was among the frolicers for the occasion. Bowling, swimming and dancing afforded a great deal of fun for everyone. The evening was topped off with a delicious serving of hotdogs.

Pfc. Sgt. Hamel MacDonald, who has just returned home from overseas, is spending leave with his wife and son, Larry, at 22 Bettes Street.

Friends will be sorry to hear that Mrs. Wm. Holmes, 326 Dundas St., is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

WEDDINGS

DILLON—KINLIN

St. Edmund's Church, Stoco, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday, July 27th., when Miss Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kinlin of Stoco, became the bride of William Austin Dillon, son of Mrs. Agnes Dillon and the late Mr. Mr. J. Dillon of Enterprise.

The bride attired in a floor length gown of white tulle and lace with finger-tip veil, entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Wedding March from Lohengrin, played by Miss Clara Mulroney. She carried a bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Kinlin, who wore a gown of blue crepe and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Ann Morrow, of Tweed and Mrs. Tottenham, was maid of honor in a pink lace gown and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Daniel Dillon, of Kingston, and the ushers were Mr. Michael Dillon, of Maryland, and Mr. Frank Kinlin, of Ottawa.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Kinlin, uncle of the bride, and Nuptial Mass was celebrated by Rev. Peter Kinlin, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to immediate friends and relatives at the home of the bride's parents, and in the evening a reception was held in the town hall at Enterprise.

For travelling the bride chose a two-piece dress of figured silk jersey with matching accessories. On their return the happy couple will reside in Enterprise.

Bag Full of Smartness

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S A GRAND and sensible fashion this over-the-shoulder bag, commodious and leaving the hands free. Mark Cross offers this version in the fine leathers for which this house is famous. Made of deerskin or capeskin, it ties with leather thongs tipped with polished horn, and has a handsome change purse. Matching gloves add to this trim and functional fashion.

The Marry-Go-Round

Love Takes a Holiday,

"The Unhappiest Women in the World" is the title of an article by Madame Moeckli in a recent Saturday Evening Post. In Japan, she says, "it offends the man's dignity to pay a compliment to any woman, should four coats or show her the slightest courtesy". In Japan that may mean "pride", says Cynical Sybil, but over here it means "mental cruelty", alimony and costs.

Few men complain of dyspepsia these days, and most of them are developing beautiful waistlines. This is probably because they are living along on a combination of war-rations and the wife's reducing diet.

Flattering a man is like making chocolate layer-cake for a small boy. In either case you just can't spread the goo on too thick. "Fill him with self-admiration and all that spills over is yours", to paraphrase George Ade.

During courtship a man is charmed by a girl's ability to see a lot of things in him; after marriage she put off going there.

English Mother Voices Thanks To Red Shield

Local Women's Auxiliary Plans to Send Many Articles to Bomb-Sufferers

The Salvation Army Red Shield Women's Auxiliary recently made another shipment of Soldiers' comforts and clothing for the bomb-sufferers of England. The Belleville Auxiliary is grateful for the kind co-operation given to this good work by the many local groups of workers in and around the city. Below is a copy of a letter received by Miss Lydia Mowatt of North James St., from a grateful mother, who has recently received some of the fine articles of clothing sent through this medium, and this is but one of the many letters that have been received from time to time. It is advised that makers of articles of clothing and knitters of socks to attach their names and addresses, as many other grateful people would like to express their thanks in this way.

The many local groups of workers who have taken part in this work are advised that we can now supply material for children's and women's dresses and other articles of clothing, as The Salvation Army plans to send tens of thousands of such articles to the victims of the European countries in the near future.

The Auxiliary is now in a position to supply dirty bags for the filling. The Salvation Army with other organizations is anxious that no sailor or seaman shall be without his dirty bag this Christmas, and now is the time to begin. Call or phone Mrs. Major Mowatt at 43 Henry Street, and have the quota of bags sent you in good time.

Miss Mowatt
Dear Madam:—

I have received a white knitted jumper amongst other things for my little girls, and I found your address attached.

My husband is fighting out in Italy, and we have six children. Barbara is the oldest; she is fourteen in August, and baby is just three month. You see what a handful they are to clothe.

The middle one, Shirley, she is eight, and how delighted she is with it. I am ever so grateful for these things, as clothes are such a problem in these trying times.

I wish to convey my thanks to you and all others who give their time for such a good cause, delighting some little mite who receives these articles and believing some mother's problem.

Yours faithfully,
M. A. Boyden.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Earning Her Living in a War Plant, But Father Disapproves of Dates

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 17 years old and pal around with my cousin and one other girl. Naturally we like to go around with boys, and the three boys we go with belong to a group of other young boys. Last night we were talking to some of these boys, and my father came along and pulled me away and made me go home with him. I was so humiliated. And now he's making up stories about me, and scolding me of things I wouldn't even think of doing.

I am employed in a war factory, and think I should have some time for dates. Don't you think so. My father says he's going to give me work to do at home so that I wouldn't have any time to go out at all. I'm on the verge of leaving home, but I won't do anything until I hear from you.

—C. R.

At 17 years of age, please don't leave home at such a time as this, though I'll admit you have plenty of provocation. Try and reason with your father, or get your mother or someone, to talk sensibly to him. Certainly a girl working in a war plant needs some relaxation.

As He Grows More Serious, She Becomes More Prudent,

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a college girl of 18; met a soldier about four months ago. He's from another state, and I know nothing of his family, or his past life except what he has told me. We have been corresponding and his letters are beginning to sound serious.

He came to see me several times, and the last letter said something about bringing an engagement ring the next time he comes. While I've always found him to be most respectful, I don't know if I should accept a ring, because I know my parents wouldn't like the idea.

Also, I've cared for another soldier until they were drafted and left the United States, and have slowly forgotten them. So I figure it would be the same in this case if he went across.

I like to have dates, enjoy myself and go with different boys and have never considered marriage. What do you think I should do about the engagement ring?

—S. H.

Let me congratulate you on having a good sound head. You tell me he cared for several other men, and when they were drafted and sent overseas you have slowly forgotten them. And you figure it would be the same in this case if he went across.

You've made your case carefully as a blueprint, and it would be a mistake to tie yourself to this young man or any other until you feel you couldn't live without him. At 18, you're plenty of time to consider marriage, and so tell this young soldier you're not ready to accept an engagement ring.

Doesn't Like His Wife's Makeup,

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My wife and I have been married two years, have no children. Lately I was inducted into the Army. I came home unexpectedly on furlough and found what seemed to be a strange lady in place of my wife. She had dyed her hair jet black, made up her face livid as a corpse and a fresh manicure was painted on every hour. Naturally, I suspected another man.

My mother and sisters who lived near say positively there is no other man, that my wife goes out very little and only to see her women friends. When I asked her what in the blankety, blankety dash was the meaning of this transformation, she said she was so lonesome without me that she began trying different kinds of makeup on herself. I was so mad I advised her to consult a brain specialist.

I've never wanted her to work outside the home, because I'm able to take care or her. However, I'd rather see her scrub office buildings than go for this sort of thing. My mother has suggested war work. Would that be a good thing? Perhaps I'm over-jealous and that's why I've never encouraged war work.

—L. M. J.

By all means encourage your wife to engage in some sort of defence work. It need not be in a war plant. Almost every city has a branch of the Employment Service where she could apply for work. Tell her to apply at the Red Cross for this work. There is use for every pair of willing hands.

BEAUTY By Helen Jameson

WATCH YOUR MOUTH LINES

Mouths speak two languages; one that is directed to the ear; one that is read by the eye. Lips can be hangovers from childhood or repellent. Lips that are entitled to the first beauty prize are those with spiritual corners—kindly, sweet, kissable. How does one get them that way? One has to have a kindly feeling for one's fellow creatures. It is as simple as that.

Whether or not the mouth is attractive depends upon facial habits. The expression can change with a thought. The bossy woman puts her teeth into a clinch, flexes the jaw muscles. She makes you think of a bear trap.

Chagrin pulls the lower lips inward, destroying the harmonious lines, pushing out the soft tissues of the upper part of the chin. Whining, blubbering women develop sagging lips that seem always about to quiver. Discontent draws down lip corners, creating lines from mouths to chin. These lines are not easily erased, let me tell you. When they once dig in, they have a silver-line year lease.

Few of us are aware of our facial habits, and that's too bad—since they have much to do with appearance, attractive or otherwise. When we take a mirror survey, the face is usually in repose. We know nothing of its gymnastics, its lights and shadows.

Smiles highlight the face; but there are a variety of smiles, some nicer than others. There is the perpetual stationary, meaningless smile that bores the beholder. It lacks the spontaneity that makes for charm. It suggests insincerity, often is nothing more than a frozen smirk. You've seen it, lots of times. So have your goodlooks teacher. You feel that the smile is a mental fiasco.

Sound, whilst teeth form an effective background for pretty lips. But that's another beauty lesson. Lips should be moist, smooth of surface, free from ragging bits of cuticle. Lip biters should remember that. If the appealing rosy color isn't present, if lips are pale, get busy with your exercises. Breathe deeply do clang up a swifter circulation. In the meantime, comfort yourself with a flattering lip pigment.

Like the eyes, lips should have a setting of firm, healthy tissues. Letting the lips relax ruins the contour of the face. Not a pretty habit, if you ask us, or if you don't. Sagging jaw muscles may result, and then what? One will look four years older than the record in the family Bible states.

Cream your lips at night, after you have removed all of the rosy-red coloring. Friction the flesh lightly. Please the first finger in the centre of the upper lip, thumb at the end, second finger at the chin. Drag the lip up into a Gupid's bow. Firms fibers.

ONE MORE REASON WHY—

WE CAN'T HAVE ALL THE GAS WE'D LIKE!

CANADA is able to supply only 15% of her own petroleum needs. The balance must come from the common pool of the United Nations. Seventeen gallons of petroleum used by this country must be imported in the form of crude oil from this barely-adequate petroleum products pool. Six gallons of every ten must be shipped to us by ocean tanker—at the risk of men's lives, at the risk of precious ships.

Today, with great military campaigns in full swing in Europe, in the Pacific, in Asia—every possible tanker is needed to keep up the pressure of attack by the Allied fighting forces. Every drop of this "fighting" gasoline and fuel oil must be carried vast distances across dangerous seas. Tankers must travel slowly in convoy; they must travel circuitous routes; they must return over thousands of miles of submarine-infested oceans, empty.

Today, war is making insatiable demands upon the crude oil resources and transportation facilities of this hemisphere. Here in Canada we dare not ask for quantities of petroleum beyond our bare, essential needs. We cannot justifiably ask for more than we are using now. This is why gasoline stocks on hand in Canada, as of March 31st, this year, were 55,000,000 gallons less than at the start of rationing on April 1st, 1942.

From Canada's total ration must come all the needs of the Dominion's essential services at home, all the needs of war industry, of agriculture, and of essential transportation. It is not surprising that little is left for other civilian use—for our motor cars and trucks.

Keep these facts before you at all times. Remind yourself that every gallon we can do without means just that much more for the Allied fighting forces—that it means the release of vital tanker transportation to carry Victory gasoline and fuel oil to the battlefronts of the world.

Baseball World Pays Homage To Connie Mack in Honor Of 50 Years in Baseball

President Roosevelt Sends Message to Veteran Philadelphia Diamond Mentor

"MR. BASEBALL"

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—(AP)—There are many tender memories in the life of Cornelius McGillicuddy—Connie Mack to you — but possibly the most poignant was last night's celebration at Shibe Park in honor of his 50th anniversary as a big league baseball manager.

A crowd of 39,794, including many of the game's top figures and famous players of yesteryear, crowded into the park. To get there they disregarded the city's transit strike. Thousands came in automobiles, but the majority walked.

President Roosevelt sent a message of congratulations declaring "May your baseball future continue to wave."

Since he first took the helm of a big league club—at Pittsburgh, Aug. 4, 1894 — baseball's "grand old gentleman" has seen a lot done by the baseball ladder. He has won nine American League pennants, five with the Athletics and five world titles, as well as winding up in the cellar on many occasions.

Mack has long since, however, become a baseball institution and one of the game's immortals.

"Mr. Baseball" was presented a gold box with a check for $6,000 as a "token of admiration and affection from the fans of baseball in America."

The big moment of the celebration was the presentation of Connie's living all-time best players. The 24-man squad, ushered in by turn, Connie presented these former stars: George Sisler, first baseman of the St. Louis Browns; Eddie Collins, second baseman of the Athletics; Frank (home run) Baker, third baseman of the Athletics; Honus Wagner, shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Lieut. Bill Dickey, catcher of the New York Yankees; Walter Johnson, right-handed pitcher for Washington; Lefty Grove, southpaw of the Boston Athletics; Tris Speaker, outfielder for the Cleveland Indians, and Babe Ruth "the greatest hitter of all time," Yankee outfielder.

Tunney Dishes Up Outstanding Card For Wrestling Show

With Civic Holiday being featured next week, Promoter Frank Tunney, of the Queensbury A. C., entered into the spirit of things with when he announced the personnel of his weekly wrestling show at the Hume Arena for Wednesday night.

"Here's the card I've been trying to get together for weeks past. Every man on the program is a star, from the opener to the main bout," vouched Promoter Tunney.

Looking over the card it opens with Ilio DiPaolo, Canada, Oregon Octopus who beat Watson in Ottawa, versus the popular Tour Hornet, Ben Geraghty. Then DeClaire the Montreal Adonis, versus "Irish" Jerry Monahan and finally the main bout the fans get two topranking grapplers in. Dr. Len Hall, the burly Californian, and Frank Sexton, Ohio Hercules.

Now it seems Sexton lays claim to the Pacific Coast heavyweight wrestling championship, but Dr. Hall, a native of Hollywood itself, says he never lost to Sexton in beating any wrestler of note, "I was away for two years, maybe that's when the "Buckeye State" gent moved into my home state. If he wishes to wrestle for the California title in Belleville or any place else, I'll take him on," challenged Dr. Hall when he learned Tunney had signed the two.

Everyone Happy As Jack Bests Bob Montgomery

15,822 Customers Pay $35,864.90 in Bonds to See Great Fight

New York, Aug. 5 —(AP)— Pete, Beau Jack won the decision, Pete. Bob Montgomery didn't lose his lightweight title, $35,864.90 in war bonds were sold, and the 15,822 customers, including several hundred wounded veterans, saw a whale of a fight.

So everyone was happy today about last night's fight card in Madison Square Garden, including the two soldiers, both of whom had their fists in the short-lived reign of the lightweight laurels twice, who battled through 10 interesting rounds.

The gate was the largest ever pulled up for a fight show. The only way to get in was to purchase a bond, with more than three of from $25 to $100,000.

Wounded fighters, promoters, managers, referees, judges and others connected with the show refrew their services, and the Gillette Razor Company paid all other expenses.

Beau Jack, the former bootblack from Augusta, Ga., who won the title to Montgomery, won it back with it, and then lost it to him again, was really a fightin' man as he punched out his decision in the non-title route, unfought, to the one judge favored the Bounding Bean by a 6-point margin while the other judge called it even.

The two fighters have fought 55 rounds to date, and despite the fact that actual slugging there hasn't been a knockdown, Zach has won two decisions.

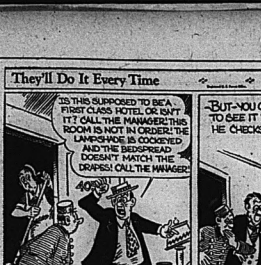
Haegg Breaks His Own Record

In running the two-mile distance at Stockholm Stadium last night in 8:42.8, Gunder Haegg clipped 3 8/10s seconds off his own world record and quite probably the greatest performance of his career in finishing first in front of his nearest competitor. At the same meet, Arne Andersson covered the 1,000-metre distance in 2:32.2, or 4.10s of a second slower than the world record established to Ruolf Harbig of Germany.



Two strokes ahead of Jules Huot of Quebec, Stan Horne of Montreal yesterday won the 36-hole medal play of the Quebec Victory Bond golf tourney at Montreal with a 145. In the amateur division, Phil Farley of Toronto finished four strokes behind Horne with a 149. Lou Little, Kingston, Ont., placed third in the pro's with 75-75—150. In the amateurs Cpl. Dan Stack, Sudbury, was fifth with 81-77—158.

PITCHERS ON TOP AS SWACO WINS BY 2 TO 0 SCORE

Lois Calcutt Hurls One-Hitter in First, Girls' Play-Off Game

HASLIP'S HIT WINS

With the pitchers holding sway the best girls' softball game of the season, a one-hit, no-run performance by Lawn last night with Lois Calcutt tossing a one-hitter for SWACO, the latter won 1 to 0 over Mel Sargent in a league series playdown. The winning pitcher was Bessie Doolittle, the Sargent veteran hurler, who allowed but a single hitter, but errors placed runners aboard as SWACO chased two runners on one hit in the fifth.

Offensively it was all Pete Haslip, SWACO lead-off man who not only counted both of the winning runners but drove in two with her fifth inning double. Marinette's one hit lunge was the first time any of the Sargent hitting power of the night. Norma Cornwell got to first in Sargent's first inning on an error, but Haslip stepped to the plate to win the game with a two-run-producing double.

The first batter to face Lois Calcutt was Doolittle who got on but there wasn't another Sargent batter reached first base safely in the next four frames as Mrs. Calcutt retired 12 Sargent hitters before Pitcher Doolittle walked after one was out on the sixth. Haslip in the seventh got Sargent again went down in order. Although Mike Doolittle played every two hits, she only retired the side in order in the third and sixth innings.

Following the game league President Ken Cowan announced league players selected for the "All-star" game to be played with the Toronto Sunday Morning Class here on Civic Holiday for the Red Cross would practice at the Park Grounds this evening at six o'clock.

Toronto, Aug. 5—(CP)—Opogogo, the reformed dragon of the Okanagan Valley, is back in the news again. The elusive reptile of the deep, the purported fire-breathing monster that frightened tourists craned their necks to spot during tours of the famed Okanagan Valley, may be induced to appear as the special feature attraction at the aquatic carnival in Kelowna, B.C.

Opogogo is credited with creating considerable interest and drawing many of the curious to witness the swimming and diving events at the regatta. Even if they didn't see the beast, visitors always had the hope they might spot the dripping, weed-clothed head of the legendary critter poking above the calm lake waters.

That's rather important for the good burghers of Kelowna too, because on one hit in the fifth.

Offensively it was all Pete Haslip, SWACO lead-off man who not only counted both of the winning runners but drove in two with her fifth inning double. Still Flying High.

Johnny Loaring, ghamp Canadian bantam and featherweight from 1936 olympics, stole the show at a recent track meet at the navy training station in St. Hyacinthe, although he hadn't competed competitively since early 1943, Johnny captured three firsts and one second to win a brace of cups for his team. Johnny, a lieutenant-commander, is head of the radar school at the station.

Another well-known athlete at the station is Lt.-Cmdr. Alf Hurley of Windsor, Ont., former captain and quarterback of University of Western Ontario Mustangs when they captured the senior Intercollegiate football title in 1939. All he's head of the radio airfitter branch.

Incidentally,

Another six youngster in Ontario bantam class baseball who will be closely watched from now on by scouts of senior teams and probably by the pros, Stan Stack, 17-year-old Sarnia hurler, tossed a 15-inning one-hitter against London Ont., the other night—and fanned 36 men in the process. In eight of the 15 innings, he retired the side by himself, his teammates just giving him moral support.

MARINES SCORE 3-2 VICTORY OVER 'RAILROADERS'

Sweet Pitchers' Battle Between Baldwin and Hunter in Play-Off

HITS SCARCE

A short pop fly to the infield, which Pitcher Johnnie Bawden fielded handily, proved the winning point for the SACO "Marines" as they defeated the Class "A" outfield over the C.N.R. Railroaders at the Exhibition Park last evening in the first game in the city finals to determine which team will go on in the O.A.A.A. playdowns.

With the game tied two-all going into the last half of the seventh, Hunter came to bat when Bawden failed to handle his pop fly and after leaving second on two passed balls with the winning run when Ted Hunter knocked out a single over.

It was a sweet pitcher's battle all through the piece, however, with Bawden fanning seven batters in the latter of hits, but occasional wildness kept spreading his hits around so he walked Callaghan to see him score later, giving the Marines their one run while Hunter was limited the opposition to a stingy seven safeties, striking out eight and walking one more. Hunter's control was near perfect, he not walking a single batter.

Once again Frank Murray came through with an excellent defensive effort at short and in this department was really the star of the game. Both teams kicked through with double plays to cut short threatened opposition rallies.

Three Point Anne players were injected into the game by the Marine management and Left in right, with Whitehead at third and Murney Green behind the plate, the team showed equal defensive strength, Goalie Bawden in the first part of the game with the switch being made in the latter part of the pastime.

Offensively Ted Henn stood out for the winners, collecting a single and a double and what would have gone for a homer had he not accidental touching first base. For the losers Langman connected out three times while Murray getting run-producing triple in the second inning to offset the Marines' first inning counter.

The teams—C.N.R. —Martin 3b, Langman rf, Wright cf, Whalen c, Murray ss, Carson 2b, Day lf, Reilly 1b, and Bawden p. SACO—Barrage lf, Woolls cf, Henn 2b, Carson ss, Washington 3b, Callaghan 1b, Hunter rf, Temple c, Hunter p, Whitehead, Green and Lamb.

ORIOLES DRAW AWAY FROM REST OF FIELD

Maple Leafs Down Jersey City by 2 to 1 Score

The Baltimore Orioles are gradually drawing away from the rest of the field in the International League pennant race.

Last night's victory over the Buffalo Bisons was their 21st out of 34 games in Municipal Stadium, and gave them a four game second-place Newark Bears to 7 1-2 game lead.

Bobo Pafico won his 11th victory, outdueling the Bisons' Steve Peretz (Joe) Orrell who suffered his first setback after three victories. Felix Mackiewicz helped the Orioles' cause with a home run.

Wayne Osborne beated Johnny Maldovan in a tense pitching battle, the Montreal Royals pushing across two runs in the 11th to defeat Newark 3-1. Nick Rhabb, Bears' right-fielder, had 11 putouts.

Curly Arntzen gained his first International League victory after five defeats as the Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Jersey City Giants 4-3. Arntzen limited the hits in outpitching Jersey's Frank Rosso.

Scoring the winning run in the eighth inning of the nightcap, the Rochester Red Wings split their doubleheader with the Rochester Red Wings, winning 4-3 after the Bisons won the opener 3-0. Kemp Wicker pitched two-hit ball for the Birds in the opener for his ninth win, not allowing a man to reach second base.

BEN CHAPMAN IS WHOLE BALL CLUB IN FIRST START

Wins First Game as Major League Pitcher and Bats .500

NICHOLSON'S 24TH

By JACK HAND

Ben Chapman, the newest Brooklyn Dodger, saw his name posted in the baseball records today as a pitcher with a 1.000 winning percentage and a .500 batting average.

Temperamental Ben from Nashville led the American League in base stealing four times, hitting 61 in 1931. He record in the piedmont League as a side-arm hurler popped up major league interest.

Chapman wasted little time reporting to the Dodgers. He went to the hill to stop Boston, 8-4, last night. Ferd Lindstrom Braves to eight safe blows, and left no room for doubt by bashing a double and single, driving in three runs and scoring three more to doom Al Javery.

While Chapman was taking the bows, Bucky Walters climbed back on the win wagon, stopping St. Louis for the fifth straight time to bang up his 16th victory 5-3 after four futile attempts.

Hal Luby's 10th inning homer gave Bill Voiselle and the New York Giants a 4-3 victory over the Phillies' Ken Raffensberger, Freddy Fitzsimmons' Pirls finished the game un-der protest as they absorbed their 10th straight loss. Chicago held 4th place in the big scramble with 4-3 on Bill Nicholson's 24th homer, coming with a man on in the ninth.

Connie Mack's 50th anniversary as a manager was spotted by the Athletics with a 2-1 win. Dick Fowler hank Borowy before a night turnout of 18,586. Bob Newman was the tough-luck loser.

Chicago White Sox returned to the first division by trimming Cleveland's Mel Harder, 5-3 on some late hitting. Ted Lyons and Johnny Niggeling tossed Washington to a 5-2 win over Boston in the first of two but Emmet O'Neil blanked the Senators in the finale, 4-0.

Twelve Reasons Other Than Love

Workers in the Taylor county clerk's office at Abilene, Texas, looked over the marriage license ledger and found listed eighteen reasons why people get married:

To get a living.

To avoid income tax.

To avoid living with the old folks.

To save the trouble of putting on their best clothes to go courting.

To get a share of Uncle Horace's estate.

To get the permanent that empty-ers pick on married men in salary increases and unemployment liabilities.

Just for a lark.

Curiosity.

Intoxication.

In order that they might retire down and avoid wasting postage.

To avoid eating in a boarding house.

From fear that it might be their last opportunity.

Love was also listed as one of the reasons.

LESSON NO. 468

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Too often a contract is frittered away by failing to first try the best type of play. In choosing your play make an effort to stress the plan that expects the best chance for success.

A finesse works on a 50-50 basis. It has as good a chance to lose as it has to win. Or, if you prefer to look at it another way, it is just as likely to win as it is to lose.

Other types of plays in bridge give you a better than even chance to win. If you have a choice between one of them and a finesse, you are taking the worst of it if you first try the finesse.

Drop in on this deal:

South is declarer at a six spade contract. He can take all 13 tricks if he employs the play that offers the best opportunity for taking all the tricks.

The opening lead from west is the diamond jack. When dummy is spread, one project sticks out. The next bet is to establish the heart suit.

He can try a heart finesse and then set up that suit. Or he can try to trump enough hearts without taking a finesse. Which is best?

If the heart king is in west (and it is), the finesse will lose. If he does not take the finesse, he cannot hold the heart king. So, he should abandon the finesse idea.

Dummy's diamonds are no wins. South hops right up with the ace when a heart is led. A heart from south is trumped in dummy. South gets in again with a trump and another heart is trumped by dummy king.

By this time the south hearts are all to the good. Declarer picks up the outstanding trumps and the rest are his.

Finessing is a play to court. But almost as a last resort.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Girl From Monterrey" — First Belleville showing!

A delightful musical romance that starts in Old Monterrey and finishes in the night life of New York gives Armida, the Mexican ball of fire, a chance to show her versatile talents as singer, dancer and comedienne. She scores in all three departments of this entertainment. The picture from the PRC studios, "The Girl From Monterrey," starts its first showing in this city Saturday midnight at the Capitol Theatre.

The opening sequences show Armida as a popular songstress in a cafe in Old Monterrey, she leaves with her brother, an up-and-coming young prize fighter, for New York, after Elmer Knudsen, a visiting promoter, predicts great possibilities for the youth.

Event-filled months as the manager of her brother's fistic career, when she hits on the novel idea that rhythm in footwork can be attained by shadow dancing, ensue. The idea works in the ring. Her brother, played by Anthony Caruso, is given a fabulous contender for the title held by Terry Frost. Armida meanwhile has fallen on head over heels in love with Terry and you can imagine the surprise she is in when the boning commission decrees that the two must meet for the championship.

"Rey Rookie"

Columbia's personality - studded soldier musical, "Hey, Rookie," matches into the Capitol Theatre Sunday midnight. This is the screen adaptation of the stage and radio production by the Fort Lewis Arthur Yard Birds with a Los Angeles run of 36 laugh-smash weeks.

Included in the great array of specialty acts assembled for this khaki-go-wacky musical-are: Ann Miller, Jon Hosier, Jimmy Little, Hal McIntyre and Orchestra, Ill, Lo, Jack and the Dame, Jack Gilford, Condos Brothers, Judy Clark and the Solid Senders, Bob Evans, Jack Norton and Jean Porter.

On the same program will be shown "Air Cadets" as Canada Carries On featurette in technicolor.

Matinee Monday, Civic Holiday, at 2.15 p.m.

AT THE BELLE

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" Film fans have more than one surprise in store for them when they see Paramount's hilarious comedy, "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek," which opens Sunday at the Belle Theatre with Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton in the starring roles. The picture is full of amazing situations and story twists, all of them more laugh-provoking than any movie comedy offering in recent months.

Don't be misled into believing this is a musical because of the presence of Bracken and Betty Hutton; it's a straight comedy with dramatic interludes to tug at your heartstrings even while you're laughing. The story is one of the problem of unmarried mothers, with the excitement and inebriation of a dance thrown for soldiers about to ship out. At night names were not given at the wedding ceremonies, but the groom's husband when she needs him most.

How she solves her dilemma, with the help of the adoring Bracken, and what the "miracle" is will provide film fans with the best movie fun they've had in a long time. Contributing a fine cast are Diana Lynn, William Demarest and Porter Hall.

"Sweetheart Serenade" in Color

Another special event attraction on the same program is "Showboat Serenade" presenting a dazzling and thrilling entertaining vaudeville show on the screen—and in gorgeous technicolor. The cast includes World battlefronts are seen in The Canadian lives of the Day to be presented on the same program. Continuous shows will be presented today and Monday.

"Heavenly Body" Ending

Fay Wray and Spring Byington, who scored in "The Waltz Begins Again," are reunited in "The Heavenly Body" M-G-M's new William Powell-Hedy Lamarr romantic comedy featuring James Craig, to be previewed at the Belle Theatre tonight at 12.05.

Miss Bainter portrays a prominent society matron and adds a gracious touch to the cast as one of her fluttery clients, devoted to Powell's selling an general and horoscopes in particular. Powell has the lead as an astronomer and discoverer of a new comet.

In Manhattan

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Aug. 5 (CP) — Two plays— both billed as comedies— opened here this week, first new entertainment to appear along Broadway since June 27. Neither of them proved in the least funny.

Particularly disappointing was the long-waited "Catherine was Great", starring Miss Tracy, which opened at the Shubert Wednesday. Despite prolonged cutting and changing in the road try-out at Philadelphia, the play still was poor when it hit New York.

Miss West—playing Diamond Lil the trouper she is but she failed as Russia's erotic empress. Lavish production, brilliant costumes and a drab series of smutty gags can't sustain three hours of it.

The show could have stood further cutting, with lighter writing if it might have been faintly more bearable.

The other play which bowed in this week was "School for Brides", at the Booth Theatre. Constance Karna, notable film mimic, who did what she could with a sorry plot about a not-altogether-imaginary millionaire who gets married frequently, and divorced at equally short intervals.

The same night as "School For Brides" opened, the world premiere of 20th-Century Fox's heavily-advertised "Anna" took place at the Roxy.

The chief feature of this film curio is that a Canadian—Alexander Knox, of Strathroy, Ont.—plays the great American President. But this is not at all ungracedented: Raymond Massey and Walter Huston—both of Toronto—have turned in striking performances as President Lincoln in other years.

Capital Closeups

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 4. (CP)—About fish: the Pacific and the Atlantic are along way—from the capital—to go just to fish perhaps that's the main reason why members of parliament who do the most talking when deep sea fishing consult in the Commons have seldom felt the thrill of landing a sporty salmon.

They have plenty of expert knowledge about commercial fishing through dealing with constituents depending on the industry for a livelihood, but few can claim to flick a fly or watch a bobber.

Fisheries Minister Bertrand, father of a Bill that provides $25,000,000 support for fish prices during the transition period after the war, knows his fish—maskinonge and bass—as a result of years casting the broad Quebec streams. But the only commercial fishing he had actually watched before taking over his portfolio was the line-a-week fishing in Montreal harbor.

The Commons' fisher expert is bespike-playing Tom Reid, Liberal member for the Pacific Coast Fishing constituency of New Westminster. After his bespipes, his love is the study of Pacific Coast fish and their habits.

Perhaps the most practical fisherman is John Kinley, Liberal member for famous Queen-Lunenburg. His father and grandfather were fishermen and he sailed to the Grand Banks himself when he was a youth.

Devastating Raid On Supply Dump Near Laval, France

By JOHN A. MOROSO

London, Aug. 5 — (AP) — A devastating moonlight attack by U. S. 8th Airforce Marauders on ammunition and fuel dumps in De Sille forest 20 miles east of Laval in France, left the depots in flames as Allied air forces began a new day of assaults on the Nazis.

Aided by fine weather, Allied planes from scores of bases sought new and secret pin-pointed targets by daylight while Allied ground forces fanned out over Brittany.

Escorted heavy bombers struck yesterday at targets throughout France and Germany. They smashed airfields at Lille and Achiet; the railway bridge at Etaples; a coastal battery in the Pas-de-Calais area; oil depots at Pauillac and Bec D'Ambres near Bordeaux.

Medium bombers cascaded explosives on railway yards at Montdori and Serqueux, a railway embankment at Pernon, and a concentration of troops south of Amay. Light bombers blew up an ammunition dump near Bordeaux and hit rail targets.

Also under attack were an oil dump at Angers, Seine barges, the Amiens airfield, and locomotives and rolling transport in northern France.

Convicted of Murder On 22 Counts For Setting Fire

San Francisco, Aug. 4 —(AP)— George Holman, 47-year-old Negro cafe proprietor was found guilty last night on 22 counts of murder in the first degree for setting fire to the Rhumboogie Cafe here Amsterdam Hotel March 28.

Twenty-two persons, many of them war workers, lost their lives in the blaze.

The jury, after deliberating 7½ hours, brought in a verdict of guilty on all counts and recommended a life sentence for Holman.

Provisions of War Service Act Are Extended

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—(CP)—Pensions Minister Ilsley announced yesterday an order-in-council extending the War Service Gratuities Issuance Act to include service members of the present war who have suffered disabilities which are not pensionable but which make them unable to earn for themselves.

A statement said their inclusion is on the same terms as apply to veterans of the First Great War.

The order-in-council also brings under the terms of the act men who served both in this and the last war but who did not see service in an actual theatre of war. Under previous provisions only those who were pensioners or who had service in an actual theatre of war could derive benefits under the act.

A third class of veteran also will benefit. These are the men who served in the Northern Ireland district. They previously did not come under the terms of the act, which was restricted to veterans of the First Great War and the South African War.

Under the provisions of the act, monthly payments of $30.41 may be made to a single man and $60.83 to a man and his wife.

Mystery of Rocket Bomb Arouses Facetious Comment

London, Aug. 5 (CP) — A rumor that the Germans had managed to launch a new stratosphere rocket a fortnight ago, but hadn't yet heard from it, moved the Weekly Tribune to speculate facetiously last night how it stopped on another planet and might result in an interplanetary war.

"If the world (hit by the runaway rocket) happens to be inhabited by people who have reached our own level of civilization," said the Tribune, "they may regard it as an act of hostility and be even now getting ready to send us a note about it. Are we therefore on the eve of war between worlds before we have got ourselves tidied up on earth?"

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop for his appetite, me asking a lot of questions and pop answering some and not hearing some on account of being busy smoking and thinking, and I said, It's a lucky thing people's legs have knees in them so they can bend in the middle, isn't it, pop?

It adds grass and security to human construction, there's no doubt of that, pop said If you continue to exercise your constitution, powers of observation, and floorphy you may discover some day that the only practical way to save money is to spend less than you receive, he said.

Being a him that I'm always leaving my allowance run out and asking for more instead of saving some out of it like I'm suppose to, and I said, Well anyways, pop, talking about not bending in the middle, it's a good thing the legs of chairs and tables don't, or lots of things would be on the floor that's been belong there, including people.

How true, and another peculiarity about legs is that there are feet on the end of them, and if you keep up your research work you may even learn to brush your shoes before you go walking with me, so when I meet my friends later they won't ask me who the little hobo was they saw me out with, and I won't be obliged to reply, Why, he was no hobo, that was my son," which may sound like an old vaudeville joke but is really a pathetic fact, pop said.

The result being I quick got off the subject of legs and asked pop if he thought birds consider it a vacation when they fly South, or whether they just feel they're going on a business trip.

Being one of the questions pop didn't answer, proving he was probably too busy thinking about one of his own private subjects.

More Casualties From Robombs

London, Aug. 5 ——(CP) — More of the Germans' flying bomb reached southern England and London in daylight today, after two relatively quiet nights.

Two robots caused damage and casualties in residential areas last night. Five persons were killed when a flying bomb demolished a sub post office and two adjoining cottages.

In one district a fire watcher, alarmed at the nearness of an approaching robot, dived into the river. When he came up, the bomb had exploded.

Last night's casualties fell far short of those from Wednesday night's record barrage. A clear night sky enabled defenders to spot the bombs before they got far inland.

Long lines formed in London's stations last night as bank holiday crowds sought trains to take them to safer spots. The robot attack in daylight yesterday shattered to its lowest point since eight weeks ago.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER FIVE

"It contained nothing but a clipping—the same account of the death of Vera Taylor. The story had been cut from a Santa Ana, California, newspaper. That's where my aunt lives".

"You're frightened again!"

"Taking the two things together, I think I have a right to be."

"Then when I tell you that Miss Ward's background puts her beyond suspicion—"

"Yet, in spite of that".

"I think you're overwrought — that your experiences in Europe, your long weeks of worry about how you were going to get home have done things to your nervous system. What you need is a good rest."

"That's what I intend to get—just as soon as I can get away from her".

"You can rest just as well here as in California".

"I suppose I can, but I want to leave, anyway. First, I'm going to the F.B.I. and tell my complete story".

"They might look you up," you know". Clyde's voice was half jesting.

Organization.

"I realize that, but I'd rather take a chance on them than on some mysterious organization that seems to know every move I make".

"Personally, I'd advise you to forget all about it. Just settle down here and relax completely. A good rest will do you a world of good".

"I can't forget it. I must get word to the F.B.I. This may turn out to be important. Don't you see?"

"I never thought of it that way, but I can see your point. Would you like to have me help you?"

"The girl knew that he could help, and Clyde told her that he had a close friend with the F.B.I. in Chicago.

"Tell you what I'll do—I'll go to him and tell him your story. That is, of course, if you're willing." We'll get his advice on what is best to do. He may have different ideas than we have about handling it".

"I'm very grateful to you, Dr. Clyde. I don't know how I can ever repay you".

"Think nothing of it. I enjoy doing things for very beautiful women—and you'll admit I feel like a knight-errant, going out on my milkwhite steed to help beauty in distress".

The girl laughed, and the tension under which she had been laboring suddenly seemed to leave her.

"There's only one suggestion I have to make", Clyde said.

"Yes?"

"That is to go get here as you started out—coming to be Jeanne Hallard to every one until I get advice from my friend on how he wants you to act. I'm sure that would be his advice right now".

"Yes—if anyone is watching you, as you think, it's better that not a breath of suspicion get out that you plan to do anything but go through with the bargain you made with Madame Cog!"

"I hate appealing under false colors. I hate to advantage of people who have been so kind to me".

"Once I have straightened this out and you can explain to them, I'm sure they will understand and forgive the deception. They'll realize that you have acted entirely from a patriotic motive".

The girl was inclined to argue the point, but finally let herself be convinced. After all, what Dr. Clyde suggested was the only logical thing to do. She had impersonated Jeanne Hallard so far successfully and there was no reason to think she couldn't go on indentitely.

"I'm confident you won't regret it", the professor said when she told him her decision. "Now, suppose I take you back to the house. They'll be wondering what has become of you".

Clyde deliberately talked about other things as they drove to the College, telling several gay little anecdotes about the school that made Jeanne laugh.

She felt completely relaxed, and the shadow of fear that had been hanging over her ever since she had left Lisbon, seemed to have vanished for the first time as they walked from the curb to the door.

Opens Door.

Kay Roberts opened the door for them. Clyde told Jeanne good-by adding that she would hear from him later, and left.

"Well, you and Dr. Clyde seem to have a great deal in common", Kay commented, as she shut the door.

The girl glanced quickly at her. Kay's voice was edged with bitterness and there was a frown on her face.

"Oh, I stopped in town to do a little shopping and Dr. Clyde came along and offered me up in his car", Jeanne explained. "I had intended to walk home. I didn't realize it was getting late".

"You're very considerate for you for fifteen minutes already". Kay answered. "Unless, of course, you're already eaten".

Jeanne said she hadn't, and hurried upstairs to leave her purse and hat. The maid was in her room, turning down the bed.

"Miss Kay on her high horse", Miss Hallard" she inquired.

"Yes—I don't understand it. She doesn't seem to like me".

"She's in love with Dr. Clyde —that's her trouble, Miss. She's jealous of anyone he says five words to".

Dinner was a silent meal. Jeanne busy with her own thoughts and answering questions only in monosyllables. Kay, who ate with her and Miss Marston, scarcely uttered a word.

A burden of conversation fell upon the dean, and she tried bravely to keep up a running fire of small talk, but it developed into a monologue and finally she, too, gave up.

After dinner, Jeanne excused herself on the plea that she wanted to unpack her clothes and get settled.

Miss Marston sat down as her desk to run over some reports while Kay, still in a sullen mood, planted herself in a chair with a magazine. She was restless, however, and soon cast the book aside and wandered over to the window.

Then she went to the radio, tried half a dozen stations and turned it off.

Living Room

Miss Marston cried the girl as she roamed about the living room, and finally spoke to her.

"What's the matter, Kay? You seem very much downcast for some reason".

"It's that Hallard girl, Miss Marston."

"What about her?" I think she's a very nice girl".

Kay shrugged and lighted a cigarette. She knew this annoyed Miss Marston. She dean disapproved of girls smoking and tried to repress it among the students. There was a defiance about her gesture as the dean had never noticed before.

"What about Jeanne, Kay?" she prompted.

The girl stared at the end of her cigarette for several moments.

"I don't like her," she blurted.

"Don't like her? Why you hardly know her!" The woman was obviously astounded.

"I know enough about her to know I don't like her."

"Why, Kay, I think it's silly to make snap judgments like that. It isn't fair—either to Miss Hallard or to yourself. Why don't you like her? Maybe if we talk this over we can get at the bottom of your prejudice and explain it away".

"I don't want to explain it away. I don't like her, and that's that."

Miss Marston frowned.

"It seems to me that you owe me some explanation for a dogmatic statement like that, Kay. After all this is my home as well as yours as long as you want to stay, it's also going to be Miss Hallard's home. I can't have you girls in the house who dislike each other. You can see that."

"Yes—I'm sorry, Miss Marston. I didn't mean to be so blunt."

"But if you honestly feel that way, there must be some reason for not liking her, rather than just a sudden whim? I thought you were going to get along fine together when she first arrived."

"Well—that's all."

"I think she's only making trouble for everyone here. I wish she'd stayed in France!"

"Trouble? What trouble can Jeanne possibly make for anyone here? I don't understand your reasoning."

"She can make plenty of trouble, coming here and upsetting people's lives."

"But how. Kay? You're not talking rationally at all."

"Well, suppose she sets out to break a man's heart. You will admit that Hallard College will go out of existence—it'll all be sold at public auction and scattered to the four winds—" Kay's voice broke in happy laughter.

"That's ridiculous, Kay, and you know it!"

"Isn't it ridiculous about it? Why shouldn't she try to break the trust? She arrived here as I understand it, flat broke. All the money her family had in France—all her possessions are gone. She is the only living heir of Amory Hallard who left millions in trust for this college. Why shouldn't she try to get that money for herself? It's a natural thing for anyone to do!"

Miss Marston laid aside her glasses and addressed the secretary as she would talk to an unruly child.

"Now, see here, Kay, it's positively childish for you to get such ideas into your head. I've never known you to act this way before. You were a brilliant student—we all like you—but we don't seem to be able to reach you on your own — because you had to earn your way through school. That's why I recommended to Dr. Norwood that we make a place for you in the college so you could continue your work and perhaps, in time, become a member of the faculty."

"I'm very grateful to you for all of those things, Miss Marston," the girl answered, snubbing out her cigarette. "I am very grateful to you and Dr. Norwood and Dr. Clyde and all the others who have helped me. That's why it makes me so furious at the thought of someone coming in here and upsetting all our lives."

"You should know first that I believe that Dr. Norwood's secretary. Surely in the time you've been with him, you've been enough the confidential files and learned the facts."

"I have a pretty good room and the same compartment. I feel that this college, thoroughly, and you must believe me when I tell you she is a very nice girl — not at all the mercenary type you apparently imagine her to be."

"Oh, Miss Marston, you are so innocent and naive. You are so good yourself you think everyone else is the same way."

"You forget, my dear, that I've been dean of this college for fifteen years."

Awful Shock

"But you still don't know all that goes on right under your nose. You might get an awful shock if you had a chance to examine the confidential files in Dr. Norwood's office and see some of the things that are there."

"You're just being childish, Kay."

"Oh, am I! And your Dr. Norwood—I know you idolize him — you think he's a great man and a lot of people in this state think he is, too. I've heard about the plans to run him for Senator and even a higher office than that. But he's not as pure as he's painted, I can tell you that."

"And as for breaking the trust you thing it's entirely beyond the realm of possibility, don't you? Well let me tell you that there are some secrets in the files even now that discuss various methods of breaking the trust I'm not the ninny you apparently take me for, Miss Marston".

Miss Marston arose from her chair, a shocked expression on her face.

"I don't believe a word of it", she stated, positively. "I wonder now if I didn't make a mistake recommending you to Dr. Norwood as his confidential secretary. I though you could be trusted, Kay".

The color drained from the girl's face.

"Oh, Miss Marston—I've been a fool. Please forget what I said. I've been feeling stretched all afternoon—I didn't mean a word of it. Of course you'll want to stay on here—you and Dr. Norwood have been so good to me—better than I deserve. Won't you forget those silly things I said? I didn't mean them, really".

"I'll think about it, Kay". Miss Marston's tone was kind although the effect of the girl's thinly veiled treachery was still visible on her face. "You'd better run up to bed now—you are upset".

After Kay had gone to her room, Miss Marston picked up a book and tried to read. But she found the type blurring before her eyes and finally it became meaningless.

With a sigh, she put the book aside and got to her feet. She glanced at the clock on the mantel over the fireplace. "It still wasn't too late—she'd get this problem settled before she went to bed. Then maybe she'd sleep soundly.

There was a light burning in the house and the large one next door occupied by the college president and his family, so she walked around to the front door.

Mrs. Norwood was glad to see her. Yes, the doctor was home —he was in his study, writing a speech he was to deliver at a convention in Chicago in a few days.

"I'm sorry—I won't interrupt, Mrs. Norwood replied.

"Of course it's no bother, Althea". Mrs. Norwood protested. "Dr. Norwood will be glad to see you. If it's something to do about the College, he's never too busy to stop what he's doing. You know that!"

"Well—if you think he won't mind—"

For answer, Mrs. Norwood took the dean's arm in hers and led the way to the study and tapped lightly on the door.

Marston came over to see you, Mark", she called.

"Come right in," Norwood's voice boomed through the panel. "I'm glad of an excuse to stop working". he laughed as the dean apologized for the interruption.

"You know, I've been hearing about and lectured so much I should think that would come easy to you", she said.

Muskmelons And Plums Appear On City Market

Pressing the approach of the season, peaches, plums and muskmelons appeared on the local produce market Saturday for the first time this year. The market was well attended, despite the fact that grain cutting and threshing is the order of the day with a great many farmers.

Shiro and Saunders plums were offered on the market in the first named variety at 30 cents and the latter at 15 cents the quart box. Muskmelons brought from 15 to 20 cents each, according to size.

Tomatoes were freely offered at 25 cents the small basket and $1.25 the large basket, while potatoes sold at 30 cents the peck; $1.60 the bushel and $1.90 the bag. Hundred vegetables were plentiful at regular prices, with vegetable pastes bringing from 10 to 12 cents each. Cucumbers sold at from 40 to 60 cents the six-quart basket, Corn was 35 cents the dozen ears.

A few raspberries continued to be offered at the usual 40 cents the box; huckleberries were 40 cents the quart or $2 the basket. English black currants were 50 cents. Saskatoon berries, 40 cents the quart and 75 cents.

Apples were also freely offered with Duchess and Transparent bringing 75 cents the peck and $2 a bushel to growers.

Attendance was active on the indoor market with eggs being the usual 38 cents for firsts and 36 cents for seconds. Creamery butter, 58 cents the pound.

Chickens were held at forty cents the pound live weight being disposed for a slightly lesser figure.

Very few young fowl were offered, and were bought at $7 each.

The War Today

Driving Hun From Pas-de-Calais Area Main Defence From Robombs

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst.)

Hitler's robot bomb, which is pouring on such death and destruction into London, presents a major problem the solution of which seems to depend on the speed with which the western Allies are able to develop their drive toward Paris and Berlin.

There are two apparent ways in which this devilish weapon can be eliminated. One is to destroy the launching platforms and intangles bombing thus far has failed to turn this trick. The other is to compel the Germans to retreat from the Pas-De-Calais coast opposite Dover and so far-that they will be outside the effective radius of the robot which is about 150 miles.

That brings us back to the swift-developing battle of France, which the Allies start to sweep east and northeast from Normandy, they will outflank the Nazi coastal forces during that are operating the flying bombs. This should cause the Germans to withdraw. Indeed it won't be surprising to see them heading for their inner defenses behind the Maginot and Siegfried lines before long, the way their flighting machine is cracking up.

Elimination of the robot bomb in his becomes one of the prime reasons for speed in the Allied offensive—a speed likely to accelerate rapidly now that the Allies have broken out of the Normadfy peninsula. This fresh bombardment of civilian London can't be brushed aside lightly with the truism that "the British can take it."

Certainly the British can take it, and the Germans can't help their cause by such tactics. Actually Hitler's new weapon is only making it certain that he and his gang will go down in defeat. However, it would be foolish not to recognize the terrible strain which Britain is enduring.

Actor Jackie Cooper Charged with Contributing To Delinquency of Minors

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 5 (AP)— Prosecutor Arthur F. Scheer said Actor Jackie Cooper, star of a recent juvenile delinquency film called "Where Are Your Children?" was one of four persons for whose arrest he has issued charging contribution to the delinquency of minors.

Scheer said the warrants climaxed a two-week investigation of an "all-night party" in three rooms of an hotel here, July 27. The warrants, which the affidavits sworn by Officer Levi Nul of the police department.

To be arrested Scheer said, are Cooper, 31, a navy student at the University of Notre Dame here since last November; George Bender, 24, a relief student; Miss Pauline Frederick, 19, identified in the affidavits as Cooper's companion at the party; and Olis Lowery, a hotel waiter.

Warrants for the arrest of the young actor and Bender will be turned over to the Commanding Officer of the Notre Dame Navy Unit for action, Scheer said. Arraignment will be in St. Joseph County Juvenile Court, he added, explaining that conviction on the charges, misdemeanors under Indiana law, is punishable by a fine of $500 or a prison sentence of six months, or both.

Cooper, who played the role of a young sailor in the recent social-document movie, was charged specifically with contributing to the delinquency of South Bend girls delinquency by supplying her with intoxicants and encouraging her to remain away from home overnight in rooms he engaged at the hotel.

Miss Frederick was charged with contributing to the delinquency of the girl and also a 16-year-old girl by inviting them to the party; Bender with contributing through immoral relations with the younger girl, and Lowery with contributing by serving the party liquor.

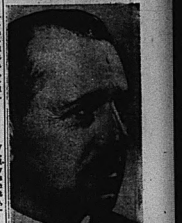
Male Infant Born Without Eyeballs

Palmfield, N.J., Aug. 5 (AP)—The birth of a male infant without eye sockets was announced today by the Muhlenberg Hospital.

It is standard in the hospital said the child, who weighed 8 1-2 pounds, was born in July and was normal in all other respects.

"Even the eyelids were normal," the statement said, but the eye balls were absent."



The statement said: "This is said an unprecedented condition that none of the doctors recall seeing in medical literature and it was stated that there was no surgical procedure which can remedy the defect."

The infant, described by the hospital as "healthy, bright and intelligent," was discharged with its mother at the end of the usual confinement period.

In 1938 the American Medical Association said that the condition was a "monstrosity," uncommon but not rare, the association having approximately 10 cases on record.

The association said many other apparent cases of the disease had been reported, but they proved not to be true cases of anophthalmia because a thorough examination revealed that the eyeballs were present, although hidden.

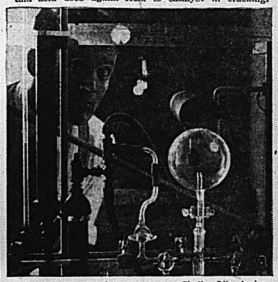
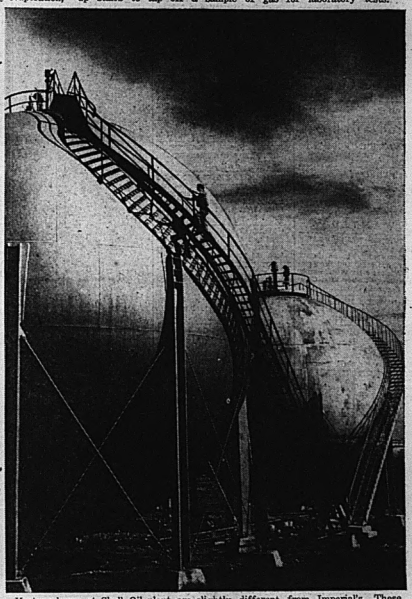
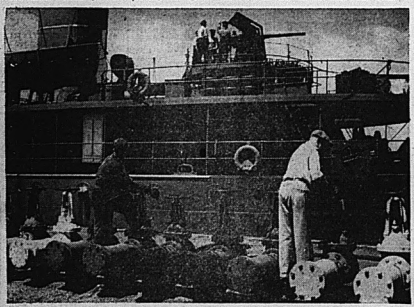
Oil pipeline from Portland, Maine, to Montreal runs approximately 60,000 gallons a day to service four leading Canadian companies. The pipeline extends for 246 miles and is four to five feet underground. Here, manifold control oil flow.



This onion-shaped tank at the Imperial Oil's Montreal East plant is called a Hortonspheroid. Tank is built in this shape to guarantee continued pressure on gas to prevent loss by evaporation, part of the company's own program of gasoline conservation. The small top permits the application of pressure. A worker goes up stairs to tap off a sample of gas for laboratory tests.



Fractionation section columns—cracking plants—where crude oil at a certain temperature is put under a controlled pressure until it actually cracks the molecules which permit the separating of lubrication oils from the fuel oils.



Acid-reclaiming plant, where spent acid is mixed with water to separate oil. Then water is removed and acid used again. Acid is catalyst in cracking.

Infra-red spectrophotometer, a Shell Oil device, tests feed stocks for alkylation plant and proofs samples. Chief chemist E. C. Wilkinson operates it.

Hortonspheres at Shell Oil plant are slightly different from Imperial's. These contain normal butene and butane butylene used in making 100-octane gasoline for aviation. Ordinary car gas was reduced from 80 to 74-76 octane as a war measure.

Gasoline for the fighting fronts is loaded at Montreal aboard an ocean-going tanker. R.C.N.V.R. gun crew practise on the deck. Canada produces only 15 percent of her own petroleum requirements. Over 60 per cent is delivered by ocean tanker.

Loading railway tank cars at Imperial Oil yards in Montreal East. Between forty and fifty cars are loaded daily, shipped to Eastern Canada points.

ALLIED PINCERS CLAMP NAZI DEFENCES OF PARIS

Red Armies Advance to Within 37 Miles of Krakow

Canadians Blast Four Miles Inside Nazi Line at Caen

163 Enemy Tanks Knocked Out By Terrific Aerial Assault

By GLADWIN HILL
(A.P. War Correspondent)

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 8 (AP)—A great Allied pincers clamped German defences guarding Paris today, as the Canadian Army blasted four miles into the stoutest Nazi line south of Caen, and United States armored columns were reported in Le Mans, only 110 miles southwest of the French capital.

The Canadian-American drives edged forward at both ends of a curving 100-mile front, while in the centre elements of Allied forces had smashed a powerful German shield equator-thrust, while Allied planes knocked out 163 enemy tanks.

Canadian Press Correspondent Reed Munro said in a front dispatch today that Canadian infantry and Quebec tanks, leading the first assault wave of Canadian and British units of the Canadian corps, had taken Rouquancourt, 1½ miles southwest of La Camparde, which now is by-passed and under attack from follow-up troops.

Many Fields Captured

Roger D. Greene, Associated Press war correspondent listed as points captured by the Canadians May Sur Orne, St. Martin De Fontenay, Marmion and La Hogue—all on the high ground southeast of Caen where the Canadians have been held up for weeks.

Under the advance along the English Channel Saturday Hull advanced 6,000 yards (about 3.4 miles.)

The front along which the attack is being launched from May Sur Orne eastward about five miles to south of Verrières and Tilly.

Battles still swirled in the middle sector where four German divisions—mounting the fiercest counter-assault since June 6 south to crash through the Allied corridor joining Normandy and Brittany. The town Mortain, swept in the assault was recaptured by American Infantry.

Advance Under Assault

A front dispatch said advanced units of the U.S. offensive to the south—hitting eastward from Mayenne and Laval—had reached Le Mans, communications network forming a key to front.

The 1st. Canadian Army on the Allied left flank drove forward by midnight after a bomb-barrage by 1,000 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers, and hurled back a small enemy defence line south of Caen.

Novel tactics marked the assault. The bombers flew in close ground support for the Army's first infantry, and Canadian artillery tracer shells spotted the targets for them last ahead of the bombers. The Allied planes hurled down 6,700 tons of explosives, and 1,000 American armor rolled forward in the crippled bridgehead area, first night after night attack by tanks in France. Infantrymen followed, digging out the Germans.

The Canadian push was pointed in the direction of the road hub city of Falaise, 20 miles southeast of Caen.

Munro said that British units of the 1st Canadian Army took Germanfilled Secqueville, 1 1-2 miles southeast of Tilly, and St. Aignan De Cremesnil, a mile farther south.

Both British and Canadians gained high ground, and Munro in control of an area "dead in the centre of the German defence position," behind the Falaise highway, Munro said.

First phase of the operation was termed "very successful" by a Canadian officer, Reuter correspondent Charles Lynch reported.

Fighting was reported continuing today in the Secqueville quadrangle north of Mortain, where the Germans pushed forward in their latest counter-attack since the Allies stormed ashore June 6. Mortain, however, was back in American hands.

The American clean-up of the Breton peninsula continued. Tank-infantry teams were within five miles of the big southern naval and submarine base of Lorient. There was no further information about a reported offer of the German garrison there to surrender.

Anniversary Of 'Black Day' Of Huns in 1918

By The Canadian Press

Today is the 26th anniversary of the "black day of the German army" in the First Great War—the day the German High Command decided the war was lost.

On Aug. 7, 1918, Marshal Foch launched his great offensive into the Albert-Montdidier salient in the Somme area sector. Led by 400 tanks, British and French infantry swarmed through the enemy's lines—penetrating up to 7 1-2 miles on a front of 20 miles and taking so many prisoners that war dispatches at the time said Germany was a "difficult task."

The gains that first day of the Allied onslaught were the greatest on the western front since trench warfare began.

It was the beginning of the end.

Field Marshal Erich Von Ludendorff said in his memoirs: "August 8 was the Black Day of the German army in the field (AP)—or the war . . . It put the decline of our fighting power beyond all doubt."

German Field Marshal and Seven Other Officers Hanged, Says Berlin

London, Aug. 8 (CP) — Field Marshal Erwin Von Witzleben and seven other Germany army officers were hanged today, Berlin announced, after a trial in which they confessed participation in the plot to assassinate and overthrow Hitler.

The brought to 16 the announced total of Allied executions in the Berlin-proclaimed plot which culminated in the July 20 bomb explosion at a Hitler headquarters.

Today's executions took place two hours after conclusion of the trial of Von Witzleben (and the seven others, all of whom had been expelled previously from the army.

An official account of yesterday's trial, broadcast by D.N.B. disclosed the alleged plot against Hitler had been "hatching since last summer." Col. Count Claus Von Stauffenberg, and three more by suicide.

TERRIFIC BLOWS STRUCK BY AIR AT GERMAN HINGE

3 Separate Phases In Air Aid Given Eisenhower Armies To South of Caen

MIDNIGHT BOMBING

By AUSTIN BEALMER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 8 (AP) — A thousand American heavy bombers struck a tremendous blow today at the hinge in Normandy lines south of Caen and ranged widely over France attacking air fields and flying bomb installations.

An estimated 1,800 tons of bombs were cast on German lines before the advancing 1st. Canadian Army in the same area pulverized last night by 1,000 British and Canadian heavy bombers which dropped 3,000 tons of bombs. About 600 American planes participated in this action.

Some 400 others beat up airfields at Romilly sur Seine, 55 miles southeast of Paris, and at Le Vervier, northwest of Rouen. They also struck at airforms from which robot bombs are hurled at England.

Up to 750 fighters escorted the American bombers.

The attack last night by the R.A.F.'s Lancasters constituted their first operation in darkness in close support of ground forces.

In the early morning midnight, the big bombers dumped an estimated 6,000 tons of explosives on heavily certified points in the area of May Sur Orne and Tilly La Campagne on the east end of the Caen-Falaise road.

Midnight Bombardment

The midnight bombardment formed one of three separate phases in aerial support given Gen. Eisenhower's advancing armies.

The first two phases, in which Allied airmen dealt hard blows to Germany's transport and supply, were:

British rocket-firing Typhoons and fighter bombers teamed with American fighter-bombers and escorted out at least 163 tanks in repeated blows against a concentrated attack on the Avranches corridor.

The American "heavy bombers, fighters and fighter-bombers ranged over France from end to end, striking German transport centres and supply centres.

In the Brittany sector, the British 2nd. Tactical Air Force destroyed 36 and damaged a large number.

All operations over France yesterday and last night totalled more than 4,000 offensive sorties.

Heavy concentrations created close behind the German lines as bombers and fighters attacked ten major transportation targets and 11 major fuel dumps. Fighter-bombers destroyed or damaged 131 locomotives. 532 railroad cars and 180 motor vehicles.

British Mosquitos hit railroads and motor transport dumps further behind the battle area. They bombed and shot up 25 trains, one of which was set on fire and another derailed at Paris to Dieppe, Chalons, and Nevers.

At least 20 enemy planes were downed in combat yesterday and last night, while Allied losses were 21 planes.

KING TO CONTEST P. A. RIDING IN NEXT ELECTION

Prime Minister Honored at Dinner Marking 25th Year As Liberal Leader

ELECTION AFTER WAR

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 8 —(CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King today stood committed to again contesting the riding of Prince Albert in the general election which, he said Monday night, will not be held until after the war, but will come before there is necessity of extending the life of parliament which expires next April.

In an address made at a dinner marking the 25th anniversary of his leadership of the Liberal Party Mr. King devoted only a few sentences to the current political situation.

He recalled that he had given assurance the life of parliament would not be extended and that he would not call an election during the war. He said he intended to keep both pledges.

Those who had supported him in Prince Albert would have the opportunity to support him again whether or not the going was to be as rough as some had predicted.

The audience which Mr. King addressed jammed two large hotel dining rooms and overflowed into corridors. He spoke from a platform backed with a life-sized full-length photograph of himself. In front of him was a portrait bust of himself, presented by the members of the Senate and Commons to the National Liberal Federation and a silver statuette of himself and his dog "Pat" which he received personally.

Many Tributes Paid

Apart from his brief election reference Mr. King's address was one in appreciation for the support and friendship of his followers—feelings he expressed with marked emotion.

For more than two hours Mr. King had listened to tributes to his leadership and statesmanship.

He spoke with humility of the reverses.

"What you have been listening to is a record of poor performance, not of mine," he said opening his address which lasted about an hour.

His voice seemed near the breaking point when he spoke of the deepness with which speakers had touched his heart.

Beck, former chief of the German general staff, committed suicide, Berlin said, after frustration of the conspiracy. Berlin announced earlier that Gestapo executioners accused officers — four by execution July 20 —

SAYS HIMMLER ASSASSINATED, GOERING WOUNDED

No Confirmation of Report Made by Newly-Captured Intelligence Officer

CLAIMS NEW OUTBREAK

By ROGER D. GREENE
(A.P. War Correspondent)

On the British Front in France, Aug. 8 (AP) — A newly captured German intelligence officer asserted today that Heinrich Himmler, German police chief and S.S. chief, has been assassinated and that Reichsmarshal Herman Goering was wounded in a new outbreak against the Nazi hierarchy.

(There was no confirmation of this report. The officer's report was based on second-hand information and therefore is subject to reservation. In this connection, the BBC said today a German broadcast by Himmler, apparently recorded before the alleged assassination, declared they could corroborate the assertion of the intelligence officer.

"We heard that (Marshal Erwin) Rommel was wounded in the head by bomb fragments on the Normandy front, but was recovering," one of the Austrians said. "The best news came Sunday when we heard that Himmler had been killed and that Goering was wounded in the attack on Himmler."

British officers first heard the story of the alleged assassination from the Austrians. A German Intelligence officer, who had been kept apart from the Austrians:

"I suppose Himmler is stronger than Hitler these days?"

"Himmler number is dead," the Nazi intelligence officer asserted. "He was assassinated. I heard it at my headquarters Sunday. All our officers are talking about it."

SNAKE COMES IN DRINKING REFERENCE LESSON

Chattanooga, Aug. 8 —(AP)—The text from Proverbs said strong drink "biteth like a serpent," but Sunday School teacher W. C. Colwell hadn't counted on such a graphic illustration. As he reached that point in the lesson to his Jones Memorial Methodist class of youngsters, an 18-inch snake slithered through the ground level window and into the downtown classroom. It was trampled to death in the general exodus.

COUNTER-ATTACK BY NAZIS CRUSHED AT EVERY POINT

Americans Are Bending Back German Line East and North In Direction of Paris

FIGHTING FLUID

By WES GALLAGHER
(AP War Correspondent)

With the U.S. 1st Army In France, Aug. 8. (AP)—Field reports all down today indicated that the German counter - attack between Mortain and Avranches in the middle front has been crushed by crack American division and Allied planes.

On the front from newly-captured Vire to Mayenne, which includes the area of the German push, LL-Gen. Bradley's attack is pounding the life out of the biggest Nazi counter-attack to date, and tonight the German line back east and north in the direction of Paris.

Front dispatches from Brittany there is no such thing as a line. Fighting there is extremely fluid.

Striking east and south are forces from Avranches and Fougeres, armored cars speeding across hundreds of miles of paved highway at a top speed of 60 miles an hour, shooting up German forces where ever they are found and then speeding on again.

Receding Defences.

Deeper in the peninsula, heavier armored and infantry columns are reducing Nazi defence points like five major ports of Nantes, St. Nazaire, Lorient, Brest and St. Malo. Once these are cleared the can regroup and turn east and north and then the Nazi fat may really be in the fire.

A drive of more than 300 miles across Brittany and Normandy can be accomplished, observers say, that Hitler's forces in France—shattered and disillusioned—will be caught in the staggering ropes of discipline and that only a few days will punch may knock the fight out of them for good.

Terrain of Reinforcements.

The German army has been grinding division from every part of France and Europe trying to stem the tide. Seemingly the best they can hope to do is to hold a few strong points in the middle of the line and enough divisions to try a solid line such as Brussels-Paris-Dijon in Normandy July 2.

Worse still from the point of view of the Germans is the fact that the German soldier, except in isolated instances, has no will to put up a stiff fight.

Reds Grip Five Routes Leading to Czechoslovakia

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

Moscow, Aug. 8 — (AP)— A new eruption of Red Army attacks which captured more than 60 communities beyond the enemy's broken Vistula river defences threatened today to strangle German communications between Krakow and Warsaw in the heart of Poland.

Hitting with a fresh yesterday from the Vistula bridgehead Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine army reached points 30 miles west of the river, Soviet Field Dispatches said.

Thrusting beyond newly-occupied Sandomir, the Russians directly menaced Kielce, a railway junction 25 miles to the northwest. The direction of the drive raised the possibility the Red army troops might outflank Krakow on the north.

Last reports placed Soviet columns within 37 miles of Krakow, last big Nazi bastion before German Silesia, now 75 to 90 miles away.

Twin Russian Victories.

Moscow's guns sounded last night for twin victories—the fall of the oil centre of Borysław in the Carpathians, and the capture of Sambor, communications hub which will give the Russians a grip on five routes leading into nearby Czechoslovakia.

Borysław, available in London indicated that through capture of Borysław the Russians had regained some 2,000 Galician oil wells which had been feeding the Nazi war machine. The Germans have left only the Ploesti fields in Rumania, which have been repeatedly bombed by Allied warplanes.

Far to the north three powerful Soviet armies kept a fast-moving movement of German East Prussia along a 60-mile front. Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's 3rd Baltic army—bent back against Baltic army—bent back against Lithuania in Lithuania in two drives toward Memel and Tilsit, key East Prussian cities His troops captured 50 towns and villages, including Kalnkemen, 12 miles east of the Baltic port of Memel.

Bagramian's troops, who last week plunged to the Baltic coast at Memel, 30 miles to the north as 20 miles yesterday in this new surge toward Tilsit.

35 Miles to Tilsit.

To the south the capture of 40 communities, including Andrusaicai, announced yesterday, put other Red Army troops 35 miles from Tilsit and Memel.

The latest Soviet communique made no mention of the drive to capture the East Prussian border where Gen. D. Chernikhovsky's 3rd White Russian Army has been meeting strong resistance. The fall of a new army headquarters in southern border by Gen. C. V. Sokolovsky's 1st Russian Army which captured Knyaszyn, 15 miles to northeast of Bialystok, and 35 miles to the southwest.

Rev. G. G. Wright Dies Suddenly Sunday Night

Rector of Christ Church For Past 12 Years Suffers Coughing Spell

57 YEARS OLD

Suffering a severe coughing spell last Sunday afternoon, which apparently affected his heart, Rev. George Gillespie Wright, M.A., Rector of Christ Church, died at the Rectory, Everett Street, shortly after ten o'clock the same evening. His sudden demise was a real shock to the congregation to which he was held in high regard. Mr. Wright had just returned from a month's vacation, during which time he conducted services of Christ Church and St. Thomas Church on Sunday morning and was in the best of health. Shortly after five o'clock he commenced a coughing spell, which grew steadily worse and Dr. A. E. Miles was called.

A Fine Citizen

In the death of Rev. G. G. Wright, Belleville has lost a fine citizen and Christ Church a rector who was well loved by the congregation. He came to Belleville twelve years ago and since that time has worked faithfully for the parish and for the community at large. He took an active part in the Ministerial Association as well as in the greater work of the Diocese of Ontario. He was a member of the Belleville Rectory Hub Committee and of the Diocesan Council for Social Service. He took an interactive on the corporation for Trinity College. He was a member of the Synod and member of the council for social service of the General Synod.

Rev. G. G. Wright was an active member of the Kil Cross Society and also the Children's Aid Society besides taking an active part in other community enterprises. He was a member of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club and also was keenly interested in sports especially among the school-aged boys in the city.

Born at Cryaler

The late Mr. Wright was born at Cryaler, Ontario, 57 years ago, being the son of Henry Wright and the late Elisa Gillespie, after receiving his early education he entered Trinity College, graduating with a B.A. Degree in 1911. He was ordained a Deacon of the Anglican Church in the same year and the following year was ordained a Priest at Ottawa. He served as rector at Carleton Place and Almonte and before being appointed rector of Christ Church 12 years ago. During the war of 1914-18 Wales he became a member of the Masonic Lodge and was a faithful attendant at meetings in this city.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Charlotte Eastlake Dykes, His father, William Henry Wright, Ottawa; one son, L. Cpl. William Wright, R.C.A.F., overseas; five daughters, Frances of Montreal; Marion, Officer Training, R.C.A.F., (W.D.) Winnipeg; Ruth, recently of Sillsville; Mary and Jean at home. Also two sisters, Mrs. Clara Casselman and Miss Maidie Wright, both of Ottawa.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Retired French Teacher is Type Of Patriots Who Resisted Hun

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

Mont Roualt, Brittany, Aug. 8 (CP Cable)—In France today are many examples of patriots who in their humble way have kept alive the flame of resistance and typical of these is 54-year-old Georges Roulet, who in the city of Lorient worked for victory there has been an exceptionally sad day and an exceptionally proud day.

The sad day was when he had to bolster up the courage of his wife the little town of Mont Roualt four years ago last June 6th.

The happy day was Aug. 1 when he saw a small group of American soldiers entering the town.

Roulet is a tall, red-faced retired school teacher who walks with the help of a cane, since he lost his right leg on the Marne in 1914. He is known as a great patriot in this part of France, for the falls in the Allies never faltered during four years of occupation.

I asked him what he'd done to bolster up the courage of the population to earn such a reputation as a patriot.

He considered his most important piece of work was going around to neighboring villages handing out copies of clandestine newspaper or underground sheet.

"It came to me mysteriously," he said, "sometimes in a letter, sometimes a Paris postmark. Sometimes it came from Brussels or Geneva. Sometimes the envelope bore marks of having been opened, but it must have left the control branch." I was bothered by the military or Gestapo.

"I had plenty of time, on my hands, and I went from house to house asking my contacts not to lose hope and to place their faith in the coming invasion."

"I also encouraged young men to join the Maquis and French England to join the De Gaulle forces."

WHEEL RUNS OFF; CAR HITS WINDOW

A rather unique accident occurred on Coleman St. Sunday when a motor car, owned by Mrs. Gordon E. Roolin, crashed into the front window of the cake shop conducted by Arthur Sills. The accident came about when the right rear wheel of Mr. Coulter's car became loosened in some manner and fell off on the street, throwing the vehicle out of control. The matter of restitution for damages resulting was speedily arranged to the mutual satisfaction of all.

TURKEYS, CHICKENS STOLEN FROM PENS

Apparently some people have an eye to the future. The future being either their Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner.

The reason for this statement will be evident when the average newsreader learns a number of turkeys, chickens and geese were reported stolen in Belleville during the holiday weekend.

Nick Chrysanth, 35 East Moira St., complained to police he had lost eighteen turkeys. He was discovered fully fattening at home, stolen from his poultry pen some time over the weekend.

Kenneth Murphy, who resides at 37 Cemetery Rd., told police chicken thieves had successfully made off with several fat hens during the evening the same period. Police initiated their enquiry to solve the case the latter case after investigations had been opened.

YOUNG PURSE-SNATCHER OPERATING IN CITY

What is believed to have been a case of the youthful purse snatcher in the history of Belleville has come to the attention of the city police over the holiday weekend. Betty Jeanette Wood, 15 South Church St., told police she was walking along Pinnacle St. when a small boy crashed up behind her and after snatching her purse ran hastily down a cross-street. Constable Rushlow informed the authorities the description was absolutely youthful robber wasn't more then eight or nine years of age, judging by the quick pace he obtained of the fleeting lad.

WANDERING DOGS ARE IMPOUNDED

Two dogs were found wandering at large on city streets over the weekend and Chief Parr in the confines of the city dog pound, Dog-gone Acres, 1 mile East of Belleville. One of the animals is a female Boston bull that was found on Cemetery Street, while the other is a fine female black Cocker Spaniel puppy found on Peter St. Neither dog had a collar or dog tag to establish ownership.

POLICE COURT

"Maybe the holiday spirit still prevails. Or else the court could afford to be charitable," suggested Charles A. Payne, K.C., when addressing the post-holiday city police court on behalf of a client before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd today.

"It seems to me there are too many people who disregard the instructions of police officers and actually get themselves into more trouble," commented Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C. in rebuttal.

This all came about when Pte. Sergt. Stanley McKee, Deseronto R.C.A.F. base, appeared on a charge of drunk driving, reckless driving and failure to stop and following which Mr. Payne explained his client was on a special furlough and so would be deprived of if convicted. With this complaint Mr. Donnan His Worship dismissed the border-line case, but not before warning the court his decision was not to be interpreted. McKee admitted a charge of failing to produce his driver's licence and was assessed one dollar and costs.

Two Holloway motorists, Don Gifford and Vern Dickey, paid ten dollars and costs after admitting charges of speeding. They paid their fines prior to the court, but police warned that the counts arose out of speeding or racing motor vehicles. "This practice of speeding on city streets must be curbed," warned Deputy Chief Sandercock.

A charge and conviction of careless driving against Thomas Drummond of 7.0 in all while Harold Masterson paid $33.00, including costs after being convicted on a second offence of intoxication. Other minor L.C.A. counts concluded the day's court.

POLICE BLOTTER

While cycling around Victoria Park over the holiday, Mary Deschuhie, 86 Station Street, was attacked and bitten by a dog, she reported to police. Fortunately the wound was not of a serious nature. Complaining that a bicycle had been stolen from the front lawn of 1038 model Dodge-sedan bearing Ontario license plates number 81-A-5 yesterday.

Activities Routine.

Police activities were rather routine over the Civic Holiday period, no serious crime being reported in Belleville and environs. A Trenton taxi cab operator, Isaac Cook was hit over the head by one of two passengers and his motor vehicle stolen Saturday night. Later Provincial Police arrested Dean Sommerville and Evata Jones, Murray township farm boys, and lodged them in the Campbellford lockup charged with attacking Cook and taking his car.

Speeders Summoned.

Speeders, who repeatedly use city streets for race tracks may find themselves in more serious trouble in the future. Three of these motor-

REV. J. B. HUNTER AGAIN IN PULPIT

Lt.-Col. Hunter In Chaplain Service for Four and Half Years

Lt.-Col. Rev. J. Bruce Hunter, who has been a chaplain for four and a half years, in which he served as Senior Chaplain at Military District No. 3, and overseas at No. 2 D. No. 3, Kingston, and who also served for four years as a chaplain in the Great War and was in France under Colonel J. L. Ralston, has entered the pastorate as minister of Westminster-Central United Church, Bloor St. and Toronto, preaching for the first time Sunday morning.

Over the Geneva Gown he wore the insignia of the Chaplaincy with the ribbons of the Military Cross and service decorations of the two wars.

He preached on Heb. 12.27 "that those things which cannot be shaken may remain which he outlined: Belief in God; 2. The Divinity of Personality and 3. the Coming of the Kingdom of God. He said the Christian Church had been so occupied with the machine that it had lost sight of the thing itself.

In a challenging conclusion he declared that: "Salvation of the individual is impossible in a world more spiritual and more dedicated to the Kingdom of God."

The service was described by the new minister as "Recommencement as some years ago Dr. Hunter had been the minister of Central Presbyterian Church, now united with Westminster congregation. He announced that Dr. Hugh Kirkpatrick, the retiring pastor, who is Secretary of the Board of Christian Education Secondary Schools of the United Church, would continue to be associated with the congregation.

Dr. Hunter has been minister of several of the larger churches of its across Canada, including the Metropolitan Church, London Conference of which he was President, the Canadian Church, Montreal, Toronto, and for seven years, St. James United Church, Montreal.

Mrs. Hunter is the former, Hetty Frances Bell, daughter of the late Judge, a daughter, Margaret, who graduated from Bishop's College, Lennoxville, employed at the C. I. L., Montreal.

Dr. Hunter will not be formally inducted in his new charge until the first week in September owing to the absence of Church officials on holidays, but will begin his year in succession Westminster-Central is holding Union Church service at Bell Road Baptist Church for ten weeks.

50th Tug Built by Central Bridge Company Launched In Presence of Cabinet Ministers

Hon. C. D. Howe, Hon. Angus MacDonald and Hon. Humphrey Mitchell Attend Trenton Ceremony

COMPANY PRAISED

Tribute to the Central Bridge Company of Trenton and to its 300 odd workers for the splendid job done in building Invincible tugs for the British Ministry of War Transport was paid by three Canadian cabinet ministers and other celebrities on Saturday during the launching of the 50th tug to be built by the Trenton company.

Present at the launching ceremony were Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of Munitions and Supply; Hon. Angus MacDonald, minister of Naval Affairs; Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of Labor; H. P. Murphy, deputy minister of Public Works, and Neil McLean, fish controller. The party, including Mr. Howe's son, John, flew in from Ottawa in a special R.C.A.F. Canso Air Station shortly after three o'clock, where they were met by officials of the local company and taken on an inspection tour of the company plant prior to the launching ceremony. Mr. George Elliott, general superintendent of Central Bridge Company and Mr. Alec Hill, president, accompanied the official party on the tour of the plant, where they saw invasion tugs in various stages of construction. The 50th Tug Launched.

But the high point of interest for the many company workers and hundreds of Trenton citizens was at the actual slide of the launching at the ceremonial platform at Trenton's Bridge Company on the banks of the Trent River. Here was built the huge flagged tugs in the harbor, spectators on the Trenton County Bridge overlooked by Mayor Harry Cory of Trenton and saw the 50th tug of the series and 300 launched from the flat car, which transported it to the water's edge from the company plant. The Trenton R. C. A. Band played the National Anthem before and after the ceremony.

Company Praised

Speaking briefly during the ceremony, Hon. C. D. Howe, said the success of the Central Bridge Company, indicating three cabinet ministers being present, the wealth was unique in Canada.

The reason the three ministers being here today is because of the successful operation of the Central Bridge Company, he said. Every one has this company failed to make a delivery on schedule, and quality of work has met with highest approval, and they have never had a labor dispute."

Already having completed fifty tugs, the Trenton company would be awarded a contract for 25 more and due to the splendid record made by the company, Mr. Howe intimated the possibility of a further contract of another 25 tugs, he said.

"Too little has been said about the small shipyards of Canada," continued the minister. "They have contributed splendidly to small craft construction, the type of craft which has done yeoman service in helping to win the war. Many of the builders of these small craft goes Canada's biggest trades and unions."

Papers Presented to Minister

A point of interest during the ceremony was the presentation of the papers to Hon. Humphrey Mitchell. Mr. Howe by a plant electrician, Miss Lorna Hall. Mr. Howe in turn presented the papers to H. P. Murphy, member of the British Ministry of War Transport.

Minister of Naval Affairs, Angus MacDonald also praised the work of Central Bridge. They are always on time and have shown splendid workmanship in their product, he said.

Referring to the value of the little ships and the work they were doing in the war, Mr. MacDonald declared it was not the big ships but the little ships, which saved England at the most critical period of the hour. He referred to the evacuation of the British Army from Dunkirk.

Land for Prisoners

Minister of Labor, Humphrey Mitchell indicated that he was amazed to see ships being built inland by people not familiar with water for launching. He referred to the part of Canadian Prisoners in adapting themselves quickly to new jobs and the efficiency of women in filling a man's place in the factory and workshop.

"Without the assistance of our women we couldn't win this war," he said. "Men and women work jeopardy, our women took their place shoulder to shoulder and with their shoulder to the industrial front. Women have also licked in the air and on the seas".

That same ingenuity and resourcefulness which has been shown on the industrial front and on the battle fronts will be found in Prisoners Canada for the post war period and will be needed in great measure when our boys return from overseas".

Master or ceremonies for the program following the launching was the company president, Alec Hill, who gave a brief history of Central Bridge Company. He said that they would applaud the efficiency, which the tugs were being launched every four days.

Greater Relief for Medical Expenses Announced for Income Taxpayers

Army Speeds Expansion of Hospital Accommodation for War Casualties

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 8 — (CP) — Greater relief will be given to taxpayers for the income taxpayer with heavy medical expenses, members of the Commons were informed yesterday by Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley.

Mr. Abbott said that on future income tax returns medical expenses exceeding more than four per cent of gross income may be deducted from the taxable income. Previously, expenses totalling more than five per cent could be deducted.

The maximum deduction for such expenses has been increased from $400 to $600 in the case of a single man and from $600 to $900 in the case of a married man. Maximum deduction for medical expenses on each child has been increased to $150.

Mr. Abbott said the change was decided upon after government had considered representations received from persons both in the Commons and outside. The first discussion was made after the budges was brought down and after the House had adopted a resolution to the bill amending the war income tax act. The bill was given second reading and put partially through committee.

Delaying the income tax bill occupied the afternoon sitting of the House, which at its earlier meeting discussed hospital accommodation for returning war casualties.

Percy Black (PC — Cumberland) urged that a change be made in the method of dealing with private companies. He felt it was unfair for the publicly-owned Ontario and Quebec hydro systems to be exempt from income tax while private companies had to pay such taxes.

Talk on the hospital accommodation for war casualties was started by Dr. H. A. Bruce (PC — Toronto Parkdale) who moved a motion that the House adjourn to discuss the matter. He said he would take upon himself action in a two minute statement in which Premier George Drew of Ontario described the hospital situation as "critical."

Pensions Minister Mackenzie, Defence Minister Ralston and Navy Minister Macdonald assure the House that accommodation was being done to make sure there was no shortage of room for the wounded returning from the battle fronts.

Dr. Bruce said that because of the inadequate hospital accommodation men who had lost arms or legs and still were in need of treatment were being given leave to their homes to provide beds for stretcher cases immediately available. Because of the lack of adequate hospitalization, he said, a considerable many serious cases have failed to receive the required prompt and adequate treatment.

He said when questioned by Col. Ralston that he could not give any specific instance of a man being sent away from hospital while still in need of treatment to make room for someone else.

Ralston Tells of Expansion Plans

Col. Ralston said the army was expanding the accommodation of its hospital accommodations.

"Every possible pressure is put on the situation to see that there is no possible lack of accommodation for all the army is concerned for any number of casualties which can reasonably be expected to come," he said.

The number of casualties arriving in Canada had increased due to the opening of the front in Normandy, the evacuation of Canadian casualties from areas in England that were within the robot bomb target areas, and the increased hospital ship accommodation.

A native of Hastings County, Mrs. Reid was in her 82nd year. Succession of Thurlow 80 years ago, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Moore. She had resided in Thurlow Township for 50 years and a member of Carmel United Church. Her husband, the late Wellington Reid, predeceased her some time ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Reginald Sine, of Foxboro, and Mrs. John Parliament, Rich. Concession of Thurlow Township.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Patterson, with interment being made at Reid's cemetery.

MRS. MARY DORA DAFOE

Mrs. Mary Dora Dafoe, 54 South George Street, widow of the late George E. Dafoe, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, 6th, following a short but severe illness.

Born in South Fredericksburgh township, Mrs. Dafoe was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Post and had resided in Belleville for the past nine years, coming here from Fredericksburgh. Her husband predeceased her in Sept., 1942.

Surviving are three daughters Mrs. Thos. Munro and Mrs. Fred Dimock of Bellefonte and Mrs. Mackey Storms of Oshawa; and four sons, Ernest A. Dafoe, Clarence Dafoe, Clarence Frederick Dafoe, and William Stewart Dafoe, all of this city. There is also one sister, Mrs. John Potts of Winnipeg, and one brother Fred Post of Toronto, Manitoba.

Funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this issue.

Late W. H. 'CAP' ROSS

Drowned last Friday afternoon in the Bay of Quinte, the body of Wentworth "Cap" Ross, Charles Street, was recovered early Sunday morning. When found floating on the water only a few yards from where he had last been seen. Coroner Dr. Ponton was called on the case and the Identification was announced by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, that an inquest would be unnecessary.

Born 67 years ago in Cowansville, Quebec, Mr. Ross was the son of late Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Ross. For the past 14 years he had resided in Belleville, where he was interested in the Canadian Marconi Telegraphs in the local district. A veteran of the Great War and a member of the 1st Canadian Tank Corps. He was a member of the Methodist Church and the Masonic Order.

Surviving are four brothers W.

NOT A NIGHT'S SLEEP SINCE DOGS CAME

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Nearby residents declare that when the "world's finest doghouse," a marble-floored formic public bath, was dedicated by the A.S.P.C.A. before an important item was overlooked—soundproofing.

Yesterday 190 wrathful women complained in Bronx magistrate's court that the neighborhood hasn't had a good night's sleep since the dogs began to bark after the shelter was opened last July 19.

Once the pride of the rails, this modern streamlined French locomotive, in peace-time, hauled crack Continental trains. It was used by the Germans during the occupation of France until blasted by Allied bombs in the railway yards at Vaucelles, Canadian engineers (Canadian Army Overseas Photo.)

Toronto (CP) — Men's clothes change little year by year in civilian life, but five years of war have greatly modified both the materials and appearance of the flying togs of Canada's airmen. The R.C.A.F. has a special committee in aviation medical research that experiments constantly to improve the practicability of clothing.

Research work is concentrated in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa due to the comparative smallness of personnel. Developments are tried out on operational stations throughout the Dominion, and after sufficient testing go into production.

Sqdn. Leader J. R. Thompson, Medical Intelligence Officer at Ottawa emphasized that the work of scientists and research workers, not only in clothing, but in many other particulars was of double-barrelled importance.

First the war has to be won, but in future all the inventions for the safety and comfort of fliers will have direct application to peace-time aviation for which Canada has thousands of trained airmen to draw upon and in which she occupies such a unique geographical position.

Variations in temperature and pressure between the earth's surface and an altitude of 25,000 feet complicate the functional requirements of clothing. Once an airman leaves the ground he is equipped for that particular flight no matter what he is going to do or where or how he is going to do it.

Thus the physiological and physical aspects of clothing are extremely important for a flier who may take off at a temperature of 90 degrees and experience 40 below zero before he lands.

Related to Thickness

Warmth is directly related to thickness and any part of a flier's clothing that is warm will tend to be less effective against cold. A navigator bending over his chart will flatten the bulk of fabric under his forearm. Aviation clothing must have high resistance to compression.

Special aviation research found the answer by developing double pile wool fabrics that pile on both sides of a single ply of material. Made of Canadian wool and used as an interlining in flying suits it retains and recovers well its compression.

For flights over the North Atlantic or the Indian Ocean, for low level strafing or high level bomber flights aviation clothing must be tested for wind and water resistance, wearing and for bursting strength, warm and protection from flash burns.

Helmets not only protect the head but carry earphone, microphones and oxygen masks. When pressure aviation research increased the efficiency of the mask a tighter fitting helmet was required. Exhaustive head measurements — 18 on each of 1,000 air crew, were reduced to six standard sizes. Service tests results in the production of a tighter, more compact, and at the same time more efficient and comfortable helmet.

It is interesting to note that the loss of Malaya and its great rubber resources had repercussions on the ear "bun" of the R.C.A.F. helmet. Within the bun is the telephone of the inter-communication system. Insulated against noise with weighted rubber, a whole new series of experiments had to be undertaken to adapt rubber substitutes.

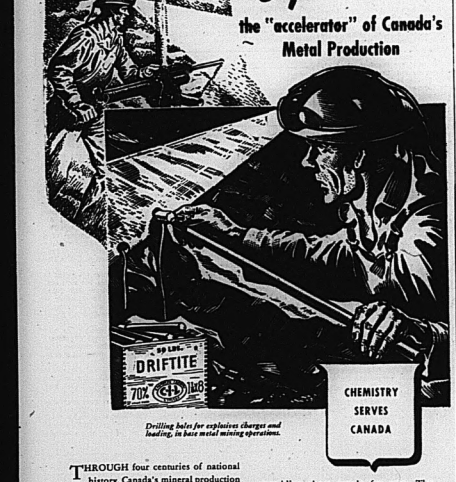
NO ONE INJURED

Toronto, Aug. 5 (CP)—Canadian Pacific Steamships officials today stated no one was injured when the passenger steamship Manitoba collided with the Canada Steamship Co. freighter Mariposa in a fog off Isle Parisienne in Whitefish Bay, Friday night. Whitefish bay is at the eastern end of Lake Superior.



The Manitoba, travelling under her own steam to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., officials said, Sunday, after cargo has been removed, she will leave for Owen Sound and Port Mc-Nicoll.

Drilling holes for explosives charges and loading, in base metal mining operations.

THROUGH four centuries of national history, Canada's mineral production has steadily grown. Today, in the fifth year of the war, the magnitude of this industry has assumed world-wide importance. Canada is the world's largest exporter of base metals.

Night and day, since the beginning of war, these essential metals have poured forth in ever increasing quantities. Production in Nickel is up 17.2%, Iron ore 54%, Zinc 43.5% and Magnesium 65,000%.

Canada has played an important role in providing these metals for war. The Dominion supplies the United Nations with 15% of their copper, 16% of their lead, 18% of their zinc, 95% of their nickel and 40% of their aluminum. These figures are impressive because they indicate that for the first time in our national history, Canada has become a world power in base metal production.

Explosives to speed the production of base metals is another Product of Industrial Chemistry which serves Canada in war and peace.

Legionnaires Visit Marmora Branch No. 237

Marmora — District Commander George Limbert and Zone Commander Bob Hotrum, both of Peterboro, accompanied by a number of Peterboro Legionnaires, officially visited Marmora Branch, No. 237, Canadian Legion at a special meeting held in the Council Chamber on Thursday evening. President T. E. Pritchard was in the chair and at his request the District Commander opened the meeting. After he had done so, he expressed his pleasure at meeting the Marmora comrades and intimated that it was his desire to visit all branches in his territory before his tenure of office expired. The Zone Commander followed with a short address in which he urged the members to work hard for an increased membership.

The District Commander then gave his address proper. He summarized what the Legion had accomplished for the returned men, what it was doing at the present time through its war services...its educational concerns for those in the services upon their discharge and its rehabilitation plans. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speakers and also the visiting comrades for turning out.

Reverting back to branch business it was decided to hold the annual Decoration on Sunday, August 20th. and Rev. E. M. Cadigan of St. Andrew's United Church, is to be asked to give the address. Prospects were mentioned of a band being secured. A committee was named to procure flowers and to look after the marking of the graves.

The Zone Commander introduced the matter of a zone picnic and asked that after due consideration, the opinion of the local branch on the matter be communicated to him.

After the National Anthem had been sung refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed by the comrades of the two branches.

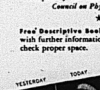
ZENITH made history in the United States by bringing a fine quality, precision Radionic Hearing Aid for the first time within reach of all. Selling for $40 complete, it revolutionized the cost of hearing in the States. Now that same instrument is available direct by mail to Canada's hard of hearing—at $40 complete (Canadian currency) with no additional charge for transportation, duties and taxes!

How Can $40 Buy This Fine Precision Quality? Because mass production makes possible far greater precision than small production, at the same time lowering costs. Zenith world leadership in precision mass production . . . Zenith experience in the manufacture of radionic hearing aids exclusively . . . lowered the cost of the portable radio from $200 to $29 for a better radio. Now Zenith does it again—this time for the hearing aid!



A parallel of Zenith's achievement is the modern automobile and fine watch. The watch you carry is a precision mass production product. Otherwise it would cost you ten times as much and not be as accurate. Through precision mass production Zenith has, in fact, brought you an even finer hearing aid for $40!

You Can Fit It Yourself! Directions Included! You can buy the Zenith by mail because it's built to an improved, modern principle of INSTANT PERSONAL ADJUSTMENT. Simple, complete instructions sent with each instrument show you how to fit it yourself, how to "focus" it for your individual needs—for different voices and surroundings—as easily as you focus a pair of binoculars.

Thus, with the Zenith, there's no need for frequent adjustments by high-pressure salesmen. And Zenith's direct method of sale eliminates the need for special sales, bonus calls and other expensive "trimmings." You get the benefits of a fine, precision hearing aid at about ¼ the cost of other quality vacuum tube instruments!

Satisfaction Guaranteed—or Your Money Back! There's no longer any reason for you to put off enjoying all the benefits of good hearing. Your new Zenith will arrive promptly.

Only Zenith Gives You All These Great Advantages

1 New Neutral-Color Earphone and Cord

None "new look of youth" of Zenith's earphone and Cord! Scarcely noticeable by comparison with "black buttons" of Bendix. Extra comfortable, Cord is perspiration-proof . . . kink-proof. Won't fray. Wipes clean with damp cloth.

2 New "Self-Focus" Hearing Control

The flick of your finger brings hearing into range for your particular needs—for different voices and surroundings—as easily as you focus a pair of binoculars. Outmodes the old-way "fixed adjustment" principle.

3 Zenith's Finest Quality —About ⅛ the Price

You get the fine precision that modern knowledge and engineering made possible, at about ⅛ the price of other quality vacuum tube instruments on the market today. Only Zenith gives you so much for so little!

4 Zenith Guarantee 5-Year Service Policy

Guaranteed for a full year by Zenith, world's leading Manufacturer of radionic products exclusively. You also get a unique Zenith 5-Year Service Policy with coverage enjoyed exclusively by Zenith wearers.

There are cases in which deficient hearing is caused by progressive disease and any hearing aid may help by giving a false sense of security. Therefore, we recommend consulting your otologist or ear doctor to make sure that your hearing deficiency is the type that can be benefited by the use of a hearing aid.

Invasion of Germany

Germany the ambitious and bloodthirsty now knows what it is to have a foe on its territory. Invasions have invaded the Fatherland of Germany. East Prussia and something of the results of war are going to be felt by the people whose delight it was to enslave and crush. The German now knows what the tramp of a mighty victorious Russian offensive means. This is only the beginning of the invasion of Germany for the Allied Powers are geared to march on to battle and victory crush at its heart German iniquity. Nothing can halt the battalions of Stalin and the battalions of the advancing Allies in Italy and in France from moving in to the climax of the war. The result that Germany must be laid prostrate in defeat and those whom she tried to crush shall stand with the sword of justice in their hand pointed at the German state.

In the last war of Germany against the nations, Germany escaped for she threw up her hands in surrender before German soil felt the process of war. Now it is going to feel war as it has been felt by others.

The effect must be to teach the German people and their leaders an unforgettable lesson that the wages of aggression must be dealt of aggression and evil, that a wrong done another nation will be avenged unerringly by the instinct of humanity for a fairness of dealing among all nations.

Germany's course in history has been one of disregard of the rights of others and now others have the right and the task of drilling into the hard shell of German militarism and aggression that it does not pay, that the world is not going to be enslaved even in the face of Germany, Greece and Rome in their days of flowering empires served the world well. Greece conquered a great share of the world by her supreme greatness of spirit, in the cause of human freedom and the supremacy of the human soul. The empire of the Greeks advanced the world spirit in a way which has been unrivalled in a very brief spell of time. Rome in some had her faults but the greatness of her empire opened up the world, developed trade and commerce and left her mark on the arts. But Germany, the bully and aggressor with its militarism has served only the god Mammon, she has served only to exalt herself by shedding the blood of nations and has given not one good gift to the world by her over-developed sense of aggressiveness. Germany therefore has been for all the world of the ages to come to realize as a large nation, wholly devoted to the cause of selfish aggression. It is one of the anomalies of the present world that a people of many millions, claiming to be civilized have behaved as barbaric and savage nations would. And she has rendered no service to the world, except to stand as a warning to realization that a vast people may be an agent of destruction because that people has never sought liberty for itself or for others. Germany has been listless, has never struck a blow for freedom in Germany but her arm has always been the arm of a thief and marauder.

Now Germany is getting the lesson and the lesson will continue into the peace that is to come. For there is no other object but to make Germany behave as a civilized nation and not as a desperado and gangster in the world which will be seeking peace and security against tyrants, like Hitler who has exalted himself in the name of Germany and at the expense of Germany's neighbors.

In all history Germany stands as the nation which has utterly failed to realize a nation's responsibilities to be law-abiding.

Now the sound of Russian, British, American, French, Polish, Czechoslovak, Greek and Yugoslavian guns is heard by the Germans. Now East Prussian cities and communities are being deserted. Now it is Huns who have to flee. Justice has come to the German people who rejoiced when Norway, Denmark, the Low Countries and France fell, when German blitzkrieg drove the populations of these countries to the roads and fields in an effort to escape, to flee somewhere, they knew not whither, except to avoid the German blitz. Now something greater than a blitz has struck Germany. This striking power is the one that will triumph. The Nazi blitz was a spark that did not light into complete conquest for it has utterly failed because of the spirit of nations who seek peace and freedom. The Allied nations stood up because they had the spirit of freedom. It was their stout defence. Germany has none such. She is the thief caught with the stolen goods, she is like the murderer brought to bay whose only thought is of escape or of slaughter.

When the Russians crossed the boundary into East Prussia the other day a sign was written for all the Germans to read, this is, for the benefit of the institution of organized society to whip with scorpions the evildoer-German nation has arrived.

The Weather's Change

The vagaries of the weather have always intrigued mankind because they are unpredictable. They always create sufficient possibility of factors that cannot be foretold any great length of time ahead. Time has come when it is possible to tell from conditions in one part of the country how other parts of the country will be related to these and how the weather will be affected, but to look forward weeks and months ahead as if one knew what is to come is something yet unrealized. Why is one summer so different from another? There are the factors in the sun to account for this but much must remain unknown.

One assurance however is that long cold spells and war spells cannot be continued for nature is ever marked by change, so that in the possibilities in weather.

So the relief on Sunday from the heat wave which reached its peak towards the close of the week was certain to come. The weathermen predicted this a day or more ahead, though he could not predict ahead what the nature of this summer season was to be.

The fall of the temperature on Saturday night and the early rain on Sunday were the factors welcomed everywhere by the long-suffering and perspiring public.

One point stands out markedly in the weather in Ontario, it is the weather of a climate which is kindly, there being few excesses in the way of devastating storms for what there are of storms causing damage are tempered with mildness, where as in other areas conditions are no guarantee of the favorable kind of weather with which the people of Ontario are acquainted.

Russian Trade

"You have such products as manganese, lumber, chromite, furs and platinum. We have such products as machinery, high electrical, railroad and chemical plant equipment; precision instruments; mining and agricultural machinery. I would like to see brisk exchanges of these commodities between us," said Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as quoted in The Reader's Digest.

frightfully nice thing about it. It does not "I like your manganese. We have no one know that it is Socialist. It would just as soon go into a furnace in Pittsburgh as in Stalingrad.

"And you like our machine tools. They do not know that they are capitalistic. They would just as soon chip pieces out of metal in Kharkov as in Detroit. Isn't it fortunate, gentlemen, that these lower forms of matter have no ideology? And that reason they could be the mediators between us.

"I know, of course, that trade between countries has to be negotiated under the terms of trade treaties, and that negotiations for trade treaties almost always get tangled in negotiations for political treaties And I know that trade between the Soviet Union and the United States will depend in large part on agreements between our two Governments as to the character of any proposed international organization for the future. But I am hoping that whatever political questions may arise between our two Governments can be adjusted in the spirit of friendship and on the basis of agreed moral principles."

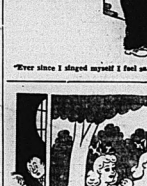
About Roses

I wish I knew what pleases roses best;
To deck a woman in rich raiment dressed
Or live and die a garden flower instead.

If roses think (I wonder if they do),
Strive they to be the fairest, shape and hue,
Or would they be completely satisfied
To be some humble gardener's source of pride?

Some cut them in the bud! Some choose to wait
To gather them full-blown, and that's too late.
Some keep them for their own! Some, better still,
Use them to carry comfort to the ill.



Roses are silent. Not a word they say
Of praise or censure, use them as we may.
But oft, although their secret stays unguessed,
I wish I knew what pleases roses best.

Two Brothers Run Into Each Other For First Time in Over Two Years

Somewhere in Normandy (by telephone to Allied headquarters in London and wireless) —One afternoon a couple of soldiers came around our camp and asked me to tell me about the strange experience that had just happened to them. They were brothers, and the night before they had run into each other for the first time in more than two years.

They are Corp. John and Pvt. Edward O'Donnell of East Milton, Mass. John is an artilleryman and has been overseas more than two years, all through Africa and Sicily. Edward has been overseas only a couple of months. John is 23 and Edward, 19.

The first Edward knew of his brother was in the vicinity was when he saw some soldiers, wearing the patch of Allied Headquarters, getting ready to take a bath at an outdoor shower. He walked up and set up.

He asked them where the division was and then went looking for his brother. John was attending an army movie set up in a barn when Edward finally tracked him down. They sent in word for John to come outside. He got only about half way, out and saw who was waiting he practically knocked everybody out of their chairs getting to his brother.

Their commanding officers gave them the next day off and they just roamed around, talking and tongue wagging — talking mostly about home.

That same afternoon another soldier came by to say hello because his name is the same as mine. He is Pvt. Steven Pyle of Corpus, Tex. He is the driver in a car company, and now and then he takes officers and ments to drive some very high officers. As I was leaving, I asked him something to talk about to his grandchildren.

Private Pyle is married and has been overseas nine months. "Try as we might, we haven't established any relationship. That might have been due to the fact that my father isn't Pyle at all, but Count Sforno Ond' Quelquechose."

Our family sprang from a long line of Norman milkmaids. I think it was. My great-grandfather built the Empire State Building. Why am I telling you all this? I'm in the Department of Wartime Distorted Values — The other day a soldier offered to trade a French farmer three hens for his horse. The soldier had captured the horses from the German army. The trade didn't come off—the farmer already had three horses.

And—at one of our evacuation hospitals the other day a wounded soldier turned up $6,000 in cash, equivalent to $1,800. He'd picked them up in captured German head-quarters. The army is now in the process of working out regulations to see whether the soldier can keep the money.

* *

In the very early days of the invasion I had a talk with Captain Capt. Ralph L. Haga of Prospect, Wash., claimed to be the first American ashore on D-Day.

Well, I got into trouble over that, because he wasn't. The first chaplains on the beachhead were three Catholic priests, a Protestant officers and there were a batch of them—I counted 17, altogether. They were in Normandy hours before Chaplain Haga got there, all told.

As one bunch of paratroopers was being relieved, another was already rendered their first consolation service in France before Captain Haga got his foot on the soil. So all credit where credit is due.

One afternoon several weeks ago I went into Cherbourg with an infantry reinforcement. One of the doughboys gave me two cans of French sardines they'd captured from the enemy.

Right in the midst of battle is a funny thing to get excited over sardines, but this is a funny war. At any rate, I'm going to tell you I put them in my musette when I left the ship, and I'll bet that night, I forgot all about them.

The reason I mention it now is that last night I found the empty sack and was rummaging around in the dark for something to munch, when I ran onto the sardines. They tasted mighty good.

Allied Patrols Cross Yu River As Japs Retreat

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 8 (CP)—Allied patrols, fanning out beyond Shwegyin, in the Sittang valley region of northwestern Burma, have crossed the Yu river without meeting any resistance as the Japanese forces retreating toward the Chindwin Allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time, on the Indian side of the border, Allied forces moving southward along the Kaladan valley from Akyab, Arakan, were reported making satisfactory progress in clearing that artery of the enemy.

WHAT I DON'T KNOW ABOUT TEETH

An obscure dentist sends me pages torn from a throw-away publication, containing a characteristically scurrilous attack on me and my teachings. The mincing little thing suggests that I should attend a dental school for, say, a year before I try to teach the public about care of the teeth.

Don't misunderstand me. I concede there are a few things, quite a few, that I don't know about dentistry. In fact I imagine it would be easier to mention the things I do know about dentistry. One thing I do know about it is that the science of dentistry is far, far behind the art, so far as the rank and file are concerned. I mean that you would do well to temper your admiration for the technical skill of the fellow who is designing, constructing and installing inlays, crowns, bridges and the like with some consideration for the shortcomings as a doctor.

This is no pet peeve. As an illustration of the medical shortcomings of the average dentist there is the case of the girl (aged 27) whose plight was described in the San Diego Sun a day or two ago, called "Conspiracy Against Happiness." She had a lot of trouble with her teeth, spent great deal of money on them, but her family dentist had been able to save most of them for her. Now there was what I call a good dentist. She married, moved down to another city, became pregnant, had more trouble with her teeth. The new dentist, having filled a few teeth, evidently wanted to go fishing or something, for next thing she knew he had persuaded the poor girl to let him extract five teeth. Now that was what I call a dentist! That's the right weird for it.

But that is plenty warming up for the crime to follow. With the loss of the five teeth the poor woman's bite was gone, of course began to age rapidly, as melt any one who has lost seventeen teeth. All her teeth, left to chew with. As soon as she was old enough to bat-she could no longer put up a fight in self defense, the wretched dentist and the stingy husband urged her to have ALL of her remaining teeth extracted, as that would result in only one or two visits to the dentist and save the husband the extra carfare, etc.

I don't think I'm exaggerating the enormity of this crime of depriving

SHAKESPEARE OF RUSSIA

Russians are justly outraged because the house in which Pushkin died, the grave of Alexander Pushkin, who has been termed "the Shakespeare of Russia."

Pushkin, who was born in 1799 and who died in 1837 at the age of 38, was of mixed blood, all traces of all Russian poets.

He was of the eighteenth African blood. His maternal great-grandfather was an Ethiopian prince, a Christian convert in the Russian service and was such a favorite with Peter the Great that he was knighted.

Pushkin's African blood was evidenced in his slightly curly hair and complexion, which was somewhat darker than that of the ordinary Russian.

Pushkin must be understood, however, that the Russian poet was descended from a Negro in the socially accepted sense of that term.

Abram Petrovich Gannibal belongs to a mixed Arabic type similar to the Moors of northern Africa. The great national poet of Russia was buried in the Sviatogorsky Monastery, founded by Ivan the Terrible.

Reports from Moscow say that the Nazis not only bombed the monastery, but deliberately dishonored the poet's tomb, carried away relics about the house and scattered the ashes of his life and used some of his manuscripts to wipe their boots first in the Pushkin museum.

Alexander Dumas, European writer who was of part African blood was Alexander Dumas the elder (1802-1870), author of "The Count of Monte Cristo," and other romantic novels. His father was General Alexandre Davy de la Pailleterie Dumas, a French nobleman named Alexandre Davy de la Pailleterie and a French nobleman named Alexandre Davy de la Pailleterie and a mulatto-blooded Negro woman of Santa Domingo.

General Dumas pere (so called to distinguish him from his son) was born in France, his mother being a French woman, the daughter of a marquis and a slave, according to a quadroon—of one-fourth Negro blood.

Deep hair, dark complexion and thick lips were African characteristics that Alexandre Dumas pere inherited from his maternal grandmother.

His son, Alexandre Dumas the younger (1824-1895), who distinguished himself as a dramatist, was of one-eighth Negro blood.

Alexandre Dumas pere was one of the most prolific authors of all time. His complete works total about 1,200 volumes. It is estimated that as an author he earned about $5,000,000.

WITH WAR PAST SICILIANS NOW FEEL BLISSFUL

Signs of Conflict's Ravages Fast Disappearing From Island Which Year Ago Was War-Enveloped

By BILL BOSS
(C.P. War Correspondent)

Catania, Sicily (CP) — It takes 90 minutes. The plane leaves Naples about eight in the morning, or 8.30 is at Catania, Sicily. Swiftly, a year ago, war whipped this rich, lovely island up into the maelstrom of modern conflict, spun it furiously, briefly, then as quickly moved on, leaving in its wake a battered land and a reeling, puzzled people.

But war is a long way away from Sicily today. Not so much the war of battles and fronts and fighting, but the war of ruined buildings, of hunger, personal suffering and spiritual torment. The industry of the Sicilian peasant and laborer when working for himself is incredible and his collective effort has restored the country to its peace-time state.

There are few indications of the 1943 campaign around now. Certainly not in the part traversed by the Canadians. There aren't more than 20 pieces of derelict equipment, Allied or enemy, in the fields and roads from the Pachino beaches, through that wide circle to Catania by way of Modica, Vizzini, Caltagirone, Valguarnera, Assoro, Nissoria, Leonforte, Agira, Regalbuto and Adreno. There may be a dozen burnt out tanks, trucks and guns, no more. On Pachino beach Italian barbed wire entanglements still stand where not cut through or blown by Canadian landing groups. A burnt out truck of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment is a short way up from the beach, while the front shield of a 17-pounder anti-tank gun is still in the water just a few yards from land. Salvage and cleanup have been thoroughly accomplished.

Officially or otherwise, whether they knew it or not, Canadian and British salvage units were wholeheartedly assisted by Sicilians everywhere. New tool sheds and primitive bits of peasant furniture have been made from Canadian equipment boxes with the name "Quaket," code word for the landings, still discernible. Canadian cables, ropes and chains, pick-axes and shovels, have found their ways into Sicilian farms, not to mention untold quantities of military boots, summer drill uniforms and wedge hats in current wear.

Airport Now Farm

Pachino Airport has just delivered up its first grain harvest since 1939. Reconstruction is proceeding apace and in southern parts, where damage was slightest, is completed. Few homes built in traditional stocky peasant style, dot the countryside. Bridges over gaps, streams and rivers are finished, all well-done in stone or brick. Only two bridges of interest to Canadians are incomplete between Adorno and the Regalbuto. One is a large, three-span effort over the Simento River. Meanwhile, diversions and temporary bridges built by Canadian Corps' Engineers last autumn are still in use.

Pachino, Modica and Caltagirone are cleaned up and damage rebuilt. Places like Vizzini, Grammichelo, Assoro are also back where they were a year ago — just as dirty. In a direct line between Agira Hill and Mount Etna is the Canadian Military Cemetery, spread about a hilltop distinguishable for miles around.

Regalbuto and Adreno, two towns badly hit both by shelling and bombs, still bear their scars. But from their rubble order is coming forth. But Catania's life today is blissful. Indeed, it is that of all Sicily, which is forgetting, all too quickly, that just a 90-minute plane ride finds war a neighboring, and grim reality.

Special Rights Will Be Utilized When War Ends

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Associated Press Writer)

New York (CP)—"The war taught us women in Norway we were among the most politically privileged women in the world—that we did not use our rights well enough."

That comment comes from Miss Margrete Reed of the Norwegian Information Service in New York. Miss Reed is qualified to speak for Norwegian women. She is a former editor of Norway's leading woman's magazine—We Ourselves and Our Home. A former underground worker and now is in the United States as an unofficial representative of Norway's women.

"Before the war," she said, "Norwegian women had progressed so far in the matter of women's rights that it was sadest history for us. Since the Viking days, Norwegian women have been a vital force in the country. The men went to sea and the women remained at home to assume responsibility for the home and the children. Norway was the first sovereign state to give women political rights. Norwegian women got the vote in 1907 and the right to hold state positions five years later.

"But there we stopped. We were too lazy to go into politics. We shrugged our shoulders and said, 'Leave it to the men.' In the Norwegian Storting (parliament) of 150 members there were never more than three women at any time. We did not use the rights we had well enough.

Can't Blame Men

"All the world knows what happened in Norway during the war. I do not mean to infer that women in the government could have prevented the war. Just because they were women. But women always blame men for war. And I say we cannot rightly blame them when we were not in there helping them prevent it. If you want to enjoy the privileges of a democratic country, you must contribute to it.

Miss Reed believes that Norwegian women will be much more active in politics and in the country's affairs in the post-war period. They have played an effective and indomitable role during the Nazi occupation, she said. Norwegian teachers have refused to teach Nazi doctrines in school, and Norwegian women generally have been extremely active in the underground.

She herself was active in the underground until warned that the Gestapo had orders for her capture. She packed a little overnight bag and escaped on a few hours' notice.

"Friends in the underground took me by car to a certain spot where we met my first guide," she said. "We walked for about six hours till we met the next guide and so on. We walked the better part of four days and nights till I reached Sarna, Sweden. I have no idea who the men were who guided me. I never saw them before and probably I shall never see them again. They were all members of the underground."

From Sweden Miss Reed went to London, where the Norwegian government in exile asked her to join the staff of the Norwegian Information Service in New York.

Japs Driven Into Southern Tenth Of Guam Island

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 8 — (AP) — American Marines and soldiers on Guam have compressed several thousand Japanese into the southern tenth of the island, bringing complete reconquest of the former U.S. naval base near Today.

Other bad tidings for the enemy.

Apparent neutralization of Yap Island, once-mighty Japanese airbase in the Carolines 600 miles southwest of Guam.

Slicing of the Japanese supply line between Aitape and Wewak in British New Guinea.

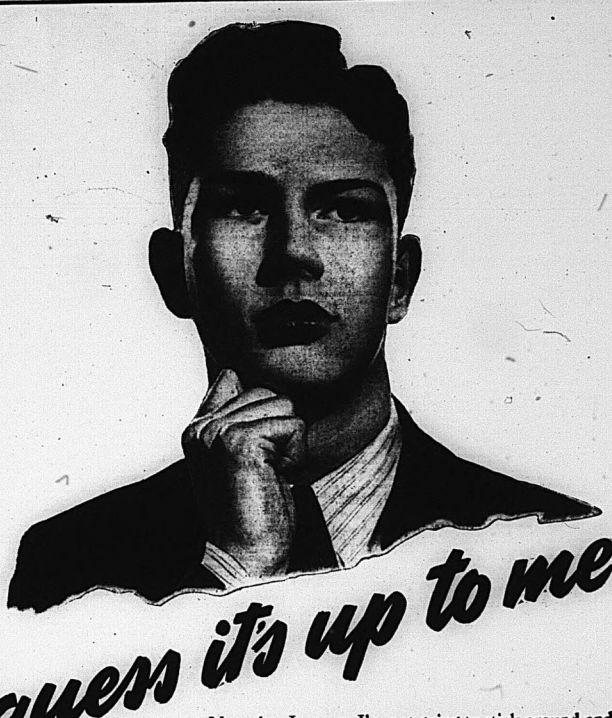
Reports — Tokyo-originated — of American airplanes over the Philippines Monday (G.Z. time).

The Tokyo radio said a large plane dropped "three small bombs harmlessly into the sea" near Davao, Mindanao, at 1 a. m. an hour later another plane "fled before reaching Davao."

There were no substantiating reports from Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney's Far Eastern air force. There has been no Allied air attack upon the Philippines since mid-April, 1942, before the fall of Corregidor.

Gen. MacArthur reported a 30-ton mid-day bombing raid Sunday upon Yap, 300 miles east of Mindanao, and added:

"There was no attempt at interception. The enemy's air base appears to have been neutralized by our continuous attacks."



MacArthur also announced that an American counter-envelopment force east of Aitape had inflicted heavy casualties upon trapped Japanese units, severed the enemy supply line from Wewak, and was advancing westward on Afua village.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

Accra, Gold Coast (CP) — The body of a giant crocodile, measuring 13 feet, six inches, has been captured in the River Volta, near Auschaura in the Gold Coast. It took 13 men to drag the body to dry land and two men to lift the head. In the crocodile's stomach were found 85 pebbles which, local people say, means the creature was 85 years old.

36 to 35 PERSONS DIED

Stockton, Ga., Aug. 5 — (AP) — Between 30 and 35 persons were killed and an undetermined number injured near here Friday night when a west-bound passenger train of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad crashed into a freight train on a siding.

"I guess it's up to me!"

Now that I can go I'm not going to stick around and let the other fellows do it.

Bill and Jack went over last week, and Fred's been over there a year. Now it's my chance.

It's going to take months of training before I can get fighting fit, so I'd better get moving today.

Yes sir! I'm going now, to tell Dad and Mom that I'm on my way to sign up.

WEDDINGS

JOHNSTON—GRILLS

Thomasburg— A pretty summer wedding took place at St. James' Anglican Church, Dundas, on Saturday, July 8th, with Archdeacon A. C. Mackenzie officiating, when Anna Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grills, of Thomasburg, became the bride of Sgt. Roy Johnston, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnston, of Hamilton.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Earle Thompson, of Dundas, was attired in a floor length long gown of white silk jersey, a three quarter length veil held in place by a cap and orange blossoms. Her flowers were a bouquet of red roses and white lilies.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Burton Malmes, of Thomasburg, sister of the bride, wore turquoise blue sheer crepe fashioned with a heart shaped headdress of matching material and a shoulder length veil of white lace and matching accessories and she carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

Little Miss Margaret Thompson, of Dundas, niece of the bride, was a winsome flower girl in a mauve organdy frock with yellow accents, a headdress fashioned in a large bow with long streamers and a basket of yellow pansies, sweetpeas and baby's breath.

Acting as groomsman was Mr. Everett Johnson, brother of Hamilton, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Harry Johnston, of Hamilton, and Mr. Ken Thompson, of Dundas. During the ceremony Mrs. J. Sord, of Dundas, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Ave Maria".

At the reception held in Eggleton which forty-five guests were invited, the bride's sister, Mrs. Burton Malmes, received and assisted in a black crepe gown with accessories in mauve and wore a corsage of mauve sweet peas. The bride's mother received in a gown of black and white sheer and corsage of red roses, while the groom's mother chose a navy blue and white crepe with matching accessories and corsage of pink and white.

The bride chose for travelling a suit of Canadian blue with accessories and white accessories.

Among the guests from a distance were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grills, of Thomasburg, Malmes, Mr. Kenneth Grills, all of Thomasburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grills, of Welland, Sask.

PARRIS HATS nicely bridge the gulf between Summer straws and Fall felts. It's an even sexier fashion when there is a matching fabric bag, too. Quilted pale blue Celanese taffeta makes this attractive tweenie. The hand shaped hat is black grosgrain trimmed, and the drawstring bag has black cord handles of impressive dimensions.

Release From Social Panic

By HELEN FOLLETT

SOME LUCKY girls seem to have been born with poise and ease of manner. They are never embarrassed or confused. This gift does much to oil the wheels of life. Others, shy and self-conscious, sit on the sidelines at parties and are pretty wretched.

Their families, all too often critical of their behavior; its no good telling them not to "act like that"... they don't want to. They don't help them. Criticism makes matters worse. What the members of the family should do is to put the child on the back, tell her she's sweet and pretty and clever. If she can develop a little healthy vanity and self-respect, she will be released from her chains of social fear.

Shyness Not Unusual

Self-consciousness is not the product of slow thinking or stupidity. Far from it. Shyness is a reality that is common among some of the world's most distinguished men and women. It is more common than most of us realize because the victims of this unfortunate condition make every possible effort to hide and conceal the affliction.

A hint to the shy lassie: interest yourself in the interests of other people, so you will be thinking less about yourself. Cultivate a feeling of friendliness for the people you meet, don't fancy that they harbor the critical attitude.

Overcoming Self-consciousness.

The control of the girl can take a course in public speaking. It will be taught at first, especially if she is a victim of the mumbling habit, but in time it will work like a charm.

She mustn't believe that she is different from other girls; she probably isn't, except for self-consciousness. She should hand herself a little pep talk now. Also the girl with a nervous nature should learn to relax and keep in up top form. She should make it a point to look well groomed in clothes. These things will all help toward release from social panic.

Women's Activities

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Tanner on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. J. Finkle, the president, was in charge of the worship service on Christian Citizenship.

Mrs. Pringle Pinkis gave a Temperance reading.

Six members answerde the Roll Call.

During the business, it was decided to buy a new hot luck supper.

Mrs. Lindenfield leader of Group No. 2, had charge of the program on Christian Citizenship. She gave an interesting paper on "The Responsibilities of Christian Citizenship" which included current events. The members discussed the questions at some length.

Mrs. Lindenfield closed the meeting with prayer. The hostess served refreshments.

ROSLIN 8TH LINE AUXILIARY GROUP

The 8th Line Auxiliary Group to the C.G.I.T. met at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Cross on Thursday afternoon. Owing to the extreme heat there was no quilting but a few quilt blocks were cut out. The meeting was opened in the usual way by the president. The secretary and treasurer gave their reports. There were seven members and two visitors present. Letters of thanks for parcels received were read from Walter Bradshaw, Chas. Hart and Harold Gray, also a report concerning the death of Pte. Ernie Reed, killed in action. The secretary is to send a card of sympathy to Mrs. Reed in England. It was decided to send the money to the I.O.D.E., St. John Chapter in Belleville. A letter was also read from the Secretary of the same Chapter thanking the group for the contribution to the Russian Linen Shower. Collection was taken and the meeting closed. Mrs. E. Cross offered her home for next meeting. Mrs. Cross served lunch.

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The August meeting of the Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Don Hall on Thursday last with twenty-three ladies and five children present. Mrs. Clarence Hall presided.

Mrs. G. Hall reported the ladies' donation of berries had been enough to make 192 lbs., of jam for Red Cross.

It was moved that the money be sent away for fathered feet. It was decided to have a quilting in the Orange Hall. A large quilt is needed as there are six quilts ready to be quilted for war work. It was decided to have a dollar day sometime in October at which time each one is expected to give a dollar donation or more towards buying the things to pack the boxes for the boys overseas for Christmas.

A letter was read from Gunner Frank Rathotte thanking the Institute for the box sent to him at Easter.

Plainfield Institute is invited to Zion to hear the guest speaker on Citizenship.

Current events were then given by Mrs. N. Hall, Jr.

The program in charge of Mrs. J. Collen on Canadian Arts and Oaa. Industries was well given by Mrs. Holden and her assistants, Mrs. Fred Prindle and Olive Hall.

A contest was given by Mrs. Colden, (Islands), first prize going to Mrs. Frank Hodgen and consolation to Mrs. Vickie Simmons.

Everyone was pleased to see Mrs. Simmons out again.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Jamie McCreary in the evening. Collection amounted to $1.28.

Mrs. Hall and her assistants served a lunch and a social half hour was spent.

BEAUTY By Helen Jameson

PUTTING ON WEIGHT

Artists love to talk about beautiful bones, but Skinny Sue—who can't jump the bathroom scales up to 100 pounds and who can count her ribs, one by one—does not believe that bones are anything to yodel about. She would like, above everything else, to be a man-sized fing, not just a half portion. She will tell you that she is afraid of blowing away in a high wind, and that she ought to carry rocks in her pockets for ballast. She says she can cut bread with her elbows.

Poor Susie. If the family doc says that she is in perfect health, has no glandular or digestive disturbances, she can build on the curves, put up a pleasing anatomical front. But first she must reorganise her life. Skinny Sue is too active. She doesn't stock up on the right kind of grocery fuel. She flies around so fast that a fat cell can't land on her. She doesn't get enough sleep.

So what? She must slow up. She must learn to turn down party invitations if she is in the habit of being on the go all the time. Saturday night for fun, and a long sleep Sunday morning. On other nights she should get nine hours of slumber, not one minute less. It is during sleep that body repairs go on. Loss of sleep is responsible for many beauty griefs besides emaciation. It is senseless not to get proper rest.

Skinny Sue eats food that doesn't stick to her ribs. She lives on green salads that supply little real nourishment, and she is a champion pickle eater. All acid and highly seasoned foods should be deleted from the daily menu; they are a tax on the digestive tract to do one no good.

Dietary should be a good girl, eat a maintenance breakfast ... fruit, a hot cereal with plenty of cream and sugar, a beverage, a soft boiled egg or two slices of bacon. She'll get a big laugh out of that idea, as her first meal usually consists of a cigarette and nothing else ... except maybe a nibble of toast. The first way to treat a yawning stomach that hasn't had food for fourteen hours is:

Sugar, cream and cereals are her good friends; they will not only blanket her frame with a benevolent layer of adipose tissue, but they will act as fuel for her energy motors.

She will tell you she has no appetite, but it is nearer the truth that's she's too busy to eat. Zestful appetite can be created by leisurely outdoor exercise—a short bicycle trip, a long walk, golf, swimming, archery.

Good posture must be maintained at all times. The stomach-in chest and prominent collar bones will correct themselves if the spinal column is in line. Practise shoulders in an easy pose. Good posture means better circulation, keener appetite, better digestion.

FOXBORO

Women's Mission Soc., Holds Monthly Meeting

Foxboro — The August meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Simmons on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Hodgins presided in the absence of the president. Business items were discussed. Mrs. W. Simmons was appointed secretary of the Missionary Monthly and cards were to be sent out to sick members. The treasurer's report showed $36 for this quarter. Mrs. E. Tummon gave some helpful thoughts on Christian Stewardship and also read a paper on Temperance, prepared by Mrs. M. C. Reynolds. It was decided to send for and use the new Study Book, and one dollar was received as a donation from Mr. J. McFarlane of Montreal. The worship service and program was then led by Mrs. Simmons. The leader gave some beautiful thoughts on "Our Obligations as Respectable Citizens", and she closed with some verses, "I'll go where the Master leads me."

The call to worship was given from the Missionary Monthly and Mrs. Hodgen gave a reading "I'm Going to be a Missionary." An interesting quiz was then conducted by Mrs. George Priest. She had questions on Community Friendship Work and Temperance and closed with a lovely mother's prayer in Baby Book work. Miss J. Clarke, Mrs. J. G. Sills and Mrs. Rombough assisted with the Scripture lessons and prayers were offered by Mrs. S. Sherry, Mrs. Tummon and Mrs. G. Priest. Mrs. Tummon then favored with a solo.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting. A Bible contest was led by Mrs. Sherry and a lunch was served by Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Sherry.

Pretty Rain Clouds

Water-repellent poplin raincoat.

By VERA WINSTON

There's plenty of sunshine in rainy day clothes since designers decided that we required something besides the drab old raincoat. Here's a beauty fashioned of water-sensitive poplin, red pointed up with black. The Russian influence is obvious in the cartridge pleated trim at the pockets and the little upstanding collar.

Swimming for Health

Apply a sun tan cream to protect your skin from sun burn.

By HELEN POLLETT

Make the most of the swimming season, while it lasts. There's nothing like it to keep the female form divine, or to make it diviner, in case it does not qualify. It makes the respiratory muscles work, so there is considerable expansion of the chest. With chest full, breasts will be firm, round and neatly molded. It is fashionable to be busty. So get busy; don't miss a day, if you can help it. Desk workers, especially, are benefitted by this delightful exercise that is as refreshing to the spirits as it is to the body.

Don't be a sissy—and wade in. Immersion without exercise is of no help in the cause of health and good looks. Keep going. Breast the waves. The majority of girls know how to swim. They can't hurry the wave and, while doing that, they cut down unwanted curves, speed up circulation, get rosy cheeks, accumulate vim and vigor. It is a grand idea that the modern woman is interested in outdoor sports. Fresh air and exercise is an insurance against grey hair, wrinkles and grouches.

Wait two hours after a meal before having your swim. Don't go in when you are overheated from exposure to strong sunlight. Use sun tan oil on face, neck, arms and legs. Then you will tan evenly, won't be spotted. If you go in salt water and your hair gets wet, have a shampoo; otherwise your permanent will go limp.

If caught by an undertow, don't struggle; lie on your back and rest. Also, it is not safe to swim alone; there is always a chance of getting cramps.

Waterproof Cosmetics

You can get waterproof powder and waterproof rouge. If you feel that you really bear to have body see you without your war paint. You can buy lipstick that can only be removed with soap and water.

Remember, the best safeguard in the water is to keep moving; don't take a chance of getting chilled. If you don't want to swim all the time, why not take a tether and toss a tennis ball about.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

HOW THE BRIDE SHOULD SIGN HER NEW NAME

You've acquired a new name! You're a "Mrs." now! Of course you're mighty proud of this shining new name of yours. "yours "to have and to hold."

And you should be so proud of it that you should know how to use it correctly, how to sign it correctly.

The rules about signature-forms are few, simple, easy to learn. But every one of these few rules is most important, for the way you sign your new name is a tattle-tale about whether or not you know what's what. Make up your mind, here and now, that you will not be one of the legion of married women who go through life never knowing how to sign their letters correctly . . . and never taking the trouble to find out.

Let's talk about those new names of yours. Yes, I mean "names", for there are two: your formal name and your informal name.

Let's say you were Mary Smith before your marriage. You married John Bilas. Your formal name is now Mrs. John Bilas. This is the name you present for another person's information; it is not your signature. You use this name on all your visiting cards, or on your Informals, or for letter paper printed or engraved with your name and address. You use it when you give your name for delivery of packages. When you sign a hotel register. When you give your name for church or club membership. When you write a formal (third person) invitation, or a formal acknowledgment of an invitation (for example, an invitation to a formal wedding reception). And this is the informational name you write, in parentheses, under your signature to a business letter;

Your informal name is Mary Smith Bilas. Or Mary Bilas, if you drop your maiden surname. Or Mary S. Bilas, if you want to use it (it's not such good form) as the initial for your maiden surname. And it is this informal name that is your signature.

You will write three kinds of letters. Each has its proper form of signature.

The first kind is the letters you write to your close friends. Naturally, you sign these letters with your first name only, as you have always done.

The second kind are the ones you write to people whom you don't know very well, but who do know your formal name. For example, a note you might write to a newly-acquired friend, or to a member of a club whom you know only slightly. This "in-between" kind of letter you should sign like this:

Sincerely yours,
Mary Smith Bilas
(or Mary Bilas, or Mary S. Bilas)

Now comes the third kind of letters: business letters, professional letters, and social letters to people who do not know your formal name. This kind of letter demands both forms of your names. First, you sign your informal name, your signature, and then, in parentheses, below and to the left of your signature, you write your formal name. This addition of your formal name in parentheses is either (1) so that the reader will identify you, or (2) so that the reader will be informed how to make a reply to you. For this kind of letter, this is the correct signature:

Very truly yours (business letter) or
Very sincerely yours (for others)
Mary Smith Bilas
(or Mary S. Bilas)

(Mrs. John Bilas).

Warning: Never sign a letter, any kind of letter, Mrs. Mary Bilas; never Mrs.-anything.

You are Mrs. John Bilas . . . but you should never write this form of name as your direct signature to any kind of a letter.

Your husband will be proud of you if he knows that you know how to sign correctly the name he so proudly gave you, "to have and to hold" and to "honor" by signing it as it should be signed.

The Marry-Go-Round

Russia is no longer the land of free-and-easy divorce—the Great Ex-Wife Country!

The Supreme Soviet has proclaimed a brand new divorce law aimed to stabilize marriage and "to make the individual family the basic and all-powerful pillar of society." Hurrah! A new victory for Russian women!

No longer can a husband and wife who are bored with each other trip blithely to the registrar and say "We get on each other's nerves!" or "We don't like our borscht made the same way. One divorce please. And make it snappy!"

Well do I remember the loud wails and bitter protests of the Russian women (about a decade ago) at the eagerness with which the men junked the old wife for a new one every time one of them saw a more attractive model. There was at least one divorce for almost every marriage in those carefree days. Off with the old love—and on with the new!

The only reason you had to give for wanting a divorce was that you were married. Divorce was as free as samples at a Food Show used to be, and marriage was as easy to get into and out of as an old bathing-suit.

If wonder whether it was the women or the law that opened Russia's eyes to the importance of the institution of marriage. Above all, to the importance of the family to the state! For no civilized country and no civilized society can exist without the family unit as its backbone.

The new divorce will cost much money—600 to 3,000 rubles—of course. That will make a man think twice before divorcing. Moreover, the unhappy couple will have to appear in court of law and produce witnesses and lawyers and make good arguments to prove their right to legal separation. It will not all be as merry as a marriage-bell!

One thing about the new Russian divorce law—it won't be a today-we're-married, and tomorrow-you-aren't law. You can bet all the works in Vilaska that it will be the same law in all of the Soviet States, from east to west, not a matter of climate, as it is in America.

No young blood will be able to take a train across the country and find himself a free man in one state, a married man in the next, and a bigamist in the third. You'll at least know what you are in Russia! And if you are divorced in Kuybarad, you'll be just as much divorced in Kiev or Moscow or Siberia. Those Russians don't mince matters or split hairs. You're either divorced over there or you're not. And you needn't try to slip a Mexican mail-order over on 'em either.

Anything that tightens marriage and a woman's hold on a man is always a victory for the women.

REFORMED DOORMAT WIFE GIVES HUSBAND SYSTEM

This is the case of the doormat wife as she carries herself and how she won her matrimonial sweepstake. Her system —all gamblers have a system—is worth giving.

We're all gamblers, aren't we, gamblers to keep our homes, our health, our jobs, our places in the sun. Psychologists who tell us what we do, and why we do it, insist there are two types of women, the wife type and the mother type. The wife type has a dash of the siren which she employs with skill in keeping her man from going A.W.O.L. The mother type spends most of her time ministering to the children.

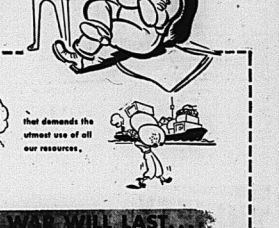
There are women compounded of both types, but it was the siren that prompted this lady not to sit by the cradle and let someone, not half as good looking as she, steal her husband. As the mother type, her husband had been her for granted, and he was shocked into paying her a compliment when he discovered how pretty she was.

To which type do you belong, you distressed wives who write to this column that you sit at home with the children while some she-wolf walks off with your husband. Please take this woman's suggestion and desert your babies. Never leave them unless, like this taken-for-granted wife, you can get a "sitter" whom you can trust absolutely.

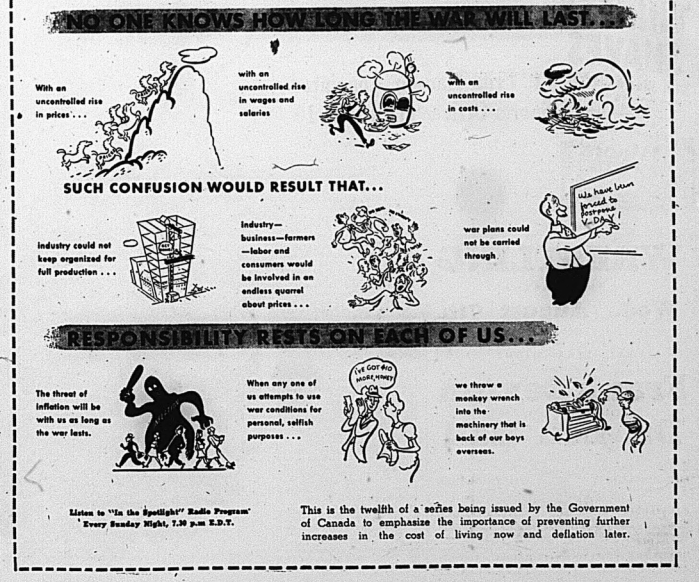
"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I was the doormat type of wife. I died a thousand deaths if one could live and die at the same time, for I love my husband dearly. He was rejected by the army, started drinking and running around with women. I was too much 'Mother' and not enough 'Pal' to my husband.

"I made up my mind I wouldn't sit 'round and let someone, not half as good looking as I was steal my husband. I bought new clothes, got a permanent, a new hairdo, and one evening got all ready to go out. I said sweetly to my husband: 'Since you're going out tonight, I made a date to go out, too.'



"He said: 'I seem to have forgotten how pretty you are; I'll take you out myself.' But I told him I had other plans and was going to a show with girl friend, although I was aching to go with him. When the show was over, there he was at the door waiting for me.



"Resolved: To never again let him forget that I, too, am pretty. I have a good sitter to stay with the children and I'm getting more attention from my husband than I've had in years. Tell Mrs. B. to try this.

(Mrs.) R. K. P."

E. Thompson's Rink, Toronto, Wins Corbin Gold Cup, Silver, At Civic Holiday Tourney

Sixty Rinks From All Parts of Province Take Part in Competition

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

The Corbin Gold Cup, primary trophy of the Civic Holiday lawn bowling tournament sponsored by the Belleville Rotary Club will rest in the locker room of the Moore Park-Greenwood Bowling Club of Toronto for the next year, when Ernie Thompson's rink captured the trophy on Monday. The win was most gratifying to everyone concerned especially residents of Belleville because three members of the rink, Ernie Thompson, Jim Ford, the skip, and Dean Ford were former residents of the city for some years. Jim Hunter was the fourth member of the winning combination.

On splendid greens and under ideal weather conditions the tournament was held. The grounds were gaily decorated with flags, while the prizes were tastefully arranged in the clubrooms and viewed by many during the day. before they were distributed at the end of the play which was completed shortly before one o'clock on Tuesday morning. During the tournament the ladies section of the Bowling Club served delicious refreshments and a bounty of thanks was tendered their efforts by the president of the club, Cliff Argue. A vote of thanks was also tendered the president for his efforts on behalf of making the day a real success and as a token of appreciation for many friends he was presented with a handsome wrist watch by Sergeant Major Thompson of the Provincial Police staff of Hamilton, who was a member member of the Belleville club and who gained Cliff on as a member of the local club.

Welcomed by Mayor

The bowlers were welcomed by His Worship Mayor Harry Rollins at noon before the first round was completed. His Worship extended a hearty welcome to all and along with it the freedom of the city during their stay. He expressed the hope, that before another year had rolled around, the war clouds will have been lifted and all could gather under more peaceful conditions. He requested all to play the game for the game's sake and continue to back the Allies in their march to victory. The thanks of the bowlers was expressed by Evans Lumsden of Toronto, he expressing his congratulations to the executive for the arrangements of a perfect tournament. Those who had passed on since the last tournament were remembered, when the flag was dipped and a minute's silence was observed after which "Last Post" was sounded by J. Smith. These who did not memory was honored, were Harold Pascoe of Belleville Club, Bill Whitby of Deseronto, Al Anderson of Kingston, Lou Hagerman of Peterboro, B. A. Boyce of Warkworth, W. Millard of Kingston and J. Cooke of Cannington.

Presented by Donor

The Corbin Gold Cup was presente to Mr. Thompson by L. E. McLean, of the Corbin Lock Company, the donor of the trophy. Four metal challenge of silver were also presented to the winning rink by Mr. McLean, they also being a donation of the company. The Riggs Trophy along with four leather fob chains presented to pick Kelsey and his rink from Kingston. This presentation was made by Mayor Rollins. Archie Meyers of Campbellford was the winner of the Ritchie Trophy and he and his rink also received four sets of clothes, these being presented by Mr. P. Lazotte of the Reliance Industries Ltd., the company being the donors of the prizes.

Lucky Draw Held

W. Craig--and his rink of Stratford were presented with 4 Hudson Blankets by E. E. Wenscott, vice president of the club, while Bob Wagner tangles with Thor Morgan to round out the strongest card the motor Tuner has arranged for Belleville this season.

Hall claims he has chased Sexton across the continent trying to get a title bout for the Pacific Coast crown and at last has the Ohio Powerhouse cornered. Other highclass preliminaries precede this main bout when Pierre DeClaire meets Jerry Monahan, while Bob Wagner tangles with Thor Morgan to round out the strongest card the motor Tuner has arranged for Belleville this season.

TORONTO BEATEN IN TWIN BILL BY NEWARK BEARS

Second Game Was Hurler's Duel Between Maldovan and Mustaikis

ORIOLES SPLIT

By The Associated Press

Bob Katz is doing his part to help relieve the manpower shortage in the International League.

During the course of pitching a six-hitter against Montreal Monday night for Syracuse, Katz wasn't content to let the opposition batters could have used. Therefore, he stepped up to the seventh inning and proceeded to win his own ball game by blasting a double which drove in both of the two winning runs.

It was Bob's eighth victory and his fifth in the last six starts.

Two of the league's ace pitchers clashed in a St. Louis-Toronto and Newark's Johnny Maldovan came out on top in the second game of a twin bill, 2-0, after which the Bears also took, 6-4.

Maldovan limited the Leafs six victory and his rival Mickey Haefner to a single hit over the route. The Biggs Trophy along with four leather fob chains presented to pick Kelsey and his rink from Kingston. This presentation was made by Mayor Rollins. Archie Meyers of Campbellford was the winner of the Ritchie Trophy and he and his rink also received four sets of clothes, these being presented by Mr. P. Lazotte of the Reliance Industries Ltd., the company being the donors of the prizes.

Jersey City laid the wood to four Buffalo pitchers as the Giants pounded the Bisons, 15-5.

'Around the Kitty'

By An Observer

Beautiful weather, splendid greens and a large entry made the Civic Holiday Corbin Gold Cup Bowling Tournament one of the most successful sporting events of the entire year. Nothing but praise was heard from the bowlers from all parts of Ontario, for the excellent arrangements provided by the committee.

President Cliff Argue was the hardest working official of the entire personnel. Cliff ran the draws, answered the phone, attended to the requests of the visitors. He was also very proud of the success of the tourney.

Sgt. Harry Thompson, of Hamilton, and formerly on the Provincial Police Staff in this city and also an active bowler, while here here brought a strong rink from Hamilton down for the day. He was busy renewing acquaintances of former years.

Another member of the local club but now situated in Port Hope, Harry Holmes was in a happy mood. "It is like coming home", said Harry in the vicinity of Napanee, was also among the visitors present.

The program committee was quite generous over the week, that the Belleville Greameries' donation was inadvertently omitted from the program. The firm has been a regular contributor to all sporting events in the city and the omission of the name of the firm in the donation list is sincerely regretted.

In the first round of the first draw two Peterborough rinks—W. J. Jeffries and George Gimblett ran up the biggest scores. Jeffries defeated R. E. Thurston, of Bobcaygeon, 26-11, while Gimblett defeated Andy Hall of Montreal, 23-2. The last win might put Gimblett in the silverware.

There were five Belleville rinks in the first draw and only two games through with wins—A. R. Symons defeated "Hap" Tompkins of Stirling, 20-16, while Walter Bedford defeated R. E. Dallyn of Belleville, 13-10. Ald. Wenscott was beaten by Syd Elsden, of Lindsay, 16-17, Johnnie Shaw went down to Ted Green, of Kingston, by 12-10 count and Davey Davison lost to W. L. Whiting of Prescott, 21-15.

George Dawkins met Alex. Crawford of Wingham, winner of the Gold Cup last year, in the second draw of the first round and to match Crawford's famous hop and write stripped shirt. George donned a tartan shirt of brilliant hue. "I might break the ice for the winner", said George as he led his rink onto the green.

The lady members of the Bowling Club were the busiest people on the grounds. They served most delicious refreshments in the dining hall at both the noon and supper hours. They deserve a real hand for a job well done.

Peter Ewing of Campbellford, had the distinction of being the oldest player participating in the tournament. He is in his 86th year and despite the humidity he was the sprites of all and was most enthusiast of all. During the day he met many friends of long standing.

Charlie N. Sulman and former president of the club was an interested spectator. He was unable to participate owing to ill health but was on hand to welcome his many friends. Jo McGie, also an old bowler took in the Tourney. Dr. A. B. Haffner, of Kingston, was also present to renew old acquaintances in the city.

Dean Ford, who did a lot of shortstopping for Belleville Nationals in the heyday of baseball in this city, played lead for Moore Greenwood Club, of Toronto, and did a real smart job. When kidded by one observer that this was an old man's game he said "Just try it". Dean Ford never was glad to see his many old friends in Belleville.

Ernie Thompson, brother of ex-Mayor Glen Thompson, and a former resident of Belleville, was playing with a Toronto Club.

Compliments were paid the greenskeeper for the splendid condition of the green, by many of the Bowlers present.

Paul Rouleau, or Cornwall, had a real time and everytime he could get an audience he would tell a story as only he can tell them. A Belleville gentleman Paul has an accent all his own and it is a pleasure to hear him in conversation—along with it all he is an excellent bowler.

CUBS ARE PICKED TO PLACE SECOND IN NATIONAL LOOP

Eastern Teams Head West For Last Long Road Trip of Season

CARDS ARE "IN"

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sport Writer

Evansville Bob Coleman, manager of the Boston Braves, today picked Chicago Cubs to win the second place scrap in the National League and labelled the Brums' Bill Nicholson the most valuable player in the circuit.

As the National's eastern teams headed west for their last long jaunt of the season and St. Louis Browns led the American's westside clubs on a final eastern invasion, Coleman left little doubt about his concession of the pennant to the Cards. Cardinals whom he called the "only real ball club" in the majors.

With the exception of New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates who are playing off a postponed game at Pittsburgh, all big league clubs today enjoy a second successive open date.

With the Cards enjoying a 16½-game lead and only 35 to go, National League managers couldn't be blamed for following Coleman's train of thought and talking about the second-place scrap.

The lynx-eyed pilot from Indiana who is completing his first season as a big league manager doesn't hit Chicago for another week but thoughts of Nicholson trouble his sleep.

"When the Cubs were stumbling around the basement, Nicholson was hitting around .330," the Boston skipper said. "He didn't hit a homer until mid-May, like last year, but once he started those Cubs have been pretty rough.

"Marty Marion of the Cards is a close second to Nicholson, as most valuable but I think Nick does more for the Cubs than Marion can do for the Cards. Nicholson, by example, though, is an octopus at shortstop. With help like that no wonder Billy Southworth's pitching looks good. Johnny Hopp is having a great year and Max Lanier, Hank Borowski . . . and. Let's talk about something else."

The Count, owned by J. W. Brown of New Liskeard and trained by Clancy Chapman, captured the $600 free-for-all, feature of the harness Card at Goderich, on the holiday. Lee Corporon, from the same stable, accounted for the three-year-old Peace, both events being decided in three straight heats.

Britain yesterday celebrated the greatest sporting bank holiday of the war, in direct contrast to the situation in Germany where all sports have been cancelled for an indefinite period. Tens of thousands of Britons attended two race meetings, a dozen first class cricket matches including an England-Australia test match at Lordss, a lawn tennis competition with an international flavor at Bournemouth, and scores of other attractions. There were boxing, swimming, cycling greyhound races and track and field meets.

Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich., former co-ed of the University of Michigan, toured the course at Chicago, in 74, one under par, yesterday to take the qualifying round in the Women's Western Golf Tournament. She was four strokes better than second place Jean Rucker of Spokane, Wash.

The American Hockey League added St. Louis to its playing membership at the annual meeting of the loop held in New York yesterday. There were six clubs in the circuit last season. The 1944-45 campaign opens Oct. 17.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Aug. 8. (AP) — The Giants drew 16,369 fans (13,947 paid) for their Sunday doubleheader with the Phillies. The all American Boys game yesterday attracted 17,803 and a lot of people who paid for tickets didn't go . . . with due allowances for the effects of promotion, that indicates a healthy interest in the old-fashioned game of baseball-for-fun. . . It was a good show and the dept. hereby votes against the suggestion that future games be staged as preliminaries to the major league all star fiestas. The kids showed they could stand on their own feet.

Short, Short Story.

In one respect, Messrs. Mack and Ott did a perfect job of managing; they got all 26 players into the game. . . But when one pinch hitter took three strikes, a scribe from his home town moaned "That's my story for today".

Scrap Collection.

Overlooked fact about the major league all-star game last month was that Rip Sewell was only the second pitcher in the 12-year history of the game to work a three-inning stint without giving a hit. The first was Ol' Dix Dean in 1936. . . What's this story that Actor Joe Kennedy, who is miffed because the National Football League tabled his franchise application, has been joining with Christy Walsh, John Keeshin of Chicago, Tony Morabito of San Francisco, and Buffalo's Sam Cordovano in secret meetings concerning a new league?

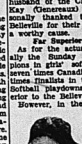
Sunday Morning Class Thrills Holiday Crowd For Benefit of Red Cross



Joyce Woodhouse Wins Schwab Trophy For Most Valuable Player

RECEIPTS OVER $500

Upwards of 4,000 people saw the famed Toronto Sunday Morning Class play an actual game during their diamond wares at the Belleville Exhibition Grounds on Civic Holiday in a brace of games played in the interests of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross. Well over $500. was reached with an over-flow crowd surrounding the playing field for the evening game after the "Classes" had trounced an "All-star" team from the Belleville Ladies Softball League 27 to 9 in an afternoon fixture. However, in the night game the Classes was much closer when Vickie Hiller, from the Mountain View R. C. A. team in the local league pitched for Belleville in a game, that ended 6 to 1 for Sunday Morning. The Hiller girl proved a collection of runs in the eighth inning in the game, was called on account of darkness.

Close Ball-play

It was a great effort on the part of two particular girls playing with the Classes", Joyce (Veteran) Doughty and her sister Marie (Gen eraux) Doughty, both formed Point Anne players, who have done much to make the Sunday Morning Class the greatest girls' softball attraction on this continent. The "Classers" came to Belleville who personally presented the handsome trophy to the winner. Later F/L. Frank Doughty, of the R. C. A. F., coach of the team and husband of the Classes' catcher, Kay (Generaux) Doughty, personally thanked the citizens of Belleville for their support of such a worthy cause.

B. Sanderson

Fae Superior to Locals

As for the actual games naturally the Sunday Morning Class plons in girls' softball are four times better Canadian senior champtimes finalists in the World Girls' Softball Championships, were far superior to the Belleville lassies.

However, in the nightcap game the local players did themselves proud in holding the powerful Classers to a final 6-1. The second game was called in the top half of the eighth on account of darkness. The runs scored by Belleville in their half of the eighth went for naught as the Classers had to the full seven frames leaving the final count 6 to 1.

Locals Played Well.

For seven full frames the Belleville girls did commendably well to hold the "Classers" fairly in tow, thanks to the fine pitching of Vickie Hillier and the catching mate Joyce Woodhouse, who formed the best girls' battery seen locally for many years. Leading one to nothing in the first frame Joyce Doughty's circuit blow moved the "Classers" double ahead with three more runs in the third. Belleville scored their lone run in the fourth after Helen Gerow singled, pinch hitter Ruth Mallon walked and scored on a subsequent error and infield out. That scored for Belleville hitting prowess. Shirley Smith counted a two-run circuit blow in the fifth for the Classers, but Bea Sanderson's circuit blow and her triple in the eighth went for naught as the score reverted back to the full inning leaving the final count at 6-on.

Got Four Start

In the afternoon the local lassies got off to a rather poor start as the Classers scored seven runs in the initial frame and kept adding to their number until they had scored a total of 27 runs. While the local girls, under Coach Charlie Barnett gathered five hits, Twila Langman got a double, Marjorie Smith, Foster and Strachan counted singles. For the Classers Kay Doughty, Shirley Smith and Verne McCormick banged out circuit blows. In the afternoon Mary McDonald and Theresa Capalbo hurled for the Classers, while June Matthews, Eve Reid and Millie Foster shared the pitching duties for the locals with Twila Langman on the receiving end. In the night game Miss Capalbo started for the Sunday Morning Class with Canada's famed Thelma (Golden) Pidler thrilling the patrons with her pitching prowess. Much credit to the success venture was given to Eddie Schreider, secretary treasurer of the local league and the many willing assistants under his direction, including Jack Alexander, gate chairman and the various representatives of the teams composing the Belleville Ladies Softball League, sponsors of the project that was staged under the auspices of the Red Cross.

The Lineups

The players appearing in the games were as follows — Sunday Morning Class, pitchers, Capalbo, McDonald and Pidler, R. Doughty, c., "Kelly" Parkhouse 1b, Shirley Smith 2b, June Schofield 3b, and Verne Smith, ss, Thelma McCrea ss, Marie Kirkpatrick lf, "Tiny" Morrison cf, and Bea Sanderson rf.

Belleville Ladies Softball League — Stewart, Marinoff, Tuttle, Mattson, Langman, Sword, Strachan, Reid, Mills, Delorme, Wilhelm, Bendick, Bunnett, Matthews, E. Reid, Foster, Elliott, Mann, Gerow, Wright, Allison, Woodhouse, Hillier and Golden.

The umpires were — afternoon Kiser and Mayor Rollins and in the evening Kiser and Bawden.

Expressions Heard

Many expressions of appreciation were heard Ted Kirkpatrick, manager of the "Classers" and the entire Toronto group for the fine hospitality shown them by Mrs. Zeta Ryan, proprietress of the New Queens Hotel, and the staff. "Every person was just grand and made our visit to Belleville one long to be remembered event," added Mr. Milligan.

The official scorer for the games was Mr. W. B. Vandervoort of this city.

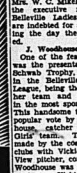
By SYD THOMAS

Toronto, Aug. 8 — (CP) — Announced intention of the Saskatchewan Mobilization Board not to grant border crossing permits to Canadian hockey stars wishing to play with U.S. teams, has stirred a considerable froth of comment about the country.

Men in military-eligible categories will have to go into essential war work or else go on a farm and learn how to extract milk from a bovine, according to the announcement from Regina. This rule can be put in effect in all provinces, since it is a Federal statute, and if that is done some of the N.H.L. teams will be even lighter in big-time talent than they were last winter — if that is possible.

However, Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star adopts a properly philosophical attitude toward the whole thing. The youngsters now being developed can step into the breach at least until the time they also become eligible for military call-up — and things will go on much as before. The fans' way used to the war brand of hockey by now, opines Baz, and they won't notice much difference even if a complete high school team is iced for their edification.



Incidentally:

Some people are bears for punishment. Tony Stecher, familiarly known as the Brain, is thinking of reviving the heave-and-huff pastime in Winnipeg. About eight years ago Mr. Stecher financed another attempt to put wrestling on the map in the 'Peg, and reportedly dropped about $2,500.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 449

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

65th. Week. — Sunday.

From the moment she spreads herself, Mrs. Jabberjaws keeps up a constant jabber, jabber, jabber. You know she will never run down. All you can do is hope she busts a mainspring.

I don't know why it is, but a real jabberjaws always seems to be as stubborn as an ox, too. When she makes up her mind, all the king's horses and all the king's men can go to the barn.

When she is more or less of a beginner, there is some excuse for her. After all, she gets more kick out of talking than she does from bidding or playing. It is something she knows.

These observations are prompted by a game I was kibitzing when the players were rabid bridge fans. In fact, it was at a public studio where these babies played nearly every day in the week.

Naturally, north took the four and five no-trump bids as ace and king asking conventions. And the five club and six diamond responses were in answer thereto.

The slamp at no-trump took an awful beating. And the jabberpuss started in. Most of it was venom at north. Much of it was typical of the excuses of stubborn players.

She emphasized that she was the opener and, therefore, boss of where the contract should play. When partner showed no support for her suits, she continued, she was merely trying to end in no-trump.

Toward the end of her tirade, her partner started to say: "I could have made four hearts." But Mrs. Jabberpuss interrupted with: "Let's cut out so much talk. I only have another hour to play."

And some girls are still single.

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek"

It is a miracle that Paramount's comedy "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek," the picture that has Belleville in stitches, is one of the funniest Hollywood has produced in a long time. The elements that have gone into it to make it so, couldn't have resulted in anything less than that.

The story stems fro mthe pen of Preston Sturges which, to those in the film know, should be enough to guarantee its originality of plot. The cast has a job that will bring each and every one of the players into a brand new kind of limelight. The co-stars, Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton, were given roles that are a complete departure from anything either one has done before, roles that combine pure drama with gobs inimitable comedy. They rise to the occasion in a way that will make you love them forever.

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" tells what seems like a simple story, on the surface. It concerns the dilemma of a small-town girl who, in a frenzy of patriotism, marries an unknown soldier at a dance, neither even giving the right name. A most interesting dilemma occurs when it becomes necessary for her to prove to husband, after civilian boy friend, Bracken, is involved to the point where he must come up with some mighty good ideas. What he does and what the "miracle" is, no writer with a conscience would reveal. See it for yourself—we guarantee you'll laugh your head off.

Others in the laf film are Diana Lynn in another whitty, kid sister role; William Demarest as Betty's stern policeman father; Porter Hall, and the surprise appearance as Brian Donnley and Akim Tamiroff in the roles they created in "The Great McGinty"—McGinty" and "The Boss."

"Showboat Serenade" in color.

A special extra attraction on the same program is "Showboat Serenade" presenting a dazzling and thoroughly entertaining vaudeville show on the screen—and in gorgeous technicolor—"Hot Shots" from our battlefronts are seen in the Canadian News of the Day to be presented on the same program.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Hey Rookie"

Jeeps! Look what's here! Columbia's "Hey, Rookie," now at the Capitol Theatre was sensational. Was the soldier show that rocked the West Coast for 36 laugh-smash weeks and is more sensational as it roars its merry way across the screen with smiles and miles of entertainment. You'll shout hooray for this great array . . . Jeeps of stars . . . Jeeps of fun. It's the khaki-go-wackiest musical of them all . . . Gags galore . . . Gals you'll adore . . . tunes you'll hum . . . till the boys come home. Cheer are eight songs to set your feet on fire. Among them are "It's Great To Be In Uniform," "There Goes Type," "It's A Swellu-uta Life In The Army," "Take A Chance," "When The Yard Birds Come To Town" by Sgt. J. C. Lewis, Jr. and "Hey, Rookie," "Streamlined Shiek" and "You're Good For My Morale" by Henry Myers, Lew Brown and Jay Gorney who also wrote the screenplay and are associate producers of the picture.

This jeepful of entertainment is headed by Ann Miller, Joe Besser, Jimmy Little, Hal McIntyre and his band, Hi, Lo, Jack and Dan Dame, Jack Gifford, Condos Brothers, Judy Clark and the Solid Senders. The Evans team with Jerry O'Leary, The Vagabonds and Larry Parks. Was directed by Charles Barton.

"The Girl From Monterrey" (First Belleville Showing)

Armida, the Mexican cyclone of energy, one of the most vivacious and sparkling personalities ever to shine on the screen, is starred in the engaging musical romance, "The Girl From Monterrey," which is now at the Capitol Theatre as the added hit.

Born in Sonora, Mexico, Armida came to Los Angeles in her early teens. The Latin beauty's talents picked her as a dancer and singer who should go far in the entertainment field. As a child Armida sd worked in Spanish theatres in Southern California. Edwards was instrumental in bringing her to the screen. Her first film role was that of a little gypsy girl in John Barrymore's "General Crack."

The Canadian Universal News and the Canada Carrier on feature turette "Air Cadets" in color complete this entertaining program.

CO-ED FIRE SPOTTER

PLANES COLLIDE IN MID-AIR

Canaan, N. S., Aug. 8 —(CP)— Two R. C. A. F. fighter aircraft collided in the air over this village yesterday, plummeting to earth with the body of one of the pilots. The second pilot bailed out and reached the ground unhurt. Next-of-kin have been notified and names will be released shortly.

STRIKE CALLED OFF

Kitchener, Aug. 8 —(CP)— After a six-day strike 1,100 employees of the Dominion Tire factory here had called off the tie-up and operations returned to normal last night.

CANDIDATE

AT THE McCARTHY — Seven great stars in two all-time screen hits coming to the McCarthy Theatre, starting next, when "In Old Chicago" and "Banjo on My Knee," will comprise the feature program. Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Brian Donnley head the cast in the spectacular drama of Chicago, and Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea and Walter Brennan in the story of life and love on the Mississippi.

WOUNDED DOG HERO GETS AID

Kurt, Doberman pinscher, dog hero of the 21st U. S. Marines dog battalion, is administered an injection of saline solution to overcome shock from wounds received from a Jap grenade. The dog led marines to Japs holed up in a cave. The dog returned to an aid station by himself, sent corpsmen to the aid of men wounded by the same grenade.

POST-WAR CARS

Northampton, England (CP) — Cars with improvement derived from war experience cannot be expected until two years after the war, H. D. Simmons, spokesman for the motor manufacturers and traders, said here.

HOLLYWOOD and HERE

By HYE BOSSIN

The British Win Another Battle

The other day United Artists, one of the USA's leading film distributors, signed a deal to place before American theatre audiences all the best British films. This is something new in the motion picture world, for until now only the occasional British film was placed before the American public as a whole, her resenting the same nationwide distribution accorded every Hollywood film, regardless of quality. The situation was so bad that one British newspaper correspondent wrote from New York that the USA was "the graveyard of British films." At least 35, he reported, were waiting in vain in New York for someone to distribute them.

Behind this new deal for British films is J. Arthur Rank, who in eight years has built the leading figure in the motion picture world. Rank, whose family controls the flour milling industry of Great Britain, is a staunch church-goer and was drawn to the film industry when he supported the Religious Film Society. On examination of the commercial film industry of Great Britain, which stopped developing when British healed itself with the first World War, Rank saw possibilities.

Rank set out to lead the British film industry to the front ranks. Today he controls most of Britain's film studios, as well as 1,000 of the 1,300 theatres. His companies are capitalized at $62,000,000—and that's just the beginning.

How He Did It

When Rank first announced his intentions Hollywood, accustomed to its own way, ignored him. His demands for more showings in the USA of British films went unheeded.

"If a fight is forced on me," he said, "I am ready and willing to fight back."

Then he organized the Eagle-Lion Distributors and staffed it with Americans and Britons. His would spent $30,000,000 to open offices in the USA, and the rest of the world. British films, he said, would hereafter be made with international appeal, though reflecting the British character. It was said that he had prefabricated theatres ready for immediate erection in Europe at the conclusion of the war.

All this made Hollywood realize that this man was a fighter. The overseas market, before the war, yielded Hollywood from 40 to 50 per cent of its return. To this Britain, where American film competition have practically strategically located for seizure of the European market.

British films, it was pointed out by motion picture authorities, had made great technical progress in spite of the war. If Rank won the race into Europe and established the popularity of his stars, American films would never enjoy the same prominence again. Not only that, but Rank intended to acquire theatres everywhere and American films would face the same problem of pleging thee that British films ran into in the United States.

So now British films will be competing with American films everywhere within the next few years. Britain has regained its place in the motion picture world.

All because one man made Hollywood see the light—a man named Joseph Arthur Rank. If, in the future, we see screen dramas based on the great Canadian and British played in the west, instead of the unchanging presentation of American glory, it is him we have to thank.

GERMANS CONTROL NORTH HALVES OF FLORENCE, PISA

Stormy Weather, Much with Rain, Curtails Action Along Entire Front

STRONG PATROLS USED

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

Rome, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Germans clung tightly to a foothold in the south of the Arno river in the great bend east of Florence today after counter - attacking sharply against Indian troops of the British 8th Army advancing through the mountains north of Arezzo.

Only two front cities directed by the Arno—Florence and Pisa—the positions of the contending forces remained virtually unchanged the Allies holding the regions south of the river and the Germans still in control of the north banks.

Stormy weather, much with rain, curtailed action along most of the front. On both sides of Florence Gen. Alexander and 8th Army patrols across the Arno, but there was no sign of an attempt to gain a foothold over the stream.

The Allied command announced that both sides suffered heavy casualties Sunday when the German counter-attacked in force and recaptured Molo Grillo, nine miles north of Arezzo and a little west of highway 71, from an Indian division.

The only considerable action on the Allied 5th Army front came in the area of San Winiato where the enemy fired approximately 100 rounds of shellfire at the Allies, then attempted no infiltration.

An official source declared that air photographs taken at low level disprove completely German claims that Allied guns have shelled Florence. Since the entry of the Allies into the southern sections of the city the civilians were going calmly about their pursuits.

The War Today—
Hitler's Object Said To Be Delay While He Retires Slowly to Reich

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

With Hitler bent on a finish fight —if he can force his armies to withdraw—there is no doubt him—the question naturally arises as to where he will take his stand. Not against the Allied drives in the western and eastern theatres.

First we must note that his general strategy provides for dragging the action while he retires as gradually as possible to the borders of Germany itself. His strategy will protect, although there will be tactical innovations to meet emergencies.

For instance, the Germans predict an invasion of southern France through the Rhone Valley, should that take place it would create a fresh crisis for Hitler, but it wouldn't alter his broad program of retirement for a last-ditch fight on his own soil.

Expect Hitler Abandoning Atlantic Defenses

In France the Fuehrer is swinging his front in the invasion zone back to the northeast, using the bloody Caen sector as his pivot. A dispatch from Spain says he even has abandoned his Atlantic defenses in southwest France, except for a light guard, and is withdrawing them northward because of the Allied successes in Normandy and Britany.

Yesterday's unsuccessful German counter-attacks against the American units in the Avranches sector fits into this picture perfectly. It was purely defensive and was calculated to delay the Allied advance towards Paris, thereby safeguarding the Reich retreat.

The main German retirement will be northeastward, covering both Paris and the vital English channel coast. Hitler will defend Paris if he can, but he likely will find it a hot potato to hold. He must protect the coast during his retreat in order to prevent the Allies from pouring troops and equipment into France across the narrow part of the channel and cutting off those left withdrawal. This area also is the nesting ground for the robot bombers from which the hopes will crack British morale.

W. Lindsay Hooks 22½ Lb. Channel Cat in the Bay

Twenty-two and one-half pounds of channel catfish caught by Bill Lindsay one of the toughest fighting battles of the week-end.

Hooked in the bay, the big fellow steamed thirty four inches in length, apparently did not like the looks of Bill. Fred Cook, Harry Locke, and George Robson, for upon perceiving that he made a wild break for freedom, nearly precipitating the lucky Lindsay and his amazed friends into the water.

However, by dint of perseverance and much manoeuvering they finally coaxed the big cat into the boat. Not to be outdone in landing ability, one of the quartette offered the fish, a small perch, which it promptly swallowed with a nod of thanks and appreciation.

The fish is reported to be one of the largest of its species hooked in the Bay of Quinte in years. Its whiskers alone almost six inches when offered a choice tidbit, to large enough to swallow the stories being told about it by its captors. However, sufficient proof is available as to the weight of it.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Stocks weakened in the early hours, particularly the mining groups. The base metals lost .40 in the index and the golds were off only .02 although the latter was widened in the early afternoon. Turnover was stable at 480,000 shares for the first three hours.

The Yellowknife issues led the decline in the golds. The decision of the Negus board to close the mill until it more plentiful touched off the selling. Negus dropped 35 cents to 1.30, Giant 6 cents to 7.50, Probisher 20 cents to 6.15, Rycon 5 cents to 1.70 and Lamaque 13 to 1.55.

Smelters dropped a point. Noranda 1.2 and Hudson Bay 3-8. Labrador lost 5 cents.

The utility and liquor issues weakened moderately and the steels were stronger.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Low-priced performers, principally motor and equipment stocks, continued to hold the bullish spotlight in today's market.

Gains of fractions to a point or so prevailed in fast dealings, near the fourth hour, were under those of the preceding session.

Martin-Parry, Hupp Motors and Aviation Corp. were among the new top movers at 1944 peaks. Ahead at intervals were Graham-Paige, Packard, General Realty, N.Y. Central Southern Railway, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, American Telephone and U.S. Rubber.

Canadian issues were quiet but Dome and Lake Shore gained 1-8.

HOGS

Toronto, Aug. 8.—(CP)—Prices were unchanged at bacon-hog markets reporting today. Dressed-weight Grade A delivered, London, Hull $17.40; Strafford, to farmers $12.50 to truckers $17.65; Hamilton $17.50, Hamilton Grade B1 delivered $17.15.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 8. (CP) — Cattle trade was slow at steady prices up to mid-session on the livestock market here today. Hogs, calves and sheep were steady. Fresh cattle receipts included 1,100 head of Western. Lambs were firm.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were cattle 4,500, calves 1,200, hogs 900, sheep and lambs 1,100, unsold from Saturday were 252 head of cattle.

Prices by the trade included:

Cattle: Weighty steers $11 to $13.80, butcher steers $10 to $13.50, heifers $10 to $11.50, butcher cows $8 to $9.50, canners downward at $5, bulls $6.50 to $8.50, red yearlings $12 to $13.50, stockers $7.50 to $10, stock calves upward to $13.50.

Calves: $13 to $14 with a few top $14.50 for choice, common downward to $7 graders mostly $6.50.

Lambs: $14.50 for good ewes and wethers, $13.50 down.

Sheep: $2.50 to $5.50.

Hogs: Grade A, dressed-weight $17.85, sows $13 dressed.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Ottawa, Aug. 8—(CP)—Thanksgiving Day will be observed this year on Oct. 9, it was announced today in a proclamation published in an extra edition of the Canada Gazette.

Thanksgiving Day is one of the six statutory holidays which the government has recommended be generally observed. Each date is set each year by proclamation.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER SIX

"I suppose a lot of people think me foolish, Miss Marston, but when I talk I like to say something new. I've never delivered the same speech twice. But what have you on your mind? Something wrong with one or the girls?"

"It's about Mary Doctor", the woman said, hesitantly.

"Mary—Kay Doctor, you mean, of course. What about her—has she been getting into some scrape? I'd hate to hear that—she's a very excellent secretary. Hard to get, these days."

"She's not in any trouble that I know of, but I'm just wondering how she—whether she is mature enough for her job. You know it's a very important position for a girl who just graduated last June".

"Miss Roberts is young—refreshingly so".

"That's just what I mean, Doctor—she may be too young".

"I'm afraid I don't quite understand".

"You wouldn't, of course, and neither did I until I was — well, tipped off, as the Irish say, yesterday. Twice, during the past month Ralph Levering has come to Shelton for the night. He's the head of the F. B. I. for the district, you know. He's not making pleasure trips down here, that's certain. He's entirely too busy for vacations".

"I—I'm terribly worried, Doctor. Suppose it should involve the school in some way?"

"Nonsense, Yo Steve. I'm worried, too. It's given me a lot of sleepless nights. I can't imagine such a thing happening in Shelton—certainly not in the college. Why there's no one in the whole school, faculty or students or employees, whom I wouldn't trust to the utmost".

They discussed the matter for half an hour, going over every member of the faculty and others who might be a suspect, but arrived exactly nowhere. Finally, Miss Marston arose to go.

"It's needless to remind you that this is all very confidential, Miss Marston," Norwood reiterated.

"Of course, Doctor. I'll not say a word—to anyone".

Following Miss Marston's suggestion that she take it easy for a few days until the agitated herself to her nerve soundings, Jeanne was enjoying herself working in the garden when there she were startled by the sound of an automobile horn.

She looked up and Capt. Max Bennett was just climbing out of the car and coming toward her, smiling broadly.

Jeanie looked ruefully at her costume, shorts and a halter and pair of overalls, work gloves on her hands, and then laughed at herself as she faced the handsome young officer.

"I wasn't expecting callers," she said, extending her hand to him.

"Why not? I told you yesterday I'd be seeing you soon." Max's tone was bantering.

"I didn't know that soon meant the very next day."

"I'd have been here before this, but unfortunately I had certain duties at Camp. Otherwise, I'm afraid you'd be finding me underfoot most of the time."

Max suggested a ride for a ride.

Interesting Drives

"Some interesting drives around here," he suggested. "You might like to learn more about our country."

"I'd love it," Jeanne answered. "But not in this costume. Can I have a few minutes to change my clothes?"

"You look all right to me in that outfit," Max's look was admiring. "If I suppose, though, you'll insist on changing into something else."

"Give me 10 minutes."

"Make it 20 — I've got a sister and I know what ten minutes means."

Jeanne laughed, and ran into the house. In fifteen minutes she had showered and changed into a fresh cotton frock. In—one hand she carried a large hat.

"Better not put that one if you're going with me," Max warned. "I've got the top down on the car, and you'll take off like a parachute if you wear a hat like that."

"Okay, then, I'll hold it in my lap. I love that hat—Max Marston got it for me in New York and I've been dying for a chance to wear it.

Max wanted to see the campus, so under Jeanne's direction he slowly circled the buildings while she repeated a rehearsal of the information she had learned from Dr. Clyde the previous day.

"For a girl who has only been here a day, you seem to have picked up a lot of knowledge," the pilot commented. He praised the beauty of the campus and admired the handsome buildings.

See States

When they came to the statue of Amory Hallard he stopped the car and examined the figure critically, glancing from it to the girl.

"So that's Grandpop, is it? Well, I must say I don't see much of a family resemblance. Old Amory seemed to run quite a bit to type if this piece of sculpture is accurate, while your nose is quite small and well formed. I'll bet when you were a baby, you had a nose like a button. How do you say 'button-nose in French?'"

The girl laughed, but she could feel the color flaring in her face. There was the time, before she knew Captain Bennett any better to tell him that she was an impostor, that she really wasn't Jeanne Hallard. That she was no relation at all to the man's family. Pride was preserved in bronze at the entrance to the college he had so liberally endowed.

The words were on the very tip of her tongue, but was about to break down and confess everything to him, when she remembered her promise to Dr. Clyde to tell no one about the deception until he was able to see his friend in the F.B.I. and bring back instructions on how she was to act.

"What were you about to say?" Max asked, wonderingly. "I saw something in your eyes, a sort of sparkle and then they suddenly clouded over as if you had drawn a curtain."

I was about to suggest that perhaps if we're going for a ride, we should go instead of sitting here admiring this huge piece of bronze."

Flat Suggestion

"A mighty fine suggestion." He started the car. "By the way I wonder how Grandpop escaped the old metal drive? They could use that metal for something, I imagine. I suppose it's the influence of wealth. No one ever got think of such a thing in a town like Shelton where the very name of Hallard is uttered with awe."

The girl wondered if the real Jeanne Hallard, if she were alive, would have resented such a remark. She glanced at Max and saw he was grinning and decided she was her safest bet, too, so she smiled at him.

"You might suggest it to the college trustees," she said.

"Yeah, and have them demanding that I be shot as a courier?"

"I can imagine their shocked expression if you put the idea up to them," the girl laughed. "I met them yesterday—rather, they met me at the train. Very nice, but also very dignified—just like college trustees should be."

"I'm glad to see you have a sense of humor. I think you can laughie when I have silly ideas. Most any other girl I ever knew would have been furious at the suggestion that she melt up a grandfather to make bullets, but you just laughed."

"Well why not? He's nothing to me—I never knew him."

They rode for more than an hour skirting along a beautiful river. At one point where the stream had cut deeply into the bank, leaving a high cliff, the view was so beautiful that Max involuntarily stopped the car. The two of them sat for several minutes.

"Oooh, that's swell," he commented, at last.

"Beautiful," Jeanne breathed.

Back in Shelton, Max insisted that she join him in a soda at a confectionary shop, and when they had finished that, he suggested a short stroll.

Recruit

"Maybe we'll find something I can buy you as a souvenir of the occasion," he said. "I like to have you remember this day — I know I'll always will."

He saw what he wanted in a jewelry store and taking her arm, led the way inside.

"Those miniature captain's bars," he told the proprietor.

"They're solid silver, Captain, the man answered.

"Of course — that's what we want. I wouldn't think of giving the girl friend anything but the best."

Jeanne protested, but Max insisted on buying the bars and pinning them on her dress.

A soldier was entering the shop as she and Max were leaving but—talking to each other.

"Why, Vera Taylor! What are you doing here?" the soldier asked.

* * *

A shock ran through the girl as though she had touched a live wire.

There was no chance of evading the issue — the soldier was right in front of her, grinning down at her. She managed to smile feebly, but just as quickly veiled her eyes to prevent any sign of recognition showing through.

He was Jim Reed. She had known him in Santa Ana as a child, and as a girl. They had gone to the same school, and had never gone out with him in her high school days, but she knew him as she knew scores of other boys and girls with whom she had been raised.

Face to face with a new crisis, her presence was instinctive. She had become so accustomed to playing the role of Jeanne Hallard that she slipped into the part without effort.

Her face showing surprise, she turned toward Max Bennett, questioningly.

"What is it, soldier?" the captain asked.

Just Spoke

"Nothing. Sir. I just spoke to Vera Taylor. I've known her for years — ever since we were kids together out in Santa Ana, Calif. I—I know I've changed, Vera, since I went into the army, but surely you recognize me." The smile of happiness at unexpectedly finding a friend hundreds of miles from home was still on the soldier's face.

"I—I'm sorry — but I'm afraid you've made a mistake," the girl said.

A look of unbelief crossed Reed's face.

"Quit kidding, Vera. I — I don't want to bust in on your date, but I do want to say hello. It's been so long since I've seen anyone from home."

"I'm sorry — you're mistaken," she murmured, and half turned away. She felt cruel and mean as she did it, but there was no other way if she were to keep her promise to Dr. Clyde. And she had insisted that she tell no one her real identity, until he had heard from the F.B.I. what they wanted her to. No,she couldn't admit to Jim Reed or anyone who she really was.

Private Reed looked baffled, and then shrugged his shoulders.

"Guess I'm so homesick that I'm imagining things," he said. "But you sure are a dead ringer for Vera Taylor, Miss." He stepped back from the door which he was blocking and saluted smartly. "I'm sorry, sir," he apologized to Captain Bennett. "I wasn't trying to be fresh or pull a gag. I really thought I knew this young lady."

"I quite understand," Max replied, returning the salute. "No harm intended."

Chuckles

He chuckled as he took the girl's arm and they walked down the street.

"Don't tell me there are two girls in the world that look like you," he bantered. "One of you is terrific—but if there is another girl just like you running around loose some place, how am I going to believe it's love at first sight, might mistake the other girl for you, and then where would we be?"

With an effort Jeanne swung herself into banter.

"Don't tell me a big brave captain is easily overcome," she laughed unsteadily.

"It's a fact — the first time I set eyes on her, I said to myself, 'that's the girl for me. She's the one I've been waiting for all these long years."

"Now I know you're fooling. Either your memory isn't very long or else you've swung into a new line of conversation when we met."

"I resent that, but what are you talking about?"

"You forget that only yesterday afternoon you told me — at Mrs. Ward's — that the first time you saw me you could cheerfully have added me to the—"

Over Age.

"Anything but that. Suppose before the age or 20 doesn't count," Max interrupted. "I don't mind admitting that I'm over that age. Anything I say now is official."

His admiration for her was obvious, and she had a sudden feeling of pride as she realized he affected her differently from any man she had ever met before. She couldn't go on—not this acting a lie, pretending to be Jeanne Hallard when actually was Vera Taylor.

"Did anyone ever mistake you for someone else?" she asked, seeking to steer the conversation into a safer channel.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE IN FEUD

When rival gangsters squirted 200 shotgun slugs and five pistol bullets into the body of Lawrence "Dago" Mangano, head of the remnants of the old Capone gang, in Chicago's "Little Italy," Rita Reyes (above) miraculously escaped the fusilade, uninjured. She is pointing to the bullet holes in the glass of the automobile in which Mangano was blasted down, with him was "Big Mike" Pantillo, who was wounded. Mike had taken Miss Reyes along for the ride. Mangano died in the Chicago Bridewell Hospital two hours after the shooting.

BARBARA HUTTON'S SON IN B.C.

Shown on the beach in Vancouver, B.C., are Lance Reventlow, son of Barbara Hutton and Count Court Haugwitz Reventlow, his step-[illegible] and in rear, the Count and his wife, the former Margaret Anne Drayton. Lance is the subject of a bitter court fight for his custody between the Count and his mother, the present Mrs. Cary Grant.

BOMB HITS SUMMER RESORT

A bomb was dropped accidentally at Avalon Park, summer resort near Port Dover, Ont., creating a shower of missiles which the group of children above have collected and proudly displayed. Howard Franklin, 13, of Galt, Ont., was knocked down and narrowly missed injury.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

With the R.C.A.F. Overseas (CP) —In a little workshop planted among the maze of Nissen huts that comprise the maintenance section of the Nighthawk squadron, a former diamond setter and jewelry designer applies his skill to the instruments and gauges of Mosquito night fighters.

He is Cpl. J. A. Christensen of St. Lambert, Que. (472 Walnut Ave.) who has been instrument repairer on the squadron for more than a year. It is his job to keep the delicate and essential instruments on the Mosquito's dashboards in perfect condition.

* * *

After nearly five months in a hospital and a convalescent home it feels pretty good to get back in the air again, even in a training plane, according to P/O. George West of Edmonton, (10550 82rd. St.) West bailed out of his Beaufighter and injured his legs in January. Since then his night fighter squadron, the Nighthawks, have converted to Mosquitos. This means spending conversion training for the Edmonton pilot, but in the meantime he's getting the feel of flying again in a twin-engined Oxford training ship.

* * *

New arrival with the Nighthawks Mosquito squadron is P/O. Tom Keown of Toronto (50 Crang Ave.) Keown spent nine months with an Australian squadron.

An all important role in the Teheran conference was played by a Manitoban, Sgt. Red Grant, signal mechanic of Minnedosa.

Red was selected to head a unit charged with the job of protecting the conferences by warning of the possible approach of hostile aircraft.

* * *

Playing tag in mid-air with a pilotless, bomb-loaded Vengeance dive-bomber was the harrowing experience of P/O. Eh. Eitinger, Saskatoon, Sask., (317 Ave. South), 22 year old pilot with an Indian Air Force squadron. Taking off with a live bomb load, Eh's craft burst a tire before it was airborne. The burst crumpled his undercarriage and the hydraulic system for his flares went unserviceable. Unable to crash-land with live bombs aboard, and unable to jettison them because that mechanism was also damaged, Eitinger climbed to 4,000 feet, headed the Vengeance seawards and ordered Plt. Lt. Mike Steel, Stoke-on-Trent, Eng., the gunner to jump. Eh himself bailed out from 2,500 feet.

As he floated down, Eitinger saw the bomber, as if a ghost pilot was aboard, turn neatly, lose height and head straight for him. It was a near miss. Then the bomber made one more circuit and dived earthwards.

* * *

New commanding officer of the Bluenose squadron is Wing Commander Frank Whitney of Edmonton. The 20-year-old former travelling salesman was an instructor at Uplands Service Flying Training School for 15 months prior to being posted overseas last year and started his operational tour with the Ghost squadron.

Former Canadian Patrols Florida Keys for U.S.A.

Miami, Fla. (CP)—The only woman coastguard operator in the United States owning her own boat is a Canadian—Jean Thornton Linderman, formerly of Woodstock, Ontario.

Widow of the late Bert Arthur Linderman, industrialist and inventor, Mrs. Linderman's home "Liar's Lair," located on the Florida Keys has become a Coast Guard auxiliary base. And its hostess is the only feminine auxiliarist skipper in the United States.

Her job is to patrol the Florida Keys—mangrove-circled, mystery-shrouded dots of land with miles and miles of twisting creeks and waterways—hideout of bootleggers and army deserters.

She has been on duty for two years as a member of the U.S. Coast Guard Temporary Reserve. Previous to that she did voluntary patrolling when the Nazis began sinking ships off the coast of the United States.

Noted for her hospitality, during her 13 years as chatelaine of "Liar's Lair," she once explained, "Because Mr. Linderman built it as a winter fishing lodge. And you know the reputation of all fishermen."

Deserter Nabbed

Mrs. Linderman's knowledge of the Keys and the people who live there has already resulted in capture of a two-time deserter from the U.S. army.

She installed a small marine railway on the island so that her boat could be repaired at home. Many of the conveniences of pre-war days come in handy, too. The electric generator now provides the island with electricity and operates the well-equipped machine shop which was a hobby of her late husband. Those machines are used in preparing wood that goes into the making of many of the ammunition boxes carrying shells to fighting men the world over.

An article in Depth Charges, the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and Temporary Reserve publication, recently paid tribute to Mrs. Linderman:

"This five-foot-six dynamo of feminine efficiency is best described in words of one of the regulars stationed nearby: 'I don't know what we'd do without her. She knows the Keys and people so well that it would take years to train anyone to take her place.'"

Burrs

Burr's — Wednesday evening climaxed a long list of successful ice cream socials in the annals of Burr's Church. Since it has become more difficult to serve ice cream this form of social has become very popular. The committee members of the W. A.) were a bit anxious wondering if the cake prepared would be sufficient to serve so large a crowd. However it proved ample and a smile of satisfaction replaced that of anxiety when it was learned all had been supplied and that over $22 had been realized. Rev. P. Tiller was chairman and called on local and visiting talent who provided a very fine program. The president, Mrs. H. Hall, in a pleasing manner thanked everyone present, especially those who assisted on the program, for coming and contributing to the evening's enjoyment in spite of the excessive heat.

R. J. Irvine, Toronto, Elected Head Army and Navy Vets at Provincial Convention Held Here Saturday

Forty-five Ontario Delegates Pass Important Resolutions, W. J. Ford, Belleville, Named 1st Vice President

MORNING PARADE

Robert J. Irvine, president of Ulster Branch, No. 260, Army and Navy Veterans of Canada, Toronto, was elected president of the Provincial Command of that organization at the conclusion of the annual convention held here over the week-end.

President Irvine succeeds Past President Sidney O. Bull, of Windsor.

Other officers elected are: First Vice-president, William J. Ford, Belleville Branch, No. 201; Second Vice-president, Oliver Smith, Branch No. 142, Napanee; Third Vice-president, D. Bibby, Stratford, Ontario.

Four candidates stood for the highest honor of the veterans' organization. These included besides the newly elected president, President S. G. Bull, W. J. Ford, Belleville and Alex. Smith, Napanee.

Election of officers concluded one of the finest conventions held in the history of the veterans' association, according to high-ranking officials. It climaxed a two-day session that was productive of resolutions, that, it is believed, will tend toward the betterment of not only the veterans of the last war, but youthful "old sweats" of the present campaign.

Forty-Five Delegates Present

Approximately forty-five representatives of the organization from all parts of Ontario gathered here for the annual conclave.

Host branch, No. 201, Belleville, under the presidency of Thomas York, and his reception committee, Comrades Art Galbraith, W. J. Ford, Jack Clarke, Bill McCormack and others, aided by Dominion Command executive and legal secretary, James Lazenby, catered to the needs of the visiting delegates.

Appreciation of the efforts of the Belleville Branch was voiced by visiting officials. It was no easy matter, it was stated to accommodate ranking officers of the association, and who represent the province of Ontario, not only in their capacity as heads of war veterans' organizations, but the newly returned soldier as well.

Officers Installed.

Following the election of 1945's officers, installation ceremonies took place with Secretary James Lazenby acting as the official role.

Delegates paid tribute to a retiring head of their organization, as well as a welcome to the incoming official.

A feature of this part of the convention was the presentation of the Past-Presidents medal to retiring President Bull. Newly elected President Irvine pinned the medal on the breast of his predecessor. "Although I have lost the chair," Past President Bull said in an appreciative address, "I will not lose the thoughts of the veterans. It has been a hobby with me and I shall not let down in my endeavor to assist my comrades of this organization. I will do my best to assist the new president in his duties, and assist in winning this war by maintaining a continuous stream of production. Blood has been shed for industrial peace and contentment and security after the war. Labor must work for its jobs after the war, jobs that will pay as much or more than at the present.

Production of a nation determines its standard of living, the speaker pointed out. The greater production the greater the income and a greater share for workers. Wages can only be raised through increased production.

Labor-Management co-operation will work for this increased production, and no necessary to the life of the nation.

A number of films picturing labor in Canada were shown to those in attendance through the courtesy of the National Film Board.

Resolutions

Potential teachers, in the armed services, will benefit if a resolution adopted by the convention, bears fruit.

Adopted by the body in session, the resolution which will be presented to the provincial government requests the attention of its Rehabilitation and Re-Establishment committee and asks that they, inaugurate special courses, so, that young returned veterans, may have the opportunity of becoming teachers in public, high, or vocational schools, and also be instructed in physical training and cadet work. And that full employment be provided with adequate salaries for the veterans taking these courses.

The convention went on record to petition the Provincial Government to increase unemployment insurance through a government subsidy to a minimum of $100 per month, and for veteran, unemployment insurance to be paid continuously until employment is found.

Considerable discussion was given to the question raised by a number of delegates that men who do not go "active service" be excluded from Army and Navy Veterans membership. No new action was taken on the question, it being felt that the present constitution covers the subject.

Memorial Service

A simple, yet impressive memorial service was held at the Station Street Cenotaph, on Sunday morning. Despite the fact that rain fell, veterans rode in automobiles and paid tribute to the memory of fallen comrades. Monsignor J. P. Nicholson conducted the ceremonies and with his usual eloquence, voiced the sentiments of his former comrades with respect to those who "were with us in the last war as well as the present one.

Wreaths were deposited at the foot of the Cenotaph with Dominion Command Vice-President James Lazenby, Belleville, representing that organization, President Sidney Bull, Windsor, representing the Provincial Command and President Thomas York, Belleville Branch Army and Navy Veterans, acting for local members.

Convention Banquet

Highlighting the two-day convention was the official banquet held in the Hotel Quinte on Saturday night when wives and friends of the visiting delegates were guests of the Belleville branch. Special guests of the veterans were His Worship Mayor Harry Rollins, Lieut. Col. B. C. Sisler, officer commanding the Belleville garrison, Lieut.-Col. S. G. Conger, former commanding officer of the Argyll Light Infantry, Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, and others.

In brief addresses tribute paid to flitting tribute to the memory of those gallant men who have given their all both in the last war as well as this one. "They came with a freedom, and they stayed with death," Monsignor Nicholson said. "We must keep the vigil with them. It is our duty."

Mayor Rollins, expressed the hope, that the convention would bring results for the betterment of the war veteran as well as fellow men of the delegates. Friendships won on the battlefield are indelibly grouped, he said and the memories of the days live forever in the hearts of ex-service men. He offered the privileges of the city to the visiting guests and assured them that Belleville was proud to have them in its midst.

Col. Sisler, himself a returned veteran of the last war, also paid his tribute to former comrades in a brief address.

The splendid voice of Miss Ethel Smith, one of this city's newest singing stars highlighted the musical part of the banquet. She offered several selections and received rounds of well-merited applause, as did Bill Warham with his musicians.

Delegates Present

Included in the visiting delegates were Comrades Joe Samain, Jack Clark, Art. Galbraith and C. Bastedo, Belleville; Secretary J. B. Weir, Windsor; R. Grant, Windsor; Alex. Smith Hamilton; T. Plew, Simcoe; W. Hiam, Hamilton; Alex. Leslie, Hamilton; R. Richardson, Hamilton; H. Gibson, Windsor; Don. McPhee, London; W. Russell, Toronto; Leo Crotton, Hamilton; D. Bibby, Stratford; S. G. Bull and W. Reid, Windsor, W. H. Williams, Napanee; Pat. Boland, Simcoe; W. T. Hastings, Toronto; R. J. Irvine, Toronto; Thomas York, and James Lazenby, Belleville; J. Hurst, London; C. W. Mitchell, Hamilton; W. J. Ford, Belleville, and others.

Visiting delegates were loud in their praises of the organization of the convention as arranged by Belleville Branch, and the members of the Belleville Branch. Delegates were quartered in the Hotel Quinte.

The convention was unanimous in its decision to accept the invitation of the Simcoe Branch, to hold the 1945 convention in that place.

KEY TO PROGRESS IN COOPERATION OF CAPITAL, LABOR

Congratulatory Addresses Heard by Reliance Industry Employees

PRODUCTION URGED

Congratulatory addresses were heard by a number of Reliance Industry employees at the McCarthy Theatre here on Sunday, when labor and government representatives pointed out advantages of their newly appointed Labor-Management Committees.

Speakers were introduced by Mr. J. A. Lisolle, company executive, and included Mr. Drummond Wren, educational instructor, U.A.W. of C.I.O.; and D. R. Chant and Herbert Spence of the Industrial Production Co-operation Board, Toronto.

"Both management and labor have to participate actively to create good industrial relations, which depend on right mental attitudes rather than on precise formulae," Mr. Chant told the meeting.

Labor must not, out of charity, It is quick to follow and respect a management, whose policies and practices are fair from fair play.

When labor understands the true nature and purpose of industry, it recognizes management's function and responsibility in connection with it, and when both labor and management begin to grasp the true potentials of co-operative approach they will learn that a sound foundation for the post war years of mutual satisfactory industrial relations.

With remarkably few exceptions those in both groups are fair, Mr. Chant said. They are honest and honorable people who want to do the right thing. Neither one group nor the other has a corner on good nature or honesty or fairmindedness, or on stubbornness either. They ought not lose sight of this fact in their dealings with each other.

Workers, with management, have a job to do, Mr. Wren, told his audience. Its post-war work we must have great hope and faith for in the words of a great man, "there so much to do and so little time to do it." The key to post-war problems lies in the ability of labor and capital to co-operate, for their interests are the same.

Labor and Management must assist in winning this war by maintaining a continuous stream of production. Blood has been shed for industrial peace and contentment and security after the war. Labor must work for its jobs after the war, jobs that will pay as much or more than at the present.

KING

Then with confidence he spoke of "the victory that is rapidly and happily approaching." Tveral times the 70-year-old leader looked to the future. He said he hoped the honor being paid him would be an inspiration to young men entering public life.

He spoke of the value he placed on friendships and of his regret that the onerous duties imposed on his office by the war made it impossible for him to give the time to developing friendship that he would like. Reviewing his own political career he came to his decision to the election after he spoke of his 18 years membership in Parliament.

Uncertain About Election.

"They tell me the people is going to be rough", he said. "I want to tell them that rough or smooth the men, who have stood by me for 18 years will have an opportunity to stand by me again".

"I can't say at this moment when an election will come. We have hearit nothing but election, election, election in the air, confusion into office. Our thoughts must continue to be and should continue to be on the war. When that is over, if God gives me strength, I'll put the best of it I can into the fight".

He spoke of a personal desire to have time to write or the period through which he had passed; but the future offered the greatest opportunity. In the world of public service and in Canada the opportunity was perhaps greater than anywhere else.

"I am ready to go through at least one more general election", he said, "if don't think I can promise any more than that; but I will, if Providence spares me, put the best that I have into the next election campaign".

Parliament, on the suggestion of two leaders of opposition groups, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, had adjourned late yesterday afternoon to enable all Liberal members to attend the dinner. Mr. King had received an ovation when he entered the House Commons Chamber at the morning session.

French port of Brest and its mile of deep-water quays. As the week-ly'the German radio, Paris quarter's broadcast communique said that the German counter-attack was making good progress. It reported violent fighting against the renewed Allied attack south and southwest of Caen.

As the Allied planes which hammered the charging German armored spearheads of Lieut.-Gen. Hans Eberbach's Panzer Army in the last night, 1,000 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Halifaxes and Lancasters were warming up for the even more spectacular attack on the enemy's anti-tank "wall" south of Caen.

The aerial bombardment, which brought around 6,700 tons of bombs down on the heavily dug-in positions comprising the enemy's only remaining firm anchor against the Allied onrush, probably was not as large as that which preluded Gen. Montgomery's abortive above-off from Caen July 18. It was, however, the first such heavy close support attack at night.

(A Nazi Middle broadcast declared that the Germans still held Angers and Nantes on the Loire river, but possibly significantly omitted mention of Le Mans. The Nazi High Command said "the enemy increased pressure in the area east of Laval.")

The American advance elements at Le Mans were 60 miles further into interior France than the area where the Germans launched their counter-attack.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher reported that the Germans were a "shattered, disillusioned, defeated" force, and one incident after another illustrated this undercurrent of the schism between the purged old-line army

IT'S seldom too late to mend . . . that's something our tire men have learned after years of experience in tire repairs. And that's why it will save you money to let us examine ANY tire, before you discard it.

Even holes as big as your fist can be repaired permanently. First we ream out the injured part and cement a rubber into the hole. Then a "section repair" is built up inside to replace the broken cords. The repair is then welded into the tire under heat-and-pressure in a specialized. Such a repair will last as long as the tire.

Domoglad tubes can also be repaired for a months of extra service.

CANADIAN FORCES SMASH 2ND DEFENCE LINE

Reds Tighten Noose Around Nazi Baltic Forces

Plunge 10 Miles Along Highway Leading To Falaise

Americans Capture Le Mans, 110 Miles West of Paris

By GLADWYN HILL
(AP War Correspondent)

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 9—(AP)—A Canadian offensive, surging more than 10 miles south of Falaise, has carved the Germans' second defence line guarding the road to Paris today, and the German High Command said American hast captured Le Mans, 110 miles southwest of the French capital.

Leading elements of the 1st Canadian army drove down the highway from Caen to within five miles of Falaise, highway junction 110 miles due west of Paris, Front dispatch from Canadian Press War Correspondent Ross Munro declared.

Falaise itself is only 65 miles north of Le Mans. The Allied wings thus were curling around the ends of the main German front bulging into Normandy, and toward the base of Brest peninsula.

One of Decisive Battles

Canadians, fighting one of the decisive battles of Western Front, had plunged nearly 10 miles in 36 hours along the Caen-Falaise highway from their jumping-off points, taking hundreds of prisoners and 40 tanks, front dispatches said.

The Canadian 2nd army on the Canadian left also smashed ahead, threatening to trap sizeable German forces between the Seine and Loire rivers.

American tanks and infantry farther south were driving eastward over the Le Mans-Alencon highway, the German High Commands' communique acknowledged a penetration into Le Mans itself after bitter fighting.

German armor was being thrown into the attempt to stem the U. S. tide Paris-bound, British broadcasts said.

Berlin also asserted that Americans had reached the Loire river, extending the Allied line on the south.

Mop Up Breton Peninsula

American troops were mopping up the Breton Peninsula, but the Germans still held the five ports of Brest, Lorient, St. Nazaire, St. Malo and Nantes.

Headquarters said that the bulk of approximately 20,000 Germans which the Nazis were reported to have in Brittany before the invasion have escaped.

American 1st Army columns fought in the outskirts of St. Malo on the north coast, where the siege was into its fourth week, front dispatches reported the American 4 miles from Brest and 20 from Lorient.

The British 2nd Army punched into Central German defences between Vire and Thury-Harcourt, capturing Le Plessis-Grimoult, 19 miles southwest of Caen.

Just north of Thury-Harcourt, tank-supported British infantry beat off strong German attacks seeking to wipe out the Grimbosq bridgehead with reinforcements the Tommies strengthened their hold along the east bank of the Orne river and the fringes of the Grimbosq Forest in the sector 11 miles southwest of Caen.

The forward line of the 1st Canadian Army still was rolling forward Falaise, Supreme Headquarters announced.

Hundreds of German prisoners were captured, but the Canadians had no time to count them.

The BBC said the Canadian drive had reached the high ground near the village of Potigny, a little more than five miles from Falaise, a communications centre.)

Headquarters gave no new information on the drives for St. Nazaire and Nantes, U. S. units are known to be within 12 miles of each.

(The German radio reported a fierce battle for Nantes and said the Germans have "withdrawn close to the French Massif.")

Further indications were that the Germans virtually were abandoning the French France to scrape together forces for defence of the Loire river line, Prem Paul Reynaud declared in second trainload of guns and other equipment en route north from the Bayonne defences, 275 miles south of the Loire, had been wrecked by the French Maquis.

STUTTGART AREA HEAVILY POUNDED BY 1,500 PLANES

Nazi Oil, Aircraft Plants in Hungary Hit by Bombers Based In Italy

DUMPS EXPLODED

London, Aug. 9 — (CP) — More than 1,500 American planes attacked the Stuttgart area of Southwest Germany and Nazi oil and aircraft facilities in Hungary in co-ordinated daylight blows from land and south.

Yugoslav rail yards at Brod also were bombed.

An armada of 1,000 heavy bombers and fighters flew through clouds three miles thick in the attack on the war plants of Stuttgart, the "Detroit of Germany." They met "the fiercest flak in months."

Up to 500 heavy bombers from Italy struck at Hungary. The Almas Fuzito oil refinery on the Danube 30 miles west of Budapest was left in flames. Other targets were a Messerschmitt Assembly plant at Gyor, and airdromes at Veches and Tokol.

Stuttgart, a city of 400,000, and the capital of Wurtemburg, is in darkness. Germany 110 miles from the French frontier. It is on rail and highway routes to the Danube. Munich is the site of a ball bearing factory, a magneto works, and airplane engines and assembly plants.

Bombers Based in Italy

R. A. F. medium bombers in the early afternoon dropped an ammunition dump in the Lyons Forest, 10 miles east of Rouen. A fierce fire was started by the explosion and "this was followed by a tremendous upthrust of fire which sent a wave over a radius of five miles," a pilot said.

"You could see the whole countryside quivering and trees were blown over by the blast," he said. "Flames and smoke rose to a great height."

Three of these bombers were lost in the operation.

The first fliers returning from Stuttgart reported only moderate flak and no enemy fighters, in contrast to German assertions. Nevertheless, some crews reported running into three-mile flak "walls" which they said made flying hazardous.

Flies Fill Channel.

The reported thrust into Germany was the first since Sunday for the United States bombers, which had devoted all their efforts to the battle area and the Channel bomber fleet took more than an hour to cross the coast.

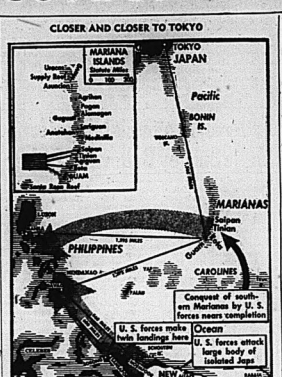
Fighters based at Aire-Sur-La Lys in the Pas-De-Calais area, 20 miles from Belgium to the south and in the Foret De Chantilly had north of Paris—left in flames.

More than 3,200 sorties were flown yesterday against German front positions in support of ground operations, the Air Ministry said. Allied appraisal of the results was announced as a report that some explosives fell short, bombing Canadian positions.

Counter Offensive

The weather was unfavorable over the battle area today, but prospects were for improvement.

Of the stabs into Germany and Hungary today, German broadcasts said heavy U.S. bombers with strong fighter escort struck into the southern Reich from the west and northwest, concentrating on Munich, Budapest and Lake Balaton.



R.A.F. Mosquito squib ranged over France from the battle zone to 200 miles beyond last night in attacks on German targets, but the crews noted a marked lack of activity on the ground, even road and railways.

Motorists bombed and strafed some trains, however, and started fires among a number of oil tanks and dumps they reconnoitered.

Others dumped two-ton blockbusters on Cologne for the second time in three nights.

RELEASE PRISONERS

Ankara, Aug. 9—(CP)— Turkish authorities yesterday released from prison two Russian citizens, employed by the Soviet consulate at Istanbul, who were sentenced to 16 years and eight months imprisonment in May, 1942 after a bomb attempt on the life of German ambassador Franz Von Papen.

American offensives in the Pacific bring U.S. forces closer and closer to the Jap-held Philippines and the Jap homeland. In the Marianas, all organized opposition has been crushed on Tinian, the conquest of Guam is near and new landings are reported on Rota. In Dutch New Guinea, Americans have reaped 260 miles toward the Philippines to land at Sansapor hopped ten miles farther west to seize a Japanese barge base.

BLOOD-SOAKED MONTE GRILLO IN ALLIED HANDS

British and Indian Troops Beat Off Five German Counter-Attacks

FLORENCE QUIET

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent.

Rome, Aug. 9—(AP)—British and Indian forces of the British 8th army have recaptured blood-soaked Monte Grillo and have beaten off five counter-attacks on this rocky slopes in furious fighting north and northwest of Ancona, Allied headquarters announced today as Italian front.

A communique described the situation in and around Florence as virtually unchanged, with only patrol activity in the immediately vicinity of the great art centre.

Canadian tanks and guns operating in the Florence sector in support of an Indian division, Canadian Press War Correspondent Bill Ross reported last night. Hitherto it had only been identified by mention that Canadian armor was engaged "in an undisclosed sector."

There was no further report of the Germans shelling the southern part of the city. Associated Press War Correspondent Lynn Heinzerling, who has been with the 8th army since the city in recent days, said the German batteries had been directing their fire at targets outside the southern limits and there was nothing to indicate damage to the city itself.

There were conflicting reports, however, on destruction within the heart of Florence on the north bank of the Arno.

The British troop paper "Union Jack" said that life was going on normally inside Florence but that that water supply was short and black-outs were in force after dusk at 30 lire per bottle. (The lire Hid its pre-war value of about five cents.)

On the other hand the Canadian troopsheet, "Maple Leaf," said an Italian who had fonded the Arno and reached the Allied line declared that "central Florence is being actively patrolled by the Germans" and that the citizens are confined indoors. He also asserted that fighting between Fascists and anti-Fascists had broken out in the streets.

In the Arno loop east of Florence the enemy continued to resist strongly along his 5½ mile bridgehead line on the north bank of the stream, extending from a point 4 miles east of the city's edge to three miles south of Pontassieve.

ALBERTA RETURNS S.C. GOVERNMENT BY BIG MAJORITY

Party Led by Premier E. C. Manning Led from Start of Counting

38 SEATS CONCEDED

Edmonton, Aug. 9 — (CP) — The Alberta Social Credit government, which took office for the first time in 1935, today was returned to office with a majority greater than it has enjoyed in its gained power.

The government party, led by 36-year-old Premier E. C. Manning, one of the Saskatchewan prairies and trained in public speaking by the late Premier William Aberhart, led from the start of vote-counting in yesterday's election.

So fast was the accumulation of first-choice votes by Social Credit candidates that The Canadian Press conceded the government's apparent election 26 minutes after the polls closed in urban ridings at 7 p.M.S.T. (9 p.m., E.D.T.). By that time, Social Crediters running in the 47 single-member constituencies were far ahead of opposing candidates. Rural polls closed at 6 p.m.

Mr. Manning during the campaign promised the Alberta electorate he would implement his Social Credit fight for money reform. He reiterated last in Social Credit policies which include the payment of a national dividend.

57 Seats in House.

The government party and the C.C.F. both had 27 candidates in the field, one for each of the legislature seats. In the last House, Social Crediters held 35 seats, the Independents 15, C. C. F. one, Liberal one, Labor one, and Independent Social Credit one. There was one vacancy.

UNION NATIONALE PARTY IN QUEBEC WINS 45 SEATS

Duplessis Needs One More Seat to Hold Over-All Majority in The House

LIBERALS ELECT 38

Quebec, Aug. 9. (CP)—Maurice Duplessis Union Nationale leader, lacked a single seat today to show an over-all majority in yesterday's Quebec general elections with one seat still in doubt and voting in a district of Victoriaville on Aug. 24.

In the doubtful seat, the rural constituency of Rouville, unofficial returns on 24 out of 40 polls gave Liberal candidate Lacoste a lead of 220 votes. The returning officer, however could not be found by either party today and with him was the secret of what the remaining 16 polls might show.

Standing in the other seats follows:

	1944	1939
Union Nationale	45	14
Liberals	38	66
Bloc Ouvrier	1	0
C.C.F.	1	0
Conservative	1	1
Independent	11	2
Total	89	86

The closest election result in Quebec's long political history followed a hectic campaign, climaxed yesterday with two riots in one Montreal riding.

Provincial police arrested 71 persons on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

It was reported originally that 19 had suffered gunshot wounds but this was later that three persons were known to have been injured as the result of shots, in addition to those carried away by friends. Others received wounds from knives, blackjacks, brass knuckles, broken bottles and a variety of other weapons.

2 Bavarians Save Selves by Using 'V-S', White Flag on Long Pole

New York, Aug. 9 —(CP)— Two Bavarian soldiers saved their lives by "using V-S, a new secret weapon," the BBC broadcast recorded at the C.B.S. listening station said today.

The two soldiers told correspondents that "they had sought protection in a dug-out during a recent 1,000 bomber raid south of Caen on Normandy front," the broadcast recorded.

"Only one thing can save us now—V-S," one of the Bavarians said to the other.

"What is V-S?"

"V-S is a large, white flag on a long pole," his ingenious friend answered.

Wedge Is Driven Thru Poland To German Silesia

Six-Mile Northward Thrust On Vistula Bridgehead Noted

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent.

Moscow, Aug. 9—(AP)—The Red army tightened a noose today around German forces in Latvia, estimated at more than 20 divisions —between 250,000 and 300,000 men —and smashed a deeper wedge through Poland toward German Silesia, Soviet communiques said.

Three Soviet columns pressed on Riga from the west, south and east for possibly the biggest kill of the summer campaign. Heavily armored enemy units still beat upon the Latvian capital. Their intensive thrusts shattered by Ivan C. Bagramian's right wing.

The Soviet High Command announced that enemy forces are being "split" and "our troops are stubbornly advancing" against German Reserve divisions thrown into desperate counter-attacks to nearly every sector of the front to keep the Red army from reaching German soil. A communique supplement said 1,000 were killed.

The communique also announced a six-mile northward thrust on the Vistula bridgehead, a drive that may be pointed at Warsaw from the north, and the capture of more than 25 miles of the Czechoslovakian border.

The Russians said that to support their counter-attacks the Germans are hurling "even road-building, airdrome and other rear detachments" into battle. It was reported 15 new German divisions have reached the front in the past three weeks—some from the Central Germany reserves, others from Western Poland, Italy, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Norway.

The Russians did not disclose where the German counter-attacks have taken place but it can be assumed that at least part were aimed at keeping the Red army from leaping forward the few miles needed to reach the soil of East Prussia.

Rush in Reinforcements.

The Soviet report announced many new officers "have taken over on the eastern front at this critical juncture.")

Breakout Is Blocked.

A German southward thrust has been brought out of the Estonia-Latvia encirclement was broken up by Soviet forces several miles south of Tukums area, in Northern Lithuania near the Latvian border, the Soviet midnight communique said.

Since the rolling Russian legions in that sector have captured more than 20 communities including Tukumsis, on the border

Patriots Sabotage Hun Lines In S.W. France, Make Nazis Panicky

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
(A.P. Press Staff Writer.)

Irun, Spain, Aug. 9 (AP)—German attempts to evacuate men and equipment from positions in southwestern France outflanked by Allied troops farther north are being seriously disrupted by French Patriots who launch communication lines and spreading panic among the Nazis still in that area, border reports said today.

As the German army of occupation moved northward the Maquis were reported narrowing its way of escape and grimly awaiting the time when those Nazis left behind are too weak to survive the challenge of the Frenchmen of the mountains. The Maquis were declared to be using dynamite charges to destroy much of the material they hoped to rescue from southern France.

Two daughters of the French Resistance chief at Hendaye and the French openly talk about the war and their hopes for its early end, they said boys and girls under working and fighting age help among the Maquis, the reports said. The French equivalent of the song "I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal You."

More than 1,000 German soldiers remain in Hendaye, St. Jean De Luz and other points south of Bordeaux, these reports said, close to their barracks and seem ready to move at a gunman's notice, French report said.

Other advices said French resistance forces had cut the railroads linking the Bay of Biscay with the Mediterranean but the roads remain open. Heavy German guards for Germans along the coast from Britiany to the Pyrenees.

Allies Are Winning Medical War In Pacific Says Canadian Member

By JACK BRALEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 9 — (CP) — Back from the battle-fronts of the Pacific, Dr. Thomas F. Donnelly, Liberal member for Wood Mountain constituency, Saskatchewan, said in an interview here today that the Allies are definitely winning the medical war in the Pacific. He also said that at least one Canadian unit is now in action in that theatre — at Saipan.

Dr. Donnelly said that Japanese medical officers were good, but that conditions were being disregarded by the military class and the enemy was dying off in large numbers because of even minor wounds.

He said the Australian medical corps was reclaiming between 80 and 85 per cent of casualties for further service.

"The only thing that prevents a wounded Australian soldier from getting these days is if he's lost a limb," said the doctor.

Recently at Honolulu Dr. Donnelly met Capt. William E. Wait, Oshawa, and Capt. Fred J. Pullen, Kamloops, B.C., who were attached to American forces in the recent action at Saipan.

Dr. Donnelly said his greatest impression of the Australian war effort was that the sister Dominion had not only built several types of planes but has also constructed a motor to go with them.

He is the first of a parliamentary delegation of four to return to Ottawa from the Pacific.

He was accompanied back to San Francisco by Angus MacInnis, C.C.F. member for Vancouver East, who continued to his home, and J. Gordon Ross, Liberal member for Moose Jaw, who returned to Manitoba. The fourth member of the party, Lieut.-Col. H. Harris, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Danforth, is returning to Canada through the Mediterranean area where he hopes to meet his son, serving with the Canadian army.

Newspaper Story Reunites Mother, Son Separated 29 Years

Halifax, Aug. 9—(CP)—After 29 years, wondering about the mother he had never remembered seeing, Arthur Stanley Redden, veteran of United States Army Air Force duty in the South Pacific, was reunited with her by a story in a Halifax newspaper.

Redden had gone to Lynn, Mass., with his father when only a few months old, following an estrangement between his parents. He always believed his mother was alive, and when he received an honorable discharge from the American Army he determined to find her, being seriously wounded in the South Pacific in the bombardment of Mo.

He came to Halifax, and a local newspaper printed his story in his search. Sixty miles away, in Truro, Mrs. W. J. Stockman, sister of Mrs. Redden's father, Windsor, N. S., read the story and immediately recognized the boy she believed dead.

As a footnote to the story, the former air force machine-gunner had met an old friend, Byron Barnes, in Halifax. Mrs. Barnes believed her sister-in-law had died in the Halifax explosion of 1917, her name having been erroneously listed among those killed.

43 miles from Riga.

Along with the Riga-Libau offensive, the Soviet forces also into other spearheads into Latvia "along the Gauya River and Lake Lubana," sweeping through a total of 120 places, including Lubana.

Once again the Russian communique made no mention of the battle before Warsaw, where Soviet troops last were reported fighting in the eastern suburbs while the Polish underground fought the Germans inside the capital itself.

MISS VIOLET McLEAN (Picton)

Picton, Aug. 9—The death occurred at Kingston on Sunday of Miss Violet McLean, after a lengthy illness. She was the only sister of Judge E. H. McLean who died in April, and with whom she had made her home here since 1917. A devoted member of the Anglican Church she was a member of several organizations of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. For many years she was Girl Guide Commissioner and in 1939 had been awarded the influence, being affectionately known as "Aunty Vi." A lady with a gracious manner, the gift of understanding and ready sympathy and practical help, she enjoyed the esteem of all who knew her.

The funeral service took place in Toronto. Survivors are three nephews, Dr. Gerald McLean, Montreal, Lt.-Col. Hamilton McLean, Camp Borden, and Neil McLean Picton.

Large Amount of Help Will Be Needed To Can Corn, Tomato Crop

With the grain harvest situation well in hand from a manpower point of view, farmers are now turning their attention to the harvesting of what is said to be a good crop of tomatoes and corn, according to the Hastings County Canada Manpower Committee which met at the Chamber of Commerce office here Tuesday night.

Tomato and corn harvesting will be urgently needed for the harvesting of the tomato crop, it was revealed. An increase of 40 per cent in acreage in Ontario, plus excellent prospects for a good yield, will demand increased labor. Canning factories will need 600 labor men in order to preserve the yields of corn and tomatoes.

While some tomatoes are even now being brought to district canneries, farmers are taking care of the early harvest work themselves. However, by August 21, it is expected the first of the heavier yields will be anticipated, and labor will be in demand at this time.

If corn yields this year, the meeting was told, will be excellent if present prospects are any indication. Quality is said to be very good.

Field or fodder corn is also showing fine indications of a good crop, but farmers will need assistance in this filling.

Besides President Henry Grills and Secretary Fred Mitchell, H. G. Fair, Hastings County agricultural representative, and Mr. A. Shelton, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Messrs. George Forbes and Thomas Mancer, managers of the Bella and Capitol theatres here were present at the meeting. The theatre representatives, who have contributed their efforts to the drive for farm labor in this district, stated that they will continue along this line throughout the duration of their screens and other facilities of their places of entertainment.

Farmers requiring assistance during the plant crop harvest are urged to get in touch with Mr. J. O. Herity, Chamber of Commerce or the district representative of the city. This also applies to potential farm workers who desire to assist in the harvesting of Canada's food.

Grain harvests, while not normal, yielded much better results than were anticipated three weeks ago.

Federal, Provincial Engineers Make Survey Belleville Harbor

Following recommendation from city council, engineers both of the Federal and Provincial departments are in the city today conducting a thorough inspection of the Belleville harbor and the lower portion of the Moira river with the view of passing on recommendation for alleviation of the very unsanitary condition of the pond and harbor water.

On Tuesday, A. J. Carlson, district engineer for the Pensions and National Health Department at Ottawa, met with members of the special committee appointed by council to look into harbor conditions, and made an inspection of the harbor, while today the Ottawa man was joined by an engineer from the provincial department and city engineer Charles Mott with an inspection of the lower reaches of the river being planned. Tomorrow the special committee appointed by council is Alderman Jack Allin.

Reporting the committee meeting with the Federal engineer, Mr. Allin stated that samples of water, both in the harbor, and at different points in the river as far north as Corbyville would be taken. Following the inspection recommendations would be made to council by the engineers.

Health Secretary in Meeting.

"Mr. Carlson found the water in the Belleville Harbor, and also in the Moira river to be in a very unsanitary condition," reported Mr. Allin. "The harbor especially was found to be very badly polluted."

Pending approval and recommendation from the department at Ottawa, members of the special committee looking into harbor conditions yesterday inspected the outlet of a sideway from the river to the harbor. The sideway, it contended, should be filled in and the lower extremities of Fireman's Park, which is a low, swampy area, adequately alleviate the dead water condition in the local harbor.

Oak Lake Camper Helps Recover Own Property

Keen observance on the part of an Oak Lake camper from Toronto and subsequent resourceful thinking resulted in the apprehension of two robbers on Tuesday morning.

The Toronto camper at Oak Lake was Mr. McRay, who has a cottage along Highway No. 14 from Belleville to his summer cottage at Oak Lake when he noticed two men walking southerly and carrying a black club bag. On the arrival at the Oak summer cottage Mr. McRay found that his cottage had been broken into, suit of clothes, top coat, shirts and other wearing apparel had been stolen, along with a black club bag.

Remembering he had seen two men walking along the highway and carrying a black club bag Mr. McRay proceeded towards Belleville and finally into the city hall, where he asked local firemen to assist him in holding the two men. Later they were identified as Norman Millette, 24, Montcalm Street, West, of Montreal. They are being held on charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Later Provincial Constables Driscoll and Smibert proceeded to Oak Lake, where it was disclosed other cottages, besides Mr. McRay's, had been entered and ransacked. Additional charges are pending, the investigating officers reported to Inspector Harry Storey today.

The War Today—Gallows in Germany Begins Its Grim Work of 'Liquidation'

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

Whether there's truth in the report that Nazi Gestapo chief Himmler the bangsman has been assassinated and Reichsmarshal Goering wounded, the fact remains that all the leaders of the Hitler regime are increasingly in danger of violent death.

The dictator has put the already war-weary and gloomy German people under a cruel strain of regimentation' in his program for total war. He has chained them to their galley seats and is using the lash to make them pull their oars. Small arms are under the even greater stress of continual defeats and retreats.

Thus while Hitler may be able to keep the lid on for a while by terrorism and force, morale inevitably will deteriorate to the point where numerous individuals will seek the lives of the leaders for Germany's catastrophe. The gallows which yesterday claimed eight more army officers has only begun its grim work.

Allied Air Force Greatest Menace to Hitler.

The greatest test of Hitler's ability to hold his people in line is still to be made. That will be the supreme trial by fire in the great retreats which the German armies must achieve in the western and eastern theatres to reach the inner defences of the Reich or their last stand.

The greatest single menace hanging over Hitler as he tries to extricate his armies will probably be the mighty Allied air force.

The fine and going Canadian officer in the Chet sector provides an excellent illustration of the use of air power in battle. The most important and difficult attack was preceded by an unprecedented bombardment by some 1,600 planes, after which the Canadians slammed into the powerful German defences and hurled the enemy back several miles.

That battle, by the way, is worth watching. The Caen sector is the one on which Hitlerites are swinging back their loose left flank in retreat. If that hinge is broken it will place the Nazis in a precarious position.

50 Shot-Gun Shells For Sportsmen's Use

Ottawa, Aug. 9 — (CP)—Sportsmen with the right type of gun no longer need mooch around home dreaming of the good old days when they could go hunting.

The government has recognized that light and comfortable shotgun providing they have a registered rim rifle or shotgun.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner, explaining an announcement regarding distribution of shells, said ammunition would be confined to shotguns and rifles of .22 calibre. No centre-fire shells will be released because of the great demand for rim-fire cartridges.

The Board said supplies were limited and recommended that farmers, trappers and prospectors have first call on supplies.

Persons who own shotguns a person may own he is entitled to only 250 rim-fire cartridges and 50 shot shells.

Forty Hours Devotion Held at Point Anne

The Forty Hours adoration began at St. Peter and St. Sunday morning last and concluded on Tuesday evening.

High Mass was celebrated each morning at 8.30 and a sermon, followed by benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, took place each evening at 7.30. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers and illuminated with lights. The choir, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Simmons, organist, rendered the music appropriate in a splendid manner. Large congregations were present for all the services. The clergy present were—Monsignor Fay, Belleville, V.G.; Very Rev. E. M. Leacy, P.P. Napanee; Fit. Lt. Rev. O. Mulligan, Montreal; Rev. Father J. A. Martin, P.P., Deseronto, Rev. A. L. Dumont, Belleville.

Parole Violators Steal Motor Car

After stealing a motor car in Stirling two teen-aged parole violators from the Bowmanville Boys' Training School secured themselves inside of the stolen car and refuse to permit Peterboro police entrance after being cornered in that city. Later Lifuck City police managed to gain entrance and learned the motor car was stolen in Stirling and Provincial Constable Wm. James Driscoll returned the lads and lodged them in the city lock-up here from where they will be returned to the Bowmanville School of Correction. The boys, 13 and 14 years of age respectively, boldly stole Mr. Wilson's car, drove it to Frankford, where they doubled back on the Madoc Road to No. 7 Highway, where they proceeded to Peterboro. The boys had been placed in foster homes by Bowmanville authorities from where they ran away.

POLICE BLOTTER

A truck driven by Phillip Ray, R.R. No. 5, Belleville, collided with a Front Street electric light standard at the Bridge on being driven away from the curb early Tuesday evening. Ray reported to police he was of the opinion his truck had struck a stone, but apparently such was not the case. The light standard and lamp were bent at the base and will be replaced, it was learned today by the Hydro employees who were notified and make the necessary repairs.

Charged Under L.C.A.

A resident of Stirling was found sitting on the running board of his motor car on Lingham Street late Tuesday night. Police also found a large bottle of native wine sitting alongside of him. The ultimate result was that he was charged with violations of the L.C.A.

Kiwanians Honor Memory of Late Joseph W. Imlah

Belleville Kiwanis Club honored the memory of Joseph W. Imlah, past president of the club, who died suddenly on Tuesday, August 1st., at their weekly luncheon at the Quinte Hotel on Tuesday last. The President's chair was left vacant and in front of the chair was placed the late member's button, a strip of purple ribbon and a single red rose. An eulogy was paid by J. Owen Herity and after a minute's silence, the members sang one verse of "Abide With Me". This was followed by a most inspiring address by Rev. Dr. A. J. Myers of Tabernacle United Church on the subject "What does it all mean?"

Before the eulogy Mr. Herity, a letter was read by President Jack McVeigh from Mrs. Imlah acknowledging the many acts of kindness shown to her by Kiwanians in her hour of bereavement and for the guard of honor arranged for the funeral. Mr. Herity stated that "Joe was called away in the noonday of his usefulness and "We can sympathize, when those are called, who have lived out a full life, but it is unspeakably sad when one is called on the threshold of a career in the midst of usefulness", said Mr. Herity. "Life is most uncertain although the span of life has been increased almost double that of centuries ago. Medicine has played in the death dissemination by smallpox, typhoid, black fever, but still Death is ever present with us".

Record Exceedingly High.

Mr. Herity stated that it was not a question of how long a person had been with us but how useful had he been. Referring particularly to Joe Imlah, the speaker stated, that he did not allow his profession to narrow down his interest in life. "We owe so much to others", said Mr. Herity, "and we must recognize the claims of a community and our departed friend was most active in all community enterprises. He was active in the Chamber of Commerce serving as a director and vice president; was an Alderman of the city; a lay worker in the Y.M.C.A.; on the Library Board; in the Y.O.N.; but above all found his most congenial activities as a member of the Kiwanis Club. There will be genuine sorrow among those whom he befriended and when we evaluate human character, the record of Joseph W. Imlah will stand exceedingly high in this community". Speaks on Life.

The speaker was introduced by Charles Hyde and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Herb Fox. Rev. Dr. Myers spoke on Life and showed that many have apparently everything they want, clothes, money, homes, but generally have not the things they want. A question has often been asked "how much did he leave?" and this was answered at one time "He left everything." Things that we can leave stated the speaker are courage, neighborliness, service, and a reverence for life. Life is not an intangible thing and the things that we love to recall about the departed give a real meaning to life. Mr. Myers said that he did not believe that Joe Imlah's last chapter had been written. His influence for good and worthwhile work will live and bear fruit in this community.

Carnival Discussed.

A considerable amount of time of the luncheon was taken up with preparations for the forthcoming Carnival. Taylor Franklin, chairman of the ticket sale for the $1,000 bond, urged the different teams to make a special effort during the remaining time to dispose of the books. The sale has been read good" said the chairman, "but we want to make a real showing so that the work planned by the club can be carried out". Lawrence Keith, in charge of games, gave a list of the managers for the different games and a list of the workers will also be given in bulletin form before the Carnival. Herb Reed, general chairman, stated he had received wonderful support from all the committees and that a successful Carnival was assured if the same pace was maintained.

STOWED AWAY

Craving excitement, 19-year-old Mary Phillips, Welsh miss from Tyrisnaran, near Llanelly, went to the right place to find it. She stowed away on an invasion barge and went to Normandy, where she spent two weeks on the beachhead amid the thunder of guns and bombs. She is photographed on return home.

Money Reform Advocates Hold Spotlight in House

(By D'ARCY O'DONNELL)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Ottawa, Aug. 9. (CP) — Money reformers and those in favor of maintaining Canada's present banking system held the spotlight in the Commons yesterday as argumenta heated the last few months in the Banking and Commerce Committee meetings were repeated on the floor of the House.

With the government seeking passage of the Bill extending the charters of Banks for ten years, O. G. Cecil, Co-Vancouver Burrard and Arthur Slaght (L-Parry Sound) continued to urge that money reforms be made but other Liberal members argued that the present banking system should be allowed to continue on its record of service.

Mr. McGeer said that continuance of some aspects in the present system was just what he was opposing. He spoke after the House had defeated an amendment in which J. H Blackmore, Social Credit House Leader, asked that the Federal government grant bank charters to provincial governments, who, with the consent of their legislatures, sought such charters. Amendment Introduced.

In another amendment, M. McGeer asked that the banks be prevented from creating or issuing bank deposit credit in place of or as a substitute for the lawful currency and coinage of Canada unless authorized to do so by a board made up of the Prime Minister, the Minister of Finance and the Governor of the Bank of Canada.

He said the banks were definitely responsible for the stock market crash in 1929, and his amendment was aimed at preventing them from doing what they did prior to the crash.

The inflation of bank deposits withdrawn from circulation caused the stock boom and the collapse which swept over the country, he said.

The amendment, which was not acted upon before adjournment of the House, would prevent private banks from creating new money unless authorized to do so by the Board of three.

Claims Power Given Away.

The government had given away the greatest power it possessed, the power to issue money, when the law permitted chartered banks to enlarge their deposits and lend the money to the government.

The power had been given to a group of men whose business was lending money for profit. The result was a natural tendency to keep money scarce so that it would always be in demand.

"It is a monetary system that has neither sense, nor reason, nor logic to sustain it", he said.

Finance Minister Ilsley argued there was little difference between the methods proposed by Mr. McGreer and those followed by the government.

Tabulation of Tuesday's Elections

Edmonton, Aug. 9 (CP)—Preliminary and incomplete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in the Alberta election indicated the final total will be less than the 1940 figure of 306,340.

Social Credit which swept back into power, polled 53 per cent of the vote and C.C.F., which also put candidates in all constituencies, polled 25 per cent. Independents, whose total vote in 1940 approximately equalled the Social Credit total, polled 15 per cent.

The tabulation, based on returns from 2,221 of 2,665 polls, follows:

Social Credit: 1944—131,942 (39); 1940—131,918 (36); ——163,700 (36).

C.C.F.: 57,090 (0); 33,326 (0); ——— (0).

Others: 15,606 (0); 10,878 (2); 104,989 (7).

Total: 228,947 (x); 306,340 (37); 301,752 (43).

(x)—57 seats including 18 doubtful.

The Quebec Vote.

Quebec, Aug. 9 (CP)—Preliminary and incomplete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in the Quebec election showed a vote more than double the 1939 record total. The largest vote—39 per cent—was polled by Liberal candidates Union Nationaux, which elected the largest group, polled 36 per cent and the Bloc Populaire 15 per cent.

The tabulation, based on returns from 7,701 of 8,304 polls, follows:

Union Nationale: 402,514 (45); 220,403 (15); 223,812 (76).

Bloc Populaire: 172,626 (4); ——— (0); ——— (0).

Total—1,122,384 (x); 563,297 (68); 569,225 (90).

HIGH USAGE A RESULT OF LOW COST

Here in Canada where the telephone idea was born, more telephone calls per capita are made than in almost any other country in the world.

Usage is surely the final test. Telephone users get the greatest possible value for what they pay. Reasonable rates and speedy, dependable, courteous service—all these encourage telephone development. They account for Canada's leadership in the use of the telephone.

Of course, war-time scarcity of vital materials has sharply restricted growth, but telephone service has been maintained at high standard. It has made an outstanding contribution to the Victory to come.

Residents of Canada and the United States make many more telephone calls per capita than any European country.

In Europe, Sweden leads. Latest official figures available (1941) give Sweden 196.5 annual calls per capita as compared with 163 for Canada.

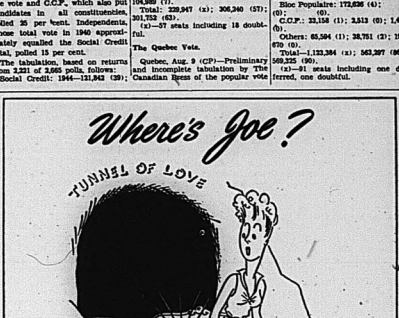
Sam Michael, 44, Held in Murder Of 7 Years Ago

Oshawa, Ont., Aug. 9 — (CP) — Sam Michael, 44-year-old Pickering township farmer, was arrested by provincial police last night and charged with the murder seven years ago of Mike Shevehuk. Michael was arraigned in police court this morning and was remanded until Aug. 16 when he will appeal in Whitby.



Shevehuk, caretaker-superintendent of Yungveld Camp, a Jewish boys centre, was killed Nov. 24, 1937. His body was found on a Pickering township road near the camp. He had been shot through the heart and his head and body were badly mutilated.

Michael was a witness at the inquest Jan. 7, 1938 into Shevehuk's death when a coroner's jury found he died from the bullet wound. Medical evidence was that Shevehuk's head was almost severed from his body in what police described as ritual mutilation. Under his head when the body was found was a copy of a magazine which bore the caption, "Behind the Sex Crime." Police said they believed it had been placed there by the killer.

The arrest was made by Inspector W. J. Franks and Constable Fred Clarke of the Provincial Police. Michael was not asked to plead or elect when he made his only appearance before Magistrate R. F. Locke of Toronto who ordered the case transferred to Whitby.

St. Malo and Canada

From the seaport of St. Malo, 'twas a shining morn in May
When the Commodore Jacques Cartier to the westward sailed away.

That little fishing port gave the world one of the most famous explorers, the man Cartier who discovered Canada in 1534, just forty-two years after Columbus found the New World. Of how much importance cannot be attached to his discoveries as he revealed Canada to the world and laid the basis of French civilization in Eastern Canada.

Now in the year 1944, four hundred and ten years later, "Allied armies of British and Americans and Canadians are making history in that part of France which is falling into Allied hands.

For Cartier, St. Malo and Canada are bound together by ties which time has only strengthened. From the adjacent part of France, Normandy, as from Brittany came French settlers to Canada for settlement along the River St. Lawrence.

At St. Malo, Jacques Cartier was born a year before Columbus set sail to the west on his voyage which brought the New World within the knowledge of men. So Cartier was only 43 years of age when he made his name forever famous by his discovery of Canada.

Cartier fitted out a second expedition in 1535 where he visited the Indian cities of Stadacona (Quebec) and Hochelaga (now Montreal).

The liberation of St. Malo and the rest of Britanny will have a deep meaning for Britain as well as France and Canada for in Britanny live the descendants of the Bretons who were related by ties of blood to the Britons and those Britons' descendants live in the British Isles today. It is like the healing of ties long since broken.

In the museum of St. Malo is a relic, the remnants of one of the ships that Cartier used in his second voyage to Canada in 1535. About one hundred years ago the remnants of the brittle timbers were duly covered and taken to Cartier's hometown and placed in the museum which it is hoped has survived the four years' visitation of the Huns.

Distance Shrinking

The world of an aggressor is narrow when his sins and evils begin to find him out and to bring him to punishment.

A short while since, Rome was far away from Allied lines, Hitler's advance force in Russia entered far, very near Moscow at one time, and his fortress looked strong to Germany.

But the lines began to draw back, and then Hitler in his own words "was within Rome falls, and Paris, the capital of France was far from Allied armies. Then came the Battle of Normandy and the bursting from the beachhead and now just about a bare one hundred miles lie between Paris and the American advance guards. In the East the mighty Muscovite armies march with that tread which must enervate the bloodthirsty Hun and as they leave that area they hear is the march of doom of the evil that Germany allowed Hitler to foist upon the world.

Once Berlin, Rome, Paris were very deep within Hitler's Europe. Now Berlin as a centre of government hardly exists if it does exist because it has been bombarded relentlessly from the air to make it lose every semblance of the heart of Hitler's war machine. Rome is now far within Allied lines and Paris in the coming time will swiftly sweep into the Allied lines and be again free. And then Berlin — the centre of Teutonic aggression is to be the place where a United Allied world knocks on the door of Germany in the name of an aroused democracy and peace-loving world.

Swift will be the descent to the pit and Hitler, Germany and all their machinations of evil are on the skids to destruction. The world can look forward to the freeing of Paris shortly.

The Nazi Purge Goes On

Now they in Germany are hanging German military officers, said to have been convicted of plotting against Germany's Fuehrer. A major general and seven other Huns came before the Nazi hangman.

Mischief is afoot in Germany. Of course there was always mischief there but Himmler's despotic murderous sway has kept the opposition submerged. But it has come to light in the Berlin-reported plot against Hitler and the steps taken to "rub out" the military class, the Junkers and Prussianism by look upon the supreme Nazi as an upstart.

Disaster and defeat are striking from without at Hitler's so-called Fortress of Europe, and there is strife within, do what Himmler will. The latter has made a bloody time of it in carrying on the purge of those suspected of complicity in the plot against the regime of Adolf Hitler.

Among many of this week a German Field Marshal and seven other Germany army officers were led to execution by the rope at the conclusion of their trial, so Berlin reported.

This purging in Germany tells a story of strife. Himmler may exact terrific toll but it is scarcely likely that the friends of the executed men will merely bow in servitude to Hitler and his crowd, whom they scorn as the dust beneath their feet.

The struggle is let loose, the German dogs of war and malice are gnashing their teeth, snapping at and rending other German dogs of war, they are tearing one another apart, thirsting for German blood.

It has been remarked that it is a good sign of the approach of victory for Allied peoples that this exhibition of internecine bitterness should develop as Hun tries to liquidate Hun. The aggressors have fallen out and the Nazis dread the hand of the military class of Germany. The present gloomy developments in the field as the Allied powers are striking their might against Hitlerism to beat it into the dust have made the Germans disunited and so the liquidation begins. Had everything gone according to their plots against the Allied world, the Germans would probably have kept their internecine hates to themselves until they might possibly achieve their sinister aim but there can be no doubt that there would have been the liquidation sooner or later in Germany, for the two groups would never cohabit one kingdom; Hitler knows that and it is the reason why he has always defended himself with such men of evil as Himmler.

The Allied storm rages against Hitler's fortress, his danger grows and within all is not well.

The end is coming nearer. There are cracks in the walls of the "fortress". When Hitler strikes at his military group, he becomes more and more certain his own removal by whatever hands some time in the near future.

Motorways Planned

Construction of a vast system of motorways costing $400,000,000 is planned for England after the war, London reports. The motorways would be a super-highways stretching over long distances and designed to meet all needs of modern motor traffic. The proposal has been placed on the Government's approved list, but experimental stretches will be constructed first to test the plans. The motorway project is only part of a program mapped by the automobile industry in Britain to prepare the industrial machine for post-war conditions. Employment features largely in that rounded project and early transition to provide work for thousands has been mapped.

Symbolic Defiance

(Montreal Star)

There is a certain symbolic defiance in some of the landmarks of Old London which have survived the worst of the enemy's bombing. One of these is the carving of a boy which was erected on a building in August 1688 to mark the highest point in the City of London. Some years before the war, the bank, now occupying the building to which this carving is attached, placed a glass case over it to protect it from the weather. There the ancient carving of this boy still stands as a symbolic challenge at the highest point of the City of London, with even its protecting glass unharmed.

Empty House

The family has gone away
And I am left alone to stay,
And nothing worse in life can be
To any solitary spouse—
At least it so appears to me—
Than entering an empty house.

There is no blacker state of gloom
Than that which fills an empty room;
No ghastlier sound than that which frights
The pallid pales the quiet nights,
And chills the blood of him o' nights.
The lonely man upon the stair.

There is no cavern quite so grim
As is man's empty home to him.
No sadder fate on earth can be
No deeper desolation known.
Than man without his family.
Compelled to live two weeks alone!

Pyle in Normandy:

Break-Through From Beachhead To Begin Real War in West Europe

In Normandy.—(By Wireless)—A few days after D-Day you may remember we spoke in this column of five early phases of the continental invasion: Build-up, Buster to Caen, Pause.

Phase No. 5 was to be the breakout from our beachhead after we had held it secure long enough to build up vast quantities of troops and supplies behind us. And once we'd broken out of the ring of Germans trying to hold us in and completed Phase No. 5, the real war in Western Europe would begin.

Well, in Phase 5 now. At least we are while I'm writing this. Things are moving swiftly. You realize that from day-to-day changes between the writing and the publication of this column. But by the time you read this we may be out in the open and pushing into France.

Surely history will give a name to the battle that sent us bursting out of Normandy—some name comparable with, Dr. Mitch, of Moscow Argonne of the last war. But to us here on the spot the time for that was known simply as "the breakthrough".

We correspondents could sense that a big drive was coming. There are many little ways you can tell without actually being told. All of us are experienced in war.

And then one evening Lieut. Gen. Omar Bradley, commanding all American troops in France, came to our camp and briefed us on the coming operation. It would start, he said, on the first day we had three hours good flying weather in the forenoon.

We were all glad to hear the news. There isn't a correspondent over here, or soldier, or officer I ever heard of who hasn't complete and utter faith in General Bradley. If he felt we were ready for the push, that was good enough for us.

The General told us the attack would open with a segment of the German line west of St. Lo, about five miles wide. In that narrow area the west we would have three infantry divisions, side by side. Right behind them would be the armor, infantry and two armored divisions.

Once a hole was blasted, the armored divisions would slam through several miles beyond, then turn right toward the sea behind the Germans in that sector with the hope of cutting them off and trapping them.

The remainder of our line on both sides of the initial breakthrough was to pressure on to hold the Germans in front of them so they couldn't send reinforcements against our big attack.

The attack was to open with a gigantic two-hour air bombardment by 1,500 planes—the biggest, I'm sure, ever attempted by air in direct support of the ground troops.

It would start with dive bombers then great medium bombers would come, and then mediums, then dive bombers again, and then the ground troops would kick off, with air fighters continuing to work above them.

It was a thrilling plan to listen to. General Bradley obviously had no doubt in the world that this was Phase 5. But, since Phase 5 is secret, I'll say the word. They said, "This is no limited objective drive. This is it. This is the big break-through".

In war everybody contributes something, no matter how small or how far removed he is from the fighting front, the final break-through was accomplished by the combined efforts of all branches of the services and I don't see truly how one could be given more credit than another.

None of the four could have done the job without the other three. The way they worked together was a perfect example of teamwork, showering credit upon themselves and upon the other three services. The four branches were the Air Corps, Tanks, Artillery and Infantry.

I went with the infantry because I'm a foot soldier and because I suspected the tanks, being spectacular, would receive more than their due the infantry. I teamed up with the Fourth Infantry Division, and was in the middle of the forward three and spearheading the drive.

The first night behind the frontlines I slept comfortably on a cot in a tent at the division command post, and the first full day in the Fourth's command—Maj. Gen. Raymond O. Barton, a fatherly, soft-spoken Hoosier soldier.

The second night I spent on the dirty floor of a battered French farmhouse, far up in the lines, where the nauseating odor of dead cows keeping me awake half the night.

The third night I slept on the ground in an orchard even farther forward. And the fourth night, tomorrow so the sis couldn't get at me from behind. The first full day the weather cleared, and the attack was on.

So you don't have July 25 pasted in your hat I would advise you to start pasting it in there. Make a note in your mind. For I have a hunch that July 25 will be a date that will be one of the great historic pinnacles of this war.

It was the day we began a mighty surge out of our confined beachhead lines, the day we stopped calling our area the beachhead, and knew we were finished with that part of the whole expanse of France.

From that day onward all dread possibilities and fears for disaster to our invasion were laid behind. No longer was there any possibility of our getting kicked off. No longer could it be stopped by bad weather, or enemy to wound us fatally; from that day onward the future could hold nothing for us but an unprecedented success, victory.

For five days and nights during that historic period I stayed at the front with our troops. And now, here on the spot where the time is, to tell you about it in detail from—this day, if you will be that patient.

42,000 Japanese Killed in Drive Into Indian Area

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

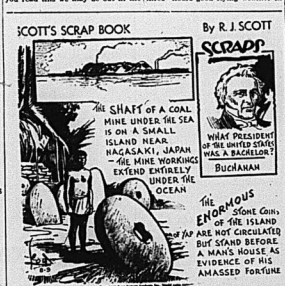
(AP War Correspondent)

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 9 — (AP) — An Allied spokesman declared today that 42,000 Japanese had been killed and four of the enemy's nine Burma divisions have been destroyed in their drive into Northeast India and in Lt.-Gen. Stilwell's successful campaign in the Indaw-Katha border mountains.

"They have had the hell knocked out of them," the spokesman said in closing the curtain on the Japanese incursion into India.

He speculated that the Japanese might recoup and try it again next year.

Allied patrols fanned out beyond the Burmese stronghold of Indaw and crossed the Yu River, chasing the disorganized Japanese toward the Chindwin river, headquarters announced today. Other forces moving south toward Kalewa and Ye-U far away from Imphal were reported making satisfactory progress.



Took Big Hidden

"I would say without hesitation that the Japanese on the Indian [illegible] State of Manipur) have taken the biggest hiding they've had on any front," the spokesman said.

Of three Japanese divisions which made the attack into India, he said only the 33rd constituted anything like a military force. Most of them now is retreating down the Tiddim road. The 31st and 15th Divisions

PREMATURE AGING

As Ernst P. Boas, M.D., put it in his excellent book: "The cause of arteriosclerosis is unknown. Certain observations suggest that dietary and metabolic factors may be important in its genesis, but knowledge is insufficient to permit prevention." He praises about the candid statement. And just to show what kind of a doctor the author is let us quote his further statement that "smoking, physical and emotional strain cannot be regarded as causes of arteriosclerosis."

That makes it unanimous, or at any rate I and another doctor agree you should not. I mean honest work with the muscles, doesn't harden the arteries or hasten the onset of old age.

I repeat, I don't know, but I do believe certain nutritional deficiencies to which most Americans are subject throughout the year may have to do with premature aging, and the thing chiefly responsible for that in my opinion are those which inevitably occur by reason of (a) our use of refined white flour and of (b) excessive consumption of refined white sugar, (c) our failure to get a reasonable amount of sunshine or vitamin D from other sources, and (d) inadequate per capita consumption of milk and milk products. Specifically, the deficiencies which I refer to are (a) shortage of vitamin B-complex, (b) shortage of sunshine vitamin D, (c) shortage of essential fatty acids, (d) shortage of calcium.

The fountain of youth I have discovered is a bin of wheat—plain wheat—not adjusted to any magic processing, purification of refinement. It is a bin of wheat for my readers who comply with instructions I am glad to mail a pamphlet on how to use wheat in their own everyday dietary—for a copy send me a self-addressed stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for Wheat To Eat.

Every one who hopes to enjoy long life must consume his or her quart of milk a day or its equivalent in milk products. The successive [illegible] of the first World War declared by Metchnikoff) Acidophilus milk; ordinary sour milk; buttermilk, etc., are founded on the idea that drinking such milk promotes or maintains a desirable intestinal flora. Personally I am not so sure of that. I believe that the preponderance of lactic bacillus fermentation in the large intestine and the stage is set for optimal [illegible] for the growth and multiplication of [illegible] bacteria. That, however, is of some practical value — in that, in some instances. But it is my belief that the important benefit derived from drinking any of these milk products is first, the calcium and phosphorus the product supplies and second the vitamin B complex, notably the riboflavin in the milk product. Of course the ingestion of milk or cheese in which it is concentrate—contains all of the ammonia acids—complete human nutrition.

All of this still applies to chronic arthritis or rheumatism. After all, that is generally part and parcel of growing old.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Treatment Treatment of Piles

I went through an operation for piles a year ago last April. The doctor advised injection treatment rather than surgery for some. It helped me somewhat but after several injections I had to give up because the injections set up a chafing and made about it that I couldn't stand it.

(Mrs. A. W.)

Answer—Such treatment should be practically painless. The doctor may have been unskilled. Ambulant (injection) treatment is the method of choice for the hemorrhoids (piles), but cannot be used for external piles. But treatment should not only be painless but should not interfere with the patient's ordinary activities.

So You're Going to Have a Baby!

I want to thank you for the great help I have had from your column and booklet, also for the booklet "Preparing for Maternity." Thanks to your teachings and advice I have gone through it all with so little trouble that I wish I could tell every girl I know.

Answer—Fine, but girls are all human and you couldn't then wouldn't limit if you tried to tell 'em—but until they are actually expecting a baby they are not actually expecting a baby and generally regard the booklet envelope, may have a copy of the booklet "Preparing for Maternity." If you would like also The Brady Baby Book inclose ten cents for it.

LONDON LETTER

By DOUGLAS AMARON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 9 — (CP) — London city fathers have made public their long-to-be-realized plans for the reconstruction of the central area of "city" in the heart of the metropolis, and in the most interesting possibility that the fate of the Church Cathedral of St. Paul, and the Empire as a whole and not just with the capital city.

Details of proposals designed to enhance the city's architectural dignity and to preserve its character in the commercial core of London, the town-planning committee of the city corporation sets down these major suggestions:

1. Construction of a ring road, 80 feet wide, around the north of the city to relieve traffic congestion.

2. Higher buildings, up to 100 feet or from eight to 10 storeys, to accommodate more people.

3. Multi-storey garages and parking space in the area of some streets and extension of the embankment from Westminster to Blackfriars Bridge.

4. Allocation of definite areas for residential purposes.

The committee, with the historical and architectural interests of the city in mind, has decided that much of the famous slum, Smithfield, Leadenhall and Billingsgate markets would remain, as would the Wren churches, the Guildhall and the [illegible] headquarters of the livery companies. No proposals were made concerning the Tower and Middle Temples which a special government committee is considering.

The committee estimated it might take from 20 to 25 years to complete the scheme. Cost was estimated at about $150,000,000, approximately $675,000,000.

THE SPANISH MAIN

"Main" in "the Spanish Main" was originally short for "mainland."

The Spanish Main was originally applied to the Spanish colonies on the northeast coast of South America between the mouth of the Orinoco River and the Isthmus of Panama.

Thus at first the Spanish Main was merely a trip of the South American mainland as contrasted to the Spanish.

Later "the Spanish Main" was extended to the Caribbean Sea and later to the adjacent lands and waters, including the route taken by Spanish vessels between Spain and the New World.

This application of "main" was natural, because in the late 16th century "main" was applied not only to a main land but also to a main sea or the ocean.

In "Richard III" Shakespeare speaks of "the tumbling billows of the main."

"The Spanish Caribbean" W. Adolphe Roberts has this to say on the subject:

"At first the Spanish did little to push their claims in the north America, which was readily accessible from San Domingo, Mexico and Panama. When they at last acted, they made it so peculiarly their own that they called it simply 'The Spanish Main' to distinguish it from other coasts which, although under the Spanish flag, appeared somehow less' Spanish. There has been much controversy about this term. Many authorities...expand it to mean the adjacent lands and waters. Popular literature, for the most part, applies it to the Antilles and Central America. But the older designation is the sound one. The Spanish Main is the coast from the Isthmus of Panama eastward to the mouth of the Gulf of Paria, opposite Trinidad. Its length, as the crow flies, is 1,250 miles."

The Spanish Main became especially notorious as the haunt of the buccaneers of the 17th and 18th centuries.

WOMEN FROM SEEM BEGAME BEAUTIFUL

How often a woman wishes . . . a skin as lovely as her sister's! a figure to be proud of! a bosom to be shoulders. You see, shoulders stay smooth, soft, youthful faces have pores clogged with make-up, unable to breathe for hours at a time. And when pores can't breathe, skin becomes wrinkled and prematurely aged. But this needn't happen to your complexion. Palmolive offers a proved way to help keep it young and lovely.

You can look younger in 14 days! Each time you wash, (use a face cloth) massage warm, rich, vitalizing Palmolive lather thoroughly into your skin for . . . one full minute.

Now, a quick rinse and pat dry. Palmolive's 60-second Beauty Massage has been scientifically tested by 2,301 women and 36 doctors. Their reports prove conclusively that . . . in just 14 days, it brings lovelier complexions.

PICTON

Rev. McCutcheon Moves to Picton From Port Arthur

Picton, Aug. 9—Capt. the Rev. J. P. Reynolds, pastor of Trinity United Church, has accepted a call to Trinity Church, Port Arthur. He exchanges pulpits with Rev. K. E. McCutcheon, B. A., B. D., who is well known here. At one time he held pastorates at Bloomfield and at Tabernacle United Church, Belleville. The transfer is effective Sept. 15.

Rev. Reycraft has been pastor here for five years, during which time the church has enjoyed a period of progress. He has been a great assistance in connection with military matters. His two sons are in the Army. Mrs. Reycraft has been active in church work and social circles and is president of Picton branch of the Red Cross.

Armed forces coming from Kingston, Deseronto, Lansdowne Loretto, Picton, Mountain View, Trenton and 8 R.D. were entertained in fine picnic style on Sunday by girls of the Red Triangle Canteen Club at a jolly outing at Consecon. Supervised by Mr. Harold McKeig, War Service Supervisor at the Y.M.C.A. the affair was all very informal. Refreshments in a very friendly and home-like atmosphere. There were rousing games of softball and volley ball, not to forget horseshoes, shuffleboard and bowling. Refreshments, served in true picnic fashion, proved answers to many appetites following the hearty games played during the afternoon.

Gore

Gore—Mr. and Mrs. Herb Pulver spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jitterson and Mrs. Geo. Pymer, of Tweed.

Mrs. Julia Fox returned home on Saturday evening having spent several days visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harry Foster of Belleville.

Joan and Donnie McQuoy of West Huntingdon, spent a few days visiting Master Leo Fox recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Pulver and Morris entertained over the week-end the latter's sister and daughter.

Mrs. Willie Fox spent the past week visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Sergt and Mrs. Will Sobie and Elsie of Wellington and Mrs. Robert Wetherall of Truro, Nova Scotia, were ten hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox, Friday evening.

Master Leo Fox returned home Saturday evening having spent the past week visiting relatives at West Huntingdon.

Messrs. R. Fox and Kenneth Green have resumed their threshing duties again for another year. Crops have been yielding splendidly this year.

Master Carl Brickman is spending some time visiting his grandparents at Seagnov Club, Montreal Que.

Rev. and Mrs. Lovelace and family are enjoying a month's vacation at their summer cottage.

TO INCREASE PAY

Ottawa, Aug. 9 (CP)—The Ottawa Journal on a newspage story yesterday said it learned that Postmaster General Mulock would shortly announce pay increase to 8,000 postal employees. The Postmaster General himself could not be reached for confirmation and other officials would not comment.

W.C.T.U. Camp At Lake Consecon Real Success

The W.C.T.U. Girls' Camp at Lake Consecon from July 19th to the 28th., was reported as being a splendid success. Forty girls were present, from three counties. Five came from Kingston, two from Brockville, nine from Picton, seven from Napanee, two from Belleville, Wellington, Bloomfield, Northport, Milford and Hillier, being well represented.

Miss Rosamund Duff, of Toronto, directed the camp, Mrs. Garfield Sills, of Napanee, did a fine job at cooking. Miss Burdett, of Napanee, acted as Camp Mother and Mrs. A. K. Leonard, of Picton, attended as business manager and general assistant.

Many were the highlights of the ten days' camping. Morning Bible Study hour, attractive handiwork, camp fire services every evening, a big Sunni night and a masquerade where prizes were given for the individual costume. A camp paper was edited daily by Marianne Hutchison, of Picton, and Marjorie Dibb, Sunday School in the morning and a presentation of "Tell Me the Stories of Jesus", which the younger sixteen members of Camp accompanying the cabin and headed by Mrs. Leonard of Picton, worked out nicely. This was climaxed by Doreen and Dorothy Somerville and Maureen Hope of Kingston, singing "And Did Those Feet". Rev. Mr. Wright of Picton, gave a fine address fitting in as it planned to a pageant on building personality given in the afternoon session of Sunday by eight of the senior girls headed by Eilleen Hawtin, of Sudbury.

The camp closed with the crowning of the Queen, Eleanor Baldree, of Napanee. Mrs. Wesley of Brockville, was chosen Lady-In-Waiting and Mildred VanDuzen of Wellington, was elected Princess. During the ceremony of crowning of the Queen, she held a lighted candle from which the candles of the Lady-in-Waiting and Princess were lighted and in turn each girl in the circle, and then the procession to the beach where the candles were placed on the water and floated there in the twilight until washed away by the waves. The girls sang "Let the Lower Lights be Burning".

Stapley - Tufts 19th Annual Reunion Is Held

The Stapley-Tufts nineteenth annual reunion was held at Oak Lake recently with fifty-nine visitors registering for the occasion. Mrs. Harold West, of Stirling, was nominated secretary for the two ensuing years. Forty boys were reported as in the armed forces, five of them joining since the last picnic. A list of the births, deaths and marriages since the last picnic was also read.

Hair Dry? Try This Program

Lya Lys has beautiful, glossy hair.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN THE hair is excessively dry it is because the sebaceous glands in the scalp have gone on a strike. They are too lubricate, keep the tresslocks glistery like the wings of a bird. Something has gone wrong. There is no fine lubricating oil among specialists, that the diet may be letting the body down in nourishment for the glands. Some of them recommend daily doses of halibut liver oil.

Two needs there are for putting the acid tapcrest in form: a shampoo soap that is bland and suds up quickly, a lubricant to be used freely the night before the shampoo, and massaged into the scalp while waiting. For the second application, brilliantine should be used; it is of light consistency, doesn't gum the hair shafts together.

Friction a little into the scalp, put a few drops on the bristles of the brush.

Brushing has a stimulating effect upon the glands. Take a small strand of hair at a time, smack the bristles of the brush on your noble head, sweep the hair through like hair with a rolling motion.

Then with head bowed, brush from the nape line to crown, from sides to crown, fingers and not thumbs over the scalp, give the flesh a brisk mauling. This treatment is good for circulation.

Scalp Massage

Pull your hair. You don't have to be mad at yourself when you do it. Pulling does stimulate and has an effect upon the tiny blood streams in the papillae from which your hair shafts emerge, these in turn stimulate a healthy growth.

Before getting a permanent, have a course of conditioning treatments. Your hair permanents no properly given, are practically harmless, they do contribute to dryness.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Again That Old, Old Question: Shall Women Propose?

Whenever I'm asked to talk before a group of women, ooh question is bound to crop up: Does the old-fashioned girl still exist?

Believe it or not, the old-fashioned girl does exist. And considering the modern technique of acquiring husbands, the ways of the old-fashioned girl are sometimes a handicap. Not always, however. Letters from men tell me they: "I'd like to marry and settle down if I could only find a girl who doesn't know more of the answers than I do".

But the rank and file are not looking for the old-fashioned type today. Here are some extracts from a letter by a girl who says: "I'm twenty-five, pretty and there doesn't seem to be any hope for me. I'm not bragging, but for my stupidity, or, perhaps, because I could be labeled old-fashioned.

"I must admit I'm no Powers model, but my qualifications, I guess well, have a fair education; I've always held a fine position and I'm told I'm quite companionable, efficient and neat. I can cook and sew—but so much so when I've ever met seems to care about these qualifications.

"I want to have a home of my own and children to glorify it. I want to do the things that would make life worth while. I know I can find them, but unless I can find someone who will let me, who will help me to do them, I wonder whether it pays to be old-fashioned life I've led so far. I've wondered what can be done about it. Many marriages take place between people who have absolutely no ideals. Where have I failed?

H. B.

When a letter like this comes to the column, it brings up that much-debated question: "Should women propose?" I know, of course, that women do. In general, I think, subtle ways, that many a good man has been proposed to by a finds himself at the altar, making the sweetheart response under the impression that he's done all the courting.

But I'm speaking of "covenants openly arrived at". There would seem to be many reasons why they could do the courting, because so many of the time-honored ways give up a claim from which another person can be seen so many marriages take place between people who have absolutely no ideals. Where have I failed?

Suppose it were right and conventional for a girl of the type of her correspondent to say to some lonesome bachelor—I'm the type of woman who would make you happy. You're domestic, so am I; let's try to make a go of it. But the very idea of doing such a thing would I should interspersedly the fine type of girl who wrote me the letter quoted.

Party For An 11-Year-Old Miss

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:—Next week my daughter is celebrating her eleventh birthday soon, and we have already sent out invitations to her party.

1.—There will be about 25 children at the party, and since our dining-room table is not large enough to have that many seated at it, would it be proper to let the guests sit where they choose, have the table set with the refreshments and have them serve themselves?

2.—Should my daughter open her presents before or after the refreshments are served? Should she thank the guests for the gifts when they are handed to her as the guests arrive, or when she has opened them later?

D.

1.—Yes, have your dining-room table set buffet style: with a colorful cloth; a gay centerpiece; the serving for ice cream, drinks, perhaps lemonade or orangeade or milk, at one end of the table; dishes or sandwiches and whatever else you have planned at the other; piles of plates and rows of whatever else you have planned between your menu. Then later the gaily-lighted birthday cake would be brought in, placed at the other end of the table, the candles blown out by the young hostess, and the cake and ice cream served for the dessert. You may either have the children serve themselves or, better, invite one or two young relatives or friends to help with the serving.

2.—A child is so happily excited when a birthday present is handed to her that of course she should open it at once! As it is handed to her with the "Happy Birthday" greeting, she should say "Thank you", open it, and say enthusiastic things about it—no matter what it is. (A wise mother does some helpful coaching before the party about this thanking for a gift that isn't a very welcome or longed-for one. A difficult situation may be avoided if the mother carefully explains to the young hostess or host that, no matter what the package contains, she or he just must find something to say that is pleasant and appreciative.)

Congratulating a Newlywed Cousin.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1.—My husband's cousin, a young man, was recently married, and he and his wife are now on their wedding trip. I should like to send a message of good wishes and congratulations to them. (2.) The young man very well, but I have never met his wife. Shall I begin

HOD LISENBEE PITCHES HIS WAY TO HALL OF FAME

42-Year-Old Syracuse Hurler Pitches No-run, No-hit Game

BEARS NEAR TOP

(By The Associated Press.)

Hod Lisenbee waited until he had 20 years of baseball behind him and then he pitched his way into the International League Hall of Fame with a no-hitter.

The 42-year-old Syracuse pitcher turned the trick Tuesday night against Montreal in the first game of two, 5-0. Only one man reached base, Moe Aderholt spelling a perfect game when he got a life at first, through Charlie Fitzgerald's wild throw in the second.

Only six balls were hit to the outfield, and a great catch by Dutch Mele took care of the only threatening blow.

After going without one hit in the seven-inning opener, the Montreal crowd began to crowd around the lot to gain a split, 10-3. Wayne Collins breezed through to get his 11th.

Blasting out a double win for the third straight day, the Newark Bears pulled up to within half a game of first place as they leveled Toronto, 5-0 and 6-3. The night's work brought their string to 16 triumphs in 19 starts.

Joe Page, mixed down by the Yankees, threw a four-hit shutout in the first game and uncorked a two-run home run with Young Don Johnson accounted for his third win without a loss as he set the Leafs down with three runs and five hits.

The slipping Baltimore Orioles were pasted twice by Rochester, 5-3 and 6-3. Harry Wicker went the route in the first game and scattered eight hits. Lee Mace, who pitched fine relief ball, got credit for the nightcap.

It was a big night for former big leaguers, as Joe Orrell, formerly with the Detroit Tigers, blished Buffalo to a 9-6 victory over Jersey City. Andy Seminick's wrestling-ning single drove in the winning runs.

One of the most rugged wrestlers in the business is Bob (The Octopus) Wagner, the Oregon lumberjack, who meets Tony Morgan in the opening bout of tonight's all-star Queensbury A. C. wrestling bout at the Hume Arena. The aggressive type, Wagner fears no man, but meets a hardened customer in the hero-Marine of Guadalcanal.

The feature bout brings together two top-ranking wrestlers, Frank Sexton, the Ohio Powerhouse, and Dr. Len Hall, the Mollygrub scientist. Hall has openly challenged Sexton for his right to the Pacific Coast championship and tonight may see which man is actually entitled to that crown. Then for good measure Pierre DeGlane meets Jerry Monahan.

Filly Expected To Win Rich Hambletonian

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 9 — (AP) Yankee Maid, a filly from Kansas, seeks to break Metropolitan New York's two-year hold on the richest stake of the sport long associated with county fairs when she opposes 10 other three-year old trotters in the Hambletonian classic for $35,000 added purse is expected to attract around 15,000.

Yankee Maid will carry the hopes of A. L. Derby, an oil man from Wichita, Kansas, champion two-year old trotter of 1943 and beaten only by a non-eligible for the Hambletonian in four races this season, the daughter of Volomite is the odds-on choice to take the $18,467.42 winner's share.

No filly has won the Hambletonian since Shirley Hanover copped the big prize in 1937.

Driven by Henry Thomas, winner with Shirley and also with McLin Hanover in 1938, the Derby filly has been a model for good behavior. She has broken stride only once in two seasons.

Twilight Tear Beaten Length In Alabama Stake at Belmont

(By The Canadian Press.)

In one of the season's most pronounced upsets, Warren Wright's Twilight Tear, held at odds of 1 to 20 and carrying top load of 126 pounds, was beaten by Calumet Farm's Stymie in the 65th running of the $33,700 Alabama Stakes at Belmont yesterday. It was the first loss for the Tear in 15 starts and the first victory of the year for Vienna, whose first prize money was $18,225. Woodward's filly paid $18.20 straight and Stymie was no place or show wagering.

The death in action on July 29 was reported today of Lieut. George Gordon Bradshaw, 31, of Toronto, prominent soldier of the Argonaut Rowing Club. Prior to enlistment he was coach of the University of Toronto Rowing Club.

Incidentally:

Dave Castilloux, the comeback-ing ex-R. N. A. F. fighter, has been matched with Pablo (John) Johnny Lifford in Halifax next month. The Canadian welter who fought Beau Jack recently is said to have been offered a hefty purse for the event . . . Ike (Calgary Entertarian) Scott says Max Bentley, former high-scoring forward with Chicago Black Hawks, is as good at baseball as he is at hockey. Bentley is playing in the foothills ball loop in Alberta now, and Harry says if the war ends before next summer there's a good chance Max will get a chance of organized pro ball . .

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Aug. 9—(CP)—The current muddle in the British Columbia Inter-City Lacrosse Loop has brought the entire service sport situation back in the limelight again, and has started up more controversy. The army entry was barred from playing by military authorities last night in the schedule, but the decision was reversed to allow the squad back in the league, much to the displeasure of the civilian entries.

The army Chevy teams, New Westminster, Burrards and Richmond, had to play last night after they were reinstated, holding that they had their schedule revised and that it was up to them to change it again. So they were suspended until they could have pondered the problem.

Jerry McGeer (Province) McConnell, viewing the scene with disapproval, suggested some hard and fast policy should be devised, so a military team would know it would be fined for any entire season without interruption and disruption of the schedule, as happened in lacrosse, and last winter in different hockey leagues.

The boys in the services want to play, and the fans want to see them. And with thousands of men in army camps in Canada, it should be possible to obtain replacements even though overseas drafts do cut down their strength.

No one can feel condemn, warmth for sport, any man kept at any camp just so they can take part in sports, but some other plan could be worked out so a team wouldn't be forcibly withdrawn right in the heat of the fight. If that isn't possible, then authorities once and for all should end the mingling of civilian and service teams—an action that none of the fans want to see taken.

Kinsmen Kut-ups Down Kavorting Kiwanians 9-8

Cecil Ling Homers in Ninth to Put the Winners One Run Up

SCHWAB ALSO HOMERS

Throwing fresh forces into the breach whenever the Kiwanis Envelope enemy came out their foxholes, the Kinsmen Kut-ups, minus Prexy Matt (Lone Ranger) outlasted the Kavorting enemy and nosed them by a 9-8 score in another sample of Cripple Creek Alubball on Bill Turner's back fifty last night.

The Kiwanis, who had failed to rally his mates, although his tonsorial articulations were as persuasionist as usual, equaled perhaps by Bill (His Master's Voice) Best, of the opposing forces.

Bill Bell was the dark sinister villain of the piece. His warclub beat a right lusty smack to the environs of Erie Dwyer behind in the county buildings in the disastrous attempt to save convictions while were resting quietly on the sacks ambled in ahead of him to put the pastime in the referee.ator.

Vic White's trusty right flipper had mown the Milk for Britain backers low up to this point. In fact for five chukkers the Kut-ups were up and down like an elevator boy's convention, while the Kiwanis batters were galloping around the sacks for eight runs.

In fact the pastime appeared to be in the well-known bag when the Kut-ups, injected Ted (Secret Weapon) Pulford whose right arm calisthenics can fool more ambitious youths than a campus widow into the game. The Kewpies touched Colborne for seven runs in three innings, but the Pullwillian stanlz had them held down to one lone marker for the rest of the game. .

Cecil Ling, poled out a mighty homer in the ninth and ye local was over, literally also hit for the circuit in the initial frame (Monterel papers please copy) but he modestly admitted it was a common occurrence when he was in the Big Time.

After game grapevine has it that the Kewpies have challenged the Kut-ups to a tug-of-war to be staged sometime next week.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS STARTS DECISIVE EASTERN TOUR

Need to Play .500 Ball on this Trip to Win American League Pennant

CARDS ARE IN

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sport Writer

Luke Sewell's St. Louis Browns open their final decisive eastern tour today and even the boss is surprised to find a .5 game main need to fall back on if the going gets too tough.

"I didn't realize we had that much of a lead until I read the newspapers" ex-Cincinnati Reds' pilot conservate on trying to win every day. Sure, I'm worried about the Yankees and Red Sox, I'm worried about every club in the league, including Washington. They're all tough and the league is pretty well balanced up.

The big "if" to the Brownies' chances continues to be the current road trip. If the club can stay .500 ball or close to it without developing any serious slump, they'll be primed for an all-Sportsman's Park world series. After visiting all eastern cities, St. Louis must step off at Detroit and Cleveland before going home. After the home stand only five road games in Chicago will remain.

Both Leagues resume with a full schedule today after New York's 8-4 nod over Pittsburgh held the Flats day spotlight. Bill Voiselle kept the Giants in fourth place by scattering eight hits and coming through with a double to touch off a 3-run winning spurt in the sixth for his 14th victory.

38 PROFESSIONALS IN GOLF TOURNEY

Toronto, Aug. 9—(CP)— Thirty-eight professional and 26 amateur golfers are scheduled to tee off in the $5,000 added Maple Leaf Invitation open golf tournament at the suburban Scarboro Club tomorrow.

The field, which will include most of Canada's outstanding shotmakers and a number of professionals from the United States will play 72 holes of medal play. The winner will receive $1,000—largest purse ever set up for a golf tournament in the Dominion.

The three American pros who have accepted invitations are Craig Diegel four times winner of the Canadian open title, Al Watrous and Jon Kirkwood, also former Canadian open champion.

'MARINES' MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT OVER C.N. TEAM

Winners Score Two After Losers Tie Contest in Eighth Frame

SCORE IS 6-4

Stephens Adamson "Marines" made it two straight over the C. N. R. "Railroaders" in the Belleville and District O. A. S. A. finals winning 6 to 4 at the Fair Grounds Tuesday night. The best-in-five series continues Thursday night.

Bill Anderson's five-hit pitching for the Marines was tested to the limit as the Railroaders crowded all of their counters into an eighth inning rally to tie the score. However, the Marine powerhouse moved into action in the top half of the ninth to score two runs as the winners cuffed Johnny Bawden for three solid base knocks to cinch the pastime.

Bawden's inning opened the scoring for the Marines in the second frame after getting forward on a fielder's choice and racing home on Callaghan's subsequent double. Bawden scored on Ken Whitehead and Woods to open the fifth, the former on a single through second base and the latter on Lott's hard smash to give the Marines two runs.

In the top half of the eighth Lott singled and scored on Callaghan's double, the latter of the game to put Marines ahead 4-0. Bawden, C. N. R. big inning, a bottom half of the eighth. After two hands had been handed Martin singled, Langman was safe on an error and Wright, who had relieved Bawden, brought with a single to score two. Carson was then struck out and Bawden scored more scored on Frank Murray's following one-base smash before Anderson settled away to get Whalen for the final out.

In the top half of the ninth Marines cinched the second game of the series by scoring two also after a brace of hands had been fanned. Ted Hemm caught one of Bawden's slants solidly and it rolled deep into the outfield for a home run. Hemm scored for a ball game. However, Carson, Lott and Green hit in succession to count another as the Marines' big guns went into power knocks. The "Railroaders" got one aboard on an error in the last frame.

Anderson limited the C. N. R. nine to five singles, three coming in the eighth when they scored all of their runs. The Marines collected 12 hits off Bawden, including two doubles by Callaghan, a game-winning homer, Green's double as Bartlett was fielding and two hits for three hits each.

Anderson struck out three and walked two while Bawden whiffed two and walked four.

The line-ups:

C. N. R.—Martin 1b, Langman rf, Green cf, Wright cf, Carson 2b, Murray ss, Whalen c, Day lf, Bellis rf and 2b, Bawden p.

Stephens Adamson Marines—Bartlett lf, Woods rf, Whitehead 3b, Hem 2b, Carson ss, Lott rf, Green c, Callaghan 1b and Anderson p.

As the Canuck tanks and infantry-carrying tracked vehicles slammed in the German defence line astride the highway to Falaise, Bofors light ack-ack guns fired tracer shells in dead straight lines down each side of the highway.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 9—(AP)—It is customary on Hambletonian Day to refer to the scene of famous harness racing's greatest classic as a "sleepy little Orange County town."

At 1 p.m. in Park Square yesterday there was only one sleepy person slouched on a bench. Probably he was just resting up for today's big day racing in the city folks' money . . . There's plenty of rural atmosphere around Goshen, but the Hambletonian is mainly a big-town show . . . Its the city dwellers who like an excuse to come to where they make up most of the crowd . . . They also provide most of the winners.

Hambletonian Handouts

Take Maid, the favorite, didn't suffer a setback until she invaded real Yankee territory to race at Old Orchard, Maine. That was where she broke from her trotting stride for the one-and-only time, too . . . The other is Keeneland, which holds meetings only in the spring and fall as a result.

DEVELOP CONTROL OF BROWN HEART OF TABLE TURNIP

Guelph, Aug. 9 (CP)—Officials of the Ontario Agricultural College have announced they have developed a method of control for "brown heart" in table turnips. Agricultural faces of the plant.

representatives throughout the province have been advised of the method that farmers are being given the information.

Brown heart disease is caused by a lack of boron in the soil. The control method is a spray of borax. Orvus and coarse bentonite clay thoroughly covering the upper surfaces of the plant.

LESSON NO. 438

By SAM GORDON
and Jim Kibitzer

Maybe you think you have troubles. But they shouldn't be with your opening bids of two in a suit. Not ever's a child should have any trouble knowing that kind of a bid.

Any time you have nine or more tricks in your hand, you have enough for an opening bid of two in a suit. And a trick is a high card (ace or king or queen) or a short card.

Don't tell me what distribution or honor tricks you need. Deal out any hand with nine or more tricks. You will find that every one of any numbersome player talks about.

There is nothing stuffy about opening two in a suit. It merely says it expects to make a game and asks partner to help get there.

In answer thereto, two no-trump says partner has no help for trick. Any other response by partner guarantees a game. Let's see how Lamp this pair of partnership hands:

South
♠A K J 5 4 2
♥ 8
♦A K J

North
♠Q 10 6 3
♥K Q
♦7 6 5 3 2
♣7 5

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
2 S
3 NT
7 S
	Pass

The opening of two spades is forcing to game. North's prompt assist promises a sixty trick support. So, south is now all hopped up to go slamming.

Having all four aces, south bids five no-trump; the king-asking signal. Six diamonds is the signal reply for showing only one king.

The only sure trick south could have is K Q of hearts. On which south can stuff the discard back. So, a small slam is a cinch. But a grand slam looks better than an even chance.

If grand slam takes a dive, be glad you are alive.

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek"

William Demarest, who has been making them laugh for a number of many years has the biggest comedy role of his career in Paramount's unusual comedy, "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek," now in its fourth and final day at the Belle Theatre, with Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton in the starring parts.

He plays Chief of Police Enock Kincricker, and that is a type-cast graphical part. It is just script writer Preston Sturges at his funny best, and that's saying a lot. Episodes of the hilarity contained in this picture shoot a maximum of fun with big, romantic problems.

"Shoofball Serenade" is the title of a musikiddy-reel parade to be presented on the stage of the Belle Theatre with the News of the Day.

"The Heavenly Body," Fanny

Hornsberger and television play an important part in M-G-M's delightful, sparkling comedy, "The Heavenly Body," next at the Belle Theatre. William Powell and Hedy Lamarr are in the hilarious tale of an astronomer's wife who takes up astrology. James Craig is cast as the willing third angle.

William Powell is a professor of astronomy who has discovered a new comet. When he must work at night on his discovery his wife, as played by Miss Lamarr, becomes bored. Under the influence of a neighbor she takes up astrology and Bill's troubles then begin.

Things reach a head with the prediction of Hedy and the end of true love of her life' during a certain period with the deadline. Cadet Craig knocks at the door. The comet is approaching the earth. Hedy prepares specifications and Bill prepares to divorce Bill and fall in love with Craig. Complications arise when Craig decides he is not at all unwilling to become Hedy's permanent husband and sets out to thwart Bill's frantic attempts to make his wife and Craig fall it's a merry time for the audience until Hedy discovers the error in her foolable than her horoscope.

In the cast are Spring Byington as the busybody neighbor and Fay Bainter as the astrologer. Henry O'Neill and Robert Sully, a handsome young newcomer, are seen as Powell's fellow astronomers.

"Gildersleeve's Ghost," Sponsor

Throw the Gildersleeve's home town of Summerfield is the setting for the gooseflesh film of RKO Radio's "Gildersleeve's Ghost," the spooky comedy to be presented on the same program.

From the graves of two of Gildersleeve's ancestors their ghosts emerge to cook up a scheme to legalize their fortunes left to him in addition. Their scheme is eventually successful, but not before Gildersleeve bungles his way through hilariously chilling adventures involving homicidal scientists, an invisible lady and a savage gorilla.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Gaucho Serenade"
(Gene Autry)

"The Gaucho Serenade," opening next at the Capitol Theatre is Republic's re-release starring Gene Autry and featuring Smiley Burnette, has a prominent supporting cast including Mary Lee and June Storey. The film story is based on the hit song of the same title, which enjoyed about forty broadcasts a week, and reached the upper hit-tune brackets. "The Singing Hills," is another western song featured in "Gaucho Serenade."

Also included in the score are a comic number written and sung by Smiley Burnette, "Give Out With a Song," by Connie Lee, "Rollin Home" by Gene Autry and John Marvin and "A Song at Sunset."

Action and comedy, added to these popular songs, make an enjoyable bill in "Gaucho Serenade," which was directed for Republic by Frank McDonald. Associate Producer William Berke.

"Dancing Masters"
(Laurel and Hardy)

Four of the funniest dances ever filmed will be seen in 20th Century-Fox's laugh riot, "The Dancing Masters," starring Laurel and Hardy, scheduled to open next at the Capitol Theatre as the added hit.

Stan is featured tripping the light fantastic in two numbers—a hilarious tap dance with Charley Chase, while Oliver sets the walls a-trembling as he leads his dazzling class through "Artist's Life" and "London Bridge," both transformed to belly laughs.

The 8th chapter of "Captain America" and a comedy complete the double program.

Extermination of Enemy On Guam Under Way

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 9 — (AP) — Extermination of the enemy is under way in the northeast corner of Guam today, The counted enemy dead already exceeds 10,000.

American warships, planes, marines and soldiers formed a huge ditch group of defenders into a 15-square-mile area of the 225-square mile island. They drove a wedge within a mile of the northeast coast, seeking to split up the doomed Japanese and speed their destruction.

While the clincher blow was failing on the eastern approach to the Philippines, it was announced today at Allied southwest Pacific headquarters that Halmahera on the southern approach, was hit by a 48-ton bombing raid.

ALBERTA RETURNS UNION NATIONALE

At 1 a.m., M.D.T. today the victory of Social Credit candidates had been conceded in 38 seats and no entry by another party had been announced.

The Independents suffered the loss of their leader, James H. Wansbrough, who was defeated in Warner constituency by Hon. Solon Low, Provincial Treasurer and National Social Credit leader. Mr. Low was one of the nine provincial cabinet ministers returned to office.

The independent representative of the two major Alberta cities, Calgary and Edmonton, remained intact. The count in these five three-member constituencies was delayed by a power failure at a central distribution station in Edmonton of boxes containing the ballots marked Aug. 7 by Alberta service voters on duty within the province.

Seven cabinet members by the proportional representation system and returning officers could not set the quotas necessary for election until the service ballots had been delivered to them, possibly later today.

C.C.F. Defeated.

The C.C.F. entered the Alberta campaign with one victory in Saskatchewan where its candidates defeated a Liberal government in June.

Elmer Roper, Provincial C.C.F. leader, was a candidate in Edmonton constituency. Also a candidate was Hon. Edmund Bury, K.C., son of Premier, Provincial Labor-Progressive leader of Alberta. The C.C.F. candidates in the contest, running next to the Independents in number of entries with 30.

Mr. Manning has announced a session of the legislature will be held later this year when arrangements will be made to fill seats among Alberta service men and women outside the province to elect three members-at-large.

Incomplete vote returns indicated that prior to that, of the 154 candidates had lost their election deposits.

Mrs. C. R. Wood, the sole woman member of the last legislature, was Re-elected as a Social Credit candidate in Stony Plain constituency.

Mrs. Manning's majority surplus piling up in Edmonton was expected to be added to those of one or more of the other Social Credit candidates in the constituency.

In the one-member constituencies, the single-transferable-vote system is used and most of the successful Social Credit candidates won by sufficiently large majority that the distribution of the second choices of the trailing candidates was unnecessary.

Deloro Children Aid Red Cross

Three Deloro children aided by a young visitor from Ottawa staged what they called a Red Cross circus on the front lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Orpen Monick on Wednesday afternoon as a result of which they handed over the handsome sum of $6.57 to the Deloro Branch of the Red Cross. Apparently the idea started with George (Bucky) Mathile, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathile, seven year old Shirley Ann, his sister also considered she should help as well as Walter Weber, the fourteen year old visitor, from Ottawa. Fourteen year old pal William Brown, also took a chance in the circus. Slings and games and the sale of lemonade being patronized by the young friends at the circus. Everyone generously made the young charmers feel proud of their undertaking.

OWENS LAUDS TRAINER

Chicago, Aug. 9 — (CP) — Jesse Owens, the Ohio State negro runner who made track history in the 1935 Western Conference meet by breaking world records in the 220-yard low hurdles, the 200-yard dash and the broad jump attributes much of his success to his early coaching. Charles Riley first saw Owens at high school in Cleveland and help him back until he was 19. "I'm in good shape today. I weigh 151 lbs. my best weight while at Ohio State" Owens said recently.

Goderich Non-Committal

Premier Godbout, who could remain in power only by a constitutional technicality, was non-committal. With his Liberal following cut from 56 of dissolution to 37 or 38 seats despite a 400,000 popular vote than the Union Nationale, he said he would "await the election result."

That result appeared to rest in the ballot boxes of two ridings, and possibly in the deferred election in Saguenay, where voting is set for Aug. 24, but the edge appeared to rest with the Union Nationale.

Mr. Duplessis indicatedhe felt his margin would be maintained when he said at Three Rivers—the riding that gave him the first personal concession of the election—that the result was "a punishment for those two relinquished our provincial rights."

Two Ridings Close

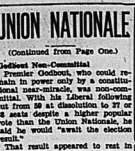
He added that the Union Nationale would "carry on a policy which will help Quebec to recover all the rights our province relinquished during the past four years" in statement in line with his main talking point throughout the pre-election campaign.

Meanwhile, the immediate interest centred on two doubtful ridings, Montreal's east-end Maisonneuve and Largely-rural Bonaventure. Missonneuve, with three polls to come out of 221, Liberal Hormisdas Hamelin had an unofficial 13-vote margin on Dr. J. F. A. Gatien of the Union National. Bonaventure, the unofficial returns recording 24 of 40 polls, Union Nationalist Lucien Cannon declared election by 25 votes while Liberal Percival Samson claimed the honors by two votes.

Liberals Full Popular Vote.

Preliminary and incomplete tabulation of the popular vote gave about 448,000 votes to the Liberals, 400,000 higher than the total polled by the Union Nationale. Heavy Liberal majorities in a number of Montreal seats accounted in part for the difference.

The Bloc Populaire, with 80 candidates entered, was never in the running and the number of votes and the number of candidates was concerned although four Bloc Populaire representatives elected could still exercise the balance of power in the next legislature.



The C.C.F. ran 24 candidates and the single C.C.F. representative in the Quebec Provincial House He was David Cote West in the nine-way fight in the newly-created northern riding of Rouyn-Noranda. Rene Chaloul will again be the lone Nationalist member in the House following his election in Quebec (county.)

Godbout Wins Handily.

Premier Godbout won handily in his home riding of L'Islet, and seven out of 10 of his cabinet ministers were re-elected with him. They were Provincial Treasurer J. M. Bourque, Health Minister Giroux, Fisheries Minister Valmore Bienvenue, Attorney-General Leon Casgrain, Georges Dansereau, Minister of Public Works, Wilfrid Hamel, Minister of Lands and Forests and Arthur Leclerc, Minister, and Joseph Francoeur, Minister without portfolio.

Re-elected were Henri Renault Minister of Municipal Affairs, and Joseph Cassavant, Minister without Otingues. Ministers without portfolio.

Men who resigned their Federal seats to run in the provincial election were only moderately successful. Edmond Laferte took Beauce for the Bloc Populaire and L. P. Lizotte for Jacques Cartier for the Liberals. Liberals Lionel Bertrand and Maurice Otingue lost out in Terrebonne and Sherbrook respectively, and Dr. Paul Gauthier failed to take Portneuf for the Bloc.

ARMOUR SEEKS PERFECT GOLFER

Famous Scottish Pro Believes Game Not Yet Completely Mastered

Chicago, Aug. 8 — (CP) — You can call Tommy Armour spinning golf yarns at the drop of a putt—and he still does both expertly.

"I remember the late Sandy Herd winning the British championship in 1902," says Armour. "He was using a new type rubber-core ball and he banged it around the entire 72 holes, taking 307 strokes. Every time Herd got a long putt, Sandy would strike a match, soften the rubber and mold it back into shape. Here are anybody doing that today?"

The silver Scot and Waller Hagen are the only men ever to win the British Open, Canadian Open, Western Open, National P.G.A., Metropolitan (New York) Open and the Canadian Open. In 1934, when Armour was 46, his wife challenged him to win another tournament. He said goodbye, went to Canada, and bagged the open title.

Armour classifies Herd, Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor and Jim Braid—British golfers of the first golf's greatest. Since 1930, I'd pick Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan."

Nelson A Standout

"Walter Hagen could hit every shot any good, but this Nelson — he has more shots in his bag than any man I ever saw. If he just had the unrestrained temperament of Hagen, he'd never lose a tournament.

"Ever since I watched Nelson beat little Hogan in the 1942 Masters playoff, I've known what a hooker he and the Bobby Jones of 1928 would have made. Jones made his grand slam in 1930, but I've always thought he was only about 80 per cent of the Jones of 1928. That year he was the most perfect piece of golf machinery I've ever seen. I never had an equal in his second shots.

"But no golfer has ever completely conquered the game."

Many golfers rate Armour at the top of the list of great players. Jones once said that "Armour's iron play cannot be surpassed by any golfer in the world."

Regarded as one of the game's greatest teachers, Armour recently signed for his 19th season at Chicago's fashionable Medinah country club. Lawson Little came out of his classroom in 1934 and 1935 to sweep the British and American amateur championships. Two came another pupil, Johnny Goodman, who won the 1937 national amateur. In 1939, Betty Jameson was tutored by Armour, then went out and took the National women's title.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER SEVEN

"Well, as a matter of fact, several times—when I was younger and much more foolish than at present—I did propose to a girl and say that I looked something like Humphrey Bogart. I was tremendously flattered, and found myself cultivating little mannerisms of his I had seen him display on the screen. I must have been insufferable, standing around posing, waiting for someone to notice the resemblance."

Max laughed gaily at his own foolishness.

"Were you offered a movie contract?"

"Now—never a bite did I get, and finally I tumbled to the fact that I was making an awful fool of myself trying to pretend I was someone I wasn't. I decided it would bore me pretty hour but being myself. I imagine all of us go through that phase at some time or other. I was a sophomore in college when the bug bit me."

"It's funny, Max," the girl said, "but this has happened to me before—someone mistaking me for another person."

"It's awfully old stuff, but it's still considered a way of meeting a girl you want to know."

"I'm sure that soldier was honest in believing I was a friend of his."

Brazen Soldier

"Oh, I am, too. He would take a pretty brazen soldier to try to pick off an officer's girl friend right under his nose. I didn't mean him — I meant those other times. I imagine that's regarded as hot technique on the Riviera."

"I couldn't be sure about that, but as a matter of fact the person who made the mistake was a woman. She called me by another name, and was very much upset when I denied I was that person. In fact she was quite angry. So you see, people do look alike. You may have lots of doubles scattered around the world."

Jeanne remembered a dinner date and persuaded Max to drive her home.

"Okay, you can get rid of me this time, but I'm going to see you again soon." Max promised as he said goodbye. Jeanne ran up the stairs to her room, still frightened by her encounter with Jim Reed and the Nazi.

Miss Marston was waiting rather impatiently when Jeanne went down stairs, dressed for the Norwood dinner party.

"You were out so long I was afraid we'd be late", the Dean said. "You know one isn't late to the president's house."

The girl smiled to herself at the awe in Miss Marston's voice when she spoke of Norwood. It was as though she were speaking of the president of the United States, rather than the president of a girl's college.

Miss Marston read not have worried, however, as when they walked to the Norwood home next door, they found they were the first arrivals. Professor and Mrs. Dolling came in a minute or two later, and Jeanne met them for the first time. Dolling was the living image of the diplomatic type of college professor, with a high forehead, sparse hair, and thick tinted glasses that made him look google eyed. Mrs. Dolling was small and vivacious, and it was apparent that she was the practical manager of the family.

Cordial.

Dr. and Mrs. Norwood were cordial, although the former seemed a bit annoyed as he glanced frequently at his watch.

"I wonder what is keeping Dr. Clyde?" he finally asked.

"I'm sure he will be here at any moment, dear", his wife said, soothingly. "You know he's never on time for anything."

A maid had passed around hors d'oeuvres and small glasses of sherry before Clyde came in slightly breathless and very apologetic for being late.

Jeanne knew he had been to Chicago and the train probably had delayed him, but she said nothing about it. Neither did Clyde offer it as an excuse.

He had said he was going there to see Ralph Levering of the F.B.I., and she was eager for a chance to talk with him and find out what he had learned. The opportunity didn't come during dinner, however, as she found herself placed between Dr. Norwood and Professor Dolling.

She tried to catch his eye, hoping for a smile or nod or to see some way indicate that the journey had been successful, but he seemed completely lost in his conversation with Mrs. Norwood and throughout the long, leisurely, interminable dinner, he never looked at Jeanne once. She found her thoughts straying and had to bring herself up sharply to listen to what Dr. Norwood was saying. He didn't ask many questions about her life abroad and those he did, she found it easy to answer truthfully.

Her experience had been the same as those of many other people, and fitted into a pattern that might well have been that of the real Jeanne Harland.

In Conversation.

After dinner Mrs. Dolling ordered coffee served in the conservation for a long time about a psychological problem she was having with her young daughter. All of them had adjourned to the garden where it was cool and delightful. Jeanne wandered aimlessly about the grounds which surrounded the house.

She strolled to the rear and was surprised to see the unmistakable form of Dr. Norwood outlined by the dim rays of a street light. He was talking to a girl. Her face was in the shadow and Jeanne couldn't make out her features. However, she soon recognized the voice. It was that of Lucia Ward. Not wishing to intrude, the girl walked away and sat down on a garden bench. A shift time later

Sheer Luck.

Norwood returning to the house, and then the sound of a car being started nearby. She hurried to the place where she had seen Norwood and Lucia talking, but there was no one there.

Finally, she saw Clyde coming toward her and led him to a bench where they could talk without being disturbed or overheard.

"Well, what's new? Did you see him?" she asked, breathlessly.

"Of course, of course, my dear. That's why I went to Chicago."

"But what did he say? "What did he say? was the question she was impatient for the answers.

"It is very important, so I am to go on being Jeanne Hallard. You are to wear the ring—he insists on that. Also, you are to await instructions from some other wearer of the ring. Levering is certain that you'll get them, sooner or later."

"But—"

"Don't be frightened, my dear", Clyde interrupted. "You'll be in no danger. Levering is sending down a man to stay here all the time. His job is to see that you come to no harm. You must know how very efficient those men are, even if you have been away for several years.

"In my opinion there will be no risk at all. And it's a very clever scheme, too. Levering doesn't know why you contact you, but by having you go ahead and act as though all his men were probably at all times, he can pick up the trail and perhaps bag the whole gang. That's what you wanted, isn't it?"

In Trap.

"Yes, but I don't much fancy being the bait in the trap. It makes me feel like—" She stopped for a moment and laughed. Well, it makes me feel sort of like a piece of cheese in a mouse trap."

"You do have a delightful sense of humor."

"Am there any other instructions?"

"Yes, you are to make regular reports on anything that happens or anyone you might think is more than a bit out of the ordinary. They are for Levering, of course, and are to be turned over to me. I'll see that he gets them."

"Why not turn them over to the man he is sending to watch me? That seems much simpler."

"Ah, but you won't know the man you'll never see him. It's better that way, for if you knew who he was you'd be inclined to be self conscious when you were out on your own, and, frighten away anyone who is trying to contact you. I've worked for Ralph Levering before, he's a man of simplicity".

"Of course, Dr. Clyde, I quite understand that. I just thought for the moment that it would be better for me that way, but I see now that you're right".

"Then you'll keep your eyes open and tell me anything unusual that happens?"

Sheer Luck.

"Certainly. As a matter of fact I have something to tell you already. I was all but accosted this afternoon. It was just sheer luck that I didn't betray myself."

She told him of her encounter with Jim Reed from her home down, and how she had convinced the young Army private that it was a case of mistaken identity.

"I felt like an awful liar", she confessed.

"You did exactly right", Clyde approved. "Some time you may have a chance to explain to your friend—I'm sure he'll understand. Very kind, the ring you're not wearing it!"

Jeanne said it was pinned in the pocket of the jacket she had worn to the Norwood's.

"I left it on the jacket in the bedroom with the other wraps. I'll get it".

She went in the house and upstairs. Just as she was entering the bedroom, she ran into Mrs. Norwood who was coming out.

"Oh, hi, army", the girl apologized. "I shouldn't dash around so that almost run people down".

Mrs. Norwood smiled and patted the girl's arm, and then went downstairs.

Jeanne hurried to the bed where she had left her jacket and reached in the pocket to get the ring. There was something bulky there. Curiously she pulled it out. It was a roll of money.

Astonished, she counted it. There was $500 in 20 dollar bills.

Jeanne was so startled by finding the money in her jacket pocket she was half way downstairs before she remembered about the ring. She retraced her steps, unspilled it from the pocket and slipped it on her finger. Then she went looking again for Dr. Clyde.

He was in the garden seated on the bench where she had left him. He leaned a paper over to her as she sat down beside him.

"Look what I found when I reached in my pocket", she said, handing him over the roll of money.

"What is it?"

"Money—fifty hundred dollars. I counted it—all in nice new $20 bills".

"Any idea how it got there?"

"No! Im all slightest. I know there was nothing in the pocket but my ring when I left the house to was out there since I came to the Norwoods".

"Did you see anyone around?"

"Not, not a soul". Then she remembered. "Oh, there was Mrs. Norwood. I'd forgotten about her. I bumped into her as I went into the bedroom. I have no idea what she was doing there.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking in back of the sporting page and ma was doing the dishes problem, and I said, May ma, now I know the answer to whether I look like you or whether I look like pop. I was looking at ma, and I can prove it. Are you flattered, ma, are you glad to hear it?

I expect to be overwhelmed by a flood of kisses and hugs and embracing any moment, such a question for last sakes, ma said, "Benny, I'm not sure which I am flattered, I hope. And what's this all about, anyway, how do you mean you can prove it? she said, and I said, Some lady saw me on the street and asked me if I wasn't Pauline Johns' little son. She hadn't even seen you since your name used to be Johns before you were married, but she reckoned the big resemblance anyways, I said.

Well, that's really more than a passing coincidence, that really settles the question once and for all, ma said. I wonder who she could of been, did you hear that, William? she said, and pop said, I heard it and you're right, it really settles the question, I'll close the argument for all time. After, this there never can be the slightest doubt that Benny looks like me, he said.

Like you, for land sakes? ma said, and pop said, of course. Obviously you must of been with me the last time this friend of yours saw you, we may not even of been engaged at the time, but this woman, who's a total stranger, was impressed by my good looks that she knew you'd more than most earth to marry me, and when she saw Benny today she realized at once that he must be the son of that handsome man she saw you with. Which makes sense, doesn't it? pop said.

It makes you even more conceited than I thought possible, I said, it's impossible, ma said. And if you think it's so funny, go ahead and give your own empty laughter, she said.

Which he did.

ONE STABBED TO DEATH

Montreal, Aug. 8 — (CP) — One person was stabbed death and another was taken to hospital with critical wounds today, following an attack by a knife-wielding man in a window shopping restaurant on the busy St. Catherine-Bleury intersection.

Miss Dollar, 50, was fatally wounded in the stabbing, and police said she had been stabbed 10 times. His sister, Mrs. Sam Mielmadowski, suffered five injuries and medical authorities held out little hope for her recovery.

'Canada Reaches Full Stature', Says Standard

London, Aug. 9 — (CP Cable) — "The Dominion of Canada has reached full stature amongst the great nations of the world," said an Evening Standard Editorial today, devoted to the part the Canadians are playing in the war and noting that the creation of the 1st Canadian army "tells the climax of an historic process."

"It is difficult to recount our debt to Canada; harder still to express our gratitude," the Standard said. "The heroism of her troops in the last war is handed to her present sons are their worthy successors.

"In the days of our darkness there came to us from Canada only men but goods—a free and unconditional gift. In the old colonial mentality lay the germ of secession . . . The R. C. A. F. proved it has all the skill and audacity the world expected of it.

"Put it to it of her sons in Caen we are thinking . . . How on the anniversary of a decisive onslaught launched by their fathers at Amelns against the Kaiser's army, they are entering into their heritage."

Sets Aside Deed Made by Man of 83

Toronto, Aug. 9 — (CP) — A judgment of Mr. Justice W. D. Roach at Cagoods Hall sets aside a deed signed by an 83-year-old man who died last Nov. 1 in hospital at Kingston and directs an accounting. The judgment was in a case brought by Alzina Cornwall, housekeeper for the late man, Albert E. Read. The defendant was Thomas B. Turnbull to whom Read signed over the deed of his place during his last illness. Read's will, dated March 19, 1931, named Mrs. Cornwall sole beneficiary and sole executrix.

Mr. Justice Roach found that Read "had not the mental capacity to understand the nature and effect of the deed when he signed it."

Antoine de St. Exupery, French Pilot, Missing

Rome, Aug. 9—(AP)—Antoine de St. Exupery, 44, French pilot and author, is missing after a mission over Southern France, an official announcement said today.

During his youth he was a French mail pilot and from these experiences he produced his novel, "Night Flight," and "Flight to Arras," published in 1942, gives an account of his last reconnaissance flight over France in May, 1940.

He escaped when France fell and had returned to duty only a short time ago.

Says Nazis Make Another 'Lidice' In Bauge, France

New York, Aug. 9 — (CP) — The Swiss Gazette de Lausanne, in a dispatch reported to the Office of War Information today, said the Nazis had added still another "Lidice" to the growing number of villages they have razed in occupied Europe, shooting 43 persons and burning down 80 houses in the French village of Bauges in Haute-Savoie.

The village was put to the torch, according to the newspaper, after the German troops had conducted a "shot clash" with the French Forces of the Interior near Bauges.

The Swiss newspaper also reported that German general Volpert, staff commander in Valence in the south-eastern Drome department, had issued an "order of the day" to his troops instructing them "to burn and pillage all villages in the territory at present held by the F.F.I."

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, Aug. 9 — (CP) — The Western Oil stocks advanced and other groups held fairly steady in the early hours. Volume for the first two hours was only fair at 400,000 shares.

Home oil gained 15 cents, Ontario and Dominion, 5, foothills 4 and gains of 1 to 3 cents were held by Okalta, British Dominion, Spooner, Dalhousie and Anglo-Canadian. The Western Pipe stocks were also strong in sizable volume. Giant gained 20, Conwest 15, Bear 10 and Pipeline 5. Interprovincial was down 15. Gaint appeared for other golds influenced by the announcement, San Antonio, Northern Canada and Wright-Hargreaves. West Malartic gained 25 cents to 1.62 and McIntyre firmed 1 1-2 to 61 1-2. Noranda and Hudson Bay were stronger base metals and the price war between Ford and G.M.

Abitibi Pfd. featured the Industrials as it climbed to a new high at 47 up 2 1-4. Papers and utilities held barely mild weakness and showed in the food stocks. International metals A was off 3-4 at 23.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 9. (AP)—Utility and rubber issues led a rather otherwise mixed stock market today. War-time-prized motors were subjected to further liquidating pressure.

Price changes held to a fractional range toward the fourth hour. Advances by allied armies in France encouraged further caution on the part of operators already more perturbed about the possibilities of a sudden Nazi collapse than U. S. industry unprepared for peace.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 9 — (CP) — Cattle trade was very slow up to mid-session on the local market, but here today with prices weak to 25 cents lower. Hogs, calves, sheep, lambs and sheep were steady;

Calves: $13.50-14.50 for choice, common downward to $7.50, grassers mostly $6-8.

Lambs: $14.50 good ewes and wethers, $12-14 choice.

Sheep: $3-3.50.

Hogs: grade A dressedweight 17.85 sows $13 dressed.

HOGS

Toronto, Aug 9 (CP)—Prices were unchanged at bacon-hog markets reported by the Dominion Dressedweight, Grade A, delivered, Hamilton $17.80, Stratford, Kitchener and Guelph $17.65, London and Hull $17.40, Hamilton grade B1 delivered $17.15.

PENICILLIN PERMITS EARLY SKIN GRAFTING

Chicago, Aug. 9 — (AP) — Four Detroit doctors say that use of penicillin apparently solves one of the principal problems in early skin grafting on burned patients.

Reporting today in the journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. John Winslow Hirshfield, Matthews A. Pilling, Charles Wesley Buggs and William E. Abbott said experience with 17 patients convinced them that use of penicillin not only permits early grafting but also apparently prevents loss of skin from infection that ordinarily occurs.

Brig. Merrill Heads Liaison Group in Far East

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 9 (CP) — Brig.-Gen. Frank D. Merrill, who recently surrendered command of his famous "Marauder" detachment in Burma, has been named head of the liaison group for the China-Burma-India theater at Allied headquarters here.

The nature of Merrill's assignment was disclosed by Gen. Stilwell in a message from his headquarters in India commending Merrill for his services in the field and declaring he had been relieved of his command solely because of ill health.

The statement supplemented an earlier announcement from Stilwell's headquarters emphasizing that Merrill's connected with an inquiry into a recent break-down in the morale of the "Marauders" during the battle of Myitkyina. The breakdown had been attributed to premature reports of convalescent raiders to active duty.

The Myitkyina task force has been commanded since Merrill's assignment to Kandy by Brig.-Gen. Theodore F. Wessels.

Peterborough Private Takes 20 Prisoners

Ottawa, Aug. 9. (CP)—Pte. L. C. Edwards, Peterborough, Ont., marched a score of German prisoners into his battalion headquarters "all by other day but before anybody could put on the cock he told what a chump I had been.

Here briefly is his story, relayed by Army Public Relations. He was four yards out of a slit trench in the Hitler line. They took him to some comrades. By this time he had 20 men and an officer in tow.

He started back to his headquarters and the German officer, very angry, English told him he better put the magazine in his sten gun. Edwards thanked the officer.

He marched along a road looking for headquarters without success so he stopped a tank and the crew didn't know either. The German officer apologized for interrupting and volunteered to lead the way. He had been near the headquarters on a previous night's patrol.

"So don't give me any of that stuff," Pte. Edwards handing over his prisoners.

FREE INSTRUCTION GIVEN CHILDREN IN SWIMMING

Bancroft—Mr. Gordon C. Minty, a swimming instructor of the city of Peterborough, has spent the past week in Bancroft devoting his time and efforts free of charge in order to benefit the children of Bancroft village and neighboring district. The week's activities came for the swimming lessons as the weather was ideal, being hot and sunny. It was gratifying indeed to see how the youngsters profited from the instructions they received from Mr. Minty. Many of the younger boys and girls who had in a week before made great headway under his guidance and now have attained sufficient knowledge in the art to strike out for themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. James Linn and Mrs. U. A. Rubbel of Hamilton, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Rubbel.

Mr. J. Linn combined his visit in town with that of business by selling the property on Flint Street to Mr. Everett Brinklow of town.

Mr. and Mrs. George Twiddy and daughter, Joy, of Oshawa, Mrs. Anne Osborne of Toronto, are visiting in town at the home of Mr. and Mrs., George Thompson.

Miss Jean Hagerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomson, returned home after having spent a two week vacation in Toronto with friends.

Miss Dorothy Hagerman, nurse-in-training, at the Kingston General Hospital, is visiting at present, with her mother, Mrs. E. Hagerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Viscoff of Peterborough, spent the weekend visiting with relatives in town.

Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Ross and family, of Belleville, and guests are spending a two weeks' vacation at Trout Lake, near Bancroft.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Eddy of Bancroft, on Saturday, August 5th., a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reid and family returned home to Orillia on Sunday, having spent the past week visiting at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Reid of Bancroft.

Captain D. P. Bleecker, of Camp Borden, accompanied by Mrs. Bleecker and family, are spending a holiday at Bancroft and Baptiste Lake visiting with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Reid of town.

Pte. Lawrence Leedy is spending a short leave with his wife and family of Bancroft.

A severe electrical storm and high wind with torrential rain swept over Bancroft district Saturday evening lasting nearly three hours. Many trees were blown down with the wind disrupting telephone communications on rural and forestry lines. Official rainfall during the storm was .46 inches.

Miss Rhoda Wilson of Peterborough, is spending a two weeks' holiday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson of Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brant have returned to Buffalo, after a three weeks' visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brant, "Abbey Dawn" and Mrs. George Hatch, Rochester, are visiting relatives here.

Misses Evelyn Bowers and Lois Leach, Hamilton, were weekend guests of Chief Clifford and Mrs. Maracle.

Mrs. Sherman Moses and daughter, Judith, and Miss Doris Bragg, Hamilton are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Brant.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Maracle, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doreen, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Green spent last week with friends in Buffalo.

Miss Hilda Sero, Hamilton, was a weekend guest of Mrs. W. J. Brant and Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Thompson.

Miss Ruth Brant was hostess to the Girls' Guild, Tuesday afternoon.

The Kan-yen-geh League held a very enjoyable social in the Council House, Friday evening. The Guild is sponsoring a similar event Friday of this week.

Canadians Recognized As Belonging to Cream Of Imperial Troops

London, Aug. 8. (CP Cable)—Canada has achieved a new landmark in her military history, the London Daily Telegraph said today in an editorial commenting on the announcement that the 1st Canadian Army is fighting in Normandy.

"On whatever front the Canadians appeared both in the last war and this they always won recognition as belonging to the cream of imperial troops", the editorial added.

The Telegraph referred to the Dominion's war contribution of land, sea and air supplies and said "no nation has thrown itself more whole-heartedly into the war—or destroying Hitlerism and saving freedom for the world".

Madoc

Madoc— Mrs. Florence Reeves received a cable from her son, Mac Reeves, that he had returned to England from Burma and had also received his commission as pilot officer. Mac enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in 1941 and received his training at Belleville and Trenton, going overseas in early '43. He has seen service in Burma. Prior to enlistment, Mac operated a fox farm at Marmora.

August Fabric Highlights...

PLAN YOUR SEWING NOW... HERE ARE THE FABRICS!

ENGLISH SPUN RAYON . . . a commercial standard. Sheer life, it does not shrink, and that's why mother's opposite is ideal for summer dresses. This fine rayon comes in a variety of designs in pretty shades of rose, blue, green, or gold colour grounds. Width 36 inches. Per yard .....

PRINTED RAYON CREPE . . . in vogueish new designs. Nothing is quite like a printed crepe for useful practicality, and this certainly need not boast on that. Note the choice of designs and colours: modern florals, conventionals, geometrics, or interesting abstracts in tan, mauve, rose, red, grey, navy, green or gold colour grounds. Width 38 inches. Per yard .....

SPUN RAYON TARTANS . . . for casuals or tailor-mades. Skirts, jackets, clever little two-pieces, are so bright and gay, all year round when made in plaid material. These tartans are a closely woven twill spun rayon which will wear well. Choose from Royal Stewart, McBeth, Fraser, etc. Width 36 inches. Per yard .....

PLAIN RAYON CREPE . . . new soft shades. The "Empire" rayon crepe is lovely to sew for tall drapes, as well as the rough "grony" weave makes it rich looking. Find your favorite shade: Autumn Gold, Cinnamon, Mauve Tint, Cockatoo, Wind Agate Blue, Sienna Purple, Greenwood, Cossack Brown, Sky Aqua, Mesina, Coral, and Town Black. Width approximately 38 inches. Per yard .....

PRINTED "TROPICA" . . . a spun rayon in high fashion. Style and practicality are cleverly combined in this sub-rayon material, for besides being wash-looking it's crease-resisting and hand washable. Take your pick of large or small designs on grounds of navy, brown, green, red or gold colours. Width 42 inches. Per yard .....

TUBFAST COTTON PRINTS . . . for house dresses and children's clothes. Make "mother and daughter dresses" . . . aprons . . . new "back-to-school" things . . . all from these quality cotton prints that should wear and wear. In the group are dainty stripes, florals on both light and dark grounds so you have a wide choice. Width 36 inches. Per yard .....

BRUSHED SPUN RAYONS . . . in fashionable tartans. An unusual fabric this, for hard-wearing spun rayon is closely woven and then brushed to give a soft woolly finish to the twill. You'll use it in jackets and skirts, little tailored frocks, and jerkins . . . which will be admired for their gay colours! Royal Stewart or Cameron tartans. Width 38 inches. Per yard .....

CANADIAN TANKS THRUST TOWARD FALAISE

Russians Sweep Toward Latvian Port of Liepaja

German Anti-Tank Screen Slows Down the Advance

Americans Drive Deep Into Defence Zone West of Paris

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 10—(AP)—Tanks of the 1st Canadian Army thrust forward southeast of Caen toward the last bump of high ground between the Falaise road, only 100 miles from Paris—and one field dispatch said the Germans were withdrawing into the city for a show-down fight. However, the German have sufficiently recovered from the initial shock to put up an anti-tank screen north of Falaise which has "distinctly slowed down" the Canadian advance, headquarters said today.

Bridgehead Enlarged

The British bridgehead across the Orne has been enlarged and the advance made up to 4,000 yards. There are indications that the Germans are pulling out of the salient which is threatened by the bridgehead and the Canadian drive, headquarters added.

The American first army drove deep today into the Germans' last possible defence zone west of Paris.

"You can be pretty sure that they (the Americans) are not camping just outside Le Mans," one expert said of the armies' American push toward the French capital through Alencon, 118 miles to the west.

The Germans last placed the American armies within 97 miles of Paris, but no new positions have been announced since, probably in the belief that the Germans in cases are out of contact with their forward forces.

Nevers Nanies

Meanwhile it was learned here that American troops have reached that American mouth of the Loire Nantes, at the mouth of the Loire River and surrounded Angers, 60 miles up the Loire Valley on the way to Paris and the Port of Lorient.

There was not much active resistance in Lt.-Gen. Bradley's drive at Nantes, eighth largest French city with a population of 180,000, but the Germans had planted many minefields.

(The BBC said in a broadcast recorded by NBC that American troops were inside Nantes.)

The communique announced that we are now in Nuits (a port on the south side of the Brittany peninsula), but the enemy is at Dinard (a resort) and Brest. Pockets of resistance remained in St. Malo.

The southern flank of the American drive eastward from Brittany surrounded the city of Angers (pop: 84,526), 60 miles up the Loire River, extending the front to a record 175 miles.

At Brittany's tip, the Americans were pressing against elements of three German divisions within garrisons of Brest (38,000) and Lorient (30,000) on Brittany's south coast was surrounded by land.

Allied warships and German ships had steamed into both Brest and Lorient harbors— apparently attempting a sea-borne evacuation—but in the case of Brest, it was believed ready to pounce. The allies already have smashed three "Dunkerque" efforts there. A German convoy was intercepted and the morning south of the Channel Island of Jersey, and two Nazi ships were damaged before the vessels escaped in the fog.

The German penalized in counter-attacks attempting to cut Allied forces in the bridgehead from east of Avranches.

The Allied communique said that the enemy again had recaptured Mortain and "heavy fighting" has been going on south and west of the town". A German counter-attack at Chambois to the northwest was checked.

Eisenhower's Airborne Troops Form Unit, Size of Full Army

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 10 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters announced today the consolidation of its airborne personal into a new unit, approximately the size of a full army, under command of Lt.-Gen. Lewis H. Brereton.

Both fliers and ground combat personnel are included.

The innovation gives Eisenhower a large force with unprecedented co-ordination and mobility, which may soon strike some of the most decisive blows of the war.

Brereton, a veteran of the U. S. army air forces, has been in command of the U.S. Ninth Air Force since it became American airborne troops on D-Day.

Brereton's deputy commander will be Lt.-Gen. Frederick Browning of the British army.

Polish Premier Meets Stalin, Is Optimistic

Moscow, Aug. 10—(AP)—Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the Polish government in London radiated optimism today after a second conference with Premier Stalin last night.

He said the two rival Polish regimes probably would meet in Warsaw again after it is captured to seek the reconciliation agreement they failed to reach here.

He expressed belief members of the Polish underground should lead Poland and remarked that this is the common front with allied help.

Mikolajczyk saw Mr. Stalin for more than eight and reported the Russian Premier had given assurance of "the desire for a strong, independent, democratic Poland."

Negotiations between the rival regimes—the London Government and the Polish underground National Committee of Liberation—broke up in confusion with both sides indicating a desire that they be resumed soon.

16 More Jap Ships Sunk by U.S. Subs

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—American submarines, operating in Japanese waters have destroyed another 16 enemy vessels including one warship, the navy announced today.

The latest bag of the far-ranging submersibles, which may have operated in coastal waters of the Japan Sea, boosted total to 839 the number of Japanese ships of all types sunk, probably sunk or damaged since the war began.

Included in that total are 14 warships announced sent to the bottom, 11 probably sunk and 14 damaged.

The Japanese in the enemy merchant fleet includes 833 ships sunk, 26 probably sunk and 101 damaged.

OPERATED ON ROMMEL; REFUSED FEE

New York, Aug. 10 — (AP)—The BBC, crediting report from Copenhagen, said today a Danish brain specialist, Prof. Edvard Busch, successfully removed a shrapnel splinter from Rommel's head but refused to accept a fee." Federal Communications Commission monitors recorded the broadcast. By British accounts, Marshal Erwin Rommel was injured in an air-raid July 17.

OLD FAIR BUILDING BURNS

Peterborough, Aug. 10 (CP)—The main building on the old Peterborough Exhibition Grounds, now used as a storage by No. 31 Number 2 C.A.S.T.C., an R.C.A.M.C. camp, was burned to the ground last night by fire of unknown origin. The damage is placed between $15,000 and $18,000. No person was injured.

ALLIES CUT INTO NAZIS' DWINDLING OIL SUPPLIES

Ploesti Fields In Romania, Refineries In Hungary Pounded In Daylight Blows

FRENCH CAPITAL HIT

By AUSTEN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Fleets of American heavy bombers from England and Italy struck today at fuel and transport facilities in southern Paris and, for the second time in a dozen hours, at the great Ploesti oil center of Ploesti.

Upwards of 500 heavyweights, escorted by fighters, rained fires licking at the refineries, tank cars and derricks 35 miles north of Bucharest. Some installations lie miles northwest of Ploesti also were hit in this 13th. attack from Italy on the major spring of Nazi oil.

The Germans used smoke screens, presumably from Italy to hide bomb by instrument. Several enemy fighters were destroyed in the air and Mustangs through a screen of interceptors and loosed their explosives in a storm of intense anti-aircraft fire.

By night, RAF Lancasters bombed two widely-separated fuel centers in Germany and northeast of the French battle zone while Mediterranean bases blasted Ploesti.

Around 500 planes attacked the Paris area yesterday and their explosives into the twentieth of the oil storage yards attacked this month in the British bases alone.

London, Aug. 10 (AP)—Bombers striking from Britain and Italy cut further into Hitler's dwindling oil supplies Wednesday night with assaults on storage depots and production centres, and today the German radio said the Reich again was under attack.

The British-based R.A.F. Lancasters smashed at two fuel dumps in France, Montrauban and Montdidier, night bombers struck the vast Ploesti oil fields and the Germans admitted today to a daylight blow at a refinery in Hungary.

The Nazi radio said American bombers from Italy were over Rumania, the former ally, and the Nazi radio asserted air attacks were made on the Ploesti area.

Meanwhile, Allied planes crossed the English Channel throughout Wednesday and continuation of the non-stop air offensive against Hitler's European citadel. Flying weather was unfavorable over much of Normandy and Brittany.

American Marauders, returning to night operations for the second before D-Day, pounded a number of enemy installations without loss, including an ammunition dump at Caudebec, 25 miles below Havre on the north bank of the Seine.

Judge C. Cameron Named Alternate Board Chairman

Ottawa, Aug. 10 —(CP)— Labor Minister Mitchell today announced the appointment of Judge C. C. Cameron of Belleville, Ont., as alternate chairman of the National War Labor Board.

An order-in-council providing for the appointment was tabled by Mr. Mitchell in the Commons.

Judge Cameron will be empowered to preside at Board meetings in the absence of the Board chairman, Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald, but will not have a vote at such meetings of the Board which the chairman attends.

The term of the appointment was made to expedite business of the Board.

REFUGEE BOAT SUNK

London, Aug. 10 — (AP) — The Ankara radio said today that a Turkish motor vessel carrying 282 Jews from Constanta, Romania, to Palestine, has been sunk outside territorial waters." The broadcast said that 5 passengers and two crew members were saved.

Armed Service Men Will Get War Service Gratuity; Clothing Allowances Boosted

Ottawa, Aug. 10 — (CP)—Minister of national war services Mackenzie announced a gratuity, said that for purposes of the bill the western hemisphere would include North America, South America, Bermuda and the West Indies and Newfoundland. Overseas would include Greenland, Iceland and the Aleutians.

Navy Minister Macdonald disclosed that the gratuities would be paid in unspecified instalments, but the clothing allowance, and certain other allowances would be paid in a lump sum on discharge.

Basis For Payment

The mustering out pay will be distributed on the following basis:

1. For every 30 days service in the western hemisphere, excluding the United States, $1.

2. For every 30 days of service overseas, or in the Aleutian Islands, $1.25.

3. For each six months of service overseas or in the Aleutian Islands, an additional seven days pay and allowances.

4. Subject to certain conditions a re-establishment credit will be available for specified rehabilitative purposes, with a total amount of the gratuities payable on the 29 days basis.

Credit To Re-establishment.

Similar gratuities will go to Canadian residents who were in any of the Empire forces and who return to Canada in the Dominion within a year of the date of their discharge. A proviso is added, however, that the amount of any benefit of similar nature received from Britain or other Dominion will be deducted from the Canadian benefit.

In other words, Canadians in the R. A. F. would receive the difference between any mustering-out benefits from the British government and those from the Canadian gratuity.

The gratuity, which is tax-free, will be payable in monthly instalments of the forces discharged for misconduct. Gratuity payments will be made, under certain conditions, to dependents of those who have died before or after discharge and without receiving the gratuity.

The motion, sponsored by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said the gratuities are designed "to recognize the service of members of His Majesty's forces who have served on active service during the present war and to establish them in their re-establishment having regard to the circumstances and terms of their service . . ."

Clothing Allowance

The clothing allowance will be paid on discharge and the men could spend it as they saw fit.

Pensions

Pensions Minister Mackenzie, answering a question, said that for purposes of the bill the western hemisphere would include North America, South America, Bermuda and the West Indies and Newfoundland. Overseas would include Greenland, Iceland and the Aleutians.

COL. DREW TERMS ALLOWANCE BILL 'OBVIOUS BRIBE'

Says His Gov't Plans to Do All It Can to Defeat Bill Being Enacted

SPEAKS OVER RADIO

Toronto, Aug. 10—(CP)—Premier Drew, terming the family allowance bill passed by parliament as "obviously an effort to bribe the people into the ballot box," in an address over a provincial network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation tonight said implementation of family allowances would "mean a heavy increase in the pockets of the people of Ontario would go "for the special advantage of the province of Quebec."

"We must decide," he said, "whether the province is to be a country where equality of advantage and obligation go hand in hand. That is the issue which cannot be separated from any discussion of any measure which gives special advantage to the province of Quebec . . .

"No other issue is of comparable importance. Social security, national prosperity, our very survival as United Nation, all depend upon its solution . . .

"The one real issue in that election (the Quebec provincial election of Aug. 8) was which party would assure the province of Quebec the least participation in the struggle against Hitler in their survival and ours depend . . .

PRESIDENT HOLDS THREE-DAY PARLEY AT PEARL HARBOR

Inspected Installations and Reiterated Pacific War Goals

SEES AMAZING CHANGE

Honolulu, July 28 — (Delayed) — President Roosevelt has concluded three days of military conferences and inspection of the Pacific fortress Island where 2 1-2 years ago Japanese bombs blasted the United States into the war.

The President arrived at Pearl Harbor July 26 from the Bremerton base at San Diego, Calif., where he had spent nearly four days after the July 20 speech accepting renomination for a fourth term.

Here he held his first wartime across-the-table conference with the top strategists of the Pacific —Admiral Nimitz and Gen. MacArthur—and with the staff commanders representing the full scope of the Pacific war.

Later Mr. Roosevelt told reporters the meetings planned new offensives against the Japanese, and he reiterated the United States' determination to retain and improve the Philippines and to drive the Japanese completely out.

The President coupled with his conference detailed visits to Pearl Harbor, converted from the Japanese-wrought havoc of Dec. 7, 1941, into an island bristling with land, sea, and air power. He termed the conversion the most amazing development of the war seen.

Admiral Nimitz and General MacArthur were aboard the President's ship to greet him when he arrived at Pearl Harbor.

ITALIAN PATRIOTS HELP CANADIANS MOP UP FASCISTS

Vatican Takes Steps To Help the Allies Relieve Plight Of Florence Population

POLISH TROOPS ACTIVE

By NOLAND NORGAARD
(AP War Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 10—(AP)—The Vatican took steps today to help the Allies relieve the plight of the population of Florence, while Canadian troops, aided by 250 Italian patriots, mopped up Nazis and Fascists in the allied-held southern portion of the city.

Today was the first report in several weeks of Canadian troops in active infantry action in Italy. Norgaard's dispatch did not make clear how many Canadians were now involved nor what their unit designations were, although they presumably are part of the British 8th Army.

Canadian tank units have recently been reported fighting in support of Indian infantry in the 8th army's thrust on Florence.)

Transportation is needed to send food and other necessities to the archbishop of Florshce, Elia Dalla Costa, but the Vatican is in a position suffering from food and water shortages, it was added, the Vatican.

At the same time Italian and Polish troops in the Adriatic sector launched a new drive eastward on the Rimini line. The Poles attacked the first objectives of the Rimini-Pesaro sector, the capture only a mile south of the Cesano River, which is less than 40 miles below Rimini.

Many Enemy Small Arms

The Allied command said 150 men and women found in possession of small arms and ammunition were arrested in the roundup of hostile elements in Florence, which is split between the Del Serragli and the Santo Spirito districts on the north quarter.

Snipers have been giving the 8th Army trouble from the moment the first patrols entered the city.

Only minor operations were reported along most of the 5th and 8th Army fronts as the main body of Canadians forged ahead, meeting resistng strongly in the bend of the Arno river and in the hilly country to the northern banks.

Indian troops of the 8th army in vicinity of San Giovanni Alla'vena, eight miles east of Pisa, the Arno river port, are under artillery fire. The enemy has been using shallow draft craft on the river to attack patrols across the stream and infantry and armored cars.

Reports that the Nazis had burned the village of Civitiano, nine miles north of Arezzo, were verified by advancing 8th Army troops. Civitiano was destroyed in the death of Italian General Potente and the Partisans Garibaldi brigade in a skirmish with enemy snipers south of Florence three days ago.

New Drive Carves Additional Chunks Out of Baltic Flank

Vistula River Bridgehead Extended South of Warsaw

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(A. P. War Correspondent)

Moscow, Aug. 10 (AP) — Soviet tanks, supported by bombers, rumbled forward toward the Latvian port of Liepaja today in a new drive that carved additional chunks out of the Nazis' Baltic flank.

At the same time Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces, despite the bitterest German resistance of the entire summer campaign, extended slowly but inexorably their Vistual River bridgehead south of Warsaw and exploded a troublesome Nazi salient northeast of the Polish capital.

Rokossovsky, held at bay within the Polish capital, also shoved the Germans back northwest of Siedlce, seemingly in preparation for an offensive with the top-pass in a series of sweeping decree seizing troops for the Reich's depleted armies.

Acting in his new capacity as Reichscommissary for the total war effort, Goebbels dug deeper into the blindly spread home front manpower of Germany for reserves.

All domestic servants of foreign extraction were directed immediately into war industry. German servants will go into war industry uniforms into war factories or into families with children where servants may be deemed essential.

The decrees reduced the number of employees in railways, postal and cultural services. The Berlin radio said industry would soon be published formally.

Bombs Fall Short, Causing Casualties Says Staff Officer

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
(United Press Correspondent)

With the 1st Canadian Army in France, Aug. 8—(delayed)—(AP)—Senior Canadian staff officer told War Correspondent today that in this afternoon's heavy raid by American flying-fortress bombers in support of the Canadian offensive south of Caen, from six to 10 bombs fell short, resulting in casualties to Canadian personnel.

A high Canadian officer was one of those wounded.

Six hundred American heavies participated in the raid which was directed at German fortified positions before the Canadian line.

The officer interviewed disclosed these accidents said he did not know how many were attributed, but strongly emphasized they had no ill effect on the course of the offensive.

Canadian Armor Playing Important Part in Advance on Falaise Road

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
(CP War Correspondent)

With the 1st Canadian Army in France, Aug. 10.—(CP Cable)—Canadian armored and motorized units have been playing an important part in the advance of Dominion and British troops along the Falaise Road south of Caen.

The extent of their success cannot yet be accurately reported because of the continued fury of fighting in which they have been engaged in the forward areas, but they captured one town and have accounted for at least a battery of 88 mm. guns.

One group of tanks from an eastern Canadian regiment, working with infantry from a Scottish battalion, had advanced easily as far as Bretteville le Rabet, seven miles south of Caen, when it ran into its first bit of trouble.

It was an infantry task to clear out Cintheaux, but the tanks were in a position to help the foot-sloggers.

The tank-commander decided the only way to push the tanks on to close it out with his own armor.

This was done, and after the tanks had gone through, the infantry followed and cleaned out the town.

One group of tanks went right into the town while others moved around the west side of the road. The tanks beg inside the town included a battery of self-propelled guns and a couple of self-propelled guns. The tanks destroyed the guns, 88 pieces and left another 50 Germans dead.

Then they pushed through the Valley immediately to the southeast of Cintheaux advancing to a point just north of Haut Mesnil. It was real tank-killing country through which they pushed, but the scrub was made without difficulty. Few mines were encountered—probably because there was not much time in which to lay them.

GOEBBELS BANS PUBLIC MEETINGS, ENTERTAINMENTS

Sweeping Decrees an Effort to Seek Troops For Depleted Armies

SERVANTS GET ORDERS

London, Aug. 10 — (CP)—Propaganda minister Goebbels banned all public meetings and entertainments in Germany not directly connected with the war today in a series of sweeping decrees seeking troops for the Reich's depleted armies.

Acting in his new capacity as Reichscommissary for the total war effort, Goebbels dug deeper into the blindly spread home front manpower of Germany for reserves.

All domestic servants of foreign extraction were directed immediately into war industry. German servants will go into war industry uniforms into war factories or into families with children where servants may be deemed essential.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

GIRLS JUST HAVING REAL GOOD TIME

Concern was felt for the safety of three girls in a row boat, when it was reported they were in distress off Cow Island in the Bay of Quinte Wednesday afternoon. Police were notified and in turn Maurice Callaghan was contacted in an effort to send rescue to the girls.

Mr. Callaghan proceeded to the scene in a power boat as rapidly as possible, but upon his arrival at Cow Island he was greeted by three pretty damsels, who assured him that they were in no way in distress but merely enjoying a Wednesday half holiday around the bay. Assured the girls were safe and could return to the Belleville side of the bay Mr. Callaghan returned home. The girls were swimming from a boat when eye witnesses from the Government Dock mistook their fun for distress.

44TH FIELD REGIMENT HEADQUARTERS IDLE

Active in militia circles since the last war, the headquarters of the 43rd and 44th Field Regiments, Royal Canadian Artillery, will be dormant on Aug. 15 for the duration, it was learned here today.

The 44th Field Reg't. in which was included the 15th Field Battery, Belleville, 47th Field Battery, Napanee, and the 3/32nd Field Battery, Kingston-Gananoque, was formerly the 9th Field Brigade, RCA, and was commanded by Lieut.-Col. Smith, Belleville artillery officers as the late Lt. Col. Robert Graham, and Lt. Col. Tom Ellis.

The 43rd Field Regt. headquarters, formerly in Kingston, will be located in Cobourg.

Administration of the 34th Field Battery here, and the 47th Battery, Napanee, both of which will remain as non-permanent units, Belleville will be done through the 3rd Brigade Group H. Q. at Kingston.

CONVICTED INEBRIATES WIN 3 — SENTENCED TO LESS TIME IN JAIL

Convicted inebriates won't have to spend such long periods in the local lock-up in default of the payment of fines, Magistrate J. L. Lloyd announced during the progress of today's police court session at the Court House.

In the future the jail term for those in default of consuming and drunk charges will be ten days instead of fourteen, Magistrate Lloyd announced.

"It is more in keeping with the fine and the terms meted out at other places," added his Worship, for the past few years inebriates unable to pay the conventional ten and costs were subject to a 14-day jail term.

"It will mean less time between quaffs," remarked one veteran offender upon learning of the new regulations.

HEAVY OFFERING OF TOMATOES ON MARKET

With tomatoes appearing on the local produce market in bushel lots, the price of this commodity was considerably easier today with vendors asking from 30 to 75 cents per basket, according to size, and bushel lots being available at $1.25.

Watermelons appeared on the market for the first time, said to be the earliest in several years, while muskmelons were also offered by several vendors. Prices for watermelons was 60 cents ranging down to 40 cents, while muskmelons were quoted at from 25 cents to 35 and 40 cents each.

Green corn brought the usual 25 cents the dozen ears; potatoes were in good supply at the local market and harvest apples 75 cents the peck. Peaches were offered at 20 cents the basket, while cucumbers were 40 cents the box or $2 the basket, and blackberries 35 cents the box.

Donnan Brothers' Happy Reunion On Landing Field

A squadron of Lancaster bombers had just come into their field from an operation over enemy territory, the ground crew took over, the air crew proceeded to their quarters. On their way in the air crew observed a strange bomber parked among the Lancaster landing strip and shortly afterwards one of the Lancaster pilots received an urgent call to proceed to the control tower immediately. Stepping of motor-bike the pilot hastened to the control tower wondering just what had occurred. On arrival the lanky pilot, Flight Lieutenant "Pete" Donnan was surprised to meet Flying Officer Bobbie Donnan, who had brought in the strange plane for minor repairs. Needless to say the two brothers, Bobbie, at Asst. Col. R. C. Donnan, R. D., of this city, held a happy reunion. Incidentally only a short time later had FO. "Buster" Donnan been promoted to the rank of Flight Lieutenant.

POLICE COURT

Harold Peacock, Trenton, was sentenced to seven days in jail by Magistrate Lloyd in police court here today after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to notify the National Selective Service Board of a change of address while being a person exempt from military draft. Constable Wm. Bleasdale of the R.C.M.P. and investigating officer, asked that Peacock be turned over to the Kingston military authorities at the expiration of his prison sentence.

LAC. John Trice, of No. 6 Repair Depot R.C.A. F., appeared on two S. C. A. charges, one of driving while under the influence of liquor and the other of driving while under the influence of liquor and still guilty to one of the illegal consumption of liquor and still guilty. Including court costs, Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan moved for the dismissal of the second charge which charged Trice with being found in the possession of liquor illegally. His Worship Worship agreed to the proposal. When the name of Percy H. Grant was called there was no response. He has moved from Tuttle to Buffalo, an told the complained Traffic Officer Harry Bleasdale, who preferred a charge of failing to stop before entering through a through highway. The charge was dismissed under the circumstances.

Seven minor Squor charges saw pleas of guilty entered and fines imposed prior to the noon court today. In this list appeared the name of three women.

For parking his motor car on the travelled portion of Highway No. 14 near Anderson of Bonarlaw paid $7.50, which included costs. Arising out of this charge Mrs. Grace Mathews, also of Bonarlaw, appeared on a charge of careless driving and was assessed a five dollar fine. A similar charge was levied on the two vehicles driven by the above-mentioned pair.

WANT SOBER PEACE CELEBRATION

New York, Aug. 10 —(AP)— The Municipal Association of New York City has recommended that its members "will no drinking beverages for 24 hours after receiving news that fighting has ended in Europe."

FEWER REPATRIATES

Liverpool, England, Aug. 10 —(CP)—British civilian repatriates aboard diesel-driven ships in the exchange liner Drottningholm today shortly after the ship's arrival from Lisbon, but a ministry of health official said their number was considerably less than the 500 originally expected. The official added that the Lisbon list also showed some discrepancy between the passenger list and one which had been supplied earlier.

FOLLOWS FATHER

Less than two weeks after his father, Lieut.-Gen. Lesley McNair, was killed in France, Col. Douglas McNair, above, of Washington, D.C., has been killed among the killed in the battle for Guam.

Rev. G. G. Wright Laid To Rest

Social and business life in the city paused with congregation members in parliament and others from all walks of life yesterday paid tribute to the memory of Rev. G. G. Wright, much-loved minister and well-regarded citizen. Funeral service for the late Mr. Wright were held from Christ Church on Wednesday afternoon.

Significant, of the place which Rev. Mr. Wright held in the hearts of his parishioners and the respect in which he was held in the hearts of those outside his congregation, were the long lines of sorrowing people who filed past the casket as his body lay in state in Christ Church prior to the funeral service, which body was conveyed to the church from the Thomas Funeral Home during the funeral Home during the morning where following holy communion celebrated by Rev. Ruri Bunn, Rural Beauchamp Payne assisted by Rev. W. G. Hope Evans read the service until the time of the funeral.

Long before the hour of the funeral the church auditorium was filled to capacity with many unable to gain admission, they waited until the funeral cortege passed on its way to Belleville Cemetery before dispersing. Anglican diocesan clergy were well represented at the funeral while members of the Belleville Ministerial Association attended in a body. In the unavoidable absence of Mayor Harry Rollins, the city was represented by H. D. Bateman, City Comptroller.

Bishop of Ontario, the Right Rev. John Lyons, D.D., conducted the funeral service, assisted by Venerable Archdeacon A. E. H. Cobbett, D.D., and Rev. Rural Dean Beauchamp Payne. Appropriate numbers were offered by the choir under the direction of choirmaster Arthur Simpson with Mrs. Gordon as organist. Numbers rendered by the choir were the 90th Psalm and the recessional "Nunc Dimitis" with hymns sung being "Let Saints on Earth in Concert Sing," and "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er."

Acting as pall bearers were Rev. Rural Dean W. J. Robinson, Rev. W. J. Hope Swayne, Rev. R. A. Grant, Rev. C. P. Heaven, W. L. Simmons, Rev. C. E. Latchford. Committal service at the cemetery was conducted by Bishop Lyons.

Reconquest of Guam Is Almost Complete

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 10 — (AP) — The virtual reconquest of Guam after 31 days' fighting was announced last night.

An Allied communique said a final thrust Tuesday brought all of Guam into American hands again. Organized resistance inland from Pati Point, the island's northeastern extremity.

In the mopping up on Guam the final pocket of ill-fed, ragged and battered Japanese was wiped out, tinual aerial, naval and artillery fire. Patrolling units of the island garrison guarded against escape either by sea or land.

At Dooltom, Associated Press war correspondent, reported jungle trails were sinewy with dead. In addition to 10,000 already buried by the Americans and an unknown total by the Japanese themselves.

On the Aitape battlefront of British New Guinea, it was announced, the enemy toll reached 7,907 known killed, with reports of an additional 1,073 slain during the developing American push east of the Drinkumor River.

'Keep the "Fags" Coming' Writes Belleville Boy

"That the fags reaching us fellows over here are greatly appreciated and forgotten cigarettes are in a class of their own goes without saying," writes Pte. Stanley Forward to the cigarettes they receive from home, in a letter to the Ontario news," F. Van Dusen recently wrote in reply to cigarettes received from the Belleville Rotarian Club.

"The work your organization is doing is a tremendous help to the war effort. When the history of the war is written a great many other things can be overlooked, or may never have—keep the smokes coming," wrote Lt. C. McKay from overseas.

"We hope to be home in a few months, but in the meantime good old Canadian cigarettes can't come too frequently. Your club is doing a glorious work in the provision of smokes for the Belleville boys over here," added Lt. Russell, while scores of other Belleville lads expressed similar sentiments upon the receipt of cigarettes from home.

The following Belleville boys were each adopted by individual cigarettes by the Belleville Kinsmen Club Peg Fund for smokes:

Violent Storm Sweeps Prairies

Winnipeg, Aug. 10 (CP) — A violent thunderstorm accompanied by heavy rain swept prairie provinces, which swept through mid-Western Canada Wednesday, struck Winnipeg early today leaving a trail of destruction throughout the city and surrounding districts.

During the height of the storm the government Meteorological Office at Stevenson Airfield clocked the wind at 71 miles per hour and Trans-Canada Airlines planes from both east and west were as much as 1½ hours late.

The storm moved east from Regina to Fort William, disrupting telephone communications and causing extensive damage. Reports it had reached various proportions at Kamsack, Sask., and Dauphin, Man., but communications with both places was still out early today.

To R.C.A.F. at Rivers, Man. reported a 41-m.p.h. wind and some damage to the airport from rain and hail.

Early yesterday a heavy rain and wind storm swept northwestern Ontario and the Lakehead, flooding roads, washing out bridges and flattening crops.

No casualties have been reported from either storm.

District Canning Factories Starting Runs on Tomatoes

With hot August weather hurrying the ripening of tomatoes an early start in the annual tomato harvest is predicted by canning factory proprietors in the Belleville district today. Originally intending to commence the tomato run on August 15, the start of the month several have now indicated they could start a week or earlier.

The Canada Packers plant at Belleville officials stated they would start their tomato pack either Friday or Saturday, or early in the week, while at Rednersville and certain other Prince Edward county plants, it had also been decided to begin at an earlier date than at first anticipated.

Indicative of the rapid ripening of tomatoes was the large offering on the Thursday market at Belleville when large lots of tomatoes were on display with one farmer offering two bushels.

Labor situation at the canning factories during the tomato canning season is somewhat worry of most proprietors. Selective Service officials, however, indicated that at present it appeared as though minimum female labor might be available but that a critical shortage of male labor could be evident. At the Belleville factory officials intimated they "hoped to get by" insofar as labor was concerned.

In Prince Edward county, however, it appeared a different matter, with canning factory officials and district farmers meeting with representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to discuss the situation. The meeting was scheduled for August 11th with the county agricultural representative expected to be in charge.

Housing accommodation for families brought into the district from outside points to assist in the tomato harvest has been partly solved with the acquisition of large tents which are to be used as temporary quarters. These tents, measuring approximately 12x16 feet are floored and are capable of housing entire families and other accommodation is not available.

Father of 43 Children Now Parent of Quads

Bogota, Colombia, Aug. 10—(AP) — The 75-year-old father of 43 children yesterday became the father of quadruplets, the newspaper El Espectador reported.

He is Adjon Yaramillo, Amalfi artisan, who had 39 children by his first wife and 13, besides the new arrivals, by his second. The newspaper said, adding that details concerning the birth of the quadruplets were lacking.

BIRTHS

DRADER — In Brandon, Manitoba, on July 30, to Mr. and Mrs. William Drader (nee Mary Hamilton, Reg. N.) on July 30th, 1944, a sister for Joe and Doreen.

DALEY — To Pte. J. and Mrs. Daley (nee Elda Kaller), in the Belleville General Hospital, on August 9th, 1944, a son (Elmer John.)

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Mary Dora Dafoe, 54 South George Street, wish to extend sincere thanks and appreciation to all friends for messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings from their many relatives, friends and neighbors tendered during their bereavement at the passing of a dear mother; also thanking Rev. Major Marsh.

Mrs. Francis Beasley and family paper said, adding that details concerning the birth of the quadruplets were lacking.

Attack Enemy Transport

British Mosquitos ranged far behind the French battle area and attacked enemy transport. They bombed and strafed a German train, bombed Paris and towns in the east and southeast—Chalons, Moulins and Dijon. They destroyed 20 barges on the Seine between Nouen and Paris, and bombed concentrations of rolling stock. They also hit unannounced objectives in Germany.

These operations, with afternoon and evening attacks, cost nine bombers.

The nine days and nights this month Allied bombers based in Britain have battered 14 returns and 15 separate targets in France and in one of the worst weeks in the air war. Several Balkan refineries have been hit by the Mediterranean Allied air forces.

Draw Supplies 200 Miles

Six army depots in the battle-field area have been destroyed the Nazis have to go farther afield to get vital fuel supplies needed to keep tanks and other vehicles moving. The Germans are known to be drawing their fuel supplies as far as 200 miles from the front.

R.A.F. Halifaxes bombed flying-bomb launching sites in Northern France during the night in a follow-up to a similar attack on robot lairs, and R.A.F. heavy bombers hit the Pas de Calais area for the fifth time in five days, the second time in four nights.

In a final operations just before dark Mosquitos sped 500 miles and wrecked a building believed to be the German headquarters at Tonsberg on the Oslofjord, Norway.

In two wide-spread attacks American fighters destroyed or damaged at least 437 railroad cars and more than 90 locomotives.

Rev. G. G. Wright

Tribute by the Church, by citizens who knew him as rector of Christ Church and a fellow-citizen and by various organizations was paid the late Rev. George Gillespie Wright of Christ Church at the service Wednesday afternoon in the church in which he had served so well. The heartfelt tribute to one who had been held in the highest regard for his devotion to his ministry, for the many evidences of his deeply-rooted interests in this community and in its people and for his versatile abilities as a member of his parish, was intensified by the sense of shock and by the universal regret of all who knew him, in the suddenness of his passing. To his parishioners, so unexpectedly deprived of their spiritual guide and friend, the sense of loss is new keen for the years of his ministry had brought a relationship between their pastor and his congregation which will endure long as memory lasts. The parish, one of the most important in this diocese, has felt during his ministry the guidance of a kindly and sympathetic heart, as well as a wise, able leader and a devoted servant of his high calling.

The Rev. G. G. Wright came to the parish twelve years ago and in his tenure was tireless in his devotion to the responsibilities of his office as rector. As spiritual head of a congregation which is one of the largest in the community, Mr. Wright was brought into the most intimate association with local groups and organizations and these civic and religious responsibilities he filled with efficiency and with joy in service. The record of his interests is well known and as citizen and as citizen he devoted the many abilities which naturally devolved upon him.

He was destined to pass from the active burdens and responsibilities of the parish while still actively serving the church and the community with his full strength of mind and body. It is this sudden breaking of the ties which has rendered more than usually poignant the grief at his passing which the people of his parish and all those who knew him feel as the loss of a personal friend.

The honor shown his memory was a tribute to his thorough and helpful service on behalf of his office, his kindly and generous heart, his noble spirit and his warm sympathies. He will not be forgotten in the history of the parish or in the Church in this city and in the hearts of a very wide circle of friends.

To the members of his family the community expresses its sympathy in the loss of husband and father and to the parish its regret at the passing of their beloved rector.

Florence

Soldiers, writing home from Italy, have much to tell of Italian cities, such as the capital, Rome, once the head of the greatest of ancient empires and today the capital city of Italy. Florence, another city so fabled, dates from ancient times, it has its appeal of the Middle Ages and it has its modern appeal as the chief city of modern Italy.

Florence, on the beautiful Arno, is now in the eyes of the world as British troops are there. Florence is named for flowers and it is to this day a city of flowers. It was an old Roman colony, rebuilt by Julius Caesar as a military post. It rose to prominence under the Carglingian kings and became the scene of conflicts of the popes and emperors. It gave the world a great impetus in trade for the Florentines were traders, who formed themselves into powerful guilds. They warred against the feudal lords and finally threw off the yoke of the emperors and in 1250 A.D. Florence was proclaimed a republic.. It became involved in the disputes of the Guelfs and Ghibellines and later in the strife of the Blacks and Whites, two factions born of opposition of the nobles to the constitution. In spite of strife the city grew in importance, in splendor and in prosperity and fine churches, palaces and libraries were built. In 1348 the city's population was decimated by the plague of the Black Death. From 1434 to 1527 the Medici held sway and under this family the city rose to its greatest magnificence. The Medici were patrons of the arts and letters. Florence became the centre of the Renaissance. In the sixteenth century it ceased to be a republic and became the capital of the grand-duchy of Tuscany. In 1818 it was annexed with Tuscany to the French Empire. In 1865 it became the capital of Italy pire. of Rome and in 1871 Rome again became the capital of Italy.

Florence is associated with some of the most famous names in Italian history. Dante and Petrarch the poets, Giotto, Leonardo, Michelangelo, Raphael, great names in art, painting and sculpture, and architecture. Palestrina, one of the great names in music and Machiavelli, statesman who wrote "The Prince", a treatise on the means by which a ruler may acquire and maintain power. It formulates the principles of statecraft, characterized by a realistic exposition of views in the employment of means to gain political ends.

Himmler's Fate

If the report should be true that Heinrich Himmler, head of the terrible Gestapo has been assassinated in Germany, it would be good news for the world as it would mean that there had been removed one of the most vicious figures of history, a man whose nature is ice cold and absolutely indifferent to the sufferings of others. At the same time it is realized that the anguish this monster has caused is many thousand times more than could be atoned for by Himmler's death. Mankind stands under the stigma of the inhuman character of such a heartless being and it would be difficult for man to conceive of a more cruel agent of tyranny than Heinrich Himmler.

The report of his death is in no way confirmed and it has come to notice only by second or third hand report. There are no details of any "subsequent uprising" which is mentioned in the story of the reported ending of Himmler and wounding of Goering.

Himmler's death would probably mean the speedier end of the structure Hitler has set up to guard himself and his tyranny.

Pipe Down

(Christian Science Monitor)

To that fellow who has successfully developed a rustproof furnace pipe, here's a sweep of admiration. He's really done something—if you know what we mean. And what man doesn't?

Oh, it wasn't so bad when plumbers were at beck and call to have a rusty furnace pipe taken down in the spring and put back in the fall. In fact, our plumber — we'd like a word with him — assured us before he left that there's "nothing to it."

But after a year of struggling with yards of furnace pipe, there's many a man who has yet to decide whether the greater strain on being a gentleman on all occasions comes with taking the pipe down or putting it up. It is little wonder that decisions have been made on the spur of the moment to let the pipe rust until it dropped off by itself.

Of course, every man finally gets the pipe back somehow or other. Don't ask him how. Even the assorted tools — screwdriver, pliers, small sledge hammer, file, shoehorn and kitchen knife — no not add up to a complete explanation.

Yes, Mr. Hardwareman, you can put us down for six lengths of that new non-rusting furnace pipe. We are going to wait for the plumber to come back and put it up.

The Fastest Mile

(Trenton Courier Advocate)

In Stockholm, Sweden, the other day, Arne Andersson, a school teacher, ran a mile in four minutes and one decimal six seconds. This is said to be the fastest mile ever run by man. But that statement is not correct. Our Uncle Ted went down into a swamp at the Black Donald one day, and stuck his head into a hole to see what he could see. A bear was in the hole and he had to come out. And Uncle Ted started to run. He said for the first mile he only touched the top of the high spots with his feet, but after that he just settled down to running and he was doing forty-five miles an hour on the level when he decided to stop. By that time he had outrun the rabbits, so he said, and he figured that as rabbits run faster than bears he could afford to ease up.

JUST FOLKS

SUMMER SCENE

Under the blazing sun he stands,
Throws back his hair with sweaty hands
And rather sorrowfully eyes
The horses fretted by the flies.

The dog beside him pants for air
And looks upon his master there,
As if to say: "The sun's too hot
I know where there's a cooler spot."

The harness rattles. From a tree
A crow is cawing lustily.
And riding by I see him there,
And comes to mind one line of prayer.

Cruel the sun and long the row
Horses and man and dog must go.
Father, how often this I've said:
"Give us this day our daily bread!"

Pyle in Normandy:

As Troops Waited for Grand Assault Which Broke Out of Beachhead

By ERNIE PYLE

In Normandy. (By Wireless) — The great attack, when we broke out of the Normandy beachhead, began in the bright light of midafternoon after the hero hour of a bleak and mysterious dawn as attacks are supposed to start in books.

The attack had been delayed from day to day because of poor flying weather, and on the final day we hadn't known for sure till after breakfast whether it was on or off again.

When the word came that it was on, the various battalion staffs of our regiment were called in from their command posts for a final review of the battle plan.

Each one was given a mimeographed sketch of the frontline area, showing exactly where and when each type bomber was to hammer the German lines ahead of them. Another mimeographed page was filled with specific orders for the grand attack to follow.

Officers stood or squatted in a circle in a little apple orchard behind a ramshackle stone farmhouse in a poor French family who had left before us. The stonewall in this front yard had been knocked down by shelling, and through the orchards there were shell craters and tree limbs knocked off and trunks sliced by bullets. Some enlisted men sleeping right before in the attic of the house got the shock of their lives when the thin floor collapsed and they fell down into the cowshed below.

Chickens and tame rabbits still scampered around the farmyard, and cows lay all around in the fields.

The regimental colonel stood in the center with officers and men over the orders in detail. Battalion commanders took down notes in little books.

The colonel said, "Ernie Pyle is with the regiment for the attack and will be with one of the battalions, so you'll be seeing him". The officers looked at me and smiled and I felt embarrassed.

Then Maj. Gen. Raymond O. Barton, Fourth Division Commander, arrived. The colonel called, "Attention!" and everybody stood right until the general gave them, "Carry on".

An enlisted man ran to the mess truck and got a folding canvas stool for the General to sit on. He sat latching intently while the colonel wound up his instructions.

Then the generals stepped into the centre of the circle. He stood at a high point on one leg, with the other leg far out like a brace. He looked all around him as he talked. He talked long. He said something like this—

"This is one of the finest regiments in the American Army. It was the last regiment out of France in the last war. It was the first regiment into France in this war. It has spearheaded every one of the division's attacks in Normandy. It will spearhead this one. For many years this was my regiment and I feel very close to you, and very proud."

The colonel's head face was a study in emotion. Sincerity and deep seriousness were in every line of it and they shone from his eyes. General Barton is a man of deep affection and he has always been both personal and impersonal, hurtful him. All the officers straightened brake, and I for one had a lump in my throat. I said, "Good luck".

"That's all. God bless you and good luck".

Then we broke up and I went with one of the battalion commanders. Word came through on the field phone, radio and liaison men to the very smallest unit of command that the attack was on.

There was still an hour before the bombers, and three hours before the infantry were to move. There was nothing to do but wait. I began to dig a little deeper and wall. A creature comfort developed. I come over the countryside and all the brave-talk conversation of the last minute sitting in silence before the holocaust.

The first bombs of the mass onslaught came over a little before 9 a.m. They came in waves of twelve bombers. The main road running northward from Caen was their bomb line. They were to bomb only on the far side of that road.

Our kickoff infantry had been pulled back a hundred yards on this side of the road. Everyone in the area but the infantry was the strictest orders to be in foxholes, slit trenches or behind tanks or other high cover. Nobody was to be caught quite excusably, make mistakes.

We were still in country-level and with hedgerows all tall there simply was no high spot—either hill or building—from which one could get a grandstand view of the bombing as we ran to in fields of Italy. So one place was as good as another, unless you went right up and sat on the bomb line.

Having been caught too close to bombs before, I remembered and picked a farmyard about 400 yards away to sit in and wait.

And before the next two hours had passed I from have given every penny, every desire, every hope I've ever had to have been just another 800 yards further back.

OH, SUGAR!

The per capita consumption of sugar in the United States in 1940 was about 5 pounds a year. In 1940 it was about 113 pounds a year.

"To the best of my knowledge we cannot claim that too much sugar, whether it is taken as sugar, syrup, candy, sweetened beverage, cakes, pastries, ice cream or in so called infant food or breakfast food, is to all the cause of any disease of serious trouble. It is certainly not a cause of decay of the teeth in children or adults, in my opinion. I do not believe excessive consumption of sugar by child or adult can be considered a cause of diabetes."

But I am equally certain that the excessive consumption of sugar is to blame for a great deal of serious nutritional deficiency in childhood, adolescence and early adult life, for the individual who gets a large part of his daily quota of calories from sugar simply cannot take enough of the natural protective foods to supply the minimum amounts of minerals and vitamins required for good nutrition and normal functioning efficiency.

Now I like sugar in my tea, or coffee, cooking, cake, candy, but I never feel the like as well as the next fellow. But knowing what I do know about nutrition and health I am always conscious of the need for balancing such indulgence either by a fairly liberal intake of natural protective foods or by taking the necessary minerals and vitamins as a supplement to my diet or both.

Among the best protective foods are milk, cheese, (of course I mean real cheese, not processed stuff mixed off on the counter) eggs, and fruit and vegetables. Ask the counter man a name that suggests cheese) butter, eggs, greens for vegetables and fruits.

To parents of growing children I suggest plain fresh milk or buttermilk or cream or skim milk or buttermilk or sour milk or cream flavored with chocolate, cocoa, malt or the like, and fresh fruit beverages of the home made type instead of fountain beverages sweetened with sugar or perhaps bottled sweetened beverages containing stimulants which are in my judgment harmful for any child under sixteen.

To young persons in stores and offices I suggest milk—chocolate—some beverages at lunch or when a mid-forenoon or mid-afternoon pick-me-up or refreshment is indicated.

To overnourished folk generally I suggest the use of saccharin tablets to sweeten tea, coffee etc., in place of sugar—one quarter-grain saccharin tablet having the sweetening effect of a teaspoonful or more of sugar. I believe any one may take up to 5 grains of saccharin daily with impunity.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Tobacco Habit

Some years ago you gave a treatment for the tobacco habit which cured me and several of my friends. I have lost the clipping and I hope you will either publish the instructions again or send me a copy by mail. After years of abstinence I suddenly started smoking again and can't quit without your help.

(L.C.S.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask (do not send clipping) for pamphlet on "The Tobacco Habit."

Oat Obsession

Gas collects under left shoulder blade, also in left arm. Clear spells lasting a few minutes. Three doctors say high blood pressure. Recommended oatmeal. Have add only stick." Arm feels numb mornings. Tire easily. What do you think?

(F.M.)

Answer—I think it is unfortunate that people so readily ascribe discomfort, pain and other distress almost anywhere in the thorax to "gas." That's all, brother, I advise you to get the "gas" out of your head and remain strictly under your physician's care.

How To Breathe

I have had more satisfaction and benefit from your booklet "How to Breathe" than I can tell you. Here is just one observation I have made. Sometimes after a night of disturbed sleep or a wild dream I awaken with a mean headache. This used to last for several hours. But I discovered that it clears up in a few minutes if I do the belly breathing exercise I learned from you and when I am ready for my morning somersaults and setting-up.

(K. W.)

Answer—Thank you, sir. R. B. and a half dozen men have given a good many mean morning headaches, but customers tell me in connections for somersaulting in pamphlet "Invitation to the "Somersault-ensuma" available on request (no clipping) If you inclose stamped self addressed envelope. Enclose 25 cents additionally if you want the booklet "How to Breathe."

Allies Moving Toward Mandalay

Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 10 (CP)—The Allies on the road to Mandalay in northern Burma have captured Taungni, 10 miles southwest of Meiktila after overcoming strong resistance, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Meiktila, about midway between Taungni and Mogaung on the railroad, fell to troops of the 3rd Indian division, who found many Japanese dead and much abandoned equipment in the village, headquarters declared.

In northern India, meanwhile, Indian infantry, supported by tanks and artillery, launched attacking the rearguard of retreating Japanese forces 15 miles north of the Burma border on the Imphal-Tiddim road.

CANADIAN-BRITISH FORCES SMASH AT STUBBORN HUN DEFENDERS IN DRIVE SOUTH FROM CAEN

Preceded by a typical Montgomery artillery barrage British and Canadian forces from the Caen sector of Normandy launched a heavy assault aimed at smashing through German defences south of Caen where Rommel has concentrated much of his armour to protect his routes to Paris. This remarkable picture made by a Canadian army photographer shows tanks and truck-borne infantry moving along road, toward the front lines in the gray light of dawn while heavy artillery lays down a barrage to soften up enemy defences and to cover the infantry's advance.

COL. DREW TERMS

Facing Alarming Situation.

Ontario faces "the most alarming constitutional crisis which has developed by this country since Confederation," the province said.

He said provincial taxing powers had been handed over to the Federal government under explicit terms—so the government and parliament of Canada could wage total war against the Axis power.

Stressing that he had repeatedly urged the Dominion government to convene a Dominion-Provincial conference to discuss and solve post-war problems before endorsing any agreement which would burden the provinces, the Premier said it would be impossible for the Province to consent to which would burden the provinces, the Premier said it would be impossible for the Province to consent to any agreement which would burden the provinces and other obligations they have undertaken without sufficient to occupy the field of taxation vacated by the provincers."

And, he continueld, he had been advised by the Provincial Attorney-General that family allowances "are entirely within provincial Jurisdiction."

"If our money is to be used under the agreement (Dominion-Provincial taxation agreement) then it is to be used for total war."

Apart from the fact the family allowance bill "was such an obvious bribe," said Mr. Drew, the people of Ontario would be called upon to pay half of the initial $200,000,000 involved.

That $100,000,000 in taxes, if handed by the Ontario government, could provide $45,000,000 for "more generous" family allowances, $20,000,000 on the northern Ontario highway system, $10,000,000 to extend Ontario health and hospital services and another $10,000,000 to apply on the annual reduction of the province's debt.

A Simple Issue.

"That, in terms of simple arithmetic is why the government of Ontario will not concur in any such high-handed procedure."

If the Ontario government submitted to this arrogant usurption of power which the Dominion government has attempted in passing the baby bonus bill and other schemes shown only two clearly that it submits to the will of Quebec.

"That is the simple issue. Are we going to permit one dictatorial province to dominate the destiny of a divided Canada? I hope that each of you will answer with a resounding 'no,' which will be heard in every part of the province of Quebec.

"I hope that the people of every other province will give the same answer to this question which must be answered one way or the other very soon. And I go so far as to hope that the same answer will be given by many people in Quebec who must have felt heartsick and ashamed that their province has been made to appear before the world in such a distasteful role.

No Real National Unity

"No truthful person can deny that it is sheer hypocrisy to pretend that there is real national unity in Canada today . . .

"There can be no basis of real unity while one province claims every advantage and denies an equal obligation to share in the protection of their country in its hour of peril."

The Premier said the Ontario government was anxious to meet representatives of the government of Quebec and of other governments in Canada "to lay a firm foundation for the great future which opens before us."

"But," he added, "we intend to insist that the basic principles of Confederation be recognized. We intend to take the position that we should handle our own social services and that we should not be called upon to make payments which are out of proportion to the benefits we receive."

VICHY BESIEGED

Madrid, Aug. 10 — (AP) — Vichy is a besieged city with the garrison of 5,000 militiamen, mobile guardsmen, gendarmerie and state police battling French patriot forces estimated at 20,000 after the collaborationist capital's dictapalets received here said yesterday.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Parents should not ignore the danger signals. Watch for symptoms of Anaemia in your children. Sallow complexion, crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing from girlhood to womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficient supply of rich blood all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life miserable.

So should you notice any of these distressing signs in your daughter, Pink Pills for Pale People, Inc., Brockville, Ont., is your best friend. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up fine-blooded, robust health and have helped to transform thousands of pale, weak girls into bright, healthy young women. Start using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mrs. Jean Davis wishes to announce the engagement of her youngest daughter, Ella Nora, to Flight Sergeant Carman G. Osborne, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Osborne. The marriage will take place in Toronto on August sixteenth.

Mrs. Everett Dafoe, of Port Erie, is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Muriel Wells, Geddes Street, has returned home, after spending two weeks in Syracuse, N.Y.

Misses Helen and Jean Huffman, North Front St., are spending their holidays in Toronto and Niagara Falls.

WHY NOT HAVE BABY SLEEP
THROUGH NIGHT

YOU and your baby both need sleep. There is a sure and easy way to get it. Let Mrs. Baer, Jr., of Winona, Ont., tell you in her own words "Night after night, we would start crying at 10 p.m. and keep it up until morning. Baby's Own Tablets stopped all this. What a blessed relief."

In no sense are these "sleeping" tablets. They contain no opiates or soothing drugs. They just regulate baby's stomach, relieve sour worms and poisons and constipation.

Proved best by mothers for 3 generations. Used by nursing mothers, children and adults for relief from teething troubles, constipation, simple fevers, indigestion, colic, colds, simple croup and colds. Try them. 25 cents.

Mrs. D. R. Tucker spent the weekend and holiday with Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Crossman, Deseronto Road.

Mr. Stan Harris, Park Street, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. M. Jamieson and daughter, Dorothy, have returned home, after spending a few days at the Sans Souci, Kingston and Clayton, N.Y.

L&Q. Francis Youker, Mrs. Youker and baby, Vera, of Hull, Que., are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Youker, Bowell Street.

Signalman Norman Murray, R.C.N.V.R., and his wife, Wren May Murray, both of the east coast, Mr. Frank Envoy, of Oshawa, and Mr. Jack Whiskin, of Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Len Bates, 42 1-2 East Bridge Street.

Mr. William Worrell, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, where he is receiving treatment for a badly burned foot, is progressing favorably.

Mrs. J. Keith Carroll, and children, 20 Pine Street, are visiting in Brighton.

Mr. George Dalnard, of Belleville, and Mr. Bob Hatton, of Stirling, are holidaying at Britania.

Flt. Lt. Bert Banville, R.C.A.F., Winnipeg, is spending the weekend of the Misses Miller, Glen Miller.

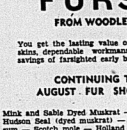
Mrs. Alice Taylor, of Oshawa, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Dalnard, 29 St. Paul Street, and her niece, Mrs. G. Burrell, of Everygreen.

Miss Winnifred Miller, Glen Miller, returned to Ottawa, with Mr. and Mrs. Evan Cameron.

Rev. J. D. P. Knox is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Word was received by relatives in the city that Mrs. Jas. MacDonald, now residing in Toronto, with her daughter, Mrs. Fletcher and Mr. Fletcher, had the misfortune to fall and fracture her hip.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Cole and daughter, Rosemary, of Toronto, are spending the week with his mother, Mrs. G. P. Cole, 45 W. Bridge St.



Among the guests from Belleville at a picnic on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodfellow, Roslin, were Mr. and Mrs. J. Bennett, Dick and Shelly Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. A. Alford.

Mr. V. Bennett has returned to Hamilton, after spending the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bennett, 100 Cedar St.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doran motored to Brockville yesterday where they visited with their daughter, Rev. Sr. M. Clare at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. On their return they were accompanied by Miss S. M. Ford, who has been a patient in the hospital for the past three weeks.

Miss Leona Riggs, who is in New York City, had the pleasure of attending on one occasion Army and Navy night at the Lewisohn Stadium concert of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. One unusual feature of the concert was the playing of a group of two-piano solos by Seamen 1/C. Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, and according to the New York Times they are among the best two-piano teams now before the public. Local interest in connection with this is that these two boys appeared in Belleville, two years ago this Spring.

Do you know the difference between "beef" and "ait"? When it comes to a beef animal there's a difference, but with ait there's a between the cuts which come from "fore" and those which come from "aft".

The new lower prices for cuts from the front quarters can do something for the family food budget . . . try them and see! And here is a recipe from the testing kitchen of the Consumer Section Dominion Department of Agriculture which, when combined with what otherwise might be just another stew.

Barbecued Beef.

3 pounds stewing beef (neck, shoulder, shank)
3 tablespoons dripplings
1 medium onion, minced.
1-4 cup vinegar.
2 tablespoons brown sugar
3 mellin tomatoes
2 1-2 cups water.
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce (optional).
1 teaspoon prepared mustard.
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
1-2 cup diced celery (optional)
Cut meat into individual portions. Brown in hot fat. Add onion and brown slightly. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook slowly, or bake covered, in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, for 1 1-2 to 3 hours, or until tender. Six servings.

Sweeter, Crisper

Wash the vegetable crisper more often than you think is really necessary. Even then it needs an occasional boiling out with a little soda.

Save

By washing wartime markets. Keep up with changing food situations. Listen to the radio and watch the newspapers for important announcements and market reports.

By keeping nutritional values in mind when making out your food purchases. Prices by no means indicate food value. Some foods are luxuries at any price.

By keeping shopping lists and shopping regularly.

By practising the gospel of the clean plate.

Summer Furniture.

Usually gets lots of abuse and precious little care. Put these tips in your book of words and don't forget about them:

Wicker and reed furniture: dust them often and wash them. Wash occasionally with mild soapy water, rinse and dry.

Rattan and Rustic: soap and water treatment again. A coat of varnish, or shellac helps retain natural glow.

Painted wooden furniture: soap and water here too. Waxing the painted surface helps keep it clean Answer Yes or No.

Here we go again! Keep a lid on your sauce pan when you're cooking vegetables. If you don't away go the vitamins you've paid your cash for. Covering the vegetables cuts down cooking time to . . . and that saves full flavor and food value. Alright, so you've heard this before! Well, do you keep the lid on?

Sitting Pretty for Health

Judith Evelyn has correct posture when sitting.

By HELEN FOLLETT

TEACHING of physical education talk about "correct diseases". They really aren't disease at all; they are figure defects caused by poor posture when sitting. They consist of flat chests, weak and crooked backs, flabby abdominal muscles, bad enough, anyhow.

These troubles bring discomfort, sometimes pain. Chairs have straight backs; we haven't our backs have an inward curve at the waistline; we don't fit. If you rest your back against the chair back, your abdomen assumes an unnatural position. Sit erect, remember to keep that nip-in at the waist-line. Don't let your abdominal muscles sag.

When the chest is flattened, breathing is decreased, isn't deep and full; the consequence is likely to lose coloring. Also, the tissues in the breast deteriorate and soften. To have a firm, rounded bust, keep your chest up.

With the slouchy sitting pose, the muscles of the back will weaken, also the hips will take on a spread. Sitting at a typewriting, sewing, fatigue will soon seize one, whereas, if the body is held properly, one can work for hours without wanting to rest.

If you are a swing-sitting girl hang a pad over the back of your chair. Two and one-half to eight inches long, five inches wide, two inches thick, be placed so it will press against the small of the back, provide support.

Don't sit on the end of your spine; sit on your haunches, well back in the chair seat. If you must bend over, bend from the middle, sink in your chest, thrust your head forward. That's all wrong. Keep the head balanced, chest high, bend at the waist line. Most important is to keep the abdomen flat. Permitting the muscles there to relax means that they will increase in size, invite fat cells to take lodgings and a little shelf will appear.

Sit pretty. Make it a practice. You will reap good looks rewards.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Indifferent Relatives New Demanding Allowances—Father Only Denying One.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My parents separated when I was quite young. My father was given us seven children and my grandparents took care of us. After a short time, my aunt and uncle decided to take me to live with them, but my father paid board and bought my clothes. My aunt and uncle decided to associate with my brothers and sisters, but I did not them occasionally when we visited.

"I am going into the service now that I've graduated, as all my brothers and sisters are already in some branch. My mother, whom I never saw until four years ago when we met accidentally on the street, and who has re-married, refuses me to make her an allowment of pay. My aunt thinks she is entitled to my allowance and wages.

"I think my father should get some as he paid for my board and wardrobe, and has given me many extra things. I feel that I never will again live with my uncle and aunt. They were too strict, they even forbid me to write to other members of the family, and if letters came they were opened and read by my aunt. Can you help me with my problem, please? I'm going to be 18 years old soon

No one with a sense of justice could imagine you owe anything whatever to an aunt who accepted money for your board, did not permit you to associate with your own brothers and sisters, opened and read your mail. Your real obligation is to your father who not only provided for you but gave you many extra things".

If for some sentimental reason you feel you want to do something for your mother who has remarried, the decision is squarely up to you.

Please let me say that you have my sympathy. Here you are, a boy who has just graduated and are being refused the money you earned immediately. Members of your family are squabbling over what they're going to get out of you as a soldier.

Prepare overalls for washing by boiling off buckles that may cut into the fabric or into the clothes wringer.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Fourth Wedding Anniversary.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Next month my husband and I will have been married four years. Our marriage, thank Heaven, is a marvelously happy one, and since the tenth anniversary dinner is one a very important one, I long to have a wedding anniversary celebration, inviting the group of our intimate friends, most of whom were at our wedding. But practically the only way my husband hurts my feelings is that he NEVER remembers the anniversary of our wedding. Heretofore, I've tried to forget it myself, remember it too late for us to have a celebration. This year, however, my heart is so set on having, this celebration, that I don't know whether to swallow my pride, remind him of the date and suggest the celebration (he loves to have guests at our house), or plan a surprise party for him. What do you suggest?

—C. F.

The anniversary day of your "marvelously happy" marriage is too grand a day for you to let it develop into a mood of being hurt. Why be so foolish as to wait for your husband to forget the date? In the past he's forgotten it, the chances are he'll forget it this year . . . well, so what? Why not capitalize on the knowledge that he loves to have guests, and either give or a week or so before the date say blithely, "the third of next month is our anniversary, Bob . . . just think, the Tenth! Don't you think it would be fun to make an occasion of it, dear? Tenth is certainly an occasion! . . . and ask Betty and Joe and the Allens and all the others we can possibly get who were at our wedding?"

Since he delights in being a host, of course he'll fall right in with your plans . . . and probably! Just most husbands who are reminded or dates they've forgotten, add, "yes, I've been thinking about this too"! And I'll wager he'll respond to the occasion-motif also and add some gala suggestion . . . to yours. (And watch out for those anniversary flowers to arrive . . . and, most likely, a present too!) Planning his party together, giving it together, hostess and host, is much more appropriate, more fun, than planning a surprise party for your husband. He will be touched, too, because he may be more than a bit unhappy if you reveal to your mutual friends that you had to take surprise measures to remind him of the date.

Re-Marrying in Church.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if it is correct to have a wedding in a Catholic church (with ushers, bridesmaids and flower girl included) after a civil ceremony has taken place? I had planned to have this kind of church wedding, but my fiance had such a short furlough that we had a civil ceremony.

If a church wedding is permissible, could we have attendants as I have described above, and invitations, have a reception? And what type of costume would be correct?

H. T.

Your priest is the adviser to whom you should go, and immediately, to consult with him about what you have done, what you must now do to regain your standing in your church. Failed to get his advice about your church wedding. As a Catholic you must know how your Church regards a civil ceremony, and you must realize that your first duty is to inform your priest about this and receive his advice and direction.

EGG CONVINCES REFORMERS

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 10—(AP)—Here is the hen and egg story that should put an end to all hen and egg stories: A chicken owned by Mrs. Grover Truax laid an egg with a "V" on one side; a large "A" similar to the insignia of the American 1st Army on one end, and a three-pointed star, insignia of the American 3rd Army corps, on the other end. When invexpapermen doubted the story, Mrs. Truax showed them the egg.

FRANKFORD

Stockdale W.A., W.M.S. Meeting

Frankford.—The Stockdale W.A. and W.M.S. of the United Church met on the August meeting at the home of Mrs. Manley Maybee. The President, Mrs. Fred Charlesworth, spoke a few words of appreciation regarding the splendid help given at the time of the social. The president conducted the business session during which a letter was received from a former member, thanking the W.A. for cards sent during the illness and death of a member of her family. A few words from the writing of Joan Hiwett were read by Mrs. Florence Way. Mrs. MacDonald led in prayer and the Scripture Lesson was read by Mrs. C. Jasnah. Readings were

OXYGEN SAVES FIGHTER MASCOT'S LIFE

PL 30933 "Smoky", Alsatian mascot of the "City of Oshawa" Beaver Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force Typhoon fighter bombers in Normandy, is shown receiving the oxygen-treatment which saved his life during a recent attack of bronchial pneumonia. Coaxing "Smoky" to drink, is his master, Flying Officer Anthony "Tony" Prombole, of Alameda, California, who serves with the Canadian squadron in France. The anxious pilotg were informed by a French veterinary surgeon near the airfield there was little hope for the puppy, but he provided sults drugs from his scanty store and the lads rigged up an oxygen "tent" for their pet. A Canadian medical officer administered the drugs and Flying Officer Prombole acting as day and night nurse, remained as duty pilot for three days until "Smoky" was out of danger. Basking in the sun on a Sunday afternoon always was a favorite pastime at a Canadian seaside resort. These airmen of a fighter bomber squadron in Normandy are fashionable too. Their backs are propped against one of the west wall's "Impregnable" fortresses; the beach is the famous one on which Canadian assault troops showed so much courage on D-Day, and the background is the always-present but ever-changing ARMADA of Supply ships bringing troops and materials into the bridgehead. There is a decided shortage of bathing beauties on this beach. The airmen are: L to R: LAC Gordon Hutchings, 2117-W. 36th Avenue, Vancouver, B.C.; LAC Bruce Long, 64 Origle Gardens, Toronto, and Sgt. Jack Dale, 77 Lees, OTTAWA. It was a Sunday afternoon too, although every day is like the next in theatres of war.

Referee Maxwell Has Last Word And Declares Hall and Sexton Main Bout a Draw at Arena

Hall Says He Was Robbed of Decision by Queer Figuring of Arbiter

MONAHAN DISQUALIFIED

Both Frank Sexton, the Ohio Powerhouse, and Dr. Len Hall, the Hollywood ring villain, clamored victory in Wednesday night's main wrestling joust at the Hume Arena, but Referee Bert Maxwell had other ideas—his official decision was a draw and some 1,100 fans left the Hume Arena still befuddled.

First and foremost it took four falls before Maxwell finally decided enough was enough and after all who could expect a wrestling referee to keep count of more than the conventional count of three? At any rate what Promoter Frank Tunney would be well advised to do would be to mention this point over the Hume limit route and then sit back and watch the fur fly.

Maxwell Causes Confusion.

The confusion all centred about when Referee Maxwell counted both Hall and Sexton out with the toll of ten to end the first round as the principals were attempting at hauling each other out of the ring while staging a brawl near the ringsiders, so much to give the patrons a closer glimpse of the inner mysteries of wrestling. This all went well and to everyone's satisfaction until "Two" Hall quickly decided he had all some ten minutes later and then sought the resultance of his fallen foe, also claiming victory. "I've won two falls and therefore win the bout," Sexton was counted out with me in the first fall and now I've been counted on one and one makes two and that's that," held Hall, but until Referee Maxwell pushed only a half a fall is allowed when both men are counted out with the same count and so what was now to be the fourth fall and so Hall claims to the same ideas as first brought forth by Hall. Referee Maxwell says he's now, but Referee Maxwell saved the complicated situation by declaring the entire match a draw, all of which made Sexton a supporter and Hall willing to for-go the remaining few minutes left before full time had been allotted.

Hall tried to pit brute strength and illegal tactics against the un-defeated Sexton and came within an ace of handing the Ohio Powerhouse his first reverse in two years. Hall went so far as to attempt strangling his opponent with a towel, but Referee Maxwell took strong exception to this particular method of winning. "I've chased that guy Sexton clean across the continent for a shot at his Pacific Coast title. Last night I proved he isn't the unbeatable wrestler he claims to be. He's in cahoots with the promoters. The next time I'll knock his crown right back to Los Angeles, that is if he'll meet me again," screamed Hall after the bout.

Wagner Beats Morgan.

The opener saw Bob Wagner all the way from Tear Morgan as the Oregon Octopus practically twisted Morgan's left leg from its socket. However, Morgan was game and wouldn't say quit, but he had his boots on when he fell victim to a double leglock that finally forced him to concede the fall to Wagner and remain intact to perhaps fight another day.

Monahan Disqualified.

Rough one "Jimmy Jerry" Monahan was left alone and forlorne in the ring when Referee Maxwell booted out of the battle scene and while outside of the ring Hitler Pierre Goldade's arm hand in token of victory after Monahan had repeatedly used the ring ropes as a human football and booted him out of the ring despite appeals by the night's official. Things got to such a stage in the fourth that there one gave Monahan the hot foot quit of the squawks, but it was quite gracefully thumbed-ed her nose at "Irish Jerry" just to show him who was boss and appreciated in Belleville. Monahan appealed for disqualification when awarded decision Declaire the Maxwell declared Declaire the winner, but after all that is nothing to Irish Jerry". But then, next week no doubt Promoter Frank Tunney will have something new, for the fans.

Toronto, Aug. 10 —(CP)— War and sports have much in common, and the tactics employed in football, lacrosse and hockey in many cases have their counterparts in the grimmer arts of war. That's the opinion of Maj. H. C. Beaumont, Canadian Army Sports Officer, whose job is to get the troops in good physical trim by judicious use of sports and gymnastics.

Expounding his theory to Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning, the major explained it thus: "In football, one man takes the ball and another probe and thrust and plunge to find an opening for him. In many cases these attempts are carried by the opposition, but ultimately the attacking side discovers a weak point, throws its entire weight in this sector and achieves a breakthrough."

You can follow the comparison through in hockey and other competitive games, which all have their place in helping a prospective soldier achieve physical fitness and an alert mind.

"This probably part of the reason the army is thinking of relaxing somewhat the ban on interdistrict hockey play by military teams.

Incidentally:

Dave Castilloux is the best bet Canada has had in the boxing game since the by-day of Vern Couvre's Jimmy McLarnin, says Bill Gagnon in the Niagara Falls Evening Review. He hasards the opinion Dave should have no difficulty stopping the best going in his weight class once he gets back in fighting trim . . . Another expert who looked at aging Vince Pergulson, perennial baseball meanderer around Halifax, said he would have gone far in pro ball if he had taken the plunge when he was at his peak . . . Neil Colville, former New York Rangers star of the ice lanes, turned out for his Winnipeg baseball debut the other day, but turned in a smart second-base game for No. 8 Air Observer School . . . Les Lear of Winnipeg's football Blue Bombers, is leaving for Cleveland to join the Rams of the Professional National Football League. Somewhere in England, Canadian army in England, ranks depleted when Pte. Dave Wilson and six of its members landed in France, staged the first of its 1944 sports championships when a signals reinforcement unit team won the basketball crown from seven other finalists.

Although the winners finished in the tie with an artillery reinforcement unit, each with 125 points, the signallers were awarded first place on the basis of a higher finishing in the athletic meet. In third place, with 119 points, was an infantry reinforcement unit, while the support company finished fourth with three less.

Members of the winning team were Lieut. J. S. Gregorash of Canora, Sask.; Lieut. A. Spencer, Magrath, Alta.; Cpl. K. B. Beatty, Lansing, Ont.; L. Cpl. E. B. Sellers, Calgary, Alta.; Ptes. E. V. Jackson, Trenton, Ont., and H. K. Brubakk, Montreal; Sgmn. K. D. Bjordan, Grayson, Sask., and D. Gibbons, North Bay, Ont.; Bdr. O. P. Keeney, Blaine Lake, Sask., and Spr. O. E. Morgan of Toronto.

Maj.-Gen. P. J. Montague took the salute as a parade of all athletes prior to the first event and presented awards to the winners and runners-up at the finish.

Points in which athletics competed were the 100 and 50-yard dashes, the standing and running hop, step and jump, and a cycle of eight miles.

Among the team of runners-up were Lt. Col. E. Pyle of Peterborough N. S.; Lieut. A. E. Page of St. Catharines, Ont.; Sgt. L. D. Bowser of Vancouver; Cadet R. B. Davis of Hamilton, Ont., and Spr. O. E. Morgan of Toronto.

Lieut. Reardon, who was some shakes as a defencemen with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, leaped and ran his way to the individual championship at a sports day held by a bridge company of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

The versatile corporal from Winnipeg piled up a total of 63 points in winning four events, placing second and third in two others, and playing second base as a member of the platoon winning the softball title. Individual runner-up was L. Cpl. N. Swirla of Winnipeg.

Reardon won the running and standing broad jumps, the hop, step and jump, and the 16-pound shot put. He placed second to L. Cpl. W. D. Crawford of Midland, Ont., in the 100-yard dash and was a member of the platoon team finishing third in the 400-yard relay. Times and distances of the winners were not taken.

The winning relay team was made up of Swirla, Sgt. J. H. Anderson of Toronto, Pte. A. Hall of Port Perry, Ont., and Pte. E. S. White of County Harbor Lake, N. S.

BOSTON'S HOPES FOR FLAG FADES, HUGHSON CALLED

Brilliant Hurler Reports for Duty with Navy on August 28

BROWNS HOLD MARGIN

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Boston's hopes for its first pennant since 1918 faded today as Tex Hughson prepared to report for navy duty and the St. Louis Browns showed no signs of cracking in the stretch.

Hughson, due to report to the navy Aug. 28, was scheduled to start home today with the satisfaction of hurling a four-hit job against Chicago for his 18th victory.

Although Hughson chipped in with two hits and Jim Tabor and Bob Johnson smacked homers, the Red Sox failed to gain on the front-running Brownies by their 9-1 slaughter of Chicago.

At Detroit yesterday St. Louis' 6 1-2-game margin over Boston by cracking a same-attendance record in the ninth inning to stop the New York Yankees, 3-2, as the Brownies grabbed their ninth straight win to equal their early-season string.

Hal Newhouser outdueled Hughson with his 18th win as Detroit topped Washington, 4-2, in the Tigers' fifth victory in their last 22.

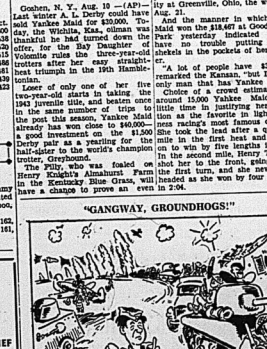
Cleveland slugged home two runs in the first inning and then settled back to coast home with a 4-3 decision over Philadelphia, sprinkling eight hits.

The New York Cardinals upped their margin to 17 1-2 in the National by trimming Brooklyn, 4-2, with reliefer Max Lanier getting the win and Ken Heintzelman, 11 and the 72rd win in 100 starts for the Cards, tying a league record. Brooklyn remained out of the cellar as Curt Davis scattered 10 Chicago hits for a 2-2 tie. Both Manager Hank Wyse, Fritz Ostermuller picked up win No. 9 for Pittsburgh as the Pirates topped Cincinnati, 9-8, to give Al Javery the nod over Arnie Carter.

Yankee Maid Wins Hambletonian And Cost Owner $1,500 a Colt

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sport Writer

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 10 —(AP)— Last winter A. L. Derby could have sold Yankee Maid for $10,000. Today, the Wichita, Kas., oilman was thankful he had turned down the offer, for the Bay Daughter of Volomite rules the three-year-old trotters after her easy straight-heat triumph in the 19th Hambletonian.



Loser of only one of her five two-year-old starts in taking the 1943 juvenile title, and beaten once in the same number of trips to the post this season, Yankee Maid already has won close to $40,000—a good investment on the $1,500 Derby pair as a yearling for the 1942 half-sister to the world's champion trotter, Greyhound.

The Filly, who was foaled on Henry Knight's Almahurst Farm in the Kentucky Blue Grass, will have a chance to prove an even better investment when again she clashes with the pick of the 1944 year-olds in the horseman's futurity at Greenville, Ohio, the week of Aug. 21.

And the manner in which the Maid won the $34,467 at Goshen Park yesterday indicated she'll have no trouble putting more shekels in the pockets of her owner.

"A lot of people have $30,000," remarked the Kansan, "but I'm the only man that has a Yankee Maid."

Choice of a crowd estimated at around 15,000 backed Maid from little time in justifying her position as the favorite in both heats racing's most famous contest. She took the lead after a quarter-mile in the first heat and continued on to win by five lengths in 2:05. In the second event, Henry Thomas shot her to the front, going into the first turn, and she was never headed as she won by four lengths in 2:04.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press.)

Mills Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich., continued her winning way through the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tourney at Chicago yesterday by defeating her Michigan rival, Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, 1-up, in every qualifying for the championship final. Dorothy Germain, Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. Genevieve Hopkins of Cleveland.

The Fair Grounds Corp. yesterday announced it will open its 75-day meeting Dec. 26, one month later than last season, and prepared for another banner campaign.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 10 (AP) — Yesterday's Hambletonian drew the biggest crowd in several years—but Monday, for the final contest, the purse was one of the smallest in the 19 years the trotting classic has been raced.

HAMBLETONIAN HAYSEED

Here's the kind of thing that makes the buggy whip derby something to remember: The weather-beaten faces and keen, squinting eyes of the horsemen. . . The stores in Goshen sign, Best Alexa: "Closed Hambletonian Afternoon." The chatter of Starter Steve Phillips as he gets the horses lined up, and his casual remark between races that he's never heard of a five-heat race an hour and three-quarters to get off under the rules of racing. The sharp turns on the triangular track that would have running horses cutting a figure 8 in the fence. . . The preponderance of soft, pretty voices around the stables and the obvious contentment of the stable hands, although the shade and steaming harness while the crowd swirls around and the sleek trotters are led from their stalls. . . The pungent barn odors and the sweet smell of hay. . . The dumb speeches during the presentation of the Hambletonian trophy — saying that the winner is a "real nice hoss."

TACK ROOM TOPIC

Kentucky's Walnut Hall Farm, which boasts of having had the sire of the dam of the winner of the Hambletonian, has the sires of four of yesterday's six money winners and the dam of another.

ORIOLES WIN

By the Associated Press

When the final story of the 1944 International League pennant race is written, Toronto Maple Leafs may have played a larger part than their standing might indicate.

Last night the Leafs defeated the onrushing Newark bears 2-1 and threw them back from the very gates of the league lead. Newark had gone into the night's play only half a game behind Baltimore. Today they are 1 1-2 out, the Orioles having won.

Luther Knerr pitched the Leafs to victory and was instrumental in the scoring of the winning run, singling Tony Ordeonana to third, from where he scored on a hit by Tony Castano.

The Orioles made good use of their opportunity, whipping the Red Wings 7-5. Sam Lowry started for the first-placers, but was relieved by Hal Kleine, who was the winner.

Danny Gardella, making a strong bid to beat his way back to the Major leagues, clouted his third home run in three days to help Jersey City Giants to a 9-7 decision over Buffalo.

Syracuse closed their season's series happily with Manager Ben Chapman at the helm, as the slipping Royals, Bob Malloy emerged the winning pitcher at 3-2 over the Chiefs, while John Gabbard suffered the defeat. High spot of the game from Montreal's point of view was Eddie Mazinski's 430-foot inside-the-park homer.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 451

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The worst plays of all come from players with gall. They think they must choose only plays that are coups. And so, they are blind to the easier kind.

All tough hands don't need dramatic plays. More often than not they can be made with one or more of the simpler trick-taking methods. Slide into this deal:

NORTH
♠Q 10 6 3
♥K 4
♦7 5 5 3 2
♣7 5

WEST
♠8 9
♥J 10 9 6
♦Q 10 8
♣K J 6 4 2

EAST
♠A 7
♥8 7 5 4 3 2
♦10 4
♣10 9 3

SOUTH
♠A K J 5 4 2
♥A
♦A K J
♣A Q J

Suppose you are the declarer in the south at a contract of seven spades. West leads the heart jack. When dummy hand goes down what does it look like to you from where you sit?

Should you plan to take finesses in diamonds and clubs? Should you look for a squeeze or some other deliverer play? Or is there an easy and quite obvious play that looks like a cinch?

You should look for plays in this order of preference: Trumping, establishing suit, unblocking, strip-and-endplay, squeeze, infrequent coups, finessing.

Don't put the card before the horse sense. Don't start from the end and work backwards. Begin at the beginning of the list and pick out the first play that fits.

As soon as you decide on a play that will answer your purpose, go back to the beginning again and work forward once more. A play that did not apply before may now be what you need.

What play is most responsible for making most of the contracts in bridge? The establishment of suit. So, look for that play more often than any other to help in the handling of your deals.

The first play to look for is trumping. So, that type of play should not be put into the background. Jams are the most important plays are often dependent upon suit establishment first.

Give that a whirl here.

"Gaucho Serenade"
(Gene Autry.)

Gene Autry, Republic's Singing Cowboy No. 1, has established himself as the top of the popularity poll by sheer force of his pleasant, friendly personality, and the charm which he projects on the screen has created a following which always awaits with eagerness his next picture. Gene appears in Republic's "Gaucho Serenade" which opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre.

"Dancing Masters"
(Laurel and Hardy)

20th Century-Fox's new laugh riot, starring those hula-happy, conga-cuckoo comedians Laurel and Hardy, in their funniest comedy ever, "The Dancing Masters", is currently showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Lovely brunette starlet Trudy Marshall appears with the two bustle-bound buffoons in a featured role, together with a cast that includes Robert Bailey, Matt Briggs, Margaret Dumont and Allan Lane.

Mal St. Clair directed the picture.

A comedy and the serial "Captain America" complete the big program.

AT THE BELLE

"The Heavenly Body", Funny

Hedy Lamarr turns from glamour to comedy and joins three famous purveyors of laughter in the M-G-M production "The Heavenly Body," now on the Belle theatre screen.

In it she co-stars with William Powell, master of the lifted eyebrow school of humor, especially known for his role of Nick Charles in the "Thin Man" series.

Arthur Hornblow, Jr., who produced, also has many comedy films to his credit, including "The Major and the Minor" and "Lady, My Love."

Hedy, herself, had one previous venture into comedy when she co-starred with Clark Gable in "Comrade X."

Fay Bainter and Spring Byington are also cast in important roles in "The Heavenly Body."

"Gildersleeve's Ghost," Spooky.

Ancestral ghosts, vicious gorillas and a kidnapped girl, all comprise to make "Gildersleeve's Ghost" the spooky comedy announced as the second-feature attraction, a laugh-riot. Harold Peary is featured.

Peary enacts the title role of Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve and two of his long dead ancestors who materialize and put over a scheme to ensure his election as Police Chief of Summerfield.

Involved in the scheme are a rascally professor and his assistant who are experimenting to make man or beast invisible, their subjects being a kidnapped girl and a savage gorilla.

How Gildersleeve, in his efforts to unmask the professor, is considered crazy, and how he finally emerges a hero, forms a well-knit comedy, guaranteeing laughs from start to finish.

Peary, makes the most of the part of genial, portly Gildersleeve, and is ably assisted by Marion Martin as the sometimes invisible and sometimes visible girl; Richard Le-Grand as Peavey, the town druggist, Margrie Stewart and Freddie Mercer as Gilley's niece and nephew, respectively.

Charter of Canadian Banks Extended Another Ten Years

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 10 (CP)—Members of the Commons, speeding up work before them in an effort to end the present session by Saturday, today disposed of four government bills, gave second reading to another and put it partially through committee stage.

Among the bills adopted was the much-debated measure extending the charter of the Canadian banks for another 10 years. The bill was given third reading by a vote of 84 to 6 after G. G. McGeer (L-Vancouver Burrard), Arthur Slight (L-Parry Sound) and John Blackmore, Social Credit House leader, called a halt to their efforts to convince the government of he need for money reforms in Canada.

Also given third reading were bills amending the war income tax act and the excess profits tax act, and a measure aimed at edcouraging banks to make intermediate and short term loans to farmers for the improvement and development of farms. Given second reading was the bill aimed at encouraging the building of new homes and the clearance of slums.

Recorded Vote Requested.

A recorded vote on passage of the bank bill was requested by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, whose party urged nationalization of the banks, and Mr. Slight, who urged the the feasibility of creating debt-free money and the advisability of introducing other money reforms.

The Progressive Conservative party supported the government bill, and earlier helped defeat an amendment in which Mr. McGeer urged that the banks be prohibited from issuing banks credis as a substitute for currency, unless authorized to do so by a board composed of the Prime Minister, the Minister of finance and the Governor of the Bank of Canada.

Mr. McGeer said he wished to take from the banks the power to make the credits that cause depression. The inflation of bank deposits between 1926-1929 had set off the business boom in those years, and the withdrawal of the deposits from circulation between 1929 and 1932 had been one of the primary causes of the depression.

Wants Interest Free Money.

Mr. Slight agreed that all money needed for public financing and government needs be borrowed interest free from the Bank of Canada. He suggested that the banks be permitted to loan amounts not exceeding their holdings and securities.

Mr. Blackmore said it had been agreed that it was "thoroughly feasible" to create debt-free money, but Finance Minister Ilsley had argued that it was about as expensive for the government to finance that debt-free money as it was to finance money borrowed from the banks. He disagreed with the Minister, because it was possible to carry on government financing more economically on money on which no interest had to be paid.

Allies Have Sunk Over 500 U-Boats Since War Began

London, Aug. 10 (CP) — More than 500 German submarines have been sunk by the Allies since the start of the war, it was reported in a joint Anglo-American statement.

Issued under authority of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, the statement added that Nazi U-boats were "ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations."

The report said that the number of German submarines destroyed in July was "substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk."

The joint statement follows:

"The number of German U-boats sunk during the war now exceeds 500. It is therefore understandable that the U-boats still operating are extremely cautious. Their efforts have been ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations.

"The number of U-boats destroyed has been substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk. Seventeen U-boats have been sunk while attempting to interfere with our cross-Channel traffic since the first landing of the Army of Liberation.

"The U-boat fleet is still of impressive size. Nevertheless, the U-boats remain far less formidable than the hunters. They have been attacked from the Arctic to the Indian Ocean, frequently playing a great part with the surface forces. This pressure will be maintained until all chances of revival of the U-boat campaign are killed, whatever may be the new devices and methods developed by the enemy.

"The Nazi claims of sinkings continue to be grossly exaggerated For instance, their claim for June (the latest month for which complete figures are available) is an exaggeration of 1,000 per cent."

Wage Increases Granted to Post Office Employees

Ottawa, Aug. 10 (CP) — About 8,000 of Canada's operational post office employees will get annual wage increases ranging between $80 and $180, retroactive to July 1 under an Order-in-Council tabled in the Commons by Postmaster-General Mulock.

The increases were forecast yesterday for 3,000 letter carriers, 750 mail porters, 1,000 postal clerks, 1,100 mail clerks, 25 chauffeurs and 200 senior carriers and supervisors. These employees had recently petitioned a cabinet committee for annual increases of $300.

PICTON

Repatriate Tells Of Experience As Jap Prisoner

Picton, Aug. 10—Sam W. Wolfe, now resident of Kingston, speaker at the Rotary Club on Tuesday gave an interesting account of his experiences while a prisoner on the Island of Luzon. He was interned for two years in the Philippines following Japanese conquest at the end of 1941.

Mr. Wolfe credited his repatriation to the efforts of George T. Fulford, M. P. He graphically described the bombing of the city of Manilla in December 1941, following by the occupation of the city by the Japs and their internment of enemy aliens in prison camps.

The speaker did not tell of Jap atrocities, but it adversely effect those left behind, but did refer to the Japanese requirement that enemy aliens must salute Jap countries by bowing ceremoniously to them.

In the internment camp at Santo Tomas on Luzon Island, Mr. Wolfe stated that 3,900 internees have set up their own system of government with a committee of seven to control all matters pertaining to food, sanitation and education.

Within the confines of the camp, there are more teachers and university trained people than possibly are concentrated at any other single spot in the world. But the difficulty of educational program for youth in the camp area is that such fundamental items as paper and pencils are getting to be practically non-existent. In fact, all supplies were getting at a low ebb, stated Mr. Wolfe.

He referred in sympathetic terms to the especially unfortunate lot of children and youths, who were spending these years in internment camps, denied the normal experience and outlook of young people.

R. J. Williams introduced the speaker as one who had resided for many years in India, South Africa and China. In Shanghai he had assisted in the formation of a Rotary club of which he is a past president.

Dr. C. A. Richmond moved a vote of thanks. G. A. Welch introduced a number of guests.

Health Nurse Resigns Post

Picton, Aug. 10 — Mrs. Elizabeth Haggart, Public Health nurse, has tendered her resignation, effective November 30. This was received at a meeting of the Board of Health last night, members expressing regret at losing Mrs. Edwards, who came here from Kingston. She plans to join her husband overseas this fall. The Public Health Committee was asked by council to take up the matter of securing a successor.

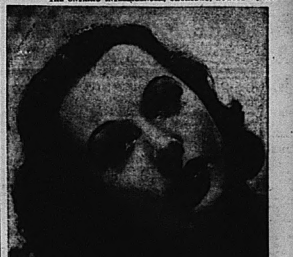
A letter from the Ontario Fire Marshal brought to attention of council the fact there is only one fire escape from the public school building, the Masonic club. Councillor Lumsden was appointed to take up the matter.

No action was taken on a suggestion that the town take membership in the Aeronautical Institute, with a view to having landing strips for post-war aviation.

Councillors commended H. McFarland, local contractor, who had rebuilt a section of Main Street at a cost of $500 when earlier work proved unsatisfactory. No charge was made for the second rebuilding.

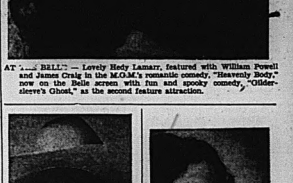
Relief costs for July were given at $345 with 37 aided.

At a meeting of the directors of the Kinsmen Club Tuesday night, it was announced that proceeds from the carnival in the armouries last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights amounted to $2,351. Large crowds attended in spite of very warm weather. The draw prizes went to Sgt. Brown, R.A.F., Kenneth Pinter, Picton and Orval Handley, R. C. Press. Proceeds will be used for community work, the club having in mind a centre for community recreation.



German Robombs Now Carrying Incendiaries

London, Aug. 10 (CP) — German robot bombs now are carrying incendiaries, the Ministry of Home Security announced today.



Examination of the new weapons showed that each of the flying bombs which fell recently in South England carried about 70 incendiaries. The fire missiles are scattered by the force of the flying bomb explosion after the robot touches earth.

The ministry said present methods of fighting bomb-set fires would be continued.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER 5

"Well, it is her own bedroom and she certainly has a right to go there. Perhaps she was just after a lipsmacker or some powder. You should know better about those things than I. Besides to me all women are always having to dash to their rooms for something.

"Probably you're right, but it did strike me Shelley hadn't expected to see anyone.

Dr. Clyde still had the money in his hand and moved over to the side of the bench where a shaft of light from the house shone. He handed the bills to the girl, and took a small note book and a pencil from his pocket.

"Read off the serial numbers on the bills, will you, while I write them down".

"What for?" she was curious.

"Just to keep a record for Lever-ering. I'll put this in my report that I sent in to them tomorrow. Maybe he'll be able to trace the bills from the numbers".

The numbers, however, were not in sequence and Clyde agreed with the girl that it was a pretty forlorn chance that they could be traced.

Pretty Clever.

"Whoever put the money there is pretty clever, I'm observing. I'm not sure that these bills were not all from one pile so they could be traced to one certain bank".

"What shall I do with it—turn it over to Leverings?"

Clyde told her she had better keep it.

"You may have to go on as errand for these people with whom you've been involved", he suggested.

"But I don't want the money — I can't keep it. It doesn't belong to me".

"Keep it, anyway, until I get Leverings to the subject. I'll phone him in the morning and tell him about it and asked his advice.

"It's curious to me that whoever put the money in my pocket knew exactly which coat was mine", the girl said. "It must be someone who knows or who has been in close enough watch to know what I'm wearing. It would have been pretty risky if the money had turned up in someone else's coat".

"I told you these people probably very clever. Another point you overlooked — they apparently knew exactly what room the wraps were left in, also".

"That's right, I hadn't thought of that. Do you suppose they've discovered I'm a snoopy nuisance to you? What would happen if they knew we were working with the F.B.I.?"

"Don't worry your pretty head over that, my dear", Clyde soothed. "There's no possible way for anyone outside of ourselves and Leverings to know that angle. So far as they're concerned or anyone else, for that matter, I'm just a professor at Mallard college who's taking some interest in a girl who has just come here after a very harrowing experience in the war zone.

"I've been very careful when we have talked together that no one could get close enough to overhear us. So long as neither of us tells anyone else, we're safe".

"I'm glad to hear that, Dr. Clyde. I won't be afraid, now".

Twists Ring.

She sat there twisting the ring on her finger as music came from the house. Someone had turned on the radio. The ring felt curiously out of place. It was large and rather unwieldy.

She wondered what its history was, and where the gang which evidently used it as a secret password had been able to get enough rings exactly alike to supply its members. There evidently were not many members in the group, or something else would have been chosen as their symbol. A ring like this was too unusual to come in wholesale lots.

Thinking of the ring reminded her of Leda Ward and their meeting at previous afternoon. Then she remembered she had seen her this evening, in very high spirits.

"I wonder if Lucia could have slipped into the house and put the money in my pocket", she said.

She apparently had taken Clyde by surprise for he stopped in the midst of lighting another cigarette and stared at her until the match scorched his fingers and he threw it away.

"What did you say?"

She repeated what she had said.

"Lucia Ward? What would she be doing here? You mustn't get to imagining things, my dear, simply because you saw a ring similar to one on her finger".

"But she was here, Doctor!"

"Lucia Ward was here?" He was genuinely astounded.

"I saw her—she was standing over near the hedge talking with Doctor Norwood. She called for some little time, and then I saw him coming back alone. A moment later I heard a car starting up. It must have been her car".

Same Mistake.

"I'm sure there must be some mistake. Doctor Norwood has nothing to do with the Wards either Mrs. or Lucia. He doesn't like the old lady. Some sort of an argument that dates back several years and I know he hates to approve of Lucia.

"He's told me so on several occasions. You probably mistook her for someone else. Might have been a woman with some pressing problem that wouldn't wait until tomorrow and she came to Norwood outside. It was dark here, remember. You didn't see Lucia's face, did you?"

"No, perfect."

"Then I'm sure you must have been mistaken".

"And I'm just as sure I wasn't. I was close enough to hear her voice. Although I didn't understand what she was saying. I recognized her voice."

Miss Marston, who admired Dr. Clyde strongly, was annoyed with pleasure when he asked if she would mind if he borrowed Jeanne for a little ride in his car after he had accompanied them to their door.

"Certainly, I have no objection, Dr. Clyde", the dean answered. She enjoyed a vicarious thrill from the thought that the brilliant professor might be falling in love with the only surviving member of the Hallard Memorial Fund. "But how about Jeanne?"

"Oh, I've already asked her", Clyde laughed, "and she said I would have to have your permission".

"Yes, I feel quite enough. I am your ward, the girl said.

"Don't stay out too late", Dean Marston warned, and the two of them walked gaily to Clyde's car.

Dead Heroes.

They rode for a while and then drew up at a road house which bore the name of Jerry's Place. It was dimly lighted and Jeanne could barely make out the figures of people seated at small tables and in booths as a waiter led them to a vacant place.

There was no band but a juke box was constantly pouring out music to which several couples danced.

Clyde ordered sandwiches and coffee for the two of them and lighted a cigarette. He leaned back and looked on the girl's face.

"You know", he said, slowly, "you're going to have a hard time to keep from falling in love with you".

"Even though you know I'm a fraud?"

"When a bachelor gets to dreaming about a home of his own and a beautiful wife to share it with him, trivial things don't seem to matter.

"You must have a hard time preserving your bachelor status in a place like this where there is such a concentration of females", Jeanne remarked.

"It hasn't been so very difficult up to now".

"There's a lot of these girls must have fallen in love with you. I know how college girls are, you see".

"Crushes, yes, but nothing very serious. I assure you no one has really swooned over my charms".

"How about Shelley?"

"Well, what about her?" Clyde questioned right back.

"Don't tell me you don't know that she's really in love with you. So much so, that I've thought it indicated a little about going out with you. She is so jealous—and she certainly takes no pains to hide it. If I really were Jeanne Hallard I would feel very uncomfortable. But being Vera Taylor instead, I'm free to say at any time I wish —that I really am not dependent upon the income for my support".

"So Kay is jealous, is she?"

Kay Keeps Aware.

"Don't tell me you don't know it? It stands out a mile. Any one, especially a man as keenly aware of things as you are—"

"Well, I perceive I do know that Kay has a crush on me, but I haven't given it very much thought. I was amused at first when she was in her second year here, the first time I had her in a class. She was so dead set on making passes to return after lectures to talk things over".

"And I suppose you weren't interested, of course?"

"To be perfectly frank, and I don't know why- I shouldn't be, I was flattered at first. Kay is a very pretty girl, very intelligent, too. She is always flattering to a man to have a young girl fall in love with him".

"Well—yes. All a matter of fact I did, although it is against the rules for any member of the faculty to carry on any sort of a romance with the students. We were very discreet, of course—never seen with other around Shelley where we would be seen and spied upon. Chicago is close at hand, you know, and it's a very large place".

"But you have a very attractive child in Chicago? Jeanne smiled. "Sly, Grandpa! I must have been shocked. Perhaps that's why his statue has that rather perturbed expression".

Clyde crushed out his cigarette. He seemed a bit annoyed at Jeanne's raillery.

Statue Dearest.

"There was nothing between us that the whole world couldn't have known", he said, defensively. "A few dances, a few walks in the moonlight—"

"A kiss or two?" Jeanne suggested.

"Well, perhaps—but there was no real harm in it. I'm really quite a sterling character when you get to know me."

"Then you got tired of your fun and gave the poor child the brush-off".

"Well, just say I saw that it would never do, so I didn't encourage things going any further. But I didn't count on her persistence. I didn't know she would wangle a job here and stay on at the college after she got her decree. She has no business here —she is qualified to teach in the grades but she is content with being a secretary".

"Don't you ever feel just a tiny twinge of conscience when you see her looking at you with that look in her eyes?"

"Why, she should I? Whatever there was between us, which was very little, I want you to know, has long since past".

"Even though she's still in love with you?"

"I don't admit her emotion goes that deep. Clyde answered. "It's still just a crush—something she'll get over. And there doesn't seem to be anything I can do about it.

"You're pretty callous about it, seems to me", Jeanne said. "This gives me an entirely new idea about you. From, what I've seen from you are very kind and considerate about everything and about everybody but you haven't even got the sympathy for poor Kay. You should be ashamed of yourself".

Clyde Becomes Stern.

Hard Streak.

"It's my hard streak", he said at last. "Everyone has a hard streak in his makings, although oftentimes circumstances never bring it to light. To be very truthful I must admit I have no feeling at all about Kay. As a human being I like her, she is pretty, pleasant to look at. I admire her as a typewriting secretary. I like lovely sunsets, beautiful cloud formations, but I don't want to marry them".

"I think you've had too much admiration—too many young girls have had crushes on you and left you indifferent even when it goes beyond the stage of a mere crush" she girl remarked.

Both of them were silent on the drive homeward and he left her at the sidewalk, watching until she unlocked the door and then turning back to his car.

Kay was sitting reading in the living room when she entered. Her eyes looked as though she had been crying.

Marmora

Marmora.—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davern of Peterborough, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Marett at Crowe Lake. While fishing on that evening with Mr. Marett, Mr. Davern was successful in landing a fifteen pound maskinonge. As far as is known this is the largest catch from Crowe Lake this season, although larger ones have been taken from Crowe River and Beaver Creek.

Funerals.

Sgt. Tom Crawford of Ottawa, is spending a furlough at his home here.

Mr. J. W. Hickey attended the funeral of his cousin, the late Jack Roberts in Toronto, on Tuesday.

Miss Annie Gaffney of Toronto, is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Gaffney.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hall, Peterborough, are occupying Mr. Douglas Lasenby's cottage at Crowe Lake. They had as guests over the weekend Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams of Peterborough.

Do You Suffer "PERIODIC" FEMALE PAIN

With its Weak, Nervous "Dragged Out" Feelings?

If at such times—you like so many girls and women suffer from cramps, headache, backache, feel tired, restless, a bit nervous, due to functional periodic disturbances—then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such distress. Pinkham's Compound not only relieves such symptoms of monthly functional disturbances but also accompanying tired, "dragged out" feelings. Also a great stomachic tonic! Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Follow label directions.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Always Felt "Dead Tired" Weak, Listless, Rundown

Last Time from Work, Suffered Stomach Troubles and Constipation, But is Like New Person Since Taking Syntona.

MR. ELWOOD R. HILL

There is scarcely a person who at one time or another has not suffered from functional stomach, kidney, liver or bowel disorders and the long train of symptoms that often follow. Such people suffer from gas, bloat, indigestion, nervous irritability, dizzy feelings, backache, rheumatic pains, get tired easily and feel rundown.

For example, here is the experience of Mr. Elwood R. Hill, King William Street, Hamilton.

"I was badly rundown and felt so miserable I had to lay off work... I had to have lots of my sweet sleep although I felt dead tired at night, my appetite was poor and I had no energy. There were awful pains all through my back, limbs and joints. My appetite was very poor, yet what little food I ate caused gas and heartburn following by belching up of hot sour liquids. In fact, I always had a bloated, burning stomach. I was constipated. I had no end dizzy feelings and was badly constipated. Being only a young man I knew I should be enjoying good health and couldn't figure out what was wrong.

"Finally I read in the paper how other people were being helped by Syntona, so I began taking it, too, I think it was only a matter of a few days when I noticed an improvement. The troubles with my stomach and bowels began to clear up and in a few weeks I was taking it. My appetite picked up and I began to regain my feet strength. One by one my other troubles went away, until now I am like an entirely different person. I work steadily without the least trouble and can't say enough about how good I feel when I am through for the day. I think more people should know about this fine medicine".

Go to DOLAN, THE DRUGGIST, Belleville, and find out how Syntona can help you, too.

Little Benny's Little Book

My cousin Artie stayed at my house all night last night, and pop was smoking in back of his paper and me and Artie were counting my everything each other said just for fun, Artie saying, I wish vacation lasted as long as school and school only lasted as long as vacation. That's a way they ought to fix it, that would be the only real sensible way, he added, and I said, Yes, sensible, either School ought to last so long there'd only be one week left over for vacation, and then we'd really appreciate it, I said.

No we wouldn't anything of the kind, Artie said. You dont appriciate a toothake just because it only lasts a few days, he said, and I said, Certainly I do, especially if it's your toothache and I am only watching you make your funny face, look even funnier.

Then a couple of the low comedy, pop said. Any moron can contribute to the entertainment industries in the world's most boring humorist, even when he's not trying to be funny, he said, and I said, Well then O, pop, how about if we play just the opposite game and pretend to' agree with each other about everything we say or think?

It sounds like a more civilized sesuttion, he said, pop said.

The result being we started to play it, me saying, Hey that was only fair, and Artie said like a monkey instead of all a ways like one, then pop another around Shelley and me saying you actually are a monkey, dont you agree with me Artie and me saying, Why certainly, with pleasure, and do you agree that you ought to be doing exactly a great favor by only going out after dark so nobody could see you at all?

That's a sweet little game, pop said, but both agree that you ought to continue it in bed, starting practically immediately he said, and me and Artie both said, No sir, no sir.

And we started to play natural, meaning we only started a argument about once every 5 minutes.

Suspries in Store At Club Carnival

Surprises for the Kiwanis Carnival to be held next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights in this city continue to pour in from Jack White, Chairman of the program committee, with a monster band concert by the Belleville Municipal Band, under the direction of 1A. Fred Johnson, to be the feature attraction of the evening's performance. This musical treat, the boys who take part in the wrestling shows at the Hume Arena, on each Wednesday night are willing to help in any capacity.

A real treat lined up is the ballroom dancing numbers of the fire brigade. These boys have to make their own duds in the fire hall each day and are willing to display their prowess before a discerning public. Also, special will be a requisite and no doubt there will be a prize for the team they decide on the job. All this entertainment will be included in the admission to the carnival lawn each evening of the Carnival before the games commence. The following clubs are putting a lot of work into this Carnival shopping list and a large sum will be required to carry out the projects set out by the directors for the year's operations. Everybody is wisely and judicially spent and every project is clearly accredited before it is accepted by the clubs. At the present time the club is engaged on the war effort and that effort will not cease until victory is won.

Mamma Gracchi's Story That it Italy And the Partisans

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the 8th Army in Italy Aug. 10—(CP)—Mamma Gracchi could weep this minute and smile the next with a smile that seemed to take possession of her whole body.

The broad sweeps of emotion could warn her that mourning for her 17-year-old Giovanni, shot by the Germans for alleged partisan activity, to delight that those guests had found her. Then she poured out the story that is becoming the story of them all.

Giovanni was shot because the Fascist Mayor of Perugia had accused him, or... decrying supplies into the hills to the partisans.

Her husband had done good work behind the lines. A colonel, he had been forced to be the office for Perugia when the British troops came, because the other colonel fled. Perugia was the seat of Fascist. Before the British forces came, they had been in hiding.

That, briefly is the story of the Gracchis and Giovanni, the story unfolding as the Allied armies drive into the north and into every-thickening fight of partisan activity. Into its pattern are woven political beliefs and passions men with red neckerchiefs and innocent women and children and grisade shootings of German soldiers and vicious German reprisals that have come to be the order out entire villages.

To the Allied soldiers, the partisan is a vague, suspicious figure who sometimes comes out to join him and tell him of the things he's done.

There is no definite yardstick by which their efforts can be measured because they are not an armed organization like that of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

Partisans help troops when they come into villages and once they're pointing out where booby-traps and mines are, where the enemy has gone; they have slipped through the lines to point out enemy positions.

More Than Dozen Canuck Corvettes On Channel Duty

Written For The Canadian Press By Sub-Lt. Scott Young, R.C.N.V.R.

With the R.C.N. in European waters, Aug 13 (CP)—More than a dozen Canadian corvettes who traded punch for punch with German submarines and aircraft in the battle on the North Atlantic for four years have returned to the Channel to get in on the kill. They are on channel convoy duty now, escorting ships and supplies to the coast of Normandy in a hectic type of war that makes the monotony of the North Atlantic seem like a bad dream, soon forgotten.

On the Atlantic, boredom was their greatest enemy. Some of them went years without seeing a submarine—years of constant preparation for action, but no action.

But this part of the war is different. They are in action in the chart room of a veteran Canadian corvette, the Mayflower, while the buzz up and down the lines of a convoy we are helping take back to England from Normandy is called "Some War After All".

In the last week, this ship's company had flying bombs crash about them and shot down near them naval engagement. Also on in plain sight, at night; they've been under spectacular air attack several times. This, they have concluded, is really some war after all.

The Mayflower's skipper, Lieut. D. S. Martin of Halifax, was watching a few minutes ago from the bridge when two mines exploded astern of us.

He estimated we had been right in that area five minutes previously.

Mayflower is part of the strong Canadian corvette force meeting conditions the direct opposite of day, as part of their normal duties. The constant presence of danger has the Canadian crews taking an almost fatalistic-like interest in the war. Sea-watchers of four hours on and four off don't leave much time for leisure, but almost always there is an interested audience of sleepies off-watch rushing whatever anything big is going on.

Trenton Station Wins Track Meet

Trenton, Aug. 10 (CP)—Trenton yesterday won the eastern Ontario R.C.A.F. championship track and field finals.

With teams competing from Picton, No. 6 Repair Depot, Mountain View, Deseronto and Trenton in the district finals of the R.C.A.F. track and field championships, for the right to carry on to quest of No. 1 training command championships, Trenton emerged in the number one spot, closely followed by No. 6 Repair Depot, Mountain View and Picton. ACI. Sandford, the only participant sporting the colors of Picton, took a first in the 220 yard and a close second in the 100 yard dash. Deseronto's only entry, a tug-of-war team, defeated Mountain View 2-1.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, Aug. 10 —(CP)— The mining groups and the industrial issues showed little life early in session and trading showed volume of 385,000 shares for the first three hours. Industrials were up off at noon, the base metals .25 and the golds .16. Western oils were down 11.

Abitibi Pfd. was again a feature of the industrial section. It climbed 2 points to a new high at 49 in quotations.

Hudson Bay, Smelters and Pend Oreille were stronger base metals and in the golds gains of 5 to 10 cents were registered by Wright-Hargreaves, Macassa, Upper Canada, O'Brien, Coniwest, Pickle Crow, Fields, Hoyle, Queenston and others. Dome gained 1-2 and Hollinger 1-4.

WALL STREET

New York, Aug. 10 — (AP) — Stocks worked at cross purposes in today's market with the recently reacting baby motors losing further steam and low-priced utilities regaining some of their speculative interest.

Dealings tapered after the opening and fractional irregularity prevailed near the fourth hour.

Advancing issues were exhibited by American Water Works and General Realty and Utilities, both recording peaks for 1944; Columbia Gas, Engineers Public Service, Brooklyn Union Gas, Public Service of N. J., Santa Fe, U. S. Steel, U.S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, and International Harvester.

Canadian issues were quiet but C.P.R. gained 1/4 and Dome 1/8.

HOGS

Toronto, Aug. 10 — (CP)— Prices ranged steadily at bacon-hog markets reporting early today. Supplies were light, and today in-formed superior officers the road, Dundas Street concurred, was quite dusty when being travelled over by motor vehicles.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 10 — (CP)—Cattle trade was slow up to mid-session on the livestock market here today with prices 25 to 35 cents lower for the week. Weighty steers were $10.50-12.10, heifers and lumpers $8.25-11.00, heifers $11 down, butcher cows 7.50-9 and canners downward to $4.

Unsold from yesterday were 2,000 head of cattle.

Lambs and calves offered were steady at $7-14.50.

Lambs were steady at $14.50 for good ewes and wethers and $13.50 for bucks.

Hogs were steady at $17.85 for grade A dressedweight with sows $13 reduced.

No sheep were offered.

CANUCKS CRACK NAZI LINE

The Canadian first army on the front below Caen has broken through the enemy's second defence line astride the Caen-Falaise road as predicted by the arrows on this map. The map also shows how vital new ports needed for speedying supplies to the Allies are being rapidly gained by the American drive in Brittany. The port of Cherbourg although captured by the Allies is not yet open so that Brest is the closest supply port to the American centre of the map shows. St. Nazaire, former U-boat base, Lorient, St. Malo and Nantes are fast being added.

Woman to Trial, Facing Charge Of Baby's Murder

Milton, Ont., Aug. 10 (CP)—Charged with the murder of a baby girl, Mrs. Lois Bell, 35, of Oakville, Ont., was sent up for trial by Magistrate K. M. Langdon in County Police Court yesterday. She had previously been committed for trial on a charge of attempted concealment of the birth of a baby girl on June 17. Following an investigation, the Attorney-General's Department announced that Mrs. Bell would face a murder charge.

Dr. W. J. Deadman of Hamilton, said that the child died from a fractured skull and bleeding in the brain, tissues.

Dr. J. R. Stead who was called to Mrs. Bell's home on June 17 without knowing the nature of the call said he found the accused bleeding profusely. He said he returned to his office to pick up the necessary instruments, but on his return he found that the child had been born. He added the child was found in a duffle bag in a closet. The infant was taken to the Oakville private hospital where she died shortly after admittance.

Truck Is Struck At Rear by Car
Stopping suddenly to give a soldier a lift, a truck driven by Michael Allair, Picton, was struck in the rear by an automobile following on the highway from Deseronto to the nearby R.C.A.F. base early Wednesday evening. Damage to the truck was slight, but the impact hurled a passenger in the car, LAC. Stan Rodzinski, into the front with such force he sustained head and trunk bruises. The driver of the car driven by Howard G. Patterson of the Deseronto R.C.A.F. camp, who sustained cut lips and lower limb lacerations. Provincial Constable W. Glendenning investigated and today informed superior officers the road, Dundas Street concurred, was quite dusty when being travelled over by motor vehicles.

Allies May Be Planning To Get More Than Paris

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Substantially a third of the Seine and Loire basins now are within the 300-mile double arc of the fluid Allied front in Northwestern France from the Channel coast to that of the Bay of Biscay, completely cutting off both the Normandy and Brittany Peninsulas.

By that admission Cadadians closing in on Falaise to the north and Americans thundering up the Loire Valley beyond captured Le Mans in the south were within 100 miles or less of Paris.

It is not yet certain that Allied strategy does not now aim at an early and even more decisive victory in France than ousting German invaders from Paris.

A crisis for the German army, stubbornly resisting on the north and north-centre flank in the Seine-Loire theatre and weakly reeling backward under Yankee armored hammer blows in the south, is fast developing.

May Outflank Paris.

The scythelike American sweep up the Loire Valley could be pointed at Paris itself, or headed to bypass the city and cross the Seine far inland to outflank its whole course to the sea. It could begin curling northeastward to get between the main German army and Paris and the Seine and destroy it in the field between a British-Canadian anvil and a many-headed American armored hammer.

There seems no question now that the foe in France has been and is being not only outnumbered, outgunned, and outmaneuvered, but outfought but outgeneraled and outplanned as well. He cannot even now know the broad strategic design governing the ever widening and deepening Allied attack.

Nazis' Disadvantages.

That he has neither the troops nor material to cope with so vast fast and fluid an operation as confronts him is made patent in every front-line despatch. That the Nazified German command in France is hampered by fanatical holding orders from Berlin that military experience cannot justify, as well as being driven by Hitler's "intuitive" leadership to suicidal and futile counter-attacks, is more than indicated.

The upshot could be utter wreckage of the whole German army now in growing peril of being trapped against the Seine or outflanked east of that stream before it can reach it for a stand. With both the strategic and tactical initiative in Allied hands, the possibility of a total German military disaster in the West is too clearly apparent for seasoned enemy commanders and staff specialists not to realize it.

By every military axiom a general German retreat behind the Seine was called for immediately after the Allied breakthrough at Avranches ended the stalemate, and the enormous weight of Allied armored power poured into France across the Normandy beaches was revealed.

17 Passengers Die As Flying Boat Hits Swell in Nipe Bay, Cuba

Havana, Aug. 10 — (AP)—Seventeen passengers died yesterday when a huge Pan American flying boat struck a swell while taking off from the rough waters of Nipe Bay, in northeastern Cuba, and was wrecked.

Nine passengers and the crew of five are safe, and the airline office at the scene of the accident, reported that all others aboard lost their lives.

Only six bodies had been recovered this morning as salvage efforts carried on.

Surviving passengers and two of the crew, flown to Miami, said most of those lost were seated in the centre section of the Clipper.

The War Today—
Hun Civilians in Next Few Weeks Will Be Subjected to Great Test

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
(A.P. War Analyst)

I have before me a letter from a reader hotly advocating the "total extermination" of Germany's population as the only way to insure peace.

That represents an extreme (tho' not rare) view, and one which I'm sure my correspondent wouldn't back up on a showdown. However, I've yet to encounter anybody who ventured an opinion at all who didn't say he hoped the Allied armies would fight their way through the Reich so the German people would get overwhelming punishment.

That's an argument we needn't try to settle here. Probably all agree that heavy retribution is just, and necessary to prevent repetition of aggression, and in this connection I call attention to the fact that the Fatherland just now is entering a period of chastening which will be hell.

This column yesterday pointed out that the next few weeks are going to be among the most crucial of the war for Germany. This is the period of the great retreat of Hitler's broken armies to his inner defences a catastrophic reversal of the victorious blitzkrieg with which he opened the war. It's the period which will give the Germans the worst punishment they've endured in modern history. They will be undergoing both the strain of their dictator's awful regimentation for total war, and the despair of defeats and retreats.

Thus both military and civilians are about to be put through a fierce test of morale. The Nazis will be lucky if they don't crack up.

The defeats the Germans are suffering now are far worse than anything they encountered in the first Great War. Their casualties in the previous conflict were 7,142,558 and already the present conflagration has claimed an estimated 4,000,000. Countless thousands may die in the next few weeks.

Talk about annihilating the Germans: The young men who would sire the future generations are being sacrificed by Hitler at a fearful rate in a mad effort to delay the surrender which must come. This is particularly true on the Russian front where he is using every reserve he can muster. The Russians report grimly that the Nazis are being "bled white."

RUSSIANS THREATEN HOMELAND OF JUNKERS

British Enter Thury-Harcourt on the Orne

Cross Narew River Within Fifty Miles of Memel

South of Warsaw Another Army Stands Within 75 Miles of Silesia

By EDDY GILMORE
(AP War Correspondent)

Moscow, Aug. 11 — (AP)—Russian armies applying a great pincers upon East Prussia swept today within 50 to 60 miles of Tilsit and Memel and threatened the southern boundary of that home of the Junkers with a gray pincer across the Narew river.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, besieging Warsaw for the 12th day, thrust a threatening army group toward East Prussia from positions northeast of the Polish capital. This group increased the menace to Warsaw, saw, too, how it could curve to the Vistula and outflank the Polish city from the north.

Russian troops already were seven or more miles inside the Germans' Augustow triangle, which Germany annexed to East Prussia from Poland in 1939. In the north, the Soviet Army Group of 37-year-old Gen. Ivan Chernhiakovsky, son bombs and 152 D.N.B. said the Russians started a new offensive Tuesday toward Warsaw and Augustow with strong forces, which made some penetrations.

A hundred miles or so south of Warsaw, the Russians widened their breach across the Vistula river to 42 miles and advanced to within 50 miles of Cracow. In that area the Red Army stood within 75 miles of German Silesia and within 100 miles of Krakow, ancient capital of Poland and her fifth-city.

The German repeated that another bridgehead had been established over the Vistula 30 miles south of Warsaw in the Warka area.

The extermination of Germans trapped in the upper Baltic states neared its final phase. Two captured German generals said more than 20 German divisions (perhaps 300,000 or more men) would be wiped out when the Baltic drive was finished.

However, any thousands of the Germans, whose land communications were cut by a Russian impasse to the Baltic at Riga, still may be extricated by sea. The Red air force continued to operate on any shipping seen moving from Baltic harbors.

East Prussia and Warsaw were the focal points of battle.

Of equal importance to Hitler's eastern divisions was an extension of the Soviet bridgehead across the Vistula, south of the Polish capital, which cut the Sandomierz-Kielce highway and the line of Lemberg and put Red Army troops only 20 miles from the vital Vistula-Krakow railway.

In the drive northeast of Warsaw, a big German force south of Bialystok swarmed across the Narew river in a move to join other German army units pushing up from the south in a drive on the southern border of East Prussia.

This move, together with the capture of Raseiniai in Lithuania, 33 miles northeast of Tilsit, brought increased danger to Nazi troops stranded in Courland. Gen. Chernihakhovsky's units close to the eastern border of Lithuania provided a Nazis Use 16 New Divisions.

Dispatches said the Nazis had hurled 16 divisions into the fierce struggle for East Prussia. The German report, mostly from mobilized civilians of all ages had dug more than 1,500 miles of trenches and erected thousands of pillboxes on the East Prussian front in the past 10 days.

The Russians advanced on a broad front from the Baltic coast to the Niemen river. The battle-line moved through 40 localities and extended south to Raudone, on the Niemen 20 miles east of the Prussian border. It crossed to the south bank at Globoslavetovo and ran through Asmuse and Valyale.

Captured Asmuse is three miles northeast of the Saksi area of action and only 12 miles from the East Prussian frontier. Valyale, 10 miles east of Saksi, is 11 miles from East Prussia.

90 Localities Seized.

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship in the Marianas, Aug. 11 (AP)—(Via Navy Radio)—Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, U.S.N., announced today he has established headquarters for his amphibious Pacific fleet at Saipan Island—an advance of more than 2,000 miles from Pearl Harbor—and said it will be maintained there until "I can move further forward."

Turner declared that headquarters are under construction both for his fleet and for the commander of Pacific amphibious troops, bringing the total installations of the trans-Pacific offensive to within less than 1,500 miles from Japan.

Turner's announcement followed completion of the conquest of Saipan and Tinian, the two largest of this Marianas base, Turner managed command of Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, commander of the 5th fleet, terming it "the greatest naval victory the United States ever won."

Turner commanded the amphibious forces which captured the Gilberts, the Marshalls and the Marianas. He took the marines into Guadalcanal in the first Allied Pacific offensive—and now he is ready to head westward again.

ALSACE-LORRAINE TARGETS POUNDED BY LARGE FORCE

Two-Ton Blockbusters Dropped on Berlin To Give Residents Restless Night

PARIS AIRFIELDS HIT

London, Aug. 11 — (CP)—American heavy bombers smashed in force today at oil dumps and railroads near Paris and at rail yards fields near Paris and at rail yards in the German border city of Saarbrucken and the Alsace-Lorraine cities of Strasbourg, Mulhouse and Belfort.

All the rail yards were bottlenecks for German troops within invasion range, reported Allied Supreme Headquarters which said Flying Fortresses and Liberators escorted by Thunderbolts and Lightnings attacked the yards.

Before dawn, up to 1,000 heavy British bombers attacked oil supplies for submarines, trains and other targets, while Mosquitos gave Berlin residents another restless night by planting two-ton blockbusters into the German capital.

Up to 1,000 U. S. planes bombed and strafed these objectives.

Fuel dumps at St. Florentin and Pacy on the Armancon river 75 miles southeast of Paris,

Airfields of Villacoublay on the outskirts of Paris, Romilly-sur-Seine in Nole southwest of the capital, and Coulommiers, 30 miles east.

Railyards at Mulhouse and Belfort in Alsace-Lorraine near the Rhine.

Weather Unsuessing Good

The Berlin radio reported daylight fighter-bomber formations over southwestern Germany, and single planes over northwestern Germany, Franconia and Bavaria.

Weather over the French battle area was unusually good this morning and showed promise of remaining so today.

The British heavy bombers struck at oil storage depots for U-boats at Bordeaux and La Pallice—the only targets left to Allied submarines which once fought the Battle of the Atlantic from the Bay of Biscay coast.

Brest, Lorient and St. Nazaire, the U-boat bases famous for the centre of terrors of the sea, are threatened so closely now by ground forces on the north that they are virtually useless to the enemy.

Italy Is the Sube.

Bordeaux, at the mouth of the Gironde river, is the only sheltered La Pallice, nearly 100 miles to the north, must supply and refit the submarine force too large for them at a time when previous attacks on oil storage depots and rail and road communications have made it almost impossible for the enemy to bring up supplies.

By smashing what oil resources remain on the spot at the bases, R.A.F. heavy bombers appear to make it still more difficult for the Germans to use many submarines from the Bay of Biscay ports in the Allied shipping to the invasion armies in Normandy, even if a few flotillas were hit several times Wednesday.

Flotillaxes rained a great concentration of explosives on the railway junction at Dijon, 160 miles southwest of Paris. With railways further north largely disorganized, this roundabout route from southern France to the battlefield is vital to the enemy.

Some 4,000 sorties were flown yesterday against enemy supply centres and transport targets from Belgium to Bordeaux.

Huns, Left in S. W. France, Drink Most of Time, Fear They Won't Get Back Alive

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
(AP Staff Writer)

Irun, Spain, Aug. 11. (AP)—Jean T'Kindt, 16, who crossed the Spanish frontier a month after he fled from his home in Belgium, said today the bulk of German troops have been transferred from coastal cities of southwestern France and that those who remain are "drunk most of the time".

"They sell every piece of German army equipment, they can get to buy more wine", he added. "Each night they sing German songs while drinking. They tell anyone who will listen they are afraid they won't get back alive".

The Spaniard, once prisoner of war who were forced to volunteer for service in the German army, told similar stories after fleeing into Spain. They described the remaining German garrisons in southwestern France as "drunken, men plotting desertion but for a handful of young fanatics."

2ND CANADIAN DIV. MOVED TO FRONT EARLY IN JULY

Saw Action in Odon River Valley in Middle of Month

MANY AT DIEPPE

By ROSS MUNRO
(CP War Correspondent)

With the First Canadian Army in France, Aug. 11 — (CP Cable)—The 2nd Canadian Infantry Division has been engaged in fighting up to Aug. 8th.

The whole 2nd Division was concentrated in Normandy early in July and saw action in the Odon river valley southwest of Caen in the middle of the month.

At the end of the month it engaged in savage battles south of Caen on the line from St. Andre Sur Orne to Tilly La Campagne.

Official Announcement

Infantry and support battalions of the 2nd Division have all been named in previous dispatches, but this is the first official disclosure that the entire division is here with its artillery and auxiliary services.

Among the units of the Canadian 2nd Division previously identified as fighting in Normandy are:

Queen's own Cameron Highlanders, Winnipeg.

South Saskatchewan Regt., Weyburn, Sask.

Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal.

Essex Scottish Regt., Windsor, Ont.

Royal Hamilton Light Infantry (Wentworth Regt.), Hamilton, Ont.

Royal Regiment of Canada; Toronto.

All of these units fought at Dieppe. The first three units were then brigaded together, as were the last three. One company of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment), Montreal, also fought at Dieppe and has been named in dispatches from Normandy.

FIRST BOMBING OF PHILIPPINES SINCE '42 BEGINS

Follow Strikes by the Superfortresses Against Nagasaki in Japan

SUMATRA TARGETS HIT

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Aug. 11 (AP)—The air phase of the first bombing of the Philippines has begun just as the ground fighting for reconquest of Guam ended in triumph.

The first bombing of the Philippines came after fall of Corregidor to the Japanese May 6, 1942, was announced today by General Douglas Arthur, back at headquarters after the Pacific war conference with President Roosevelt. It followed strikes by superfortress bombers against Nagasaki in Japan and oil targets in Sumatra.

At Pearl Harbor, site of the conference, Admiral Nimitz, a participant, announced that all organized Japanese resistance on Guam ended August 9, the 20th day of invasion.

Gen. MacArthur said the United States 7,247 casualties, including 1,- 290 killed, but more than 17,000 Japanese were slaughtered; the demoralized remainder were scattery, fearful of making the usual "Banzai" suicidal charge; and Guam, key island in the third American Marianas base within bombing range of Japan by the B-29 superfortresses which hit Nagasaki Thursday.

MacArthur announced three successive night attacks on airdromes at Davao, on Mindanao in the southern Philippines, by patrolling heavy bombers.

Yesterday the superfortresses of the United States 20th bomber command, lashing at vitals of Japan's war machine, struck simultaneously at targets 1,500 miles apart in the enemy homeland port and industrial centre of Nagasaki and the oil refining area of Palembang on the island of Sumatra.

The targets of this strategic mission of huge scope are among the most important in enemy territory. The Pladjoe oil refinery at Palembang is the largest in the East.

Nagasaki, bombed in the third superfortress mission against the Japanese mainland, is a military port and shipbuilding centre of key value to the enemy military machine, and a centre of war production. It is located on the west side of Kyushu island in the heavily industrialized area where the superfortresses previously had hit the steel mills and some of the naval base of Sasebo.

CANADIANS SEND PATROLS ACROSS THE CESANO RIVER

Offensive on Six-Mile Front Captures High Ground Over-Looking Cesano Valley

STORMS SLOW DRIVE

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

Rome, Aug. 11 (AP)—Canadian and British troops of the 8th Army, launching an infantry and tank offensive along a six-mile front on the Adriatic coast, have captured high ground overlooking the Cesano valley and have sent patrols across the Cesano river after a two-mile initial advance, Allied headquarters said today.

The towns of Scapezzano, Montefiorado and Corinaldo were reported by the Poles swept through the Nazi defences. The drive to the south bank of the Cesano put the Poles about half-way between the captured city of Ancona and the next major town of Pesaro, where the outposts of the Adriatic end of the Gothic line are believed to begin.

Heavy storms slowed but failed to halt the onslaught. At the beginning of the offensive 300 prisoners were taken from the Germans' 362nd Infantry Division, a formation of five unimpressive counter-attacks.

The hard-pressed Germans were reported to have withdrawn entirely from the south bank of the Cesano.

Troops of the Polish Carpathian division seized a commanding high ground five miles northeast of Lacroce after that village was taken in the first hour of the attack.

Heavy continuous rain fell along the entire Allied 5th Army front and thunderstorms were common, along most of the battle area, limiting activity to artillery fire and patrol actions.

Allied headquarters said the situation in Florence "remains the same," and there was little activity apart from sniping. Our artillery continues the policy of neutralizing fire, while German artillery fire on the southern bank of the town yesterday was less than normal."

It appeared the Nazi fire was directed primarily against roads entering the town from the south.

Six German planes were shot down and 11 probably destroyed by up to 500 U.S. 15th air force heavy bombers which attacked rail yards. One formation bombed Pisa's railroad yards and caused explosions, 19 miles northwest of Pisotli.

The Kraljevo rail yards in Yugoslavia were hit last night by the R.A.F. in all operations 17 Allied planes were lost.

Fall of Key Road Centre Would Be Real Blow to Hun

Stubborn Resistance Halts Canadian Drive on Falaise

By ROGER D. GREENE
(AP War Correspondent)

On the Orne River Front, France, Aug. 11. (AP)—British troops today stormed into the stout German bastion of Thury-Harcourt, at the top of a steep wooded valley along the Orne River known as "the Switzerland of Normandy".

Thury-Harcourt is a key rail and road junction. The British from the earlier made a new crossing of the Orne immediately north of the town.

Although small in population, Thury-Harcourt is strategically important because seven major roads converge in it.

Enemy Blows up Bridges

The fleeing Germans blew up bridges, but British engineers already were throwing across a new span this afternoon.

"The fall of Thury-Harcourt is a real blow to the Germans, who used it as a main switching centre in their movements across the front", Staff Capt. Nation Crowne said at advanced headquarters. "Even before the invasion, it always was considered by us as a major objective".

In a simultaneous drive along the east side of the Orne from the north, another British column seized Hill 309, three miles, 1,500 yards northeast of Thury-Harcourt which thus appeared deeply outflanked by the British Hopetes Battle.

The fall of Thury-Harcourt is another staggering blow to the German Orne River defense system. Large German forces still are fighting a hopeless, desperate battle west of the town.

Coincident with the mounting threat to Thury-Harcourt, British and Army units opened a concerted attack early today on the south flank, striking toward the southeast in the Vire sector.

"Any normal army would be pulling out of the Vire salient", a British staff officer said. "It's time by now, the Germans seem to be throwing more troops into the fire".

Polish Govt. Appeals For Artillery Aid For Underground Army

London, Aug. 11—(CP)—The Polish government in London appealed today for artillery, tanks and arms and ammunition for Gen. Bor's underground army fighting in Warsaw, stating that "we have been left to our fate".

But our bloody effort shall not be in vain, if soldiers will come to our aid before our total extermination, immediate help must be sent by parachute with ammunition, and weapons on a large scale and by the most extreme positions," the statement said.

Allied Supreme Headquarters, Aug. 11—(CP)—Fierce resistance by fresh 2nd S. S. troops temporarily held the 1st Canadian drive just north of Falaise, but front dispatches reported, while American forces which had knifed eastward of Le Mans were reported turning northward in a scythe-like sweep threatening all the Germans south of the Seine.

The Amerst ans, little more than 90 miles from Paris, still had met no solid enemy opposition.

Meanwhile, Elmo Mumm, Canadian Press War Correspondent, disclosed that the 2nd Canadian infantry division—including units which fought at Dieppe—was in action in Normandy.

Munro also disclosed in another front dispatch that a Polish armored division is fighting in the 1st Canadian army sector in France, and has been taking part in the Falaise drive.

Shaping Huge Pocket.

Powerful forces supporting the Canadian-Polish thrust south of Caen which appeared to be shaping a huge pocket in conjunction with the American drive, stormed into Thury-Harcourt, German stronghold on the Orne.

Field dispatches said the Americans, driving at least 10 miles beyond Le Mans, were meeting little organized resistance, but today's Allied communique announced the destruction of 200 German tanks by aircraft somewhere in the area.

Front dispatches commented said the American thrust has turned northward from Le Mans with increasing support, and the Paris radio reported the Americans had burst east Alencon, 30 miles north of Le Mans. The Germans said the Americans had now in heavy fighting in that direction, Alencon 27 miles west of Versailles. Just 87 miles west of Versailles. Just 87 miles west of the Canadian wedge driven to within five miles of Falaise.

"The Germans are trapped in the wire; two for the kiddies." He was not sure if he hit any Germans but "I made them scatter a bit."

When they decided the situation was hopeless, Delorme and Redden began to move back toward the Canadian lines although they were surrounded. There were Germans all around them dead and wounded around them, but they had to crawl over them only to take a pal, who had been wounded by shrapnel.

Crawled Over Dead

They had to crawl most of the way because they realized eventually the Germans sent up flares to illuminate the fields and shoot anything that moved.

Delorme and Redden fooled them by crawling on their stomachs through the thick wheat, which reached to their chins. Then they ran.

Delorme said: "I'll never forget it. While we were crawling we came upon a cutting a wicked rut right along the hedge and crawled into it and then just lugged our pal as far as we could."

Delorme and Redden returned to 88 MM. guns on them, "but I was lying flat with my face buried in the ground."

Just before they got back to their lines they were caught in an exchange of fire between Canadian and German tanks and Redden said: "I thought we had it this time, because everything was flying over us."

Left Friend Wife Dressed

Delorme met Redden when he left his friend with the troops we reached. Redden was wounded and gave us cigarets and told us how to get to this road."

Redden delivered the two of them to safety and Delorme, convoy of ammunition trucks passed us going the other way. Redden was in a jeep that blows a lot of them to hell."

Nazi Machine Guns Cut 'Wicked Rug' But Canadians Make Lines in Safety

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian War Correspondent

With the 1st Canadian Army on the Falaise road, Aug. 11.—(CP Cable) — Two weary, bedraggled figures who stepped forward to be recognized and asked for a lift into Caen for "some food and rest" were Pte. Jim Delorme and Pte. Dougie Redden.

They looked as though they had been through hell.

Dog-lired and dirty, Ptes. E. J. Delorme, 22, Montreal, and Douglas E. Redden, 38, Bracebridge, Ont., had dusty, stubble-covered faces and eyes with grimy lines. Their torn clothes were caked with dirt.

As we drove along they told their story. Delorme spoke for both.

They didn't know where they had been or how long they had been on the go.

Redden said it had been for nine or 10 days, but actually they had been fighting only since Tuesday. They had been in the area of a point 195 northwest of Potigny—we had to tell them that.

Delorme said they and a group of their companions were surrounded by the Germans in a wheat-field behind the enemy lines, and some of them were killed.

Dragged Wounded Mate.

Delorme and Redden managed to escaped and dragged a wounded companion with them until they reached friendly troops in No Man's Land, where they left him. They crawled the rest of the way to the rear.

They had been under heavy fire since noon Wednesday and for part of that time were in the Germans preparing to counter-attack.

"They shelled us with tanks, outflanked, Redden said. "They were difficult to get out of. The Germans were hidden in the wheat-field and the first thing we knew was bunch came around our left-side, then on our right, then behind us. They came at us right across the field."

Delorme said that our leading tanks trying to get through their screen got fire to help us, but they could'nt get in.

Really Peeved It On.

"We had just started to dig in about the time the Germans attacked and nobody had a hole dug more than about three feet. They really peppered honey at us and didn't have a chance to dig deeper."

Delorme smiled, and told of throwing three grenades—"one for

Coming Events

A SUNDAY MORNING CLINIC for Blood Donors will be held on Sunday, August 13, from 9 to 11.30 a.m. No donors, except those who keep appointments at this clinic will be welcomed. All must abstain from fats during the preceding 24 hours. We would appreciate a large turnout from Belleville this Sunday.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

LOCAL POLICE HOLD TWO FOR INVESTIGATION

Belleville police are holding two men for further investigation. They are Romeo DeMola, of Montreal, who is held on a common vagrancy charge, and Stanley Wilson, of Oshawa, who is being held on an alleged fraud count. Police Inspector G. Hayes and Provincial Constable Don Carruthers brought Wilson in from Melville Church, Hastings County early Thursday where he was arrested by the O. P. P., on charges preferred in Belleville. Deputy Chief Harman added another man was being sought in the fraud charge and is believed to be in Toronto.

PRIZE CHICKENS STOLEN FROM COOP

Provincial Police today are seeking the whereabouts of two prize chickens stolen from the pens of Arthur Houston, Shannonville, for some time this week. The birds taken were Mr. Houston's best pair of prize show hens in his pena, he informed the authorities.

R.C.A.F. CRASH WAGON COLLIDES WITH CAR

An R. C. A. F. fire crash wagon driven by Aircraftsman Cyril Sydney Trenton main station, was in collision with a parked motor car on the market square Thursday evening. Sydney had parked the fire crash wagon on the market, but upon leaving his position the truck collided with a parked car owned by L. A. Kells, 172 Dufferin Ave. L.A.C. Sydney agreed to assume full financial responsibility for all property damage. Const. Douglas Doug Ellis was an eye witness to the accident at the police station.

WILFUL DAMAGE OF PROPERTY CHARGED

Held by police for the wilful damage to property, Arthur W. Meeks, 151 1-2 Station St., was placed in the county jail Thursday evening and held for trial, city police revealed today. Meeks is said by police to have kindled a fire in the family kitchen stove and after a roaring blaze resulted, he is alleged to have thrown his daughter's entire wardrobe into the stove. Complaints received by police regarding the matter were fully investigated with the result Meeks was arrested on a charge of the wilful damage to property. Police stated today the only wearing apparel belonging to Miss Meeks not burned in the fire were the articles she was wearing at work in a local war plant.

SGT. G. T. BUSKARD REMUSTERS, GRADUATES AS AN AIR BOMBER

Already with nearly two years overseas service with the R.C.A.F. Sgt. G. T. Burnett Buskard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Buskard of Deloro, has graduated as an air bomber from the Malton air training station, and hopes soon to be again posted overseas. He was one of a group of new bombers to graduate from the Malton station on Thursday at a wings parade, certificates which his parents attended. A sister, Cpl. Lois Geraldine Buskard is a member of the WD with the R.C.A.D. (WD) overseas.

MANY LARGE FISH CAUGHT AT GANANOQUE

Belleville fishermen had better look to their laurels, for down Gananoque way, the Izaak Waltons are getting some fancy hauls.

Topping the list to date with the rods and reels is Harold McCarley of Kingston, who landed a muskie, 46 and 36 pounds respectively. Although Mr. McCarley also cast that lips the scales at 30 pounds. Last week he caught four pickerel, the largest a nine-pounder also a 12-pound pike.

The other day, T. H. Hoffman, an American, landed a 33 1-2 pound muskie beauty. The fish were caught in the St. Lawrence, off the "Gateway to the Thousand Islands."

SUPPLY OF ICE IN CITY RUNNING LOW

Possibilities of an ice shortage loomed today in the city. Depletion of stocks caused by the heavy drain of the past few weeks has been responsible, according to local dealers.

Other centres are reporting shortage due to the heavy demand caused by the July and August heat waves. One dealer stated he would have to be careful with stocks while another stated that his supply would be absorbed in the near future.

However, it was learned that outside stocks are in plentiful and there is no cause for immediate alarm on the part of city users.

SLOWNESS IN DELIVERY DELAYS PUBLICATION OF EX-WARDENS' PICTURES

Slowness in delivery of frames which will enhance the photographs of ex-wardens of the county, is delaying the placing of these pictures in the committee room of Shire Hall.

Decided on some time ago by the county as a fitting tribute to former municipal heads, the pictures will be suitably inscribed with the name and year or years of service of the wardens. A number of the photographs are already in the hands of the county clerk, and as soon as the frames arrive, will be hung in the committee room.

Efforts are being made to secure photographs of ex-wardens who have served their county since it assumed its own administration.

MAGAZINES WANTED FOR R.C.A.F. STATIONS

There is an urgent appeal to the people of Belleville and district by Mr. Harold McKeig, war service supervisor at the Y, to save their old magazines, preferably late ones but not over six months, and forward them to him in care of the Y.M.C.A. The object of this request is to supply the surrounding air stations with a sufficient supply of wholesome, entertaining, educational reading material, one of the necessary factors in keeping up the fighting men's morale. These boys are giving so much — everyone can show their appreciation by assisting them in this small way.

RUBBER REFUSE BLAZE QUICKLY EXTINGUISHED

Prompt action on the part of employees of the Baragar tire repair shop on Front Street made short work of a blaze which started Thursday afternoon outside the building among small grindings of rubber. First indication that anything was amiss was when black smoke rolled in through the door with investigation revealing fire had started in rubber grindings baffled from tires and blown outside. Quick action with the hose controlled the blaze with the fire being almost completely extinguished at the arrival of firemen.

'Miss War Worker' Contestants

HELEN SALISBURY
Reliance

Nope you're wrong, 'tis not one of those movie starlets you hear about, but the one-hundred-and-twenty-five pounds of Reliance Industry beauty, who was born Helen Salsbury. Helen's wistful look is a product of the photographer who caught her in pensive mood. At other times she is a sparkling-eyed combination of feminine personality who is doing her bit for her country in the Reliance rudder assembly room. She is a daughter of Mr. Roy Salisbury, 52 Murney Street, himself a machine-shop worker at Reliance. Tall, don't worry, me hearties, Helen has a boy friend and she's true to the Navy. Enough said, she has been an employee of the firm for two and a half years, and was a contestant in the 1942 War Worker competition. Watch her when she struts her stuff in front of the Judges.

SHIRLEY TAPP
Deacon

Just past the voting age and tipping the scales at 110 pounds, attractive brunette Shirley Tapp of the Deacon Bros. Ltd., line-up of pretty war workers, is one of the younger veterans of that firm. For the past five years she has worked as a straight button-hole maker, and has been contributing her share to the war effort. She is a step-daughter of Mrs. John Grant, and the combined families number twenty-two. A brother is in the Canadian Army overseas and another discharged. A slim dark beauty, Shirley doesn't lack for that thing called personality. She has a flashing smile, and the judges will be pretty tough if they don't give her a second look.

EDNA KOLVER
Stewart-Warner-Alemite

This sixteen-year-old miss with the wistful look gazing at you from the above picture is not attempting to mislead. She is Edna Kolver, daughter of Mr. Joseph Kolver, chief electrician at the Stewart-Warner-Alemite plant. One-hundred-and-twenty pounds of busy young lady, Mary Belleville's youngest contestant, is astute, but laid aside the three R's for the radio assembly room at Stewart-Warner-Alemite before the school year had finished ringing for the summer holiday.

Edna is a practical young lady, as the above picture of her friends may go, it makes no difference to her. In fact she is more interested in assisting her father in designing gadgets of an electrical nature than she is in the social whirl of things. Pop says Edna is a clever mechanic, tools and the young lady modestly admits is more than passing interest in them.

Her first time in any contest of this nature, Edna should rate high when the final results are made public.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EARLY DISCOVERERS OF CANADA

To the Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,

I was very much interested in your editorial of Mr. Main and Canada". It is a myth that has persisted for a long time and makes a very good story especially when it is in the public eye as at present. The facts are these—(1) Canada was discovered by John Cabot, a naturalized Englishman in 1497, just five years after Columbus discovered America; (2) Jacques Cartier in 1534 was given help by the King of France to equip an expedition to explore the land Cabot had discovered. He was commissioned by the King to find the "North West Passage" to the East; (3) He sailed far up the St. Lawrence and established the fur trade with the Indians. His crews on the three voyages made in 1534-35-36 were French Frenchmen and many of these returned in subsequent years to fish and trade with the Indians; (4) The second voyage that Cartier's voyages were followed by France taking possession and founding a settlement has no foundation in fact; (5) it was not until 1608 that Champlain with the financial aid of a wealthy French merchant named deMonts came over with a company of settlers and started the first colony.

Yours truly,
H. B. Fetterly.

Report Hitler Decrees Death Penalty For Use Of Army Salute

London, Aug. 11 — (CP) — The Moscow radio said today that Adolf Hitler had issued a decree to all judges of courts martial directing that the death penalty must be imposed on German officers who insist on using the army salute instead of the "Hell Hitler" salute.

Considerable Work Completed On County Roads System

The summer program of treatment of Hastings County roads and bridges system is proceeding satisfactorily and to schedule, the Roads and Bridges Committee was told by County Engineer W. L. Langlois at a regular meeting yesterday.

Decision was made at the meeting to purchase 10,000 feet of snow-fence, also four tank cars of bituminous material, and gravel to be used in seal-coating 1 1-2 miles of existing pavement, and surface treating 4 1-2 miles of county roads, printed three months ago. Total cost will be $4,500.

Inspection of the roads and bridges system by the southern part of the county will be held on August 24.

At the present time the Blythe Construction Company is engaged in crushing 3,000 tons of gravel which will be used to resurface twenty miles of road in the Madoc-Queensborough area.

In the immediate future the King Paving Company will commence crushing operations on 2,000 tons of gravel for resurfacing roads in the Marysville-Desoronto-Lonsdale area.

Dust laying programs have been completed, Engineer Langlois was told. Six car loads of calcium was used, as were nine tank cars of asphalt material, covering approximately 50 miles of roads.

Surface priming has also been completed on such roads as the new paved section of Dundas-Belleville highway; the Ridge Road; Roslin-Chisholm Mills; seven miles east of Corbyville and two miles in easterly and westerly directions of Belleville on the suburban roads. These roads are now in excellent shape, the engineer stated. Approximately 23 miles in all were given this treatment.

The Roads Committee had hoped to arrange for trials of weed and brush spraying in an effort to control these menaces, but inability to secure chemicals and essential machinery for air, arrived at La Guardia Field from Montreal yesterday for what he said would be a routine conference with Lord Beaverbrook. Lord Privy Seal.

IN MEMORIAM

PATRICK, (Doris Darvell) — In loving memory of a dear sister and daughter, who passed away August 11th., 1942.
Two years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Fondly remembered by her Dad, Brothers and Sisters.

BLAKELY — In loving memory of Private Harold Blakely, who passed away August 11th., 1942.
We little thought when leaving home,
As you would no more return,
That you in death so soon would sleep and leave us here to mourn.
We do not know the pain he bore,
We did not see him die,
We only know he passed away and never said goodbye.
The end was sad, the shock severe,
We little knew the end was near.
It is only those who have lost can tell
The sorrow of parting without saying farewell.
Always remembered by Wife and son.

Cassidy Reunion Marks Birthday Of Senior Member

Mr. John Cassidy Sr. was the honored guest at the Seventh Annual Cassidy Reunion and picnic which took place on the grounds of James Andrew's Riverview Cottage on Sunday, Aug. 6. The occasion marked the 86th Birthday of Mr. Cassidy and 160 of his descendants, relatives and friends were present to pay him tribute.

Despite threatening weather earlier in the day the attendance was very gratifying to the executive. Among those present were Rev. Dean D. A. Cullinane, Tweed; Rev. Fr. A. Walsh, Madoc; Rev. Fr. LaMarche, Tweed; Mrs. Wm. Long, Toronto; Mrs. Bernard O'Neil of River Que Barre, Que., a niece, Miss Mary Jo Cassidy, Edmonton, Alta., also a niece, and a nephew, Frank Cassidy and family of Maynooth; Mr. Joseph Gow of Latta.

In his address to the gathering Mr. J. J. Trudeau president, recalled how the Cassidy Reunion was organized as an annual event by Rev. Dean Cullinane seven years ago. The benefits of such a reunion have been hard to measure but will become more evident in the years to come especially among the younger members. Many have not met since the reunion a year ago, and during that time two members have passed away. The president called for a two minute silence out of respect for the deceased members.

Rev. Fr. LaMarche spoke of the welcome he always felt at the Cassidy Reunion and extended his best wishes and regards to Mr. Cassidy.

Mr. Joseph Gow who provided entertainment during the course of the afternoon, with musical selections remarked that he was more impressed by a family reunion than any other type of gathering.

194 Descendants

Mr. Frank Kinlin congratulated Mr. Cassidy and in the course of his remarks noted that there is at present 194 descendants and that the reunion was restricted to this one family only. Mr. Kinlin suggested that the reunion might be enlarged to include the whole Cassidy Family at some future date.

The business meeting followed at which all the officers of the reunion were re-elected for the year 1944-45. President, J. J. Trudeau; Vice-President, Jack Doran, Secretary, L. Cassidy, and a committee to look after the picnic.

Program of Sports

Under the direction of Jack Doran and the Games Committee there was a softball game for the young men and races for boys and girls between the ages of 8 - 15. Prizes were distributed to the lucky winners.

The president Mr. J. J. Trudeau on behalf of all present thanked Mr. and Mrs. James Trudeau for the use of the cottage and grounds. He also thanked the directors and members of various committees for their efforts and kind co-operation.

PO. J. Hollingsworth in Ship Sunk by U-Boat Crossing Ocean

Pilot Officer Jack Hollingsworth has arrived home from overseas and is spending leave with his wife and his father, Sam Hollingsworth. He has had many adventures since leaving for overseas but prefers not to relate them. While crossing the Atlantic two years ago, his ship in the convoy was sunk by a U-boat. He was one of those who managed to get into a life boat. They made their way through 30 foot waves to a Canadian corvette and were able only to reach the safety of her deck by leaping from the life boat as it came up on the crest of a wave. During the invasion of Normandy, he was navigator of an aircraft which towed gliders laden with men, tanks and other equipment, across the channel. His plane crashed into a mountain side and PO. Hollingsworth was the only member of the crew to escape death. The furlough home followed. His brother, Louis is with the R.C.A.F., now stationed in England after service in Africa. His brother-in-law William Watt, is radio operator on H.M.C.S. Algonquin which has seen several actions overseas.

"Large Biting."

Muskinonge are biting in Picton harbor, one weighing 23 pounds was landed by Arthur Goodwin, Picton, while a ten-pounder was taken by Dr. G. R. Cooper, Toronto, while fishing with C. Cooper.

Presented to Queen.

Mrs. Ethel McCubbin was named to represent the town. Hallowell township made a grant of $500 to the comforts' fund and appointed Reeve Sherman McQuaid to attend the commissioning. Several others from town will also be in Montreal for the occasion.

Prisoner of War.

Rev. and Mrs. James Smith, Bloomfield, yesterday received word that their grandson, Francis Smith, is a prisoner of war. He was earlier reported missing. He is a parasrooper with a United States force and was born in Normandy.

Hold Tea.

Wellington unit of the Red Cross held a tea in the Lakeside village this afternoon with proceeds to help provide comforts for H.M.C.S. Hallowell. An interesting feature was the display of a button collection by Mrs. Crawford of Cobourg, N.Y. These included a great variety of buttons collected over a long period of years. Mrs. Crawford states that button strings are a popular hobby in the United States and some strings have been handed down from generation to generation.

TRENTON OFFICER MISSING, BLOOMFIELD PRIVATE WOUNDED

Names of two Bellville district soldiers are included in the Canadian Army casualty list released for publication today, one reported as missing, and the other as wounded.

Member of an Eastern Ontario Regiment, Lieut. James Davis, 19, Alberta Street, Trenton, is listed as missing while Pte. Donald L. Ross, son of Mrs. Edith Ross, Bloomfield, is listed as wounded.

The War Today—

Mystery of Battle for Paris And of Battle of Vistula River

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

While we are waiting for a clue to the mystery of the battle for Paris—just where is the Canadian armored force which already has captured Angers and Nantes in the rear of the French capital—the Russians are providing us with a rather similar mystery as the battle of the Vistula swells in its climax.

The lag comes from the Germans in their announcement that the Russians are developing a flanking movement west of the upper Narew River, along the southern border of East Prussia. When you fit this bit into the picture it is clear that the Red forces ostensibly—though perhaps as a ruse—are pursuing at the moment the same strategy employed by the Russian armies which met disaster in East Prussia in the fall of 1914.

In 1914 the Russian plan for conquest of East Prussia was to encircle with two armies, one to the north and the other to the south of the Masurian Lake region, the northern army attacked near the Insterburg gap, east of Koenigsberg, and flung the Germans back. Then the southern army drove up against the Germans in the Allenstein sector and precipitated the historic battle of Tannenberg in which Field Marshal Von Hindenburg inflicted a great defeat on the Czarist forces.

The Russians once more are driving against the East Prussian border east of the Insterburg gap, and the Germans have been counter-attacking with a ferocity which in itself is recognition of the possibility that the Red army is trying to reach that strategic gateway. At the same time we get the Russian flanking movement along the southern border, southeast of Tannenberg.

It's an intriguing picture, but in calling attention to the similarity I'm not suggesting that the generals are bent on duplicating the strategy of their predecessors. There may be trickery afoot. Anyway, we needn't worry for fear the Russians don't know the perils of the lake country.

Army Private with 3 Years' Service Entitled to Total of $1,077 Gratuity

Ottawa, Aug. 11 —(CP)— Navy Minister Macdonald gave the Commons yesterday an example of what a private in the army, who served one year in Canada and two years overseas, would receive in the way of gratuities.

Mr. Macdonald said the private would be entitled to:

1. For one year service in Canada $50

2. For two years service overseas $360

3. Seven days' pay and allowances for every six months overseas $77

4. A clothing allowance of $100

5. A rehabilitation credit equal to the service gratuity $450

The private, in his example, would be entitled to a total of $1,077, Mr. Macdonald said.

The gratuity would be paid in instalments over a certain period, but the private on discharge could collect in a lump sum the clothing allowance, the seven days' pay and allowances for every six months overseas and the rehabilitation credit.

The rehabilitation credit would, however, only be paid for certain specified purposes, such as a down payment on a home, the payment of insurance policies or for rehabilitative purposes.

Mr. Macdonald said that sailors serving in shore establishments within the Western Hemisphere—North and South America, Bermuda and the West Indies and Newfoundland—would be paid the gratuities on the basis of service in Canada. The men would be paid overseas rates for any time they served on ships or bases that were considered overseas areas.

Rubber Plant Facilities are Limiting Factor

Ottawa, Aug. 11 (CP)—Plant facilities rather than crude supplies now are the limiting factor in the manufacture of tires, it was learned today.

With the government-owned Polymer Corporation Synthetic Rubber Plant at Sarnia, Ont., operating at near capacity, supplies are being produced which have resulted in a marked easing of the rubber situation.

Restrictions on the sale of tires for civilian use were originally introduced as a result of the rubber shortage. Now that that situation has improved manufacturing plants are operating at capacity, but they are engaged largely in the production of tires for military vehicles and other war purposes with only a narrow margin devoted to civilian tire output.

With the industrial expansion stage of the war passed it is considered unlikely there will be plant expansion to allow manufacture of more civilian tires—and as a result civilian users are not likely to get any major relief until the production of tires for war purposes slackens.

Quebec Motorist Trappedby Water Leak From Car

With all of the conveniences of a modern cocktail bar on wheels, Traffic Officer Charlie Siple, O. P. P., gasped with surprise when he halted a Quebec-licensed automobile in Murray township yesterday afternoon only to find a goodly supply of intoxicants and all cooled ready for consumption. The attention of the traffic officer was brought about when he observed water leaking from the rear trunk of the motor car, that was being driven by Gerrard Tetreau of St. Jean, Que.

Apprehending the motorist Traffic Officer Siple was surprised to find beer, wine and even a bottle of champagne cooling nicely in a metal tub containing ice and water in the rear trunk. The officer placed Tetreau under arrest on a charge of having liquor illegally and without a permit. Tetreau was admitted to $200 bail at Trenton and after the "giggle soup" was removed from the his car he was permitted to continue his journey westward. "I don't need to have a permit for liquor where I come from," Tetreau complained to police after hearing the charge "You are not in Quebec now," replied police officials.

DISTRICT CROP REPORT

Prospects for promising yields in the apple crop are claimed for Prince Edward county in the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Tomato and corn crops also look promising, it is stated. The extreme heat of the past week has cut the milk flow further with a marked droppping off in the number of cheese being manufactured.

Six cars of livestock were shipped from the county last week, largely made up of lambs and cattle. The number of lambs being shipped is considerably lower than at the same date last year, however, this week's run of hogs was very light.

POLICE BLOTTER

Herbert Keegan, Belleville, was convicted on three charges of violations of the city traffic regulations when his name was called before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in city police court today. Prior to the proceedings Keegan had pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving, driving a motor vehicle without a muffler and driving with defective brakes. He paid a total of $24 including costs. "That must have been somewhat of a wreck he was driving," commented Crown Attorney Donnan.

Everett Green, city, failed to respond to his name when called to face a charge of non-support. "He was officially and personally notified of this hearing yesterday," revealed Deputy Chief Harman.

"If that is the case I'm asking for a bench warrant for his arrest here and now," added Mr. Donnan. The request was granted.

A previous charge levied on a charge of stealing from his employer and pleaded guilty to taking upwards to $100 over a period of some ten or twelve weeks. "He was making sales and pocketing the money in his pocket," said Police Inspector J. C. Hayes.

"That's a rather direct way of getting other people's money, commented Ilis Worship as he gave the lad a two year's suspended sentence with the understanding he was to make restitution to his former employer within a five-month period.

Violators of the city parking by-laws and those found to be in violation of the L.C.A. regulations all pleaded guilty and paid minimum fines with the exception of a woman, who was given ten days after pleading guilty to a drunk charge. She was released today having been in custody since the 2nd of August.

Fire Started by Ancestors Kept for 150 Years

Saluda, N.C., Aug. 11 — (AP) — William Morris, 84, the man who kept alive for 80 years a fire started by his ancestors 150 years ago in an open fireplace died yesterday. A bachelor, he was the last direct descendant of Robert Morris of Philadelphia, and migrated to the Blue Ridge Mountains in 1780 and started the blaze that has burned continuously since. Hampton Owens, a nephew now has been left in charge.

3 German Vessels Are Torpedoed, One Left Burning

London, Aug. 11 —(CP)— Light British naval forces dispersed two German formations just north of Le Havre yesterday in a shifting battle in which enemy ships were were firing at each other, the Admiralty announced tonight.

Three German vessels were torpedoed and one was left burning. The Admiralty said the British forces suffered no loss or damage.

Every day 400,000 gallons

GO INTO THIN AIR!

Air power eats up gasoline—on a scale never known before. Every day R.C.A.F. airfields here in Canada consume an average of more than 400,000 gallons; in one 30-day period alone they used an average of 548,000 gallons a day. It takes as much aviation gasoline to train one pilot as to run a car for 18 years.

Air power eats up gasoline: In one day's raid on the German cities of Wilhelmshafen and Duesseldorf, approximately 5,000,000 gallons were used. Three tons of aviation gasoline are needed to "deliver" every one-ton bomb. Every Mosquito that raids Berlin consumes 900 gallons. The equivalent of your year's "AA" ration would last a Lancaster bomber only ½ an hour!

Air power eats up gasoline: In this war the demand for aviation fuel alone exceeds the total demand for all petroleum products during the last war. Here in Canada this demand has jumped from 5,453,930 gallons in 1939 to 176,298,570 gallons in the year ended March 31, 1944—more than 32 times as much!

Air power eats up gasoline: Yet the needs of the Air Forces are only part of the story. In every field of war activity petroleum powers the attack. The Army needs it . . . the Navy needs it . . . war industry, agriculture, essential transportation . . . operators need it. And every single drop of it must come from the same common pool as the gasoline for your car.

* * *

Can you wonder that there is a very real shortage of gasoline here in Canada? Can you wonder that there is little gasoline left for civilian use? Can you wonder that a very real need exists for stringent economy by every gasoline and fuel oil user? Remember—every gallon we can go without here at home means that much more for the fighting man!

LESS CIVICIAN GAS MEANS MORE "FIGHTING GAS" FOR THE FORCES

NO. 7 OF A SERIES OF ANNOUNCEMENTS ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF MUNITIONS AND SUPPLY, HONOURABLE C. D. HOWE, MINISTER

Answering YOUR QUESTIONS about the GASOLINE SHORTAGE

Does the manufacture of aviation gasoline reduce the production of automobile gas? . . . Yes over twice as much petroleum is needed to make a gallon of 100 octane aviation gas as to make automobile gas. Why do aircraft need 100 octane gasoline? . . . It enables them to take-off and climb more quickly; it increases speed and range; it enables them to fly higher and carry a heavier bomb load. How much aviation gas is needed to ferry a bomber from Canada to England? . . . Over 2,500 gallons.

Fires, Cause and Consequence

Ontario Fire Marshal's report for the second quarter of this year serves to keep in mind the distressing fact of fatal fires —there were 23 fatalities, 7 men, 14 women and 2 children, who lost their lives in fires in this period, while the number of injured in the three months totalled 104. The fire loss total was $2,302,556, a decrease of $377,345 from the similar period last year, though there were 4,475 fires, an increase of 350. Four of the fires were large ones. Arson convictions numbered 11, attempted arson convictions were 2 and one criminal negligence case was recorded.

The largest number of fires took place in frame buildings for the greatest total loss of any classification of property.. Brick buildings came next.

Again it is reported that careless smoking caused the greatest number of fires, namely 1,351 for a total loss of $187,775. Electricity as a cause was the second in number of fires, namely 434 for the greatest loss by any cause, namely $233,229.

Special stress is being laid on the placing in one's bins the necessary fuel for the coming winter, it is worth while to note that stoves, furnaces, boilers and pipes caused the third largest number of fires, namely 425 for a total loss of $154,429.

The report refers to the loss of ten lives in the Moose Hall fire at Hamilton on May 24th and the injuries sustained by 33.

First Canadian Army

Dispatches from the front now tell of the operations in which Canada's First Army is now engaged. For the first time in the history of the Dominion Canada has an army in the fighting. In the last war Canada had the distinction of being represented by the Canadian Corps. Hitherto Canadians have formed part of a full army.

Canada has now the headquarters of an army in France. The First Canadian Army is under command of Lieutenant-General Crerar.

The First Canadian Army, has seen action in the nine weeks since D-day operations began and has been engaged in the Caen area.

Conference at Pearl Harbor

Japan should read in Thursday's news that President Roosevelt had returned to the United States after holding a three-day conference at Pearl Harbor where in December of 1941 Japan performed a deed of treachery while she was still nominally at peace with the United States, something that will show Japan that her imperialism is doomed, her plans for domination of the Pacific proving fruitless and that what she had taken is being torn from her.

Pearl Harbor was looked upon shortly after December 1941 by Japan as a symbol that the Japanese were on the way to world conquest and that is all changed. Pearl Harbor has of course from the first symbolized the spirit of retribution by the United States against the grinning villains of Japan, who no longer grin because their case is becoming desperate. Today Pearl Harbor is a symbol of U. S. power. It has been changed from the scene of havoc of December 7th., 1941 to the most modern of fortifications and defences and the centre of gigantic American power of the sea, land and air.

The outlook for the Nipponese has been growing more and more desperate.

So far have Allied successes proceeded that Mr. Roosevelt could announce yesterday after the new conferences with the Pacific Command that plans have been laid for new offensives against the Japanese to win the goals of the United States in the Pacific, to recover the Philippines and make Japan yield to unconditional surrender.

Coming events of the Allies cast their shadows before. They are definitely marked. The European outlook is growing more and more favorable and that of the Germans darker and darker. In the East Japan likewise is being made to take the path of defeat after defeat. She has lost at sea, she has lost in the air and she is losing steadily the islands she was using as defences or outerworks of the sea empire she had in part seized and which she had planned to expand. But fate has caught up with her and her conquests are dwindling steadily.

The hand is writing plainly on the walls of the world for the Japanese and Germans to read.

Pearl Harbor, where once Japanese treachery made havoc is a symbol of the great power that lies in democracy, the ability of America to recover from the Japanese treachery and to build up strength which will far excel anything that the Huns and the Japs can invent or devise.

A Nudge in Time

(Manchester Guardian)

What seems to have been one of the most daring and successful thefts in the whole war was achieved the other night by the fighter pilot who "nudged" one of the flying bombs off its course so that it fell and exploded in an area of gardens instead of among crowded dwellings. He flew his own machine alongside the blind missile, touched it with his wing, and so diverted it from its existing path. The risk of exploding the thing in mid-air must have been considerable, so that great courage was involved, but the delicacy of manoeuvre needed in order to bring off the exploit is even more remarkable. To steer a plane so close to it in the course without damage to the British machine or its pilot is a feat that deserves to be remembered.

Quinine Needs Met

Announcement that the Bengal government now has enough quinine to treat 10,000,000 cases is made at Calcutta by Khan Bahadur Jalaluddin Ahmad, Minister for the Medical and Public Health Departments. The official stated that 55,000 pounds of quinine and cinchona febrifuge has been placed at the disposal of various provinces as a result of the recent report that the malaria cure is disappearing into the black market, the Government is now punishing unauthorized purchasers and sellers. Bengal planned to buy 75,000 pounds of quinine, but this purchase was supplemented by acquisition of 30,000 pounds more. Despite this supply, every care to conserve the medicine is being taken.

Lack of arms is not preventing M. Poloekoy, Russian artist, from continuing his chosen work. Special devices provided the artist include a palette gripper for the left arm and a gadget to hold a brush on the stump of his right arm, according to Hugh Steeper, British Ministry of Pensions contractor of Roehampton, England. In addition Poloekoy has grips which will enable him to shave and to brush his hair.

Writes Letters by Hand

(St. Thomas Times Journal)

Dr. J. R. P. Sclater, Toronto, Moderator of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, on his physician's orders, did not visit the Newfoundland Conference, for which he had everything arranged. In expressing his regret he also threw light upon the impossible duties of a popular leader of his standing: "I have some old-fashioned disabilities. I hate dictating letters, and I cannot type them. In fact, I do not see how a goodly proportion of them can be dictated, for they are personal and intimate and require, in answer, a pastoral touch which can only be secured in solitude. So, all a man can do is to do his best. At present, I must be about 300 letters behind, although part of every day is spent in answering them."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1944, Edgar A. Guest)

HATE

Hate's a very potent poison which invades the human mind
And makes man dead to reason, and to noble conduct blind.
Unto life it's seldom fatal, but a bitterer role it fills,
For it undermines man's judgment and his sense of justice kills.

Hate's a form of human venom which destroys the brain of man.
It hath filled the world with horror since the human race began.
It will sweep through towns and cities and whole nations like a flood
And infect far generations, once man gets it in his blood.

Hate breaks down all inhibitions which the moral laws impose,
It makes savag'ry of culture and of friends the bitterest foes.
And the shame and sadness of it, since the day it started first,
When a man is moved by hatred he is always at his worst.

Many persons are leaving away bags of flour. Flour merchants in this city and district are being deluged with orders and enquiries as to prices. The steady wholesale advance in the price of flour to the war is being reflected here. Numbers of citizens who bake bread from the bakers have laid in a supply of several bags of flour as a reserve against a future date when they fear bread prices will soar. Many enquiries are behind in filling orders.

Pyle in Normandy:

Relentless March of Death Across Sky Awe-Inspiring Sight

By ERNIE PYLE

IN NORMANDY (By wireless) — Our frontlines were marked by long strips of colored cloth laid on the ground, and with colored smoke to guide our airmen during the mass bombing that presaged our breakout from the German ring that held us in the Normandy beachhead. Dismembers hit it just right.

We stood in the barnyard of a French farm and watched them. A barrel nearly straight down out of the sky. They were bombing about half a mile ahead of where we stood.

They came in groups, diving from every direction, perfectly timed, one right after another. Sometimes when you looked separate groups of planes were the only way you could see dots of them at all.

The air was full of sharp and distinct sounds of cracking bombs and the heavy rips of the planes' machine guns and the splitting screams of diving wings. It was all fast and furious, but yet distinct, as in a musical show in which you could distinguish three tunes and words.

And then a new sound gradually droned into our ears, a sound heavy and all encompassing with no notes in it — just a gigantic far-away surge of doom-like sound. It was the heavies. They came from behind us. At the first faint roar were the merest dots in the sky. They would see dots of them against the sun.

And then a few sound gradually individually. They came on with a terrible slowness.

They flew in flights of 12, three flights to a group and in groups stretched all across the sky. They came in "families" of about 70 planes each.

Maybe these gigantic waves were two miles apart, maybe they were ten miles. I don't know. But I do know they came in a constant procession and I thought it would never end. What the Germans must have thought is beyond comprehension.

Their march across the sky was slow and deliberate. I've never known a storm, or a machine, or any result of power and hatred that it the sum of such a ghastly relentlessness. You had the feeling that even had God appeared beseechingly before them in the sky with pathetic gestures to persuade them back they would not have had within them the power to turn from their irresistible course.

Behind us, a little group of men, ranging from colonels to privates, back of the stone farmhouse.

Slit trenches were all around the edges of the farmyard and a dugout with a tin roof. Everybody and we were so fascinated by the spectacle overhead that it never occurred to us that we might need the protection.

The first huge flight passed directly over our farmyard and others followed. We stood in the open and leaned far back trying to look straight up. Our helmets would have fell off. We'd cup our fingers around our ears like field glasses for a clearer view.

Then the bombs came. They began ahead of us as the crackle of popcorn and almost instantly swelled into a thunderous roar of sound that seemed surely to destroy all that lay beneath it.

Then the ground began to rock and tremble and the blast hit

WEDDINGS

CROWE—YOUNG

A quiet wedding took place at the manse parlors, Bowmanville, on Saturday, August 5, when Rev. John Marsh united in marriage Amy Margaret, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Young of Athens, and Cpl. Clennie Elwood Crowe, Canadian Intelligence Corps, Barriefield, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Crowe, Antigonish, N.S.

The bride was beautifully attired in a street length dress of navy sheer with white accessories and wore a white hat and navy and white bouvardia. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses, white bouvardia and fern tendrils. She was attended by Miss Katherine King of Kingston, who wore white gabardine jersey with beige accessories, and wore a cap of peach gladioli tips and white bouvardia. Her bouquet was peach gladioli, white bouvardia, blue asters and maidenhair fern.

John Gilks was groomsman.

Miss Pearleen Cook of Kingston, played the Wedding March from Lohengrin.

The room was beautifully decorated with pink and white gladioli, the white bouquet being a gift from Mrs. T. Young, Athens.

After a wedding supper the happy couple left on a short wedding trip to Muskoka.

The bride was born in Trenton, where her father, Mr. C. O. Young, was publisher of the Trenton Courier.

KYES—ALLAN

A quiet wedding took place Saturday morning, August 5, in the Presbyterian Church, Bloomfield, when Ethel Hope, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allan, Bloomfield, became the bride of Harold Gordon, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kyes, Lansdowne. They united in marriage by Rev. C. E. Kidd. The bride looked charming in a gown of white sheer with matching hat of white straw and short veil, also wearing a corsage of red roses. She was wearing a pendant, which was a gift from her mother at her wedding.

She was attended by Mrs. Thomas Harrison, matron-of-honor, who wore a white and pink organdie dress with matching accessories.

Mr. Ford Kyes of Bancroft, Ont., was groomsman for his brother.

After a wedding dinner at the New York Cafe, the happy couple left on a trip to points west, the bride travelling in a light blue suit dress with navy accessories.

The Experts Say

(By The Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, Aug. 11 (CP)—OVEN CANNING: Fruits and tomatoes are foods which can be successfully oven canned, although this process does not work with other foods, says Mrs. C. Pepper, chief of the Agriculture Department Consumer Section. Here is the recipe on this method of canning is this:

Don't use an oven without thermostatic.

Don't use the oven at all for canning other than tomatoes.

Don't put the oven for any food ahead of the cans.

Be sure that the control registers accurately.

Then maintain temperature at exactly 275 degrees Fahrenheit.

Do not stand sealers in an inch of water in a shallow pan.

Do have a two-inch space between sealers in the oven.

CURRANT NEWS: Red and white currants are definitely among those present when the wheeling G family of Pensions Department Uniformed Division, Canada, get together and chant "C" as the black variety but they have their own share. Crushed and sweetened just before serving, either red or white currants will make a delicious, refreshing quick as a wink. And you will probably want to put up some tangy currant jelce for next winter.

GLAMOR SHORTCAKE: A recipe from the Agriculture Department Consumer Section glamorizes the old shortcake like it's never been glamorized before. Mix 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg, 1 cup milk. Sift dry ingredients together and rub in shortening. Add egg and milk and beat well. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit, about 20 minutes. Split and spread with butter, sweetened crushed strawberries and whipped cream. Put on top and garnish with whole berries.

SHABBY BLINDS can be made fresh again by painting, say the Consumer Section. Remove blinds, set on a table which is well covered with old newspapers. Sometimes the paint goes through the shade to the table. After applying paint and dirt are likely to be wiped off, any good quality paint, thinned with turpentine, may be applied with a brush, preferably brushing it across. Before rolling the shade up be sure the paint is thoroughly dry.

Marriage Without Love

Oughs a girl to marry a young soldier just because he is deeply in love with her?

Great pressure, "Romantic" says, is being exerted upon her by both families. They remind her that the boy is about to risk his life, and to risk it for his country, and that when he isn't asked to risk anything, can make him supremely happy. Also, they say, the marriage would solve her own life-problem because, while her family is always kind to her, that of her lover is extremely well-to-do. Why, then, has she so far refused to consent?

Just because she is, as she describes herself, "Romantic." "I believe in love," she writes. "I have to, because I know I have the capacity for it. But I'm young, only nineteen, live in a small place, and so far nobody has aroused in me that sense of romance that I know I shall experience sooner or later. At present, I merely dream of it. But wouldn't it be a very unwise and even dangerous thing for me to marry a man who doesn't make love seem real to me, even though I'm sure he feels It himself? In fact, the more he talks about it, the more I shrink from him.

"Nobody can understand my way of looking at this question. But perhaps you, Miss Fairfax, will understand. Perhaps you will agree that a girl can't marry a soldier in the same spirit in which she might give him sweaters. CHAPTER ON CHIN CARE

Why so extra extra, for goodness sake? How did it get there? Why can't a chin stay single instead of taking unto itself a mate? These are the questions that unhappy Pimple asks herself when she looks in the glass, wonders how she ever let that sneak up on her. Evidently, she just wasn't looking. Maybe she was too busy eating luscious groceries, cream puffs and other goodies that transform them selves into adipose tissue.

Place no confidence on your chin if you have meandered past the thirty-fifth milestone. Unless you take out good-looks insurance in the form of daily treatment, that chin can do things to you that will chin heartstrings into hard knots. It can go flabby, drape your under-face' with crepelike tissues, resemble a wattle. Once started on its wayward path, it progresses with considerable speed. A double chin is more easily prevented than cured: to roll two chins into one requires cosmetic magic and the manipulations of a professional facial operator. But by catching 'em young, man can be done.

Keeping the chin lowered is one cause of doubling. The fibers of the neck lose tone and, on debilitated muscles, fat cells are likely to collect. The level-headed woman doesn't tilt her head forward, nor does she hold it back because then it is not neatly balanced. Both poses are awkward.

The ideal chin has not so much to do with contour—it usually harmonizes with other features — as it has to do with firm tissues. And that is why, when cream is used to keep the skin surface smooth, there should be the right kind of friction employed to keep the flesh solid and tight.

A few minutes of palming with rolled hands, working with upward strokes that start at the collar bones, will do much to keep both neck and chin in form. When one flogs, the other dissolves at once, and chin care should be combined.

After the upward stroking, place the fingertips of both hands on the tip of the chin, sweep upward along the line of the jaw to the ear lobes. This is a tireless fascinate. If more women kept their chins free from drooping, and attended to this beauty chore, there would be fewer signs of wear and tear on the faces of women of middle age.

If the extra chin has already established itself, use a heavy emollient freely on a clear skin surface, and, pick up the flesh between finger and thumb, rolling it firmly. This rolling dissolves fat cells. The treatment must be followed by an ice friction and an application of an astringent to take up slack that may be caused by the dissolution of adipose tissue.

Chinology is an interesting subject. It really is.

GOOD MANNERS

Ask Your Friend's Permission Then Say "Thank You."

I am constantly amazed at the number of people who give a person's name as reference without asking that person's permission or without even tell the person that this liberty has been taken.

This discourtesy is especially rampant these days, when new leases are being taken on houses and apartments. For the past few months I have had many inquiries from real estate firms informing me that my name has been given as a reference and will I "give any information regarding his (or her, or their) responsibility and compelling facts about the "responsibility and desirability as a tenant" of these friends who have given my name as a reference.

I don't begrudge the time it takes .. and it does take a lot of time .. to write some of these friends is lacking in the fundamental virtues dear to the heart of real estate firms. I have a good time writing about their "responsibility and desirability a a tenant."

But it does seem to me .. am I asking too much .. as I always there should be the courtesy of a telephone call or a note asking my permission for this favor. Really courteous friends call me up and ask for this permission before they have taken the liberty of using my name as a reference. No-such-courteous people call me up after they have given my name .. to ask if I "mind." But, alas, there are too many people in the world who take this privilege for granted. They neither ask for permission nor, when the reference-letter has been written, do they express any appreciation of the fact that the letter has been written.

I am certainly not alone in my point of view about this discourtesy. So many people I know are also grumbling about this impoliteness, which is definitely on the increase.

It's ironic that these letters from real estate firms begin "So-and-so has given us permission to use your name as a reference." Shouldn't that "permission to use your name as a reference" be a fifty-fifty proposition?

And the moral of this is .. please make a bow of "by your leave" before you take this sort of privilege for granted. And a word of appreciation, please, after the favor has been granted.

This applies too when you give the name of a friend as reference for a position, or for any other reference.

Yankees Fade Out of Pennant Picture as St. Louis Browns Cop Their 10th Straight Win

N. Y. Club Now 9½ Games Off the Leading St. Louis Brownies

DETROIT THIRD

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe McCarthy's world champions reated in fourth place today, 9 1-2 games off the pace and no longer a threat to St. Louis' bid for its first American League pennant. When Denny Galehouse shut out the New Yorkers with six singles yesterday, 2-0, allowing only one man to reach second base, he drained most of the hope from the Yankee fans.

It was the Browns' 10th straight victory—longest string in the league this year—and protected their 9 1-2-game margin over second-place Boston.

Boston remained hot for the weekend St. Louis spree by tacking a second straight from Chicago, 9-3, behind Emmett O'Neil. Bob Johnson's three hits aided the win.

Detroit shouldered New York out of third place by trimming Washington in a night game, 3-2. Paul (Dizzy) Trout had to travel 10 innings to beat Johnny Niggeling but he did the trick on a five hitter for his 18th win, tying Hal Newhouser and Tex Hughson.

Myrll Hoag's single scoring Russ Peters in the ninth gave Joe Hoerner his seventh victory and Cleveland a 3-4 shade over Philadelphia.

Mort Cooper lifted the St. Louis Cards 18 1-2 games out in front of the National League with their 7th victory in 101 games by shutting out the Phils, 2-0, on Whitey Kurowski's 11th homer with Ray Sanders on base in the fourth. Red Barrett hurled the third score-less game of the day by shading Bucky Walters for Boston's 2-0 margin over Cincinnati.

Tom Warren's pinch single with the bases loaded scored two winning runs in the 10th inning in Brooklyn's 6-4 victory over Chicago as the Cubs missed a chance to regain fourth place when New York bowed to Pittsburgh, 10-4. Frank Colman of the Pirates socked two homers.

SACO 'MARINES' AND RAILROADERS PLAY DRAW GAME

C. N. R. Squad Come from Behind to Knot Count in Sixth Inning

SCORE IS 4-4

With the sun still giving off golden rays in the west the third game of the Belleville O.A.S.A. softball finals between C.N.R. and Saco "Marines" was called on account of darkness with the score standing 4-4 last evening at the Fair Grounds just as the patrons were about to settle back and enjoy a little overtime for a change.

Immediately following President Joe Samain, announced the series would continue this evening with the Marines enjoying a two game advantage in a best-in-five series.

Johnnie Bawden and Jim Hunter hooked up in a thrilling pitchers' duel that kept the gallery well entertained especially as the "Marines" moved into an early-game lead. Carson's single followed by doubles by Henn and Lott put Max Peoples' SACOS two runs in the initial frame and they added another on hits by Henn, Woods and Hunter in the fourth. The C.N.R. moved into the picture in the sixth with three runs to tie the count when Langman, Wright, Carson and Ehler hit in succession. It looked like a C.N.R. victory when Ehler opened the ninth with a single and scored on Wright's triple, the latter being out at the plate in an attempt to steal home. The Marines came back strong in the bottom half of the final stanza when Callaghan opened with a triple and scored on a fielder's choice to even the final count at four-all.

The feature play was Gerald Ehler's unassisted double play in the second for C.N.R. while in the same previous inning Henn clubbed a home run to clinch the second game for the Marines. Last night Henn had two singles and a double while Callaghan hit two one base blows and a triple. Bill Walters's triple was the Railroaders' lone extra base clout, but it was a timely one.

Hunter struck out three and walked as many while Bawden whiffed one and did not issue a single base on balls. In the event of a C.N.R. win tonight the series will continue Monday.

KINGSTON PONIES TO MEET MAHERS

London, Ont. Aug. 11 — (CP) — London's hard-hitting major baseball team today appeared to be the one to beat in the Canadian Congress sandlot baseball championship as a result of their impressive 19-1 victory over Trinity Tip Tops in a quarter-final round game here Thursday night.

Tonight they meet the nickel belt champions from Sudbury in the final bracket and Toronto Mahers, who eked out an 8-7 victory over Stratford National last night, meet Kingston Ponies in the other semi-final. The final will be played tomorrow night.

London took no pity on Tip Tops last year's Toronto and district champions, scoring almost at will. Tommy White and Hank Biasatti took turns pitching for the winners who marked up 17 runs in the first five innings while holding Toronto scoreless. By agreement the game was cut to seven innings.

Mahers edged Stratford only after the lead changed hands five times in the last four innings and despite the fact they made nine errors.

Yarnell, though shaky at times, went all the way for the Toronto team, recent winners of their district title. Mahers scored two in the ninth inning to win out, after Stratford had moved into a 7-6 lead in the eighth. Each team got 12 hits, but Stratford made only three errors.

BURNS OF WESTON AND AL WATROUS LEAD THE FIELD

AMATEURS WELL UP

Scarboro Golf Club, Scarboro, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP)—Round two, in the $7,500 Maple Leaf Open professional golf tournament gets under way over the Scarboro club's 6,436-yard course today when the field will cut the off for the second 18 holes of medal play.

Yesterday the 70 Canadian shotmakers and four invited professionals, covered the 18 holes and tomorrow the low 60s and ties play a 36-hole final.

Al Watrous, classy shotmaker from Detroit, and Bob Burns, Weston, Ont., pro, led the field with three-under-par 68s. Stan Horne of Montreal, amateur winner of the Quebec open and title campaigner in Ontario tournaments for several years, was right behind the leaders with a two-under-par 69. He scored when he came in with a brilliant 31 over the par 35 last nine.

Freddie Wood, a leading professional from Vancouver, Joe Kirkwood, Sr., Canadian open champion in 1933, Bill Kerr, Toronto professional and winner of the Eastern Canadian Open championship two weeks ago, and Willie Lamb, pro at the Toronto Lambton Club, posted 70s.

Frank Dowsett of Toronto's Cedar Brae Club, gave the amateur contenders something to shoot at when he carded a 71 early yesterday, but Vancouver's Kenny Black, former Canadian amateur champion, finished well up with a two-over-par 73.

New York, Aug. 11 — (AP) — If the Cardinals and Browns clash in the world series — which seems quite likely now — the attendance may be the smallest since the Red Sox-Cubs play-off at the end of the abbreviated 1918 series . . . that one drew only 128,483 spectators and $175,249 for six games . . . Sportsmans Park holds about 34,000 fans (the Browns' official high is 31,931 paid) and at that rate four games could draw only 136,000 . . . No wonder a Cleveland player recently commented "If the Browns win and we finish fourth, we'll owe Uncle Sam 89 cents as our share of the series pool." . . . Sniping in boxing's most protracted feud was resumed this week when Abe (Hatfield) Greene addressed his latest N.B.A. bulletin to Commissioner Clifford Bill of New York, hinting that they should get together and ignore Gen. John J. (McCoy) Phelan and his string of working agreements with other states.

Red Kress Pitched and Hit Toronto Leafs to Win Over Syracuse Chiefs

MELTON ON WAY UP

Cliff (Mountain-Music) Melton, who, with Carl Rubsell, helped stitch New York Giants to a pennant in 1937, may be on his way back to the big time after an apprenticeship with Jersey City in the International League.

Last night he followed up a 3-1 five hitter victory against Toronto Aug. 6 with another five-hitter, this time against Rochester, as the Jerseys notched a 6-1 victory. Cliff went all the way and never was in trouble.

Baltimore tightened its hold on the league lead by sweeping a twin bill from Buffalo, 7-6 and 7-7. Johnny Podgajny got credit for the opener, although Stan West came to his rescue in the fifth. The big show was put on by Red Ruffing in the nightcap as he won his 15th game and added to his league-leading total of shutouts by fanning 10 Bisons.

Floyd Speer chalked up his ninth straight victory as Newark whipped Montreal in the first game of two, 7-3. Jean Pierre Roy pitched for the Royals.

In the second game, Charley Pucha, just sent down from the majors, scattered six hits as the Royals took the measure of Ken Hutcheson 3-1.

Red Kress pitched and batted Toronto to a 2-1 decision over Syracuse and Bud Bebber. After pitching shutout ball for six innings, with the score knotted at 1-1, Red doubled Harry Davis home with the winning run, Davis having tripled before him.

First Mile Under Two Minutes This Season Trotted by Darnley

(By The Canadian Press)

Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich., bowed out of the quarter-final round of the Women's Western Golf Tournament at Chicago yesterday when she was eliminated by Georgia Kinster of North Dakota 3 and 2.

Defending champion Dorothy German of Philadelphia advanced a stage by a decisive 6-and-5 win over Betty Rucker of Spokane, Wash. Miss Germain today meets Mrs. H. M. Sims, 1941 Minnesota State champion, who had disposed of Peggy Kirk, semi-finalist last year from Findlay, O., in a short-stroke decision after three extra holes. Miss Tainter opposes Phyllis Otto of Nebraska, western runner-up in 1942.

The final day of Grand Circuit racing at Goshen, N.Y., yesterday was featured by the victory of Darnley, owned by Aaron Williams of Corning, N.Y., in the $3,500 trotting derby, during which he hung up a competition record for the track of 1:59 3-4. The previous track mark was two minutes flat, set by Tara nine years ago.

William Boyd McKechnie yesterday signed a two-year renewal of his contract as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, of which team he has been the pilot for six seasons. The pact dissolved rumors that Bill and the club were at the parting of the ways.

You are south as declarer at a grand slam in Spades. West leads the heart Jack. If you take finesses in diamonds and clubs, you may lose two tricks.

Finesse only as a last resort. Look first for the safer plays. Trumping is the first; establishing suit is the next. Sometimes you are unable to do any trumping until you establish a suit.

Immediate trumping will not answer your purpose here. So, you look for suit establishment plays. With your eight diamonds, opponents have five. They should split three and two.

After three rounds, dummy will have two remaining diamonds that are established. On them, you can discard two south clubs. But while shuf; two south clubs. But while you are planning that, you may lose a diamond if you finesse that suit.

So, you look for a way of avoiding that diamond finesse. And sure enough you can shuf the south diamond Jack on the second diamond lead. That lets you trump the third dummy diamond to establish that suit.

Having planned all that in advance, all you have to do after that is go through the motions. You can take each step in confidence. It makes you sing: Oh, what a wonderful feeling. Everything's coming my way.

Beginners often ask me if advanced players get impatient with a declarer who stops to plan in advance. The answer is no. They realize it's necessary. A skilful player, of course, is a player takes too long, one of his friends might ask: "What's keeping you" and the hesitator might reply: "I'm thinking." That's a mistake. Because his friend always comes back: "What with?"

"The Sullivans" Outstanding

"They don't make them any bigger!"

"They don't make them any better!"

"They don't make them any greater!"

That's the word that's been coming from Hollywood on 20th Century-Fox's great and heart-warming production of "The Sullivans," which is scheduled to open this week at the Belle Theatre.

Out of the dramatic headlines of World War II have come the most stirring pictures of the year.

But while most of the films were based on the battlefront struggles of Guadalcanal, Bataan and Wake Island, it remained for "The Sullivans" to reach what preview critics say is the true heart beat and spirit of Americans in the world conflict—without being a story of conflict, itself. For "The Sullivans" portrays the American family in this war in a human, heart-warming story of family life. The boyhood and early youth of the five famous Sullivan boys—swimming, playing, living, dreaming—is the theme of the film. Mom and Dad Sullivan wanted it that way.

It was in November, 1942, that Sam Jaffe who, together with Associate Producer Robert .T. Kane, produced the film, read the heartbreaking story of the five Sullivan brothers of Waterloo, Iowa. The dramatic impact of the story struck him as a strong scenatic possibility.

Problem Cast

Director Lloyd Bacon announced he wanted unknown actors to play the brothers and a six-month, nation-wide search was on. Meanwhile, Thomas Mitchell was cast as "Dad" and Broadway's Selena Royle was "Mom." Katherine Mary Sullivan, widow of Al, the youngest brother, suggested Ann Baxter to play the role in the film. And representing Genevieve, the only girl in the family, Twentieth Century-Fox selected Anne Baxter.

Problems of casting the boys' roles were solved when Director Bacon decided to use the boys' own names in the picture. Thus Al Ryan, youngest of the five Sullivans, plays himself in the picture. Matt Brennan, Jr., plays Matt, Jr., Joe Sullivan, Jr., plays Joe, Jr., and Bill Hunt plays Bill Sullivan, Jr.

Others in the cast are Edward Ryan, Trudy Marshall, Ruth Ford, Ruth Nelson, Bobby Driscoll, Selmer Jackson, Russell Wade, Ray Collins, Minor Watson, Addison Richards, Mae Marsh, Barbara Bates, Joan Carroll, Tommy Ivo, Buddy Pepper, Gloria Holden, Jane Isbell, Jane Nigh, Jean Porter, Jimmy Lydon, Jackie Moran, Jackie Paley, Jackie Grimes, Jackie Waldron, Jackie Hall, Jackie Kelk, Jackie Lyons, Jackie Morrow, Jackie Dunn, Jackie Coogan, Jackie Searl, Jackie Cooper, Jackie Moran, Jackie Paley, Jackie Grimes, Jackie Waldron, Jackie Hall, Jackie Kelk, Jackie Lyons, Jackie Morrow, Jackie Dunn, Jackie Coogan, Jackie Searl, Jackie Cooper.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SID THOMAS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Aug. 11—(CP)—One of the most remarkable figures in Canada's sporting scene is H. L. (Doc) Durnan, who at the age of 59 is still going strong at one of the most strenuous of all sports—sculling! It's usually considered a young man's pastime, but the venerable Doc can still scoop spray in the faces of his younger, and supposedly spryer opponents.

At Barrie, Ont., the other day Doc captured the 440-yard sculling dash, beating Bill Reid and Ken Thorburn, scullers of no mean ability. This business of winning isn't any novelty for him now either, since he's been doing it 47 years!

Back in 1897 he won the Junior Canadian singles, and he's been gathering trophies ever since. He has kept in near-perfect shape too, and weighs 151 pounds now as compared with 133 pounds in that 1897 race. And he isn't the kind of boatsman who forgets about it in the winter months either. It takes a bad winter day to keep him under cover, and it's his special boast that in the winter of 1932 he didn't miss a single day.

Tweet, Tweet:

Golf followers around Chatham, Ont., are still talking about Bruce Morgan's feat of collecting two birdies on a single hole. It was this way. Morgan lofted a husky tee shot into the rough and it swooped through the breeze with abandon, it struck a tree, bounced a fifiting meadowlark. Then it fell to earth and Morgan sank his putt for the second birdie. We'd like to see how Morgan would go about scoring an eagle.

Tribesic:

Dan Parker has some laudatory remarks for Tyrone Canny Smythe in his New York Mirror column. Madison Square Garden fans, says Dan, have offered prayers for Conny's speedy recovery from his wounds suffered in France. He continues: "It was typical of Conny to risk life and little limb again on the eighth ave. ice so they could see him play once more—but not until they have sent up a hearty cheer first to let him know how they really feel about him."

Sullivans' sister now in the WAVES, the studio cast was completed. It was delayed by the difficulty of finding five color brothers, but studio hair experts had little difficulty to settle—a typical small town by representative Waterloo, itself too far away from Hollywood to be a practical location itself.

A simple, heart-warming story of five American kids growing up. "The Sullivans" contains only 300 feet of battle film.

Climax of the movie is the christening of the "U. S. S. The Sullivans," launched in 1943 and Gen present at the launching.

Theme of the entire film is Mom's comment on that occasion.

"Dad, our boys are afloat again!"

A family symposium Sam and The Canadian Paramount Newsreel will also be exhibited. The Phantom" serial will be presented on Saturday matinee.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Gaucho Serenade" (Gene Autry)

"Gaucho Serenade," Republic's re-release, the Gene Autry streamlined western, opened last night at the Capitol Theatre and demonstrated once again the tremendous hold Autry has on his public.

Confirmed Autry fans, as well as neophytes, enjoyed the current offering which spotlights Autry's team. Autry is splendid in his characterization of the dashing cowboy who intervenes when a youngster is threatened by gangsters. The latter planned to kidnap the child, and in the way force his father into silence as a graft hearing where he is scheduled to give damaging evidence will involve them.

June Storey, the lovely blonde leading lady, again demonstrates her capabilities as "Joyce," the eastern society girl who is fleeing an unwelcome marriage.

(Laurel and Hardy)

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are congs-cuckoo and hula-happy in their most hilarious hit, "The Dancing Masters," 20th Century-Fox's laugh riot, currently showing at the Capitol Theatre.

In the rib-tickling comedy, Stan and Oliver, cast as a pair of hard dance instructors, give the "Dying Swan" dance group its grace.

Trudy Marshall is cast in the romantic lead of the film which includes Robert Bailey, Matt Briggs, Margaret Dumont and Allan Lane.

A comedy and the serial "Captain America" complete the big double bill.

3 DROWN AT STREETSVILLE

Toronto, Aug. 11—(CP)—Andrew J. Riddell, 31, of nearby Streetsville and his nephew, James Riddell, 11, drowned yesterday in the Credit River at nearby Creditview. Police said the older man, father of 11 children, attempted to rescue the nephew who fell in the water while running along the top of a mill dam. Both bodies were recovered.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By ALAN RANDAL

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadian Bomber Group in Britain, Aug. 11. (CP)— There were great cries of joy in Canada's Goose Squadron when the children of Kingsville (Ontario) High School produced by mail a golden egg for the men of this bombing formation in the form of a large shipment of individually-wrapped parcels.

The gifts from the children of Jack Miner's town which adopted the squadron were piled up in the squadron office. They included gifts of chocolate bars, candy, shaving cream, tooth paste and in many cases, from the boys and girls who sent them off.

Ten operational flights over mayor German targets, and 10 more over French territory brought their reward for Gerry Latimer of Vancouver (1241 George St.) in the shape of promotion to squadron leader and command of a flight in the Goose Squadron.

Here's one from the Mosquito boys about Air Commodore David Atcherley of the R.A.F. For the last nine months he has been flying a Mosquito regularly on operations over Germany with one arm in the plaster and slung over his chest. He was one of the first to land on Pantelleria last year, but his machine crashed. He wanted to get back to the mainland to his squadron so tell them of conditions on the island and he took an Italian plane which had, however, been fixed so that when he tried to take it off, it blew up. His arm was so badly torn by the explosion that in 14 days he had to operations on it. He was then moved to England and since then has been flying regularly over Germany with his arm in a plaster cast.

In Canadian Bomber Group July, 1944, is a red-letter month in the life of Doris Bayly of Chatham, Ont. She was married on Saturday, July 15, to her comrade's "hooks" shortly after her honeymoon. A telegram from the tall, pretty brunette came overseas as LAW. Bayly, Women's Division.

One of the most popular people in a Royal Air Force Mitchell medium bomber squadron—although may not know it—is Mrs. Gordon Doyle of Otawa, 750 Delaware St.) The reason is that she always includes newspaper comic strips in the parcels she always sends her husband, FO. Gordon Doyle, 30-year-old navigator. The consignees from hand to hand right up to the squadron commander.

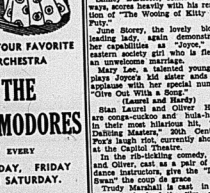
REPORT THOUSANDS OF HUNS MAKING SECRET WEAPONS

London, Aug. 11 — (CP) — The Daily Mail, in a dispatch from Stockholm, today quoted an Austrian research worker who fled from Germany as saying 250,000 to 500,000 persons are making "secret weapons" for the Nazis. He said many of the persons either firing the firing bombs or being trained for the operation of German airmen grounded for lack of aircraft.

League Playdowns In Ladies' Loop To Start Monday

Following a week's rest after having packed in the largest crowd ever to witness a ball game in the Exhibition Park here, the Belleville Ladies' Softball League will resume their league playdowns on Monday evening next at the Armouries lawn. The occasion of the largest softball assembly came during the appearance of the Toronto Sunday Morning Class girls' team here in support of the Red Cross, the game being sponsored by the Belleville Ladies' Softball League.

Regardless as to future dates no further delays in the league playdowns will be permitted, league officials stressed, today. The date for the ladies' league softball playdowns for next week are as follows and without deviation:



Monday: Combines vs. Reliance.

Tuesday: CWACS vs. Bell Sargents.

Wednesday: Reliance vs. Combines.

Thursday: Bombettes vs. Unions.

Friday: Possible third games.

GIRL FROM LISBON

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER 9.

Jeanne was invited again to the Wards, and although under the military circumstances she probably would have declined with thanks, now all accepted with alacrity.

Since her first meeting with Lucia she had been hoping for a chance to see her again soon when she would have a chance to indulge in a good long more closely. Now Lucia's aunt offered the perfect opportunity.

As before, a Ward limousine called for her and whisked her off to the palatial estate. She forgot Lucia for the moment when Max came to her and greeted her as though he hadn't seen her in months.

They had scarcely started to talk, however, when Lucia strolled over and led them to chairs on the terrace overlooking the swimming pool. She seated herself next to Jeanne and the girl immediately looked for the ring. Lucia's fingers were bare.

Reckless Mood.

A reckless mood came over her and on impulse she boldly asked her what she had done with her ring.

"What ring?" Lucia asked, surprised.

"The one like mine", Jeanne held out her hand to show off the one she was wearing.

"That is quite an unusual one, isn't it? I wish I had one like it."

"But you have", Jeanne said. "I saw it on your finger when I was here before. Don't you remember?"

"I'm sorry, Miss Hallard, but you're mistaken," Lucia said coolly.

"But I know I'm right", the girl insisted. "I'm sure I am, too, didn't you?" She turned to the officer.

"Well, no. I don't believe I noticed that she was wearing a ring", he said. "Which hand was it on?"

"Her right—the same as mine. The rings are identical".

Max laughed. "I never notice rings on any good looking girl's right hand", he said. "It's only when I see a diamond or a jewelled ring on their third finger left hand that I stay away from them".

Jeanne was half angry—angry with herself for provoking this showdown with Lucia, and angry with the girl for deliberately telling a lie. Her acquaintance must have noticed her Lucia, as she suddenly got up from her chair.

Big Ring.

"I think I remember now what you probably saw the other day", she said, "it's true I have a big ring I sometimes wear. I'll go get it—then you'll see that you made a mistake."

"What'll all this business about rings, anyway?" Max demanded when she was gone. "It wouldn't mean a thing if Lucia were to say many rings on her fingers as a Hottentot".

Jeanne wished she could confide in The Army officer—she didn't want to appear vain or petty in his eyes. But there was her promise to Clyde which was now a promise to the F.B.I. not to tell anyone a word about herself or what she was doing.

"It's —it's nothing", she said. "I was certain that Lucia had a ring exactly like mine and wanted to talk to her about it, that's all."

"She probably picked it up in Europe like you did. She was abroad often before the war. Several times for awhile, I believe, although I've never diagnosed it with here".

"Where did she go to school over there—or did she?"

"Seems that I have heard something about her studying at Munich or some place. Then again it might have been somebody else."

Jeanne resolved to herself if Lucia had been educated in Germany it was something she meant to find out, but she'd be less bold about it than she had been about the ring.

Lucia came toward them from the house.

"You see", she smiled, "you were mistaken. I have a ring exactly the same size as yours, but that is the only way it resembles yours, other". She held out her hand and Jeanne studied it carefully. She joined the ring carefully. There wasn't the slightest resemblance between the two of them.

Another Ring.

"Haven't you another ring this size?" she asked.

"No, I'm afraid I haven't. So you see your eyes deceive you".

"They certainly did", Jeanne said. "I'm sorry if I was annoying—I didn't mean to be. Will you forgive me?"

Since she was stumped anyway, there was nothing more she shouldn't make the best of it.

"Why, of course. Forget that it ever happened".

There must be some good reason why Lucia had lied about the ring, Jeanne told herself. Maybe sometime she would learn why.

Mrs. Ward broke up the little group a moment later when she brought a tall, well built man proudly over to introduce him. This is Mr. Levering, Miss Hallard", she said, "I believe you know Max and Lucia already, Mr. Levering".

The man bowed politely to Jeanne and she felt his keen eyes taking an inventory of her features.

"It is a pleasure, Miss Hallard", he said. Jeanne looked into his eyes but there was no hint that he had ever heard of her before. After chatting a few minutes with Max and Lucia, Levering led him away, trailed by her niece.

"Bet you don't know who he is", Max bantered.

"You've just met the head man of the F.B.I. in this district. He's a pretty keen fellow. Pulled off some good stunts".

"How does the F.B.I. happen to be calling on Mrs. Ward?"

"She's a friend of hers, I guess. I've seen him here several times. Always drops in when he's in the neighborhood".

Jeanne was glad she had made no sign that she had ever heard of Levering when they were introduced. Apparently he didn't want it known he had ever heard her name, and she could see that was probably the best strategy.

Met His Friend.

Later, Miss Marston's, when Dr. Clyde dropped in, she took the opportunity to tell him she had met his friend.

"Of course he wouldn't give any thing away", he agreed when she said she treated her as a stranger. "He's too clever for that".

Jeanne found herself telling him all about her visit to Ward Park, even the episode about the ring.

Clyde shook his head, regretfully.

"I think you made a mistake trying to force the issue that way", he said. "It's better just to keep quiet and not try to solve any mysteries on your own. You might have upset the whole plan of campaign".

"I'm sorry. I didn't see any harm in it."

"Oh, by the way, I talked with Levering on the phone this morning and told him about the money you found in your pocket. He said he thought it best got you to keep it".

The days slipped by rapidly and so peacefully that Jeanne scarcely realized that there could possibly be any danger or effort anything would happen to disturb the current of serene life which her life had so quickly fallen.

The only worry, the only false note was a persistent rumor that all effort was being made to keep the trust fund. Where it originated, no one seemed to know. After a time it lost its importance through constant repetition.

Nothing had occurred in connection with her involvement with what she had believed to be an espionage ring. Several weeks passed without any word from anyone. There were no messages, no orders.

Secretary.

The girl had decided that since she intended to remain in the village as Jeanne Hallard so long as Mr. Levering knew that was who she might as well be doing something so she had taken a job at Marston's office helping Miss Fuller, who was the dean's regular secretary.

Kay, strangely enough, stayed on with Norwood as his confidential secretary, despite Miss Marston's advice that he get rid of her. Jeanne, however, didn't know what was behind this angle so it didn't bother her.

She liked her work—there was plenty to do and she felt it was important to be connected with a school that was turning out young women well equipped to aid in the war effort. Many of them had joined the WACs and the WAVES, sent flattering reports back home to the school about their ability.

The ring and the $500, none of which had been spent, were her only reminders that she had been unwillingly exposed to danger.

Max called on the phone early every day and came to take her out whenever he had any free time. She found herself looking forward eagerly to their meetings. It was as though they had known each other for years, rather than a few weeks.

Despite the fact that Kay saw her going out frequently with the officer, she remained moody and refused to be friends. Jeanne thought of having a frank talk with the girl, telling her she was silly to waste her life away pining over Dr. Clyde who didn't care enough for her to be little more than civil, but decided against it.

Kay wasn't the sort of girl you could bring face to face with facts when they intimately concerned her. She seemed to persist in believing that everything had been going well between her and Clyde before Jeanne appeared on the scene.

No Flare-ups.

Since Miss Marston had spoken to her, however, there had been no open flare-ups on Kay's part. She simply ignored Jeanne's presence if it were possible, and if they had to exchange words, she made the conversation as brief and perfunctory as possible.

Clyde himself, came to the house several times a week. Each time Kay's eyes would light hopefully when he came in, but when it became apparent that it was Jeanne he had called to see, she would sulk in sullen silence in a corner or else go upstairs to her room.

She didn't cry when she was alone—she was not the crying kind. Instead, she would sit and brood, feeding the hatred she felt toward the new girl.

Jeanne made many friends among the girls at the College under the encouragement of Miss Marston, who seemed to think that new interests and associations would help dim memories of her escape from France.

The dean was a kindly woman, an understanding one, and Jeanne soon learned that most of the girls in the school adored her.

There were frequent small parties on the campus, given by the faculty members and their wives, and Aimory Hallard's grandaughter was always asked to these affairs.

Instead of finding professors stuffy, as she had imagined, she found that all when they were away from their students they were just like other people and thoroughly enjoyed relaxation.

Old Professor Girard, 65, if he were a day, with a fringe of gray hair and a comfortable paunch, lived up a running joke with Jeanne with his equally aged wife as the victim.

"I'm Mademoiselle Jeanne," he would say, "I'm going off to enlist in the first of the line. There is no need for me here—you are quite capable of taking care of French classes. The army needs strong men like me. I, mature men, not those young whippersnappers who aren't dry behind the ears yet".

Sense of Humor.

Madame Girard, who carefully concealed her sense of humor, would pretend to be distraught and would beg her Pierre not to desert her in the army. She acted her part so well that at first Jeanne thought she was in earnest. Then she surprised a twinkle in the little old lady's eyes, and helped the game along by upraiding her for her lack of patriotism.

Then she confided on Girard and accused him or wanting to go to war merely to flirt with the young ladies. He roared his protests, but was secretly flattered to be taken for a lady killer.

Dr. Clyde was present at most of the little jests and played to the fun with the others. He continued to be kind and helpful to the girl and she came to rely upon him as though he were an older brother or an uncle in whom she could confide.

Clyde talked her about her handsome captain, and pretended to fly of jealously when he knew she had been out with him. But he always laughed just when she was inclined to take him seriously.

He never mentioned her real identity, even when they were alone and if anyone ever suspected that she was other than she seemed, she knew it would not be because Clyde had given her away.

As time went by and nothing happened, it seemed almost as though the experience she had had was something she had dreamed.

She had to think hard to recall her desperate situation in Lisbon and how she had jumped at the providential offer of a passport, even if it did bear the name of someone else.

No Dream.

She had only to look at the ring on her hand, however, to remember. It wasn't a dream—that she had actually come in contact with a powerful band of Nazi some sort and had tacitly promised to make repayment when it was demanded.

"I wonder", she said to Clyde one evening, "if something has happened to the 'gang', if it's been broken up and I'm free? It seems very peculiar to me that I've never heard anything more from them".

"I wouldn't feel too secure", he counseled. "The people who sent you here and saw that you were well supplied with money must be waiting for something, I'm afraid you'll hear from them in time, if not yet".

The day started like any other day, Miss Marston was in her private office going over her morning mail, Miss Fuller and Jeanne were in the outer office, busy with routine duties, the latter calling occasionally to herself as she remembered something funny Max had said when he phoned her the night before.

Miss Marston was half way through the stack of correspondence when a letter she was reading brought her up with a start. She removed her glasses, carefully wiped them clean with a soft piece of tissue, and replaced them before starting to read again.

This time she noticed something that had escaped her before. The letter was addressed to Dr. Norwood. The salutation read, "My dear Mark".

Next Letter.

"Why, this wasn't intended for me", she said, half aloud. She put down the letter and took up the next letter in the pile but got no further than "My dear Miss Marston:" when her attention wavered and she found her eyes shifting to the one she just put down.

She tried to force herself to concentrate on the typewritten words before her, and struggled through the first paragraph, without having the vaguest idea what the writer was trying to convey to her.

The letter addressed to Norwood exerted a strange fascination. She couldn't keep her eyes off of it, and finally with a glance at the closed door, picked it up and started at the beginning.

A gasp escaped her as she read the first paragraph, which had startled her before and she glanced down quickly at the signature.

It was signed simply, "Loren". That would be Loren Fields, one of the trustees. She knew he was among the girls at the College the last week on business connected with the college, and it was dated from Washington. He was still there.

Quickly, now, she read the rest of the letter, then down over the first few while. Mr. Fields must be joking. He couldn't be serious. But on consideration, she realized that Loren Fields was not the type of a man who made jokes, especially about things that had been written in the letter.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines in his way to the breakfast room, and ma said, You can go far and wide in the same corners of the earth and you'll never find anything more goldan than loyal unquestioning service.

Amen, pop said. The point is, can you find a fella to put in control, quite so far? he said, and fita said, indeed you can, I think I can, in our own doorstep, or to be more exact in your own kitchin. That's what I started to say, hour after day that gone by, in fact it's practically a matter of weeks, and Dora hasn't asked for another raise, and yet the stories you hear from other women about how much they are obliged to pay their maids are enough to make your hair curl. I think that we ought to give her a honor where honor is due, ma said.

By golles maybe we ought to give her something more substantial, pop said, and ma said, Why William, do you mean you think we ought to give her an increase in wages without the formality of waiting till she demands it?

She deserves some reward for such divine patience, pop said. We must compromise between too big a raise, which may frighten her, and too little, which may cause her to break out in derisive laughter. I, must admit that in all the months since she held us up last. You dont thilnk she'll be offended he said, and ma said, Well hardly, in fact I rather think she expects it in her sly way, because she knows in her room today and she had half her things packed and I questioned her about it and it seems somebody has offered her more money for her work and it seems she didn't have the heart to ask for another raise as soon, so she just decided to start packing and see what happened. If you ask me, sincerely think we ought to surprise her, William, I believe that's what I'll do, ma said.

Which she probably did.

New Housing Legislation Effective Soon as Possible

Ottawa, Aug. 11 (CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley said last night in the Commons that the government's new housing legislation will be made effective as soon as possible, at least in part.

He said the part of the legislation providing $100,000,000 in loans to prospective home owners would be made effective first, possibly with some of the other parts. However, sections of the bill might not be put into effect immediately.

PRIME MINISTER KING FAVORS CANADIAN FLAG

Favors Recognition of Canadian Nationality, Hopes to See Official Recognition of Canadian National Anthem After War

Ottawa, Aug. 11 — (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the Commons that he was in favor of a Canadian flag and of recognition of "O, Canada" as the national anthem, for Canada, in addition to "God Save the King," as the anthem for the Empire.

Mr. King said he was not only in favor of the fullest recognition of Canadian nationality and citizenship, but hoped to see a Canadian flag and official recognition of a Canadian national anthem after the war.

Canadian soldiers were proud to go into battle under a Canadian flag and they should be permitted to live under one in peacetime. He said he hoped "God Save the King" would always be sung as the anthem of the British Commonwealth and throughout the Commonwealth, but he believed Canadians should stand with equal honor to "O, Canada" as the national anthem of Canada."

30 Hun Divisions Doomed Say Two Captive Generals

Moscow, Aug. 11 — (AP) — Two captured German generals, in statements appearing above their signatures today in the Soviet press, called upon their German people and the army to end the war.

"Over 30 German divisions are doomed to annihilation owing to an irresponsible Hitler's strategy," said the statement, by Lt.-Gen. Von Kurowski of the 110th Infantry Division and Maj.-Gen. Lindeman of the 304th Infantry Division.

"There is but one issue — it is to stop the struggle and lay down our arms," the statement said. "It is time to finish with Hitler and his regime. He who fights against Hitler fights for Germany."

The declaration, dated Aug. 6, professed complete agreement with the statements of Field Marshal Paulus and 24 generals who were reported to have signed July 22 repudiating Hitler.

Maj-Gen. Keller Accidentally Hurt By U.S. Bombs

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian War Correspondent

With the 1st Canadian Army in France, Aug. 3 — (Delayed)—Major-General Rodney P. H. Keller, of Kelowna, B.C., commander of the 4th Canadian Division, was wounded by shrapnel shortly after noon today when a formation of United States heavy bombers dropped a group of fragmentation bombs short of their mark and into the Canadian area.

Keller, who led his division in its assault landing on the beaches of Normandy and through the initial Canadian drive to Caen, was hit in the left arm and left leg, and also suffered a minor chest wound.

A load of bombs dropped a short distance south of Caen caused a lot of casualties among personnel. Troops were moving into the area at the time, and no one had time to take cover before the bombs began to explode.

Heavy bombing came while large formations of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators were flying high over the Canadian advance and attacking enemy positions in the area.

Keller was given first aid and later evacuated to England.

THREE SUPERFORTS UNACCOUNTED FOR

Two Forces Strike Targets in Sumatra and on Jap Mainland Island

Washington, Aug. 11 (AP) — Three planes of the two forces of superfortresses which struck targets in Sumatra and the Japanese homeland yesterday "are not accounted for," and one B-29 was destroyed from hostile territory, the 20th bomber command reported today.

Bombing results were "good" both at Palembang, in Southern Sumatra, and at Nagasaki on the Japanese mainland island of Kyushu.

At Nagasaki the mission encountered enemy fighters although that opposition was "weak" and one of the Japanese planes was destroyed.

At Palembang there was no fighter opposition. Anti-aircraft fire was moderate or weak at both targets.

Senators' Criticism Is 'Hardly Worth Bothering About'-Drew

Toronto, Aug. 11 (CP)—Criticism in the Senate of his speech opposing the family allowance bill is "hardly worth bothering about," Premier Drew of Ontario said last night. He was criticized in Senate speeches by Senator A. K. Hugessen, Quebec Liberal and Senator James Murdock, Ontario Liberal.

"Their speeches unfortunately explain only too clearly why so many people in Canada have the very wrong impression that the Senate is composed of senile old men," the Premier said in an interview. "I need only point out that not one speech was heard from either of them while seditious speeches were being made in favor of a fifth column and the soldiers and people of Britain were being told up to declarers and traitors. That was the time for criticism. That was the time for them to speak up if they had anything worth saying and really cared at all about national unity."

Spectacular Flow Bacon to Britain

The hog situation in Canada has been featured by heavy market deliveries, continuing firm prices, and spectacular progress on the export bacon agreement, states the recent issue of The Current Review of Agricultural Conditions, Canada's Guide. Despite the heavy volume of hog marketings, hog prices have remained firm, as all surplus product is meeting what the directors of the Meat Board under the terms of the 1944 bacon agreement where by Canada undertook to deliver not less than 500 million pounds of Wiltshire bacon and cuts during 1944.

By early June, purchases on this contract had exceeded 400 million pounds, or at the moment it appears that not only will the minimum quantity be secured to slightly over six months, but that total shipments in 1944 may well approach the maximum commitment of 900 million pounds, originally scheduled for both 1944 and 1945 together. At the present time the United Kingdom is receiving from Canada approximately the same volume of bacon as her total average annual imports from all countries from 1935 to 1939.

Indicate Blum Died At Nazi Death Factory 'Extermination Camp'

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow, Aug. 11 — (AP)—Konstantin Simonov, correspondent for the army newspaper Red Star, made public today a story that indicated former Premier Leon Blum of France had died at the Nazis' death factory near Lublin.

Simonov's story of Hitler'd biggest enterprise dedicated to the destruction of life and the torture of thousands of persons, principally Jews, was comprehensive and methodically filled there since the winter of 1941.

The correspondent said the "extermination camp" consisted of death fields with scientific crematories and a system of gallows which Blum was forced to help build.

(A dispatch July 6 from Irun, Spain, said it was understood that Blum and former Minister of Interior Georges Mandel were held in a chateau in central Germany. Lublin, in pre-war southeastern Poland, was captured by the Russians July 24.)

Western Canada Regt. Engages in Bitter Tank Duels With Hun

With the Canadians on the Falaise Road, Aug. 11 — (CP Cable) — In a day-long battle that Lieut.-Frank Hoston of Winnipeg today said was "hell let loose" tanks of a Western Canada regiment slugged it out mercilessly with hidden enemy guns and tanks yesterday.

Both sides suffered losses in the clash, one of the bitterest duels in which Canadian tanks have ever been engaged, atop Point 195 a few thousand yards northwest of Potigny.

Fighting began just after daybreak yesterday and lasted through out the day until almost dusk. The Canadian tanks fought without any support whatever and at one stage of the battle some of the tank crews threw out their Sten guns, ammunition and equipment so that if the Shermans were knocked out they could dismount and continue to fight as infantry.

VETERAN PARROT DEAD

Melbourne (CP) — Sydney, parrot mascot of the crew of the German cruiser Emden, sunk by H.M.A.S. Sydney in the Indian Ocean early in the 1914-1918 war, has just ended a not unvestful life in Melbourne Zoo. Sydney was rescued from the Indian Ocean after the Emden was sent to the bottom and was adopted by a member of the crew of the Sydney. Later the German-speaking parrot was sent to the zoo.

AMERICANS REACH ALENCON STATES BERLIN

German Forces Have Withdrawn From Florence

Enemy Evacuates Mortain, Sourdeval Behind Le Mans

Von Kluge Reinforces Troops in Death Trap

London, Aug. 12 — (CP) — The Berlin radio said today Americans reached Alencon yesterday — a point about 30 miles north of Le Mans — and pushed on northward for several miles.

The Berlin broadcast said the Germans had evacuated Mortain and Sourdeval in the pocket behind Le Mans and Alencon.

Canadian forces north of Falaise made a local gain to the west today, taking the town of Barbery, within on the other end of the curving Allied line — a noose that is being slipped about 100,000 Germans north of Paris. The American "mystery column" drove on. Its latest whereabouts still unrevealed by official sources.

8-Day Mystery Dash

Other American armor driving across the Loire River at Nantes in a new thrust had penetrated 10 miles into southern France while the four-day armor push continued as a simultaneous threat to Paris and the German army described south of Caen.

Headquarters kept silent on the mileage rolled up by the American columns reported driving north, east and south of Le Mans, possibly because the Germans themselves were confused as to the exact direction of these drives and did not know which thrusts were feints. The communique did not mention the sectors east and north of Le Mans and contained but a few amplifications.

A frontline dispatch said the Germans were putting up stiff resistance to the drive to the north. This is the one which is saving in behind the Germans in the Caen area.

Say U.S. Forces at Chartres.

London afternoon newspapers play-up an unconfirmed report by an American broadcaster in London that American advance units were in the Paris outskirts. This came on top of a Swiss broadcast that the Americans had reached Chartres, the guardian of the last 50-mile defence zone before Paris.

But there was no official information of anything beyond a push of undetermined depth south of Le Mans, 110 miles from Paris.

The Paris radio said today the German command had placed Paris under an 11:15 p.m. curfew beginning tonight.

(Available information indicated Paris might not be in the immediate objectives of the sweeping American advance and that the Allied command was pursuing the end up an unconfirmed report by an armies.)

Nazi broadcasters took cognizance of the encirclement possibility in the drive north of Le Mans and forecast a German withdrawal from the primary aim of destroying enemy the narrow 30-mile Seine-Alencon heavy fighting the Allies both were pressing the Germans back and threatening to cut off their troops to extinction between the major northern, southern and eastward drives.

Bracken Places Full Employment At Head of Program for Veterans

Irricana, Alta., August 12—(CP)—John Bracken, national Progressive Conservative leader, placed employment at the top of a program for the rehabilitation of veterans.

In an address in this Alberta Progressive Conservative meeting Mr. Bracken outlined his party's policy toward veterans, sketching the broad terms of post-war treatment and making recommendations for immediate action to improve the lot of men while they are still in the service.

"I do not advocate generously uncontrolled in common sense," Mr. Bracken said. "Our men and women on service would be the first to say no to that. What I do advocate is that the will of the people of Canada toward their service men and women shall be fair and generous—not limited by the 'Treasury' board attitude but only by the measure of the desire of the electorate to see that even-handed justice be meted out to all."

Mr. Bracken also touched briefly on the party's policy toward wartime utilization of manpower.

"No question more vitally affects those on service than the prevalent cry for conscription of reinforcements," he said, urging compulsory national service as well as those selected to serve in the armed forces to be available for service wherever required.

"This party stands committed to the principle of total utilization and proper allocation for war by compulsory national mobilization of the resources of Canada, including agriculture and industry and finance as well as manpower," he said.

"The present government manpower policy is splitting this country apart. Yet it must be held together, and there is no other task of greater equality of sacrifice upon which in the long run it can be held together."

RUSSIANS SLASH ACROSS ESTONIA TO TRAP GERMANS

Possibly 30 Nazi Divisions Doomed By Latest Strategic Move of Red Army

PETSERI CAPTURED

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(A.P. War Correspondent)

Moscow, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Red army slashed across southern Estonia today in a new drive aimed at encircling an estimated 300,000 Nazi Baltic troops, whose fate was sealed in the wake of Hitler's blind refusal to extricate them when retreat was feasible.

At the same time other Soviet forces, driving forward on a 160-mile front northeast of Warsaw in what may be the greatest strategic campaign since the Normandy campaign, smashed within 15 miles east of Prussia, then broke through defense lines east of the Bialystok River.

Gen. Ivan Chernyakhovsky, striking from the Pskov area southwest of Lake Peipus, shattered an enemy front in a sector of 100 miles and more than 15 miles deep and sent an armored column racing past Petseri 115 miles east of the Gulf of Riga.

Petseri, an important rail and highway junction was among 200 Estonian border cities and villages captured in the drive dooming possibly 30 German divisions.

Thrust Toward Riga

The troops of Gen. Andrei Yeremenko and Gen. Konstantin Rokossovsky, fighting one of the greatest battles of the war, were reported by Moscow to be 45 miles southeast of Riga.

Gen. Ivan Bagramian held the Germans around Riga pinned to the Gulf coast by west by his heavy tanks and self-propelled guns.

Marshal Stalin's supreme command has thus carefully set in motion the first one of the Battle which he said will participate in executing those isolated formations in the Baltic.

Gen. Leonid A. Govorov in the salient beyond Narva, in the northeastern tip of Estonia has not yet joined the grand sweep toward Pskov.

Jaws Clamped Tighter

The steel jaws of the Russian nutcracker were clamped tighter on East Prussia as Soviet armored columns reached the west bank of the Biebrza river past Tykocin after a terrific defensive struggle by the Germans.

Tykocin commands the road leading to Lomza, 30 miles to the west.

More than 150 populated points were seized in the Tykocin area in continuation of this decisive blow aimed at the Nazis' East Prussian defenses from the south. The enemy is locked in battle with Gen. Ivan Chernyakhovsky's troops in the northeastern extremity of the Junker province.

Marshal Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, fighting one of the greatest campaigns of his brilliant career, has not only spurred on the great Russian attack but captured wiped out German nests of resistance at Dobre, Pniewo and Kropiwnica, 30 to 35 miles from Warsaw. At the same time he has maintained pressure against the capital itself.

By smashing northward between Pniewo and Bialystok the Red Army has developed the threat to eliminate encirclement against both the Germans defending East Prussia and those committed in the siege of Warsaw.

MARTIAL LAW IMPOSED

London, Aug. 12 (CP) — A Berlin broadcast said today martial law has been imposed in Slovakia, in the path of the Russian armies advancing through the Carpathian foothills.

The broadcast said the death penalty would be invoked for "revolutionary activities, murder, refusal to work, sabotage of communications and health facilities."

PECULIAR FISH HOOKED

Port Burwell, Ont., Aug. 13 (CP) — A 14-pound fish landed by Jules Barok from the Niagara River has the experts guessing. It is described as a "channel cat, a bullhead, sunfish and catfish," yet it is none of either. It has very few scales on its body, a silvery hue, a be-whiskered lip, and gills — not usually found on the fish described.

U.S. PRESIDENT AND PACIFIC CHIEFS CONFER AT PEARL HARBOUR

Concluding a three-day conference on Pacific war strategy, aimed at the early and conclusive defeat of Japan, President Roosevelt is shown with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, left, and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, right, at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the spot where the Japs delivered their sneak punch on Dec. 7, 1941, which is slated to be one of the most catastrophic dates in Japanese history. The president went to Hawaii after an 11-day journey from Washington, D.C.

German Command Faces Grave Decision In Course To Pursue in Deep Salient

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the Allied armies in France, Aug. 12—(CP Cable)—On this bewildering and hourly - changing front, this weekend will be one of grave decision for the German forces of Field Marshal Von Kluge.

The Germans have put their strongest forces of armor and S. S. troops in the west into the area east and southeast of Mortain, and now are in a salient, squeezed by British, Canadian and Polish troops on the north and American troops on the east and away around to the south.

The German armor was intended to break through to Avranches and split the American forces, but the havoc wrought by Allied planes in attacks on enemy tank concentrations there delayed the enemy offensive. Now it's probably too late.

The Americans have swept ahead on the east at an incredible speed. On and on they've gone with tanks, trucks and armored cars, through Le Mans and along the long, straight highway leading to Paris from the valley of the Loire.

The 1st. Canadian Army, with its British and Canadian troops and with a Polish armored division in its area, hit the base of the enemy salient from the north, striking toward Falaise. The attack now is temporarily blocked five miles from the city with German S.S. troops and other infantry barring the way.

Canadians Pound Wedge

On the Canadians' right flank is the British 2nd. Army, hammering at the German wedge with tanks, guns and fighter attacks. The whole front is blasting with artillery fire.

On the south the Americans appear on the base of the salient seems to be swinging north from Le Mans toward Argentan and Falaise. A huge Canadian-American pincer be slowly closing while other American columns race for Paris.

Are they going to be able to get it back or are they going to risk everything in an 11th-hour gamble in an attempt to drive through the Avranches and the sea even at this late date?

Should they attack, their supply line would be menaced by the Canadian-American pincer from Caen and from the south. Even a long withdrawal would be a difficult operation, short as the Germans are of motor transport.

Suicidal Rear Action

The armor could, of course, move back under its own power with the infantry fighting in suicide rearguard action.

On every road where the tanks moved by day, however, they would be slaughtered by the Allied air forces.

If the armor has to stick in the salient — and if it is caught there it is destroyed — it could mean the disintegration of the German army.

Weather Forecast

Lake Superior — fresh winds; generally fair and a little cooler today and Sunday; light scattered showers in northern districts.

Kenora and Rainy River — partly cloudy and moderately warm today. Sunday, cloudy with scattered showers; not much change in temperature.

GOVT. TO OPERATE MONTREAL TRAMS BY 2 CONTROLLERS

Service Interrupted by Strike Will be Resumed Monday Morning

SEQUEL TO STRIKE

Ottawa, Aug. 12 — (CP) — Labor Minister Mitchell announced today the government had named two controllers in charge of Montreal Transways properties and will resume service Monday morning.

An order-in-council passed by the cabinet yesterday makes it an offence for any person to refuse to resume work or to recommend that work not be resumed.

It would also make it an offence for the company to refuse to place its properties at the disposal of the controllers.

The 4,000 employees are required to return to work under the same conditions that prevailed when they went on strike Aug. 3 seeking a union shop.

The controllers who will be in charge of Montreal's public transportation system are E. L. Coutlee, Halifax, Wartime administrator of Canadian Atlantic ports, and J. E. St. Laurent, Ottawa, member of the National Harbors Board.

The order-in-council, passed under the War Measures Act, gives the controllers custody and control of all property and assets of the transway company related to the Montreal transportation system and they are empowered to operate the system with powers which normally are held by the board of directors.

Exercise of these powers is subject to existing contracts with the municipalities in which the company operates.

The controllers take charge of the property at midnight Sunday night and remain in control until the order is revoked. During this period the authority of the board of directors and shareholders is suspended.

8th Army Troops Have Not Moved Beyond the Arno

Canadians Mop Up Pockets Of Fascist Resistance

By LINN HEINZERLING
(A.P. War Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 12 (AP) — The Germans withdrew all their forces from Florence today and the ancient cradle of Italian art and culture was spared from the ravages of battle.

British 8th. Army troops, who have refrained from firing on the northern part of the city lying beyond the Arno River, remained on the south bank of the stream, but officers of the military government remained to assist the hungry citizen populace.

It was apparent, an official announcement said, that the enemy withdrew the bulk of his force during the night to the north of the Mugnone Canal, which flows through the northern outskirts.

The 8th. Army, bringing up its lines on the west for a crossing of the Arno and on the assault on the German Gothic line beyond, reached a number of villages west and southwest of Empoli against stiffening resistance.

An official source said Col. Puchs, who was the German garrison commander at Florence, has fighting under him parachutists, engineers and "various Fascist squads organized by the notorious Pavolini" (Allessandro Pavolini, Mussolini's minister of culture) who infiltrated into houses south of the river as snipers.

The Germans have been pushed back from 500 to 1,000 yards on both sides of Pinbiana, between Empoli and Montelupo, but action in general on the Italian front yesterday was confined largely to patrolling, headquarters said.

German shelling caused the Allies to withdraw half a mile to the southwest of San Colombano.

In the Adriatic sector near the Adriatic the Germans have withdrawn from the Metauro river south of Pesaro. On the left, advance Polish elements have reached positions two miles east and northeast of Castelleone DI Suasa. Forward troops faced heavy enemy small fire. Polish troops have reached a lateral road one mile behind the river.

Italian armed road movements and hampered other activity on the Allied 5th Army Front, which has been unable to make contact with the enemy.

The poor weather restricted air activity. Heavy bombers were unable to operate, but tactical aircraft, making 500 sorties, attacked communications and transports in western France, Italy and Yugoslavia.

German Troops Withdrawn From Florence

Five More Ships Sunk by U.S. Planes South of Mindanao

Pearl Harbor, Aug. 12 — (AP) — American heavy bombers on Saipan have opened the same deadly campaign of attrition against enemy islands south of Japan as that of New Guinea-based bombers already perceptibly weakening bases guarding the Philippines.

While General MacArthur added five more Japanese ships to his August reports have listed as sunk by planes south of Mindanao, Admiral Nimitz disclosed the first heavy land-based blow at Yokohama lashed out from Saipan.

Nimitz did not say from whence the bombers were launched, but Wednesday to two Jima but he identified the bombers as elements of the 7th Army Air Force, previously reported to have moved its advanced base to Saipan.

MacArthur's report today from the Southwest Pacific told of the sinking of four freighters and a coastal vessel near Malmakera, the biggest Japanese defense base between Nw Guina and th Philippines, with two other freighters probably sunk.

GERMAN PARATROOPER BEHEADED AS SPY

Kirkland, Lake, Aug. 12. (CP) — Karl Cluth, 29-year-old German paratrooper who escaped from the Monteith, Ont., prisoner-of-war camp two weeks ago, was taken into custody Wednesday night by police he had walked the entire 54 miles from Monteith to Kirkland Lake, subsisting on berries.

Escaped Prisoners Inside Reich Begin Guerilla Warfare

Madrid, Aug. 12—(AP)—Escaped prisoners of war and foreign laborers have begun guerrilla warfare inside Germany, the German Press revealed today in a dispatch from that Independent Werner Gilles who write from "in the mountains of Southern Germany."

The correspondent said "terror and guerrillas" were waging a war of destruction on Germans in the mountains. Whole villages, without entire families, bubning homes, and stealing food and arms.

He described an expedition against the guerrillas which included seven-liter cars and said heavily-armed German police finally looked into a camp occupied by Russians prisoners and foreign laborers who fought in the war.

Hitler's own newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, reported another raid four Germans were in the village, and commented:

"Even in the smallest village everything must be prepared for defence at 12:30 a.m., E.D.T.

Nazi broadcasters also reported the guerrilla warfare.

Drew Announces Increased Grants For Education

Toronto, Aug. 12. (CP)— Premier Drew of Ontario, in his capacity as Minister of Education, said in a statement that the high school subsidies and increases in grants" will be made by the provincial government for the purpose of improving rural secondary education.

In addition, the regular grants now provided, he said further assistance will be given to be made available to each school in proportion to the extent of the adopting in the program relating to studies.

Mr. Drew said that nearly 50 per cent of the pupils in small secondary schools have moved into the city they complete Grade 10 or before that, he said, further assistance grants is being inaugurated whereby high school sourses in these schools may be better re-arranged to suit particular local conditions.

"In about a dozen schools where this has been tried it has been proved that pupils remain longer at school, do better work, take more pride in their particular standing and take a keener interest in school activities".

PROFIT-SHARING SYSTEM IN LABOR IS RECOMMENDED

Committee Reports 12,908 Unions Organized in Canada Till June

REPORT TABLED

Ottawa, Aug. 12. (CP)—A system of profit-sharing by labor should be studied and applied to all of Canada's sinews industry, the Commons War Expenditures Committee recommended in a report tabled in the House today.

The committee, reporting Canada had produced 12,908 plants up to June 30 with total government assistance to the industry of $68,000,000 noted the example of the Vickers plant at Montreal where it was found production and substantially lowered costs".

The Committee also found:—

1.—New aircraft contracts with the United States and the United Kingdom should be for transport planes rather than fighters and bombers, looking to post-war success of the aircraft industry in Canada.

2.—There were occasional infractions and isolated indiscretions on the part of army boot inspectors, but "generally" the inspection is now equal if not the superior to the best supplied to any allied army.

3.—Ownership of the Polymer Corporation Synthetic Rubber plant at Sarnia, Ont., should be retained by the Crown and that the plant be operated after the war by the government.
